39-23.5-108. Payment date - extension - installment. (1) The tax due under this section shall be paid to the department by the person required to file not later than the date the Colorado return is required to be filed under section 39-23.5-107.

(2) If the person required to file has obtained an extension of time for payment of the federal tax or has elected to pay such tax in installments, such person may elect to extend the time for payment of the tax due under this article in accordance with such extension, or to pay such tax in installments, in the same manner as provided for payment of the federal tax. Such election shall be made by:

(a) Filing with the department at the time such tax is due a true copy of the application for extension of time for payment or the election to pay the federal tax in installments with the returns required under section 39-23.5-107; and

(b) In the case of installment payments, an agreement consenting to the creation of a special lien under subsection (5) of this section filed with the department on or before the due date for filing the Colorado return, including extensions of time for filing such return. The department may also grant extensions for the filing of such an agreement.

(3) Any person making an estimated federal estate tax payment with the federal application for extension of time for payment shall make an estimated Colorado estate tax payment to the department not later than the date the application for extension of time for payment is filed under subsection (2) of this section. A true copy of the federal extension of time for payment indicating the action taken by the internal revenue service shall be filed with the department within thirty days of issuance.

(4)¹ Any person making the election to pay the Colorado estate tax in installments under subsection (2) of this section may not defer a percentage of such tax exceeding the percentage of federal tax actually deferred and may not defer an amount of tax greater than the tax attributable to the interest in the closely held business subject to such tax. Proof of the federal estate tax installment payment shall be submitted annually with the Colorado estate tax installment payment.

(5) (a) As used in this subsection (5):

(I) “Deferral period” means the period for which the payment of tax under this article is deferred pursuant to the election to pay such tax in installments under subsection (2) of this section.

(II) “Deferred amount” means the amount of tax under this article that is deferred pursuant to subsection (2) of this section.

(III) “Required interest amount” means the interest payable to the department over the first four years that taxes are deferred pursuant to subsection (2) of this section.

(IV) “Section 6166 lien property” means interests in real and other property to the extent that such interests can be expected to survive the deferral period and are designated in the agreement required by paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section consenting to the creation of a special lien under this subsection (5).

(b) In the case of installment payments, the deferred amount, plus any interest, penalties, and costs attributable to such deferred amount, shall be a special lien in favor of the state on the section 6166 lien property. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection (5) and subsection (2) of this section, such special lien shall be subject to the same conditions, limitations, definitions, terms, and other provisions of the internal revenue code as the special lien in favor of the United States under section 6324A of such code for federal estate tax deferred under section 6166 of such code. For the purpose of applying the provisions of such code to the special lien under this subsection (5), the terms defined in paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) shall have the meanings given them in such paragraph, and the term “secretary” shall refer to the department.

(c) (I) As used in this paragraph (c), “value” shall have the same meaning as it has when it is used in section 6324A(b) of the internal revenue code.

(II) The value required as section 6166 lien property shall be the deferred amount and the required interest amount. For this purpose, the deferred amount and the required interest amount shall be determined as of the date prescribed for the payment of the tax imposed by this article, and the value required as section 6166 lien property shall be determined by taking into account any encumbrances including any federal tax liens. Only property subject to the jurisdiction of the courts of this state shall be recognized in determining the value of section 6166 lien property required by this subsection (5).

(d) Except as otherwise provided in this subsection (5), the agreement referred to in this subsection (5) shall meet the requirements of the agreement referred to in section 6324A of the internal revenue code. The personal representative shall be named as agent in the agreement consenting to the special lien unless another person is named as the agent in a similar agreement filed with and accepted by the federal tax authorities. In the case that such other person is named in both such agreements, the department shall deal with such other person in matters relating to the installment payments and the special lien.

(e) The special lien shall arise when the department files notice thereof in accordance with the applicable provisions of the internal revenue code and shall continue until the deferred amount, plus any interest, penalties, and costs attributable to the deferred amount, is satisfied or such lien is released. The department may release such lien in whole or in part.

(f) (I) In the event of any default in the payment of the tax due under this article or any other act or failure to act permitting the acceleration of the payment of installments, the executive director of the department, through the attorney general, may bring and prosecute an action in the name of the state as plaintiff for the purpose of enforcing such lien against all or any of the property subject thereto in all cases where any tax has become a lien upon any property under the provisions of this article. In any such action the owner of any property, or of any interest in the property, against which the lien of any such tax is sought to be enforced, and any predecessor in interest of any such owner whose title or interest was deraigned through any such decedent by will or succession or by decree of distribution of the estate of such decedent or any lien or encumbrance subsequent to the lien of such tax may be made a party defendant.

(II) Actions may be brought against the state by any interested person for the purpose of quieting the title to any property against the lien or claim of lien of any taxes under this article or for the purpose of having it determined that any property is not subject to any lien for taxes, nor chargeable with any tax under this article. An action shall not be maintained where any proceedings are pending in any court of this state wherein the taxability of such transfer and the liability therefor, and the amount thereof, may be determined. All parties interested in said transfer and in the taxability thereof shall be made parties thereto, and any interested person who refuses to join as plaintiff therein may be a defendant. Summons for the state in such action shall be served upon the attorney general. Should the court determine that the property described in the complaint is subject to the lien of said tax and that such property has been transferred within the meaning of this article, the court shall award affirmative relief to the state, and judgment shall be rendered therein in favor of the state ascertaining and determining the amount of such tax, the person liable, and the property chargeable or subject to the lien.

(6) The personal representative shall file notice with the department of any default in the payment of amounts or other act or failure to act with respect to the payment of the corresponding amounts of federal tax or with respect to any bonds or special liens thereon which could or do result in the termination of the extension or deferral of the payment of the federal tax under the internal revenue code. Such notice shall specify the name and account number of the estate and the nature and circumstances of such default, act, or failure to act and shall be filed within ten days of such default, act, or failure to act. The department may accelerate the payment of tax, and interest and penalties thereon, extended or deferred under subsection (2) of this section when:

(a) Any default, other act, or failure to act with respect to the payment of the corresponding amounts of federal tax results in the termination of the extension or of the deferral of the payment of such federal tax; or

(b) Any similar default, act, or failure to act occurs with respect to the payment of the tax due under this article, including any failure to timely file the notice required by this subsection (6) or, in the case of installment payments, with respect to the special lien under subsection (5) of this section, including any failure to add property as required and within the time allowed under the applicable internal revenue code provisions.

39-23.5-109. Interest. (1) Any tax due under this article which is not paid within nine months after the date of the decedent's death or the generation-skipping transfer shall bear interest on the unpaid balance due at the rate prescribed by section 39-21-110.5 from nine months after such death or transfer until such tax is paid. The interest imposed by this section shall apply regardless of any extension of time to pay the tax or of any election to use an installment method of payment of the tax.

(2) If a special use valuation election was made in a federal return and thereafter additional Colorado estate tax is due as a result of a premature disposition of property or premature cessation of the qualified use, interest shall accrue from the due date of the federal additional estate tax return regardless of any federal extension of time for payment.

(3) If a qualified family-owned business deduction election was made in a federal return and thereafter additional Colorado estate tax is due as a result of failure to materially participate in the business, disposition of interests, or other noncompliance with the requirements of section 2057 of the internal revenue code, interest shall accrue from the due date of the federal additional estate tax return regardless of any federal extension of time for payment.

(4) If a qualified conservation easement election was made on a federal return and thereafter additional Colorado estate tax is due as a result of any failure to implement the agreement described in section 2031 of the internal revenue code, interest shall accrue from the due date of the federal additional estate tax return regardless of any federal extension of time for payment.

39-23.5-110. Penalty. (1) If any person fails to pay any tax by the date due under the provisions of this article, there shall be collected as a penalty for such failure the greater of the sum of fifteen dollars or five percent of the amount of such tax if the failure is for not more than one month, with an additional five percent for each additional month or fraction thereof during which such failure continues, not exceeding twenty percent in the aggregate. The executive director may reduce or waive the penalty imposed by this subsection (1) for reasonable cause.

(2) If any person fraudulently or willfully fails to file any return under the provision of this article, there shall be collected as a penalty for such failure the sum of seventy-five dollars or one hundred percent of the amount of the tax, if any, whichever is greater.

(3) If any person files a fraudulent or willfully false return under the provisions of this article, there shall be collected as a penalty the sum of one hundred dollars or one hundred fifty percent of the amount of the tax, if any, whichever is greater.

(4) If, after determination and assessment of any tax imposed by this article, any person fails to pay the same within the time specified by any notice and demand sent to him by the executive director, there shall be collected as a penalty for such failure a sum equal to fifteen percent of the amount of the tax demanded.

(5) If any person fraudulently fails to pay any tax when due under the provisions of this article or willfully seeks to evade the payment thereof, there shall be collected as a penalty for such failure a sum equal to one hundred fifty percent of the amount of the tax.

(6) In the case of failure to file the Colorado return on the date prescribed by section 39-23.5-107, determined with regard to any extension of time for filing, there shall be collected as a penalty for such failure an amount equal to five percent of the amount of the tax due under this article, with an additional five percent per month or portion thereof, during which such failure continues, not exceeding twenty percent in the aggregate. If a similar penalty for failure to file timely the federal return for estate taxes is waived, such waiver shall be deemed to constitute reasonable cause for purposes of this section. The executive director may reduce or waive the penalty imposed by this subsection (6) for reasonable cause.

(7) All of the penalties provided in subsections (1) to (6) of this section shall be cumulative and shall be collected at the same time and in the same manner as the tax, with the exception that, if the penalties provided for in subsections (1) and (6) of this section both apply, then only the larger of the two penalties shall be assessed, or, if equal, only one penalty shall apply.

(2) The department is authorized to collect the tax provided for in this article, including applicable interest and penalties, and shall represent this state in all matters pertaining to the same, either before courts or in any other manner. The department may institute proceedings for the collection of this tax and any interest and penalties on the tax under the provisions of sections 24-4-106 and 24-35-109, C.R.S., or any other applicable law, in the probate court of Denver or in any other court of competent jurisdiction. The mailing of a notice of final agency action shall be considered a final agency action or a final order of such an agency for the purposes of judicial review under section 24-4-106, C.R.S., and such action or order shall become effective sixty days after the mailing of said notice. (3) Nothing in this article shall be construed to deny the right of appellate review as provided by law and the Colorado appellate rules.

(4) (a) As used in this subsection (4) and subsections (5) and (6) of this section, the term "tax" includes penalty.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in paragraphs (c) to (e) of this subsection (4) and subsection (6) of this section, the assessment of any tax imposed by this article shall be made within the later of either:

(I) Three years after the filing of the applicable Colorado return; or

(II) One year after the expiration of the period of time provided under the internal revenue code, together with any extensions and suspensions of such period under such code, for assessing a deficiency in the corresponding federal tax or changing the reported federal gross estate or generation-skipping transfer.

(c) Where, before the expiration of the period of limitations on assessment, both the department and the person required to file have consented in writing to an assessment after such time, the tax may be assessed at any time prior to the expiration of the period agreed upon. The period so agreed upon may be extended by subsequent agreements in writing made before the expiration of the period previously agreed upon.

(d) A written proposed adjustment by the department of any tax liability under this article sent to the person required to pay the tax or the representative of such person before the expiration of the period of limitation on assessment under this subsection (4) shall extend such period with respect to such proposed adjustment for one year after a final determination, with respect to such proposed adjustment, or assessment is made.

(e) In the event that a federal amended return is filed, the running of the period of limitations on assessment under this subsection (4) shall be suspended with respect to any additional tax due under this article by reason of such amended return until the date that an amended Colorado return with a true copy of such amended federal return is filed with the department of revenue as required by section 39-23.5-111 (1). In the event that a final determination of federal tax due is made, the running of the period of limitations on assessment under this subsection (4) shall be suspended with respect to any additional tax due under this article by reason of such determination until written notice of such determination, in the form required by regulation, is given to the department as required by subsection (2) of this section.

(f) For the purposes of this subsection (4) and section 39-23.5-112, a tax return filed before the last day prescribed by law or by regulation promulgated pursuant to law for the filing thereof shall be considered as filed on such last day.

(5) (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (5) and subsection (6) of this section, an assessment of any tax imposed under this article having been made according to law shall be good and valid, and collection thereof and interest thereon may be enforced at any time within six years from the date of said assessment.

(b) The running of the period of limitations for collection of any such tax shall be suspended for the period of any extension of time for payment thereof under the provisions of section 39-23.5-108 (2).

(6) In the case of failure to file a return or the filing of a false or fraudulent return with the intent to evade tax, the tax may be assessed and collected at any time.

(7) In the event that the federal tax authorities collect or otherwise receive payment of the gross federal tax with respect to which the federal credit would be allowable but for the failure to pay the amount of such federal credit to the department as tax under this article by the person required to file the return or to provide such authorities with acceptable proof of such payment, the Denver probate court or other court of competent jurisdiction shall, on motion of the department:

(a) Order such person to secure the refund of the amount of tax from the federal tax authorities attributable to such federal credit on the behalf of the department in payment of the tax under this article; or

(b) Appoint any qualified person or the department as special administrator for the purpose of securing such refund on behalf of the department in payment of the tax under this article.

39-24-104. Compromise agreement - filing - penalty. (1) When the executive director of the department of revenue claims that a decedent was domiciled in this state at the time of his death and the taxing authorities of another state make a like claim on behalf of their state, the said executive director may make a written agreement of compromise with the other taxing authorities and the executor or administrator of such decedent that a certain sum shall be accepted in full satisfaction of all inheritance taxes imposed by this state, including any interest or penalties to the date of signing the agreement. The agreement shall also fix the amount to be accepted by the other states in full satisfaction of inheritance taxes. The executor or administrator of such decedent is authorized to make such agreement. Such agreement shall finally and conclusively fix and determine the amount of tax payable to this state without regard to any other provision of the laws of this state.

(2) Unless the tax so agreed upon is paid within sixty days after the signing of such agreement, interest or penalties shall thereafter accrue upon the amount fixed in the agreement, but the time between the decedent's death and the signing of such agreement shall not be included in computing the interest or penalties. In the event the aggregate amount payable under such agreement to the states involved is less than the maximum credit allowable to the estate against the United States estate tax imposed with respect thereto, the personal representatives forthwith shall also pay to the department of revenue so much of the difference between such aggregate amount and the amount of such credit as the amount payable to the department under the agreement bears to such aggregate amount. A copy of any such agreement shall be filed in the court having jurisdiction of the administration of the estate and any existing appraisement shall be deemed modified according to said agreement.

(3) In the event no appraisement has been made and filed prior to said agreement, the executive director of the department of revenue shall direct an appraisement to be made and filed in the court having jurisdiction of the administration of the estate in accordance with said agreement.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Colorado Sales and Use Tax Consequences in Sales of Businesses", see 11 Colo. Law. 679 (1982).

Article does not violate due process requirements in that the tax is imposed without notice or hearing to the taxpayer. Sweeney Elec. Co. v. Poston, 110 Colo. 139, 132 P.2d 443 (1942).

Taxes imposed by articles 20 to 28 of this title are excise levies. Sweeney Elec. Co. v. Poston, 110 Colo. 139, 132 P.2d 443 (1942).

Article is intended to impose tax upon that which is consumed and used and exempts only that which is sold for resale. Carpenter v. Carman Distrib. Co., 111 Colo. 566, 144 P.2d 770 (1943); Palmer v. Perkins, 119 Colo. 533, 205 P.2d 785 (1949).

Vendor not having a retail sales tax license is presumptively a user or consumer. This presumption, however, is a rebuttable one, and a vendor who would escape the tax has the burden of showing, be it before the department or in court, that the sales in fact are not subject to the retail sales tax. Pluss v. Dept. of Rev., 173 Colo. 86, 476 P.2d 253 (1970).

39-26-102. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Agricultural commodity" means any agricultural commodity as defined in section 35-28-104 (1), C.R.S.; except that, for purposes of this article, "agricultural commodity" shall also include sugar beets, timber and timber products, oats, malting barley, barley, hops, rice, milo, and any other feed grain.

(1.3) "Auction sale" means any sale conducted or transacted at a permanent place of business operated by an auctioneer or a sale conducted and transacted at any location where tangible personal property is sold by an auctioneer when such auctioneer is acting either as agent for the owner of such personal property or is in fact the owner thereof. The auctioneer at any sale defined in subsection (11) of this section, except when acting as an agent for a duly licensed retailer or vendor or when selling only tangible personal property that is exempt under the provisions of section 39-26-716 (4) (a) and (4) (b), is a retailer or vendor as defined in subsection (8) of this section and the sale made by the auctioneer is a retail sale as defined in subsection (9) of this section, and the business conducted by said auctioneer in accomplishing such sale is the transaction of a business as defined by subsection (2) of this section.

(2) "Business" includes all activities engaged in or caused to be engaged in with the object of gain, benefit, or advantage, direct or indirect.

(2.5) "Charitable organization" means any entity organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, testing for public safety, literary, or educational purposes, or to foster national or international amateur sports competition (but only if no part of its activities involve the provision of athletic facilities or equipment), or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting, to influence legislation, and which does not participate in, or intervene in (including the publishing or distributing of statements), any political campaign on behalf of any candidate for public office, or any veterans' organization registered under section 501 (c) (19) of the "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, for the purpose of sponsoring a special event, meeting, or other function in the state of Colorado so long as such event, meeting, or function is not part of such organization's regular activities in the state.

(2.6) "Coins" means monetized bullion or other forms of money manufactured from gold, silver, platinum, palladium, or other such metals now, in the future, or heretofore designated as a medium of exchange under the laws of this state, the United States, or any foreign nation.

(2.7) "Cooperative direct mail advertising" means advertising for one or more businesses which is in the form of discount coupons, advertising leaflets, or other printed advertising which are delivered by mail in a single package or bundle to potential customers of such businesses participating in such advertising.

(2.8) "Direct mail advertising materials" means discount coupons, advertising leaflets, and other printed advertising, including, but not limited to, accompanying envelopes and labels.

(3) "Doing business in this state" means the selling, leasing, or delivering in this state, or any activity in this state in connection with the selling, leasing, or delivering in this state, of tangible personal property by a retail sale as defined in this section, for use, storage, distribution, or consumption within this state. This term includes, but shall not be limited to, the following acts or methods of transacting business:

(a) The maintaining within this state, directly or indirectly or by a subsidiary, of an office, distributing house, salesroom or house, warehouse, or other place of business;

(b) (I) The soliciting, either by direct representatives, indirect representatives, manufacturers' agents, or by distribution of catalogues or other advertising, or by use of any communication media, or by use of the newspaper, radio, or television advertising media, or by any other means whatsoever, of business from persons residing in this state and by reason thereof receiving orders from, or selling or leasing tangible personal property to, such persons residing in this state for use, consumption, distribution, and storage for use or consumption in this state.

(II) Commencing March 1, 2010, if a retailer that does not collect Colorado sales tax is part of a controlled group of corporations, and that controlled group has a component member that is a retailer with physical presence in this state, the retailer that does not collect Colorado sales tax is presumed to be doing business in this state. For purposes of this subparagraph (II), "controlled group of corporations" has the same meaning as set forth in section 1563 (a) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, and "component member" has the same meaning as set forth in section 1563 (b) of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended. This presumption may be rebutted by proof that during the calendar year in question, the component member that is a retailer with physical presence in this state did not engage in any constitutionally sufficient solicitation in this state on behalf of the retailer that does not collect Colorado sales tax.

(4) "Farm close-out sale" means a sale by auction or private treaty of all tangible personal property of a farmer or rancher previously used by him in carrying on his farming or ranching operations. Unless said farmer or rancher is making or attempting to make full and final disposition of all property used in his farming or ranching operations and is abandoning the said operations on the premises whereon they were previously conducted, such sale shall not be deemed a "farm close-out sale" within the meaning of this article.

(4.5) (a) "Food" means food for domestic home consumption as defined in 7 U.S.C. sec. 2012 (k), as amended, for purposes of the federal food stamp program, or any successor program, as defined in 7 U.S.C. sec. 2012 (l), as amended; except that "food" does not include carbonated water marketed in containers; chewing gum; seeds and plants to grow foods; prepared salads and salad bars; packaged and unpackaged cold sandwiches; deli trays; and hot or cold beverages served in unsealed containers or cups that are vended by or through machines or non-coin-operated coin-collecting food and snack devices on behalf of a vendor.

(b) In determining whether a food product is for domestic home consumption, unless the vendor is described in section 39-26-104 (1) (e), no inference shall be drawn from the type of vendor selling the product, the location of the product within a store, or the manner in which the product is marketed.

(5) "Gross taxable sales" means the total amount received in money, credits, or property, excluding the fair market value of exchanged property which is to be sold thereafter in the usual course of the retailer's business, or other consideration valued in money from sales and purchases at retail within this state, and embraced within the provisions of this article. The taxpayer may take credit in this report of gross sales for an amount equal to the sale price of property returned by the purchaser when the full sale price thereof is refunded whether in cash or by credit. The fair market value of any exchanged property which is to be sold thereafter in the usual course of the retailer's business, if included in the full price of a new article, shall be excluded from the gross sales. On all sales at retail, valued in money, when such sales are made under conditional sales contract, or under other forms of sale where the payment of the principal sum thereunder is extended over a period longer than sixty days from the date of sale thereof, only such portion of the sale amount thereof may be counted for the purpose of imposition of the tax imposed by this article as has actually been received in cash by the taxpayer during the period for which the tax imposed by this article is due and payable. Taxes paid on gross sales represented by accounts found to be worthless and actually charged off for income tax purposes may be credited upon a subsequent payment of the tax provided in this article, but if any such accounts are thereafter collected by the taxpayer, a tax shall be paid upon the amounts so collected.

(5.5) "Livestock" means cattle, horses, mules, burros, sheep, lambs, poultry, swine, ostrich, llama, alpaca, and goats, regardless of use, and any other animal which is raised primarily for food, fiber, or hide production. "Livestock" shall also mean "alternative livestock" as defined under section 35-41.5-102, C.R.S. "Livestock" shall not mean a pet animal as defined under section 35-80-102 (10), C.R.S.

(5.8) "Medical marijuana" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 12-43.3-104 (7), C.R.S.

(6) "Person" includes any individual, firm, limited liability company, partnership, joint venture, corporation, estate, or trust or any group or combination acting as a unit, and the plural as well as the singular number.

(6.5) "Precious metal bullion" means any precious metal, including, but not limited to, gold, silver, platinum, and palladium, that has been put through a process of refining and is in such a state or condition that its value depends upon its precious metal content and not its form.

(6.7) "Pre-press preparation printing materials" means those tangible products converted to use for a specific print job that are subsequently saved but can only be reused for that same print client on rerun. Title to such pre-press preparation printing materials must pass to an independent customer with the sale of the printed materials, and they must be reusable for their original purpose or a similar purpose after the press run. Examples of "pre-press preparation printing materials" include, but are not limited to, photos, color keys, dies, engravings, light sensitive film or paper, masking sheets of any material, plates, rotogravure cylinders, and proofing samples of any material. No disposable materials or materials consumed to a significant degree are pre-press preparation printing materials for the purposes of this article. Examples of disposable or consumable materials include, but are not limited to, tape, alcohol, glues, adhesives, washes, silicon solutions, pens, markers, and cleaners.

(6.8) "Public school" means a public school of a school district in this state or an institute charter school.

(7) (a) "Purchase price" means the price to the consumer, exclusive of any direct tax imposed by the federal government or by this article, and, in the case of all retail sales involving the exchange of property, also exclusive of the fair market value of the property exchanged at the time and place of the exchange, if:

(I) Such exchanged property is to be sold thereafter in the usual course of the retailer's business; or

(II) Such exchanged property is a vehicle and is exchanged for another vehicle and both vehicles are subject to licensing, registration, or certification under the laws of this state, including, but not limited to, vehicles operating upon public highways, off-highway recreation vehicles, watercraft, and aircraft.

(b) In the case of the sale or transfer of wireless telecommunication equipment as an inducement to a consumer to enter into or continue a contract for telecommunication services that are taxable pursuant to this part 1, "purchase price" means and shall be limited to the monetary amount paid by the consumer and shall not reflect any sales commission or other compensation received by the retailer as a result of the consumer entering into or continuing a contract for such telecommunication services. Nothing in this paragraph (b) shall be construed to define "purchase price" as it applies to the amount a retailer collects from a consumer who defaults or terminates a contract for telecommunication services.

(c) With respect to the purchase price of a heavy truck, trailer, or tractor, the price to the consumer shall also be exclusive of the federal excise tax on the first retail sale of the heavy truck, trailer, or tractor for which the retailer is liable.

(7.5) "Qualified purchaser" means a person domiciled in Colorado who has been issued a direct payment permit number pursuant to section 39-26-103.5.

(8) "Retailer" or "vendor" means a person doing business in this state, known to the trade and public as such, and selling to the user or consumer, and not for resale.

(9) "Retail sale" includes all sales made within the state except wholesale sales.

(10) "Sale" or "sale and purchase" includes installment and credit sales and the exchange of property as well as the sale thereof for money; every such transaction, conditional or otherwise, for a consideration, constituting a sale; and the sale or furnishing of electrical energy, gas, steam, telephone, or telegraph services taxable under the terms of this article. Neither term includes:

(a) A division of partnership or limited liability company assets among the partners or limited liability company members according to their interests in the partnership or limited liability company;

(b) The formation of a corporation by the owners of a business and the transfer of their business assets to the corporation in exchange for all the corporation's outstanding stock, except qualifying shares, in proportion to the assets contributed;

(c) The transfer of assets of shareholders in the formation or dissolution of professional corporations;

(d) The dissolution and the pro rata distribution of the corporation's assets to its stockholders;

(e) The transfer of assets from a parent corporation to a subsidiary corporation or corporations which are owned at least eighty percent by the parent corporation, which transfer is solely in exchange for stock or securities of the subsidiary corporation;

(f) The transfer of assets from a subsidiary corporation or corporations which are owned at least eighty percent by the parent corporation to a parent corporation or to another subsidiary which is owned at least eighty percent by the parent corporation, which transfer is solely in exchange for stock or securities of the parent corporation or the subsidiary which received the assets;

(g) A transfer of a limited liability company or partnership interest;

(h) The transfer in a reorganization qualifying under section 368 (a) (1) of the "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended;

(i) The formation of a limited liability company or partnership by the transfer of assets to the limited liability company or partnership or transfers to a limited liability company or partnership in exchange for proportionate interests in the limited liability company or partnership;

(j) The repossession of personal property by a chattel mortgage holder or foreclosure by a lienholder;

(k) The transfer of assets between parent and closely held subsidiary corporations, or between subsidiary corporations closely held by the same parent corporation, or between corporations which are owned by the same shareholders in identical percentage of stock ownership amounts, computed on a share-by-share basis, when a tax imposed by this article was paid by the transferor corporation at the time it acquired such assets, except to the extent provided by subsection (12) of this section. For the purposes of this paragraph (k), a closely held subsidiary corporation is one in which the parent corporation owns stock possessing at least eighty percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote and owns at least eighty percent of the total number of shares of all other classes of stock.

(11) "Sale" or "sale and purchase", in addition to the items included in subsection (10) of this section, includes the transaction of furnishing rooms or accommodations by any person, partnership, limited liability company, association, corporation, estate, receiver, trustee, assignee, lessee, or person acting in a representative capacity or any other combination of individuals by whatever name known to a person who for a consideration uses, possesses, or has the right to use or possess any room in a hotel, apartment hotel, lodging house, motor hotel, guesthouse, guest ranch, trailer coach, mobile home, auto camp, or trailer court and park, under any concession, permit, right of access, license to use, or other agreement, or otherwise.

(12) Except as otherwise provided in this subsection (12), the sales tax is imposed on the full purchase price of articles sold after manufacture or after having been made to order and includes the full purchase price for material used and the service performed in connection therewith, excluding, however, such articles as are otherwise exempted in this article. In connection with the transactions referred to in paragraph (k) of subsection (10) of this section, the sales tax is imposed only on the amount of any increase in the fair market value of such assets resulting from the manufacturing, fabricating, or physical changing of the assets by the transferor corporation. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection (12), the sales price is the gross value of all materials, labor, and service, and the profit thereon, included in the price charged to the user or consumer.

(14) “State treasurer” or “treasurer” means the state treasurer of the state of Colorado.

(15) (a) (I) “Tangible personal property” means corporeal personal property. The term shall not be construed to include newspapers, as legally defined by section 24-70-102, C.R.S., preprinted newspaper supplements that become attached to or inserted in and distributed with such newspapers, or direct mail advertising materials that are distributed in Colorado by any person engaged solely and exclusively in the business of providing cooperative direct mail advertising; except that, commencing March 1, 2010, for purposes of the state sales or use tax, “tangible personal property” shall include direct mail advertising materials that are distributed in Colorado by any person engaged solely and exclusively in the business of providing cooperative direct mail advertising.

(II) No funding received from revenues received as a result of the passage of House Bill 10-1189, enacted in 2010, shall be used to fund additional full-time equivalent state employees.

(b) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2011, (HB 11-1293), ch. 299, p. 1437, § 4, effective July 1, 2012.)

(c) (I) “Tangible personal property”, commencing July 1, 2012, shall include computer software if the computer software meets all of the following criteria:

(A) The computer software is prepackaged for repeated sale or license;

(B) The use of the computer software is governed by a tear-open nonnegotiable license agreement; and

(C) The computer software is delivered to the customer in a tangible medium. Computer software is not delivered to the customer in a tangible medium if it is provided through an application service provider, delivered by electronic computer software delivery, or transferred by load and leave computer software delivery.

(II) As used in this paragraph (c), unless the context otherwise requires:

(A) “Application service provider” or “ASP” means an entity that retains custody over or hosts computer software for use by third parties. Users of the computer software hosted by an ASP typically will access the computer software via the internet. The ASP may or may not own or license the computer software, but generally will own and maintain hardware and networking equipment required for the user to access the computer software. Where the ASP owns the computer software, the ASP may charge the user a license fee for the computer software or a fee for maintaining the computer software or hardware used by its customer.

(B) “Computer software” means a set of coded instructions designed to cause a computer or automatic data processing equipment to perform a task.

(E) “Prepackaged for repeated sale or license” means computer software that is prepackaged for repeated sale or license in the same form to multiple users without modification, and is typically sold in a shrink-wrapped box.

(F) “Tangible medium” means a tape, disk, compact disc, card, or comparable physical medium.

(G) “Tear-open nonnegotiable license agreement” means a license agreement contained on or in the package, which by its terms becomes effective upon opening of the package and accepting the licensing agreement. “Tear-open nonnegotiable license agreement” does not include a written license agreement or contract signed by the licensor and the licensee.

(III) The internalized instruction code that controls the basic operations, such as arithmetic and logic, of the computer causing it to execute instructions contained in system programs is an integral part of the computer and is not normally accessible or modifiable by the user. Such internalized instruction code is considered part of the hardware and considered tangible personal property that is taxable pursuant to section 39-26-104 (1) (a). The fact that the vendor does or does not charge separately for such code is immaterial.

(IV) If a retailer sells computer software to a Colorado purchaser that is considered tangible personal property taxable pursuant to section 39-26-104 (1) (a) and the Colorado purchaser pays the retailer for a quantity of computer software licenses with the intent to distribute the computer software to any of the purchaser's locations outside of Colorado, the measure of Colorado sales tax due is the total of the license fees associated only with the licenses that are actually used in Colorado. The Colorado purchaser shall provide a written statement to the retailer, attesting to the amount of the license fees associated with Colorado and with points outside of Colorado. The written statement shall relieve the retailer of any liability associated with the proration.

(19) (a) "Wholesale sale" means a sale by wholesalers to retail merchants, jobbers, dealers, or other wholesalers for resale and does not include a sale by wholesalers to users or consumers not for resale, and the latter sales shall be deemed retail sales and subject to the provisions of this article.

(b) "Wholesale sale" includes sales of all pre-press preparation printing materials, as defined in subsection (6.7) of this section, that are used by a printer for a specific printing contract where the printed product is sold at retail to a customer accepting delivery within this state.

(c) (I) "Wholesale sale" includes sales of agricultural compounds and spray adjuvants to be consumed by, administered to, or otherwise used in caring for livestock and all sales of semen for agricultural or ranching purposes.

(II) For purposes of this paragraph (c), "agricultural compounds" means:

(A) Insecticides, fungicides, growth-regulating chemicals, enhancing compounds, vaccines, and hormones;

(d) "Wholesale sale" includes sales of pesticides that are registered by the commissioner of agriculture for use in the production of agricultural and livestock products pursuant to the "Pesticide Act", article 9 of title 35, C.R.S., and offered for sale by dealers licensed to sell such pesticides pursuant to section 35-9-115, C.R.S.

(20) (a) Sales to and purchases of tangible personal property by a person engaged in the business of manufacturing, compounding for sale, profit, or use, any article, substance, or commodity, which tangible personal property enters into the processing of or becomes an ingredient or component part of the product or service which is manufactured, compounded, or furnished, and the container, label, or the furnished shipping case thereof, shall be deemed to be wholesale sales and shall be exempt from taxation under this part 1.

(b) As used in paragraph (a) of this subsection (20) with regard to food products, tangible personal property enters into the processing of such products and is therefore exempt from taxation when:

(I) It is intended that such property become an integral or constituent part of a food product which is intended to be sold ultimately at retail for human consumption; or

(II) Such property, whether or not it becomes an integral or constituent part of a food product, is a chemical, solvent, agent, mold, skin casing, or other material; is used for the purpose of producing or inducing a chemical or physical change in a food product or is used for the purpose of placing a food product in a more marketable condition; and is directly utilized and consumed, dissipated, or destroyed, to the extent it is rendered unfit for further use, in the processing of a food product which is intended to be sold ultimately at retail for human consumption.

(21) (a) Sales and purchases of electricity, coal, gas, fuel oil, steam, coke, or nuclear fuel, for use in processing, manufacturing, mining, refining, irrigation, construction, telegraph, telephone, and radio communication, street and railroad transportation services, and all industrial uses, and newsprint and printer's ink for use by publishers of newspapers and commercial printers shall be deemed to be wholesale sales and shall be exempt from taxation under this part 1.

(b) Repealed.

(22) Should a dispute arise between the purchaser and seller as to whether or not any such sale is exempt from taxation, nevertheless the seller shall collect and the purchaser shall pay such tax, and the seller shall thereupon issue to the purchaser a receipt or certificate, on forms prescribed by the executive director of the department of revenue, showing the names of the seller and purchaser, the items purchased, the date, price, amount of tax paid, and a brief statement of the claim of exemption. The purchaser thereafter may apply to the said executive director for a refund of such taxes, and it is his duty to determine the question of exemption, subject to review by the courts, as provided in section 39-21-105. It is a misdemeanor, punishable as provided in this article, for any seller to fail to collect or purchaser to fail to pay the tax levied by this article and on sales on which exemption is disputed.

(23) Except as provided in section 39-26-713 (1) (a), when right to continuous possession or use for more than three years of any article of tangible personal property is granted under a lease or contract and such transfer of possession would be taxable if outright sale were made, such lease or contract shall be considered the sale of such article, and the tax shall be computed and paid by the vendor upon the rentals paid.

Editor's note: (1) Subsections (2.6), (2.7), and (2.8) were enacted as (2.8), (2.6), and (2.7) in 1990 but were renumbered on revision in 1991 to put the definitions in alphabetical order.

(2) Subsections (2.6)(b) and (6.5)(b) provided for the repeal of subsections (2.6) and (6.5), respectively, effective April 17, 1995. (See L. 90, p. 1740.) Subsections (2.6) and (6.5) have subsequently been reenacted.

(3) Section 2 of chapter 288, Session Laws of Colorado 1990, provides that section 1 of the act amending subsection (15) shall be deemed to have remedied a defect in the prior law and shall not be construed to interfere with any vested right or contract. In view of the foregoing, the amendment to subsection (15) shall apply to any legal or administrative proceeding, whether commenced prior to, on, or after April 3, 1990.

(4) In 2008, the federal food stamp program was renamed the supplemental nutrition assistance program by Pub.L. 110-234 and Pub.L. 110-246. The term "food stamp program" has been retained in subsection (4.5) to maintain conformity with existing state law and programs.

(5) Amendments to subsection (15) by House Bill 10-1189 and House Bill 10-1192 were harmonized.

(6) Subsection (21)(b)(II) provided for the repeal of subsection (21)(b), effective July 1, 2012. (See L. 2010, p. 41.)

(7) Section 3 of chapter 8, Session Laws of Colorado 2012, provides that the act amending subsection (4.5) applies to sales of food occurring on or after July 1, 2012.

The unconstitutionality of Colorado's tax system prior to 1978 amendments. Matthews v. State Dept. of Rev., 193 Colo. 44, 562 P.2d 415 (1977).

Company not selling or leasing equipment not denied equal protection. The fact that a competing corporation, which purchased telephone equipment and leased it to its subscribers, did not pay any sales or use tax on the purchase did not mean that the imposition of the tax on a telephone company, which purchased equipment but did not sell or lease it to its subscribers, denied equal protection to the telephone company. Western Elec. Co. v. Weed, 185 Colo. 340, 524 P.2d 1369 (1974).

No limit to number of times merchandise subject to tax. There is no limit to the number of times a particular article of merchandise may be subject to a sales tax so long as it remains in the stream of commerce and passes through the regular channels of trade, and the dealer must collect the tax unless the property is exempt. Bedford v. Hartman Bros., 104 Colo. 190, 89 P.2d 584 (1939).

Resold automobile. Where an automobile dealer accepts a used car in part payment of a new one, he must collect the sales tax on the full price of the new car, and on disposing of the old one he also must collect the tax on the price for which it is sold. The collection of taxes in such a transaction does not constitute double taxation. Bedford v. Hartman Bros., 104 Colo. 190, 89 P.2d 584 (1939).

When a buyer at a public foreclosure sale receives a public trustee's certificate of purchase and subsequently assigns the certificate of purchase to a third party who had no interest in the property prior to the assignment, the assignment of the certificate constitutes a sale or sale and purchase of tangible personal property within the meaning of this section and is therefore a taxable event for sales tax purposes. The fact that the sale is subject to the redemption rights of the debtor and junior interest holders does not alter the character of the transaction at the time it occurred or its tax implications. Telluride Resort and Spa v. Colo.

Dept. of Rev., 20 P.3d 1212 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd, 40 P.3d 1260 (Colo. 2002).

The definition of "charitable organization" in a municipal tax code lends itself to two conflicting plain-meaning interpretations. In the first interpretation, in order to be eligible for a sales and use tax exemption, both religious and nonreligious charitable organizations must meet strict guidelines; in the second, a distinction is made between religious and charitable organizations, and the guidelines apply only to those organizations whose functions are nonreligious in nature. The court is obligated to support the first interpretation so as to avoid invoking a violation of the establishment clause of the federal constitution. Catholic Health Initiatives Colo. v. City of Pueblo, 207 P.3d 812 (Colo. 2009).

"Person" construed. Montgomery Ward & Co. v. State Dept. of Rev., 628 P.2d 85 (Colo. 1981).

The existence of many specific narrow exclusions from the definition of "sale" and "sale and purchase" is indication that the general assembly intended the scope of the tax to be very sweeping and all or virtually all encompassing. Telluride Resort & Spa v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 20 P.3d 1212 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd, 40 P.3d 1260 (Colo. 2002).

The tax statutes, and in particular the narrow exception of subsection (10)(j), address whether the sale of land is a taxable event more specifically than the foreclosure and public trustee provisions and is consistent with the general assembly's statutory design and intent in regard to the differing purposes of the tax code and the foreclosure and public trustee provisions. Telluride Resort & Spa v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 40 P.3d 1260 (Colo. 2002).

Exclusion from "tangible personal property" includes property that loses its identity when it becomes an integral and inseparable part of realty and that is removable only with substantial damage to the premises. District court did not err in determining that sand used in oil and gas fracturing was not tangible personal property based on this exclusion. Noble Energy v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 232 P.3d 293 (Colo. App. 2010).

Electricity is tangible personal property for sales and use tax purposes. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Dept. of Rev., ___ P.3d ___ (Colo. App. 2011).

II. RETAIL SALES.

Unlicensed seller involved in an isolated transaction is not a "vendor" or "retailer" within the meaning of this section and is not liable to the state for the payment of tax. J. A. Tobin Constr. Co. v. Weed, 158 Colo. 430, 407 P.2d 350 (1965).

Vendee pays tax to state if vendor not "retailer". The entire article clearly indicates a legislative intent to impose a tax in the amount levied upon purchases of tangible personal property at retail, such tax to be either in the nature of an addition to the sales price and collected by the seller if he is a licensed "vendor", or a tax to be paid by the consumer when the seller of the merchandise is not a "retailer" or "vendor" as those terms are defined by this section. J. A. Tobin Constr. Co. v. Weed, 158 Colo. 430, 407 P.2d 350 (1965).

Vendee should not pay tax to unlicensed vendor. One who makes a purchase from a seller who does not hold a license as a "retailer" or "vendor" cannot with safety pay to the seller the amount of sales tax due. J. A. Tobin Constr. Co. v. Weed, 158 Colo. 430, 407 P.2d 350 (1965).

Contractors purchasing items to install deemed users and liable for tax. When painting and electrical contractors purchase items of personal property and build them into a structure as an integral part of their entire contract, and then dispose of the completed work to the owner, they are users and consumers and not "retailers" to the owner of each item, and they are liable for the sales tax. Craftsman Painters & Decorators, Inc. v. Carpenter, 111 Colo. 1, 137 P.2d 414 (1942).

Purchase of items, not resold, by a telephone company falls within "retail sales" definition. The purchase by a telephone company of instruments, apparatus, cable, wire, etc., which the company does not resell to its subscribers, falls within the definition of "retail sales" rather than "wholesale sales" for the purpose of the sales and use tax laws. Western Elec. Co. v. Weed, 185 Colo. 340, 524 P.2d 1369 (1974).

Characterization of transaction may be corrected from "wholesale" to "retail". Where the buyer's ultimate disposition of the item purchased cannot be known at the time of purchase, the transaction's tentative characterization as "wholesale" may be corrected to "retail" by considering later events. Int'l. Bus. Machs. Corp. v. Charnes, 198 Colo. 374, 601 P.2d 622 (1979).

In considering the meaning of statutory use tax exemption, the definitions of wholesale and retail sale established by the general assembly differ from the ordinarily accepted general conception of those terms. Hirschfeld Press v. Denver, 806 P.2d 917 (Colo. 1991).

III. WHOLESALE SALES.

"Container" exemption construed. Glass bottles purchased from bottle manufacturer are exempt, whether or not a bottle is returnable. Weed v. Occhiato, 175 Colo. 509, 488 P.2d 877 (1971).

A beer keg is exempt as a "container" regardless of the fact that it is continuously reused by brewer and never sold or given away. Adolph Coors Co. v. Charnes, 690 P.2d 893 (Colo. App. 1984), aff'd, 724 P.2d 1341 (Colo. 1986).

Wholesale exemption depends entirely upon disposition of purchased product by buyer. The definitions of "wholesale sale" and "retail sale" are at variance with the generally accepted meanings of the terms "wholesale" and "retail". A purchaser may buy in large quantities what is commercially known as at "wholesale" and get wholesale prices and still the sale may not be exempt. Exemption depends entirely upon the disposition of a purchased product by the buyer. Carpenter v. Carman Distrib. Co., 111 Colo. 566, 144 P.2d 770 (1943).

All sales which are not wholesale sales fall within category of retail sales, even though they are casual or isolated transactions. Palmer v. Perkins, 119 Colo. 533, 205 P.2d 785 (1949).

Purchase of laundry business not wholesale sale. The purchase of a laundry business, including all tangible and intangible property connected therewith, is deemed not to be a wholesale sale and is therefore within the category of retail sales. Palmer v. Perkins, 119 Colo. 533, 205 P.2d 785 (1949).

Neither is sale by wholesaler to driverless-car business owner. Under the provisions of subsections (9) and (19), the sale of an automobile by a wholesaler to the owner of a driverless-car business is a sale by a wholesaler to a user or consumer not for resale, and is therefore subject to a sales tax as a retail sale. The user and consumer of an automobile may be not only he who devotes it to his own personal use, but also he who, for hire, lends or leases it to a third person. Herbertson v. Cruse, 115 Colo. 274, 170 P.2d 531, 172 A.L.R. 1312 (1946).

Sales tax collected only on end transaction, not intermediate sales of items. The exemption from taxation by subsection (20) of the intermediate sales of items incorporated in a product finally sold in a finished form at retail not only was promulgated to avoid a pyramiding of sales taxes into the cost of the finished product, but also contemplated that a sales tax should be collected on the end transaction and that such should be the measure of the total imposition on the composited product. Carpenter v. Carman Distrib. Co., 111 Colo. 566, 144 P.2d 770 (1943).

Mining operations not "manufacturing" and machinery and equipment purchased by mining company taxable. The mining operations of a corporation, even though the products thereof are devoted exclusively and necessarily to the manufacture of final products offered for sale by the company, is not "manufacturing" within the meaning of that term as used in this and following sections, and any machinery and equipment purchased and used in the company's mining operations are taxable. Bedford v. Colo. Fuel & Iron Corp., 102 Colo. 538, 81 P.2d 752 (1938).

Recapping of tires not manufacturing process. A recapper of tires does not sell his customers an article which was manufactured by him, and hence itself subject to the sales tax, but rather renders a service by repairing and restoring an article theretofore manufactured, and there is no sales tax collectible on "the end transaction" between the recapper and his customer; accordingly, to hold that recapping is a manufacturing process and that the materials entering into the processing are exempt from taxation, would be contrary to the intent of this section. Zook v. Perkins, 118 Colo. 464, 195 P.2d 962 (1948).

Packaging material used by laundry not exempt. The sale of wrapping paper, bags, etc., used to package the articles laundered or cleaned for return to customers are not exempted specifically. Carpenter v. Carman Distrib. Co., 111 Colo. 566, 144 P.2d 770 (1943).

Test for determining whether purchase is purchase for resale is whether primary purpose of transaction is the acquisition of tangible personal property for resale in unaltered and basically unused condition. In making determination, court should consider: (1) Nature of purchaser's contractual obligations, if any, to alter or consume property to produce goods or perform services; (2) degree to which items purchased are essential to purchaser's performance of obligations; (3) degree to which purchaser controls manner items are used, altered, or consumed prior to transfer to third parties; (4) and degree to which form, character, and composition of items when transferred to third parties differs from form, character, and composition of items at time of initial purchase. Colo. Springs v. Inv. Hotel Props., 806 P.2d 375 (Colo. 1991).

Property transferred to an out-of-state vendee without consideration for use outside the state in selling products qualifies for exemption even if vendee is ultimate consumer. Scott's Liquid Gold-Inc. v. Charnes, 772 P.2d 658 (Colo. App. 1989).

Purchase of hotel property located in guest rooms does not constitute wholesale sale. Colo. Springs v. Inv. Hotel Props., 806 P.2d 375 (Colo. 1991).

In considering the meaning of statutory use tax exemption, the definitions of wholesale and retail sale established by the general assembly differ from the ordinarily accepted general conception of those terms. Hirschfeld Press v. Denver, 806 P.2d 917 (Colo. 1991).

39-26-102.5. Change of references from “Internal Revenue Code of 1954” to “Internal Revenue Code of 1986”. The change of references in this article from the “Internal Revenue Code of 1954” to the “Internal Revenue Code of 1986” shall not affect any act done or any right accrued or accruing before or after such change, but all rights and liabilities shall continue and may be enforced in the same manner as if such references had not been changed.

39-26-103. Licenses - fee - revocation. (1) (a) Except as otherwise provided in sub-subparagraph (A) of subparagraph (IV) of paragraph (b.5) of subsection (9) of this section, it is unlawful for any person to engage in the business of selling at retail without first having obtained a license therefor, which license shall be granted and issued by the executive director of the department of revenue and shall be in force and effect until December 31 of the year following the year in which it is issued, unless sooner revoked. Such license shall be granted or renewed only upon application stating the name and address of the person desiring such a license, the name of such business and the location, including the street number of such business, and such other facts as the executive director may require.

(b) It is the duty of each such licensee on or before January 1 of the second year following the year in which his license is issued or renewed to obtain a renewal thereof if the licensee remains in retail business or liable to account for the tax provided in this part 1. Unless evidence is submitted to the contrary, any account for which a license has been issued which shows no retail sales activity for any period of twelve consecutive months shall not be renewed. Such inactivity shall be considered prima facie evidence that the licensee is not in the business of selling at retail.

(c) For each license issued, a fee of sixteen dollars shall be paid, which fee shall accompany the application together with an additional fifty-dollar deposit. A further fee of sixteen dollars shall be paid for each two-year period or fraction thereof for which said license is renewed. Payment of a fee for such a license issued after June 30 shall be prorated in increments of six months. The fifty-dollar deposit shall be allowed as a credit against the Colorado sales tax to be remitted. Except for licenses issued pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (9) of this section, all licenses issued pursuant to this section shall be renewed on a biennial basis, effective January 1, 1986.

(2) In case business is transacted at two or more separate places by one person, a separate license for each place of business shall be required.

(3) Each license shall be numbered and shall show the name, residence, and place and character of business of the licensee and shall be posted in a conspicuous place in the place of business for which it is issued. No license shall be transferable.

(4) The executive director, after reasonable notice and a full hearing, may revoke the license of any person found by him or her to have violated any provision of this article. Any person engaged in the business of selling at retail in this state without securing a license therefor commits a class 3 misdemeanor and shall be punished according to section 18-1.3-501, C.R.S. Any person who engages in the business of selling at retail in this state without a license may also be subject to a civil penalty of fifty dollars per day to a maximum penalty of one thousand dollars. Such penalty shall be assessed by the executive director or his or her authorized agent and shall be waived or reduced if such failure to obtain such license is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect or intent to defraud.

(5) Any finding and order of the executive director revoking the license of any person shall be subject to review by the district court of the district where the business of the licensee is conducted, upon application of the aggrieved party. The procedure for review shall be, as nearly as possible, the same as provided for the review of findings as provided by proceedings in the nature of certiorari.

(6) No license shall be required for any person engaged exclusively in the business of selling commodities which are exempt from taxation under this part 1.

(7) It is the duty of the executive director, at the time of issuance of any new license for the business of selling at retail under this part 1, to notify the county treasurer of the county where the new licensee is located, of the name and address of the licensee.

(8) (a) Any person operating exclusively as a wholesaler may apply to the department of revenue for a license to engage in the business of selling at wholesale. The application shall state the name and address of the person applying for such license, the name and location of the person's business, including the street number of such business, and such other information as the executive director of the department of revenue may require.

(b) A person shall pay a fee of sixteen dollars for each license issued under this subsection (8). If the licensee remains in the wholesale business, the licensee shall renew such license on or before January 1 of the second year following the year of issuance or renewal, but nothing in this section shall be construed to empower the executive director to refuse such renewal except revocation for cause of the licensee's prior license. Payment of a fee for a license issued after June 30 of any year shall be prorated in increments of six months. All licenses issued shall be renewed on a biennial basis, effective January 1, 1986.

(9) (a) A person operating as a charitable organization, as defined in section 39-26-102 (2.5), may apply to the department of revenue for a license to engage in the business of selling at retail. The application shall state the name and address of the person applying for such license, the name and location of the person's organization, including the street number of such organization, and such other information as the executive director of the department of revenue may require.

(b) A person conducting a singular sales event may apply to the department of revenue for a license to engage in the business of selling at retail for a temporary period of time. The application shall state the name and address of the person applying for such license, the name and location of the person's organization, including the street number of such organization, and such other information as the executive director of the department of revenue may require.

(b.5) (I) A person engaged in retail sales at more than one special sales event in any two-year period may apply to the department of revenue for a license to engage in selling at retail at such special sales event over a two-year period. Such special sales event license shall only apply to retail sales made by the person to whom the license is issued at such special sales events and shall not apply to sales at such person's business location or to any other sales. The application for such license shall state the name and address of the person desiring such a license and such other information as the executive director of the department of revenue may require. Except as otherwise provided in sub-subparagraph (A) of subparagraph (IV) of this paragraph (b.5), a person to whom a special sales event license has been issued shall file a separate return and payment of sales taxes for each special sales event at which retail sales are made by such person, which return shall be filed on the twentieth day of the month following the month in which such special sales event began.

(II) Any person who organizes a special sales event shall inform each person making any retail sales at such special sales event of the various taxes and tax rates that apply to retail sales at the special sales event and shall mail to the department within ten days of the last day of such special sales event a list of the name, address, and special sales event license number, if any, of each person making any retail sales at the special sales event.

(III) For purposes of this paragraph (b.5), "special sales event" means an event where retail sales are made by more than three persons at a location other than their normal business location, which event occurs no more than three times in any calendar year.

(IV) (A) Any person engaged in retail sales at a special sales event shall obtain a special sales event license pursuant to the provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b.5) unless the person who organizes such special sales event elects to obtain a special sales event license pursuant to sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (IV) and such person who engages in retail sales at such special sales event elects to remit such sales tax collected to the person who organized such special sales event. Any person engaged in retail sales at a special sales event who has obtained a special sales event license pursuant to the provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b.5) may elect to remit sales tax collected at such special sales event to the person who organized such special sales event and to whom a special sales event license has been issued pursuant to sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (IV).

(B) Any person who organizes a special sales event may apply to the department of revenue for a license for retail sales made at such special sales event. Such special sales event license shall only apply to retail sales made at such special sales event organized by the person to whom the license is issued and shall not apply to any other special sales events or sales. The application for such license shall state the name and address of the person desiring such a license and such other information as the executive director of the department of revenue may require. A person to whom a special sales event license has been issued pursuant to this sub-subparagraph (B) shall file a separate return and shall make payment of sales tax collected by persons making retail sales at such special sales event who have elected to remit such sales tax collections to the person licensed pursuant to the provisions of this sub-subparagraph (B). Such return shall be filed on the twentieth day of the month following the month in which such special sales event began. In addition to the information specified in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b.5), any person issued a special sales event license pursuant to this sub-subparagraph (B) shall maintain, at his place of business, a list showing the name and address of each person making any retail sales at such special sales event, the amount of gross retail sales made by such person at such special sales event, and the amount of sales tax collected by such person on such retail sales which are remitted by such licensee.

(c) A person who sells only products which are subject to city or county, but no state, sales tax may petition the department to waive the deposit established in paragraph (c) of subsection (I) of this section.

(d) An individual having an occasional or isolated sale of tangible personal property is not required to have a Colorado retail sales tax license. Such sales must be made from the private residences of such individuals, and the aggregate dollar amount of such sales may not exceed one thousand dollars for any one calendar year. In addition the following conditions must be met:

(I) Neither the seller nor any member of his household may be engaged in a trade or business where similar items are sold;

(II) An annual report of casual sales must be filed with the department by every individual making such sales, and the sales tax due must be remitted at the time the Colorado income tax return of such person is due as provided in article 22 of this title, on forms provided by the director, showing in detail all such sales made during the year; and

(III) All such returns shall be subscribed by the taxpayer or his agent and shall contain a written declaration that they are being made under the penalties of perjury in the second degree.

(e) In addition, when in the opinion of the executive director it is necessary for the efficient administration of this section to treat any salesman, representative, peddler, or canvasser as the agent of the vendor, distributor, supervisor, or employer under whom he operates or from whom he obtains tangible personal property sold by him or for whom he solicits business, the director may, in his discretion, treat such agent as the vendor jointly responsible with his principal, distributor, supervisor, or employer for the collection and payment over of the tax.

(f) Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (f), a person shall pay a fee of eight dollars for each license issued under this subsection (9); except that a person shall pay a fee of sixteen dollars for a license issued or renewed under subparagraph (I) of paragraph (b.5) of this subsection (9). Any person to whom a sales tax license has been issued pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (I) of this section and to whom a special sales events license has been issued or renewed pursuant to paragraph (b.5) of this subsection (9) shall pay no fee for such new or renewed special sales events license. Payment of a fee for a license issued under paragraph (b.5) of this subsection (9) after June 30 of any year shall be prorated in increments of six months.

(10) Notwithstanding the amount specified for any fee in this section, the executive director of the department of revenue by rule or as otherwise provided by law may reduce the amount of one or more of the fees if necessary pursuant to section 24-75-402 (3), C.R.S., to reduce the uncommitted reserves of the fund to which all or any portion of one or more of the fees is credited. After the uncommitted reserves of the fund are sufficiently reduced, the executive director of the department of revenue by rule or as otherwise provided by law may increase the amount of one or more of the fees as provided in section 24-75-402 (4), C.R.S.

Payment to agents amounts to payment to state. The payment of the sales tax by the purchaser to licensed retailers or vendors amounts to payment to the state. J. A. Tobin Constr. Co. v. Weed, 158 Colo. 430, 407 P.2d 350 (1965).

Payment to an unlicensed seller is not payment to the state and provides no protection against a demand by the state upon the purchaser for the payment of the sales tax. J. A. Tobin Constr. Co. v. Weed, 158 Colo. 430, 407 P.2d 350 (1965).

39-26-103.5. Qualified purchaser - direct payment permit number - qualifications.

(1) The executive director of the department of revenue may issue a direct payment permit number to any person that submits an application to the executive director demonstrating that:

(a) For the preceding twelve-month period, such person has purchased in Colorado in the aggregate at least seven million dollars of commodities, services, or tangible personal property that are subject to the tax imposed by this article. Purchases of commodities or tangible personal property to be erected upon or affixed to real property, including, but not limited to, building and construction materials and fixtures, shall be excluded from the aggregate total of purchases of commodities, services, or tangible personal property described in this paragraph (a).

(b) (I) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, if such person has been subject to the collection, remittance, or reporting requirements imposed by this article or any other article in this title administered by the department of revenue for the preceding three years, such person timely filed the required returns and timely remitted the tax shown due on such returns during said three-year period; or

(II) If such person has been subject to the collection, remittance, or reporting requirements imposed by this article or any other article in this title administered by the department of revenue for less than the three preceding years, for the period beginning on the date when such person became subject to such requirements, such person timely filed the required returns and timely remitted the tax shown due on such returns; and

(c) Such person has in place an accounting system, acceptable to the executive director of the department of revenue, that will enable the department to fully and accurately collect and allocate to municipalities, counties, and other local taxing entities all sales taxes that the department collects for such municipalities, counties, and other local taxing entities.

(2) The executive director may waive the requirements of paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section if the person submitting the application can show that any failure to comply with such collection, remittance, or reporting requirements was due to reasonable cause.

(3) Nothing in subsection (1) of this section shall be construed to require that a person must be subject to the collection, remittance, or reporting requirements imposed by this article in order to obtain a direct payment permit number.

(4) A person shall become a qualified purchaser upon receipt of a direct payment permit number.

(5) A direct payment permit number shall be in force and effect until December 31 of the third year following the year in which it is issued, unless sooner revoked. Such permit number shall be granted or renewed only upon the filing of an application stating the information described in subsection (1) of this section.

(6) The executive director of the department of revenue may revoke the direct payment permit number of a qualified purchaser that has violated any provision of this article. The executive director shall give a notice of revocation to such qualified purchaser by first-class mail pursuant to section 39-21-105.5. Any such revocation may be appealed by the qualified purchaser within thirty days of receipt of the notice of revocation together with a request for a hearing on such revocation before the executive director or the executive director's designee. The executive director shall promulgate rules specifying the procedures for a revocation appeal hearing. A revocation appeal hearing shall take place within a reasonable time after receipt of the request for hearing by the executive director. The executive director shall issue a finding upholding the revocation or reinstating the direct payment permit number within a reasonable time after the revocation appeal hearing.

39-26-104. Property and services taxed. (1) There is levied and there shall be collected and paid a tax in the amount stated in section 39-26-106 as follows:

(a) On the purchase price paid or charged upon all sales and purchases of tangible personal property at retail;

(b) (I) In the case of retail sales involving the exchange of property, on the purchase price paid or charged, including the fair market value of the property exchanged at the time and place of the exchange, excluding, however, from the consideration or purchase price, the fair market value of the exchanged property if:

(A) Such exchanged property is to be sold thereafter in the usual course of the retailer's business; or

(B) Such exchanged property is a vehicle and is exchanged for another vehicle and both vehicles are subject to licensing, registration, or certification under the laws of this state, including, but not limited to, vehicles operating upon public highways, off-highway recreation vehicles, watercraft, and aircraft.

(II) The exchange of three or more vehicles of the same type by any person in any calendar year in transactions subject to the provisions of this article shall be prima facie evidence that such person is engaged in the business of selling vehicles of the type involved in such transactions and that he is thereby subject to any licensing requirements necessary to engage in such activity.

(c) (I) Upon telephone and telegraph services, whether furnished by public or private corporations or enterprises for all intrastate telephone and telegraph service. On or after August 1, 2002, mobile telecommunications service shall be subject to the tax imposed by this section only if the service is provided to a customer whose place of primary use is within Colorado and the service originates and terminates within the same state. In accordance with the "Mobile Telecommunications Sourcing Act", 4 U.S.C. secs. 116 to 126, as amended, on or after August 1, 2002, mobile telecommunications service provided to a customer whose place of primary use is outside the borders of the state of Colorado is exempt from the tax imposed by this section.

(II) (A) If a customer believes that a tax, charge, or fee assessed by the state in the customer's bill for a mobile telecommunications service is erroneous, or that an assignment of place of primary use or taxing jurisdiction on said bill is incorrect, the customer shall notify the home service provider in writing within two years after the date the bill was issued. The notification from the customer shall include the street address for the customer's place of primary use, the account name and number for which the customer seeks a correction, a description of the alleged error, and any other information that the home service provider may require.

(B) No later than sixty days after receipt of notice from a customer pursuant to sub-paragraph (A) of this subparagraph (II), the home service provider shall review the information submitted by the customer and any other relevant information and documentation to determine whether an error was made. If the home service provider determines that an error was made, the home service provider shall refund or credit to the customer any tax, fee, or charge erroneously collected from the customer for a period not to exceed two years. If the home service provider determines that no error was made, the home service provider shall provide a written explanation of its determination to the customer.

(C) Any customer that believes a tax, charge, or fee assessed by the state in the customer's bill for mobile telecommunications services is erroneous, or that an assignment of place of primary use or taxing jurisdiction on said bill is incorrect, may file a claim in the appropriate district court only after complying with the provisions of this subparagraph (II).

(III) As used in this paragraph (c), unless the context otherwise requires:

(A) "Act" means the federal "Mobile Telecommunications Sourcing Act", 4 U.S.C. secs. 116 to 126, as amended.

(B) "Customer" means customer as defined in section 124 (2) of the act.

(C) "Home service provider" means home service provider as defined in section 124 (5) of the act.

(D) "Mobile telecommunications service" means mobile telecommunications service as defined in section 124 (7) of the act.

(E) "Place of primary use" means the place of primary use as defined in section 124 (8) of the act.

(F) "Taxing jurisdiction" means taxing jurisdiction as defined in section 124 (12) of the act.

(IV) For telephone and telegraph services provided on or after July 1, 2003, when nontaxable services are aggregated with and not separately stated from taxable services, the provider of such services shall collect the tax imposed by this article only on intrastate telephone and telegraph services. The provider of such services shall maintain for three years documentation of the services provided that are taxable and nontaxable. Such documentation is subject to audit, and the service provider shall be liable for any uncollected tax. A service provider shall notify the executive director of the department of revenue of the percentages of taxable and nontaxable services in a package of aggregated services within thirty days of use on any invoice.

(d) Repealed.

(d.1) Effective July 1, 1980, for gas and electric service, whether furnished by municipal, public, or private corporations or enterprises, for gas and electricity furnished and sold for commercial consumption and not for resale, upon steam when consumed or used by the purchaser and not resold in original form whether furnished or sold by municipal, public, or private corporations or enterprises;

(d.2) Repealed.

(e) Upon the amount paid for food or drink served or furnished in or by restaurants, cafes, lunch counters, cafeterias, hotels, social clubs, nightclubs, cabarets, resorts, snack bars, caterers, carryout shops, and other like places of business at which prepared food or drink is regularly sold, including sales from pushcarts, motor vehicles, and other mobile facilities. Cover charges shall be included as part of the amount paid for such food or drink. However, meals provided to employees of the places mentioned in this paragraph (e) at no charge or at a reduced charge shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of this part 1.

(f) On the entire amount charged to any person for rooms or accommodations as designated in section 39-26-102 (11).

Denial of such credit in computing use tax unconstitutional. It was constitutionally impermissible for the Colorado taxing authorities to deny a trade-in allowance in computing the use tax on a motor vehicle purchased outside the state when such a credit was allowed when the vehicle was purchased in Colorado. Such unequal treatment was discriminatory and constituted an impermissible burden on interstate commerce. Matthews v. State Dept. of Rev., 193 Colo. 44, 562 P.2d 415 (1977).

Obligation for the payment of the tax is upon the consumer whether the tax is called a "sales" tax or a "use" tax. J. A. Tobin Constr. Co. v. Weed, 158 Colo. 430, 407 P.2d 350 (1965).

Use tax is supplementary to the sales tax. Matthews v. State Dept. of Rev., 193 Colo. 44, 562 P.2d 415 (1977).

There was no credit for property exchanged outside state prior to 1978 amendments. Matthews v. State Dept. of Rev., 193 Colo. 44, 562 P.2d 415 (1977).

Subsection (1)(e) intended to impose tax upon food of public-oriented commercial establishments. The nature of the various facilities enumerated in subsection (1)(e) suggests a legislative intent to impose a tax upon meals or food sold by public-oriented commercial establishments, since all the businesses specifically designated as being subject to the tax are establishments ordinarily commercial in nature. Colo. Coll. v. Heckers, 33 Colo. App. 219, 517 P.2d 419 (1973).

Company cafeterias subject to tax. Where company operates cafeterias wherein persons numbering approximately 10,000 might, but need not, patronize the cafeterias, the cafeterias are subject to the tax levied by this section. Bennetts v. Carpenter, 111 Colo. 63, 137 P.2d 780 (1943) (decided prior to 1978 amendment).

College snack bars or student unions. Subsection (1)(e) does not operate to levy a sales tax upon meals or food sold by private colleges in their snack bars or student unions. Colo. Coll. v. Heckers, 33 Colo. App. 219, 517 P.2d 419 (1973).

Nonprofit lodges. Where a lodge is noncommercial and nonprofit and food service is incidental to its primary activities of furthering charitable and educational purposes and is not for pecuniary gain, and, except for rare occasions, the lodge is closed to nonmembers, this section does not apply to its food sales. B.P.O.E. Lodge No. 804 v. State Dept. of Rev., 41 Colo. App. 88, 582 P.2d 1068 (1978).

There is a strong presumption that taxation is the rule and exemption the rare exception. Southwest Catholic Credit Union v. Charnes, 665 P.2d 626 (Colo. App. 1982); Colo. Dept. of Rev. v. Woodmen of the World, 919 P.2d 806 (Colo. 1996); A.D. Store Co., Inc. v. Executive Dir. of Dept. of Rev., 997 P.2d 1241 (Colo. App. 1999), rev'd on other grounds, 19 P.3d 680 (Colo. 2001).

However, when interpreting a statute, the court must honor the plain meaning of the words when they are clear, and must begin with the proposition that the purchase of personal services is generally not subject to taxation in Colorado; rather, Colorado taxes the purchase of tangible personal property valued at its sales price. A.D. Store Co., Inc. v. Executive Dir. of Dept. of Rev., 19 P.3d 680 (Colo. 2001).

No exemption for state chartered credit unions. No exemption as to payment of sales taxes is provided to state chartered credit unions. Southwest Catholic Credit Union v. Charnes, 665 P.2d 626 (Colo. App. 1982).

Sales tax may be imposed on sale of cocaine by drug dealer if the sale is construed as a retail, rather than wholesale, transaction. Eggleston v. Colo., 636 F. Supp. 1312 (D. Colo. 1986).

Access services for interstate telephone calls are taxable as intrastate telephone services. Since access services are provided by facilities, equipment, and personnel which are all located entirely within the state of Colorado, they are intrastate in nature and are subject to sales tax in Colorado. AT & T Com. v. Dept. of Rev., 778 P.2d 677 (Colo. 1989).

Personal property which loses its identity when it becomes an integral and inseparable part of realty is not tangible personal property subject to taxation under this section. Raynor Door, Inc. v. Charnes, 765 P.2d 650 (Colo. App. 1988); Noble Energy v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 232 P.3d 293 (Colo. App. 2010).

The sales tax statute and applicable regulations provide that no service is taxable except those services specifically listed in the statute itself, and services rendered in "installing" or "applying" personal property are not taxable. Alteration services rendered in connection with the sale of a garment are separable from the purchase transaction and are not independently taxable. A.D. Store Co., Inc. v. Executive Dir. of Dept. of Rev., 19 P.3d 680 (Colo. 2001).

When mixed transaction combining delivery of services and tangible personal property cannot be meaningfully separated, taxability is based on "true object" of the transaction. Noble Energy v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 232 P.3d 293 (Colo. App. 2010).

Factors to determine the "true object" of a mixed transaction are: (1) The value of the tangible property compared to that of the service; (2) whether there was an alternative method of transfer; (3) the length of time the intangible property provided retains its value; (4) constraints on the buyer's ability to use the tangible property; (5) what is actually done with the tangible property after it has yielded its intangible component; (6) whether the tangible property represents the finished product sought by the buyer; and (7) the skill and expertise used to create the tangible property. City of Boulder v. Leanin' Tree, Inc., 72 P.3d 361 (Colo. 2003); Noble Energy v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 232 P.3d 293 (Colo. App. 2010).

Fracturing of oil and gas wells involved services and products that were inseparable. Applying these factors, the "true object" of the transaction is to provide a service to the taxpayer, not the sale of tangible personal property. Accordingly, the transaction was exempt from the sales tax. Noble Energy v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 232 P.3d 293 (Colo. App. 2010).

General assembly intended for the qualifying "exchange" in subsection (1)(b) to transpire in a single transaction, in which one vehicle is transferred to another person or entity as all or part of the purchase price of another vehicle. Here, plaintiff chose to structure the purchase of the new automobile and sale of the old automobile as two distinct transactions, involving separate parties. The old vehicle was not directly transferred to a person or entity as part of the purchase price for the new vehicle and, therefore, plaintiff cannot qualify for the trade-in allowance credit under this section. Sternal v. Fagan, 989 P.2d. 200 (Colo. App. 1999).

When there are multiple transactions, each transaction at which an item is sold to a consumer at retail may be taxed under this section. Furthermore, this section fails to contain an exemption expressing legislative intent that the collected tax be retained against a taxpayer where the applicable tax was paid by another. In the absence of such an intent, court will not presume an exemption. Sternal v. Fagan, 989 P.2d. 200 (Colo. App. 1999).

39-26-105. Vendor liable for tax - repeal. (1) (a) Except as provided in paragraph (d) of this subsection (1), every retailer, also in this part 1 called "vendor", shall, irrespective of the provisions of section 39-26-106, be liable and responsible for the payment of an amount equivalent to three percent of all sales made prior to January 1, 2001, and two and ninety one-hundredths percent of all sales made on or after January 1, 2001, by the vendor of commodities or services as specified in section 39-26-104 and shall, before the twentieth day of each month, make a return to the executive director of the department of revenue for the preceding calendar month and remit an amount equivalent to said percentage on such sales to said executive director, less three and one-third percent of the sum so remitted for sales occurring prior to July 1, 2003, or on or after July 1, 2005, and less two and one-third percent of the sum so remitted for sales occurring on or after July 1, 2003, but before July 1, 2005, to cover the vendor's expense in the collection and remittance of said tax; but, if any vendor is delinquent in remitting said tax, other than in unusual circumstances shown to the satisfaction of the executive director, the vendor shall not be allowed to retain any amounts to cover such vendor's expense in collecting and remitting said tax, and an amount equivalent to the said percentage, plus the amount of any local vendor expense that may be allowed by the local government to the vendor, shall be remitted to the executive director by any such delinquent vendor. Such returns of the taxpayer or the taxpayer's duly authorized agent shall contain such information and be made in such manner and upon such forms as the executive director shall prescribe. Any local vendor expense remitted to the executive director shall be deposited to the state general fund.

(b) The executive director may extend the time for making a return and paying the taxes due under such reasonable rules as the executive director may prescribe, but no such extension shall be for a greater period than is provided for in section 39-26-109.

(c) The burden of proving that any retailer is exempt from collecting the tax on any goods sold and paying the same to the executive director, or from making such returns, shall be on the retailer or vendor under such reasonable requirements of proof as the executive director may prescribe.

(d) A retailer or vendor who has received in good faith from a qualified purchaser a direct payment permit number issued pursuant to section 39-26-103.5 shall not be liable or responsible for the collection and remittance of the tax imposed by this article on any sale made to the qualified purchaser that is paid for directly from such qualified purchaser's funds and not the personal funds of any individual.

(e) Repealed.

(f) (I) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section:

(A) The amount retained by a vendor that is not allowed to file on a less frequent basis than monthly pursuant to section 39-26-109 to cover the vendor's expense in collecting and remitting tax pursuant to this section shall not exceed an amount equal to one and thirty-five one-hundredths percent of all sales tax reported on any return made on or after March 1, 2009, but prior to July 1, 2009. For any return made prior to April 1, 2009, a vendor shall not be liable for any interest or other penalty imposed as a result of an error made in connection with the imposition of a maximum amount of sales tax revenues that may be retained in accordance with the provisions of this sub-subparagraph (A).

(B) A vendor shall not retain any amount to cover the vendor's expense in collecting and remitting tax pursuant to this section on any return made on or after July 1, 2009, but prior to June 30, 2011. For any return made prior to August 1, 2009, a vendor shall not be liable for any interest or other penalty imposed as a result of an error made in connection with the elimination of the amount of sales tax revenues that may be retained in accordance with the provisions of this sub-subparagraph (B).

(C) If the September 2010 forecast prepared by the legislative council staff indicates sufficient revenues to fully fund a six percent increase in general fund spending for the 2010-11 state fiscal year, then the provisions of this subparagraph (I) shall not apply and the amount retained by a vendor to cover the vendor's expense in collecting and remitting tax shall be as provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) for periods commencing on or after January 1, 2011.

(II) This paragraph (f) is repealed, effective December 31, 2013.

(g) (I) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the amount retained by a vendor to cover the vendor's expense in collecting and remitting tax pursuant to this section shall not exceed an amount equal to two and twenty-two one-hundredths percent of all sales tax reported on any return made on or after July 1, 2011, but prior to July 1, 2014.

(II) This paragraph (g) is repealed, effective December 31, 2016.

(2) Every retailer or vendor conducting a business in which the transaction between the vendor and the consumer consists of the supplying of tangible personal property and services in connection with the maintenance or servicing of same shall be required to pay the taxes levied under this article upon the full contract price, unless application is made to the executive director for permission to use a percentage basis of reporting the tangible personal property sold and the services supplied under such contract. The executive director is authorized to determine the percentage based upon the ratio of the tangible personal property included in the consideration as it bears to the total of the consideration paid under said combination contract or sale which is subject to the sales tax levied under the provisions of this part 1. This section shall not be construed to include items upon which the sales tax is imposed on the full purchase price as designated in section 39-26-102 (12).

(3) (a) A qualified purchaser may provide a direct payment permit number to a vendor or retailer that is liable and responsible for collecting and remitting the tax imposed by this article on any sale made to the qualified purchaser. A qualified purchaser holding a direct payment permit number shall, before the twentieth day of each month subsequent to the month in which any sale to the qualified purchaser was made for which the qualified purchaser's direct payment permit number was used, make a return and remit directly to the executive director the amount of such tax owing on all such sales to the qualified purchaser made in the preceding month. Such returns of the qualified purchaser or duly authorized agent shall contain such information and be made in such manner and upon such forms as the executive director shall prescribe.

(b) From the amount of the tax required to be remitted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), a qualified purchaser shall be entitled to retain the amount specified in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section that a vendor or retailer would otherwise be entitled to retain to cover the vendor's or retailer's expense in collecting and remitting the tax imposed by this article if the qualified purchaser had not provided a direct payment permit number to the vendor or retailer.

39-26-105.3. Remittance of tax - electronic database - vendor held harmless.

(1) Any vendor that collects and remits sales tax to the department of revenue as provided by law may use an electronic database of state addresses that is certified by the department pursuant to subsection (3) of this section to determine the jurisdictions to which tax is owed.

(2) Any vendor that uses the data contained in an electronic database certified by the department of revenue pursuant to subsection (3) of this section to determine the jurisdictions to which tax is owed shall be held harmless for any tax, charge, or fee liability to any taxing jurisdiction that otherwise would be due solely as a result of an error or omission in the database.

(3) Any electronic database provider may apply to the department of revenue to be certified for use by Colorado vendors pursuant to this section. Such certification shall be valid for three years. In order to be certified, an electronic database provider shall have a database that satisfies the following criteria:

(a) The database shall designate each address in the state, including, to the extent practicable, any multiple postal address applicable to one location and the taxing jurisdictions that have the authority to impose a tax on purchases made by purchasers at each address in the state.

(b) The information contained in the electronic database shall be updated as necessary and maintained in an accurate condition. In order to keep the database accurate, the database provider shall provide a convenient method for taxing jurisdictions that may be affected by the use of the database to inform the provider of apparent errors in the database. The provider shall have a process in place to promptly correct any errors brought to the provider's attention.

(c) The database shall be at least ninety-five percent accurate based on a statistically valid sample of addresses from the database tested for accuracy by the department of revenue.

(d) The database shall satisfy any additional criteria that the executive director of the department of revenue establishes pursuant to subsection (7) of this section.

(4) The department of revenue shall have the authority to designate an entity to examine electronic databases and report to the department as to the accuracy and suitability of the databases for use by vendors. The entity may impose a fee on each electronic database provider applying for certification in an amount necessary to cover the reasonable and documented costs of examining the database.

(5) The department of revenue shall have the authority to waive the certification process specified in subsection (4) of this section and certify an electronic database as suitable for use by vendors if the database has been previously certified by a public or private entity and the certification criteria of the certifying entity are the same or more stringent than the criteria specified in subsection (3) of this section. The department shall have the discretion to accept or reject a previously certified database, and under no circumstance shall the department be required to waive the certification process pursuant to this subsection (5).

(6) The department of revenue shall have the right to deny or revoke the certification of any electronic database for just cause.

(7) The executive director of the department of revenue shall promulgate rules for the administration of this section. Such rules shall be promulgated in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S.

39-26-105.4. Remittance of tax - determination of address - dealer held harmless.

(1) Any licensed motor vehicle dealer that collects and remits tax to the department of revenue as specified in this part 1 for any sale of a motor vehicle shall be held harmless for any tax, charge, or fee liability to any taxing jurisdiction that the dealer proves was not collected solely because an address that does not meet the requirements of section 42-6-139, C.R.S., was provided by the purchaser for purposes of calculating the amounts of tax either due on the sale and purchase of such vehicle pursuant to this part 1 or section 29-2-106, C.R.S., if the dealer:

(a) Informs the purchaser of a motor vehicle of the key requirements of motor vehicle titling and registration as specified in sections 42-3-103 (4) (a), 42-6-134, 42-6-139, and 42-6-140, C.R.S.; and

(b) Obtains an affidavit signed by the purchaser stating that the purchaser's address is true and correct.

39-26-105.5. Remittance of sales taxes - mandatory electronic funds transfers. For any calendar year commencing on or after January 1, 2002, any vendor whose liability for state sales tax only for the previous calendar year was more than seventy-five thousand dollars shall use electronic funds transfers to remit all state and local sales taxes required to be remitted to the executive director of the department of revenue. The executive director may promulgate rules to effectively implement this section, but shall first consult with the state treasurer to ensure that any rules promulgated do not adversely affect the ability of the state treasurer to optimize sales tax investment earnings. Such rules shall be promulgated in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S. The executive director shall not require any taxpayer required to remit sales taxes by electronic funds transfers to remit sales tax prior to the deadline specified in section 39-26-105 for taxpayers who remit sales taxes by other means.

39-26-106. Schedule of sales tax. (1) (a) (I) Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), there is imposed upon all sales of commodities and services specified in section 39-26-104 a tax at the rate of three percent of the amount of the sale, to be computed in accordance with schedules or systems approved by the executive director of the department of revenue. Said schedules or systems shall be designed so that no such tax is charged on any sale of seventeen cents or less.

(II) On and after January 1, 2001, there is imposed upon all sales of commodities and services specified in section 39-26-104 a tax at the rate of two and ninety one-hundredths percent of the amount of the sale to be computed in accordance with schedules or systems approved by the executive director of the department of revenue. Said schedules or systems shall be designed so that no such tax is charged on any sale of seventeen cents or less.

(b) Notwithstanding the three percent rate provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), for the period May 1, 1983, through July 31, 1984, the rate of the tax imposed pursuant to this subsection (1) shall be three and one-half percent.

(2) (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), retailers shall add the tax imposed, or the average equivalent thereof, to the sale price or charge, showing such tax as a separate and distinct item, and when added such tax shall constitute a part of such price or charge and shall be a debt from the consumer or user to the retailer until paid and shall be recoverable at law in the same manner as other debts. The retailer shall be entitled, as collecting agent of the state, to apply and credit the amount of the retailer's collections against the rate to be paid by the retailer under the provisions of section 39-26-105, remitting any excess of collections over said rate, less the fee retained by the retailer for the collection and remittance of the tax pursuant to said section, to the executive director of the department of revenue in the retailer's next monthly sales tax return.

(b) Any retailer selling malt, vinous, or spirituous liquors by the drink or any vendor selling individual items of personal property through coin-operated vending machines may include in his sales price the tax levied under this part 1; except that no such retailer shall advertise or hold out to the public in any manner, directly or indirectly, that such tax is not included as a part of the sales price to the consumer. The schedule set forth in subsection (1) of this section shall be used by such retailer in determining amounts to be included in such sales price. No such retailer shall gain any benefit from the collection or payment of such tax, except as permitted in section 39-26-105 (1), nor shall the use of the schedule set forth in subsection (1) of this section relieve such retailer from liability for payment of the full amount of the tax levied by this part 1.

39-26-107. Rules and regulations. To provide uniform methods of adding the tax, or the average equivalent thereof, to the selling price, it is the duty of the executive director of the department of revenue to formulate and promulgate after hearing appropriate rules and regulations to effectuate the purpose of sections 39-26-105 to 39-26-113.

39-26-108. Tax cannot be absorbed. It is unlawful for any retailer to advertise or hold out or state to the public or to any customer, directly or indirectly, that the tax or any part thereof imposed by this part 1 will be assumed or absorbed by the retailer or that it will not be added to the selling price of the property sold or if added that it or any part thereof will be refunded. ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Colorado Sales and Use Tax Consequences in Sales of Businesses", see 11 Colo. Law. 679 (1982).

Ultimate responsibility for payment of the sales tax is on the consumer. While the retailer has the duty to collect the tax, it only acts as an agent of the state in this capacity. Columbine Beverage Co. v. Continental Can Co., 662 P.2d 1094 (Colo. App. 1982).

Liability does not rest on contractual arrangement with vendor. The liability of the consumer to pay the sales tax does not rest on any contractual arrangement with the vendor regarding the collection or payment of these taxes. Therefore, it is not necessary for a lessor specifically to include provisions for payment of the tax in its written lease agreement with the lessee. Columbine Beverage Co. v. Continental Can Co., 662 P.2d 1094 (Colo. App. 1982).

39-26-109. Reports of vendor. If the accounting methods regularly employed by the vendor in the transaction of his business, or other conditions, are such that reports of sales made on a calendar-month basis will impose unnecessary hardship, the executive director of the department of revenue, upon written request of the vendor, may accept reports at such intervals as will in his opinion better suit the convenience of the taxpayer and will not jeopardize the collection of the tax. The executive director may by rule permit taxpayers whose monthly tax collected is less than three hundred dollars to make returns and pay taxes at intervals not greater than every three months.

39-26-111. Credit sales. (1) In case of a sale upon credit, or a contract for sale wherein it is provided that the price shall be paid in installments and title does not pass until a future date, or a chattel mortgage or a conditional sale, there shall be paid upon each payment, upon the account of purchase price, that portion of the total tax which the amount paid bears in the total purchase price. Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection (1), a retailer doing business wholly or partly on a credit basis may, at his election, make a return, and remit sales tax on credit sales, on the basis of the aggregate amount of cash received during the month from taxable credit sales. The retailer may determine the tax to be remitted on the basis of his reasonable estimate of the aggregate amount of tax which he has collected from his credit customers during the month. A retailer's estimate of the taxes collected on credit sales made in any month (referred to in this section as "base month") shall be deemed reasonable if the cumulative sum of the monthly amounts of taxes on such credit sales remitted by the retailer on or before the close of the third, sixth, ninth, twelfth, and fifteenth calendar months following the base month is not less than twenty-five percent, forty-three and seventy-five one-hundredths percent, sixty-two and five-tenths percent, eighty-one and twenty-five one-hundredths percent, and one hundred percent, respectively, of the total taxes due on the aggregate credit sales made by the retailer in the base month. In no event, however, shall the amount of taxes remitted by the retailer in any month be less than the amount which the retailer actually estimates to have been collected in that month.

(2) If a retailer transfers, sells, assigns, or otherwise disposes of an account receivable, he shall be deemed to have received the full balance of the consideration for the original sale and shall be liable for the remittance of the sales tax on the balance of the total sale price not previously reported; except that such transfer, sale, assignment, or other disposition of an account receivable by a retailer to a closely held subsidiary, as defined in section 39-26-102 (10) (k), shall not be deemed to require the retailer to pay the sales tax on the credit sale represented by the account transferred prior to the time the customer makes payment on said account.

39-26-112. Excess tax - remittance. If any vendor, during any reporting period, collects as a tax an amount in excess of three percent of all taxable sales made prior to January 1, 2001, and two and ninety one-hundredths percent of all taxable sales made on or after January 1, 2001, such vendor shall remit to the executive director of the department of revenue the full net amount of the tax imposed in this part 1 and also such excess. The retention by the retailer or vendor of any excess of tax collections over the said percentage of the total taxable sales of such retailer or vendor or the intentional failure to remit punctually to the executive director the full amount required to be remitted by the provisions of this part 1 is declared to be unlawful and constitutes a misdemeanor.

39-26-113. Collection of sales tax - motor vehicles - exemption. (1) No registration shall be made of a motor or other vehicle for which registration is required and no certificate of title shall be issued for such vehicle or for a mobile home by the department of revenue or its authorized agent until any tax due on the sale and purchase of such vehicle pursuant to section 29-2-106, C.R.S., or section 39-26-106 or imposed by ordinance of any home rule city has been paid.

(2) If an applicant for registration and certificate of title for any motor or other vehicle or for a certificate of title for a mobile home fails to show payment of the sales taxes applicable to the sale and purchase thereof by means of proper receipts therefor, the department of revenue or its authorized agent shall collect all such applicable taxes at the time such application is made.

(3) Revenues due the state and collected pursuant to this section shall be distributed as are other revenues under this part 1, and revenues due any county, city, or town so collected shall be distributed in accordance with the provisions of section 29-2-106, C.R.S., or as specified by contract entered into with the department of revenue pursuant to section 24-35-110, C.R.S.

(4) To facilitate collection of sales taxes as provided in this section, the governing body of each city or town which has imposed a sales tax shall certify to the department of revenue and to the county clerk of the county in which such city or town is located a true copy of its current sales tax ordinances, and shall likewise certify any subsequent changes therein.

(5) (a) The sale of a new or used automobile to a purchaser who is a nonresident of Colorado and who purchases such automobile for use outside this state is exempt from all sales taxes, the collection of which is provided for by this section.

(b) The executive director of the department of revenue shall attempt to negotiate agreements of reciprocity concerning the collection of sales taxes on motor vehicles with adjacent states.

(c) Repealed.

(6) (a) In the case of a seller-financed sale in which the seller has added the sales tax due on the sale to the financed sales price of the motor vehicle and the purchaser has defaulted or otherwise failed to make payments due to the seller, the seller shall be entitled to deduct all portions of the unreceived payments that are attributable to the sales tax due on the sale from the next sales tax return made by the seller pursuant to this article. If the amount to be deducted pursuant to this subsection (6) exceeds the amount of sales tax to be remitted by the seller for the next reporting period, the seller may carry forward the remaining amount of the deduction to future sales tax returns. In no event shall this subsection (6) be construed to create a right to a refund or any other payment by the department of revenue to the seller.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (6), “seller-financed sale” means a retail sale of a motor vehicle by a seller licensed pursuant to part 1 of article 6 of title 12, C.R.S., in which the seller, or a wholly-owned affiliate or subsidiary of the seller, collects all or part of the total consideration paid for the motor vehicle in periodic payments and retains a lien on the motor vehicle until all payments have been received. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (b), the term does not include a retail sale of a motor vehicle in which a person other than the seller provides the consideration for the sale and retains a lien on the motor vehicle until all payments have been made.

(c) The department of revenue may promulgate rules and regulations for the implementation of this subsection (6).

(1) (a) Except as provided in subsection (3) of this section, for the calendar year commencing on January 1, 2011, and for each calendar year thereafter, a taxpayer may claim a refund of a percentage of all state sales and use taxes paid by the taxpayer pursuant to this part 1 and part 2 of this article on the sale, storage, or use of a model year 2010 or newer truck tractor or semitrailer with a gross vehicle weight rating of fifty-four thousand pounds or greater that is purchased on or after July 1, 2011.

(b) The total refund shall be calculated by the division of motor vehicles in the department of revenue in the same manner as the division calculates the proration of the annual specific ownership tax payable on Class A personal property as specified in section 42-3-107 (4), C.R.S.

(c) The total refund shall be claimed as follows:

39-26-115. Deficiency due to negligence. If any part of the deficiency is due to negligence or intentional disregard of authorized rules and regulations with knowledge thereof, but without intent to defraud, there shall be added ten percent of the total amount of the deficiency, and interest in such case shall be collected at the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5, in addition to the interest provided by section 39-21-109, on the amount of such deficiency from the time the return was due, from the person required to file the return, which interest and addition shall become due and payable ten days after written notice and demand to him by the executive director of the department of revenue. If any part of the deficiency is due to fraud with the intent to evade the tax, then there shall be added one hundred percent of the total amount of the deficiency, and, in such case, the whole amount of the tax unpaid, including the additions, shall become due and payable ten days after written notice and demand by the executive director, and an additional three percent per month on said amount shall be added from the date the return was due until paid.

Applied in Montgomery Ward & Co. v. State Dept. of Rev., 628 P.2d 85 (Colo. 1981).

39-26-117. Tax lien - exemption from lien. (1) (a) Except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (f) of this subsection (1), the tax imposed by this part 1 shall be a first and prior lien upon the goods and business fixtures of or used by any retailer or qualified purchaser under lease, title retaining contract, or other contract arrangement, excepting stock of goods sold or for sale in the ordinary course of business, and shall take precedence on all such property over other liens or claims of whatsoever kind or nature.

(b) Any retailer or person in possession shall provide a copy of any lease pertaining to the assets and property described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) to the department of revenue within ten days after seizure by the department of such assets and property. The department shall verify that such lease is bona fide and notify the owner that such lease has been received by the department. The department shall use its best efforts to notify the owner of the real or personal property which might be subject to the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). The real or personal property of an owner who has made a bona fide lease to a retailer shall be exempt from the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) if such property can reasonably be identified from the lease description or if the lessee is given an option to purchase in such lease and has not exercised such option to become the owner of the property leased. This exemption shall be effective from the date of the execution of the lease. Such exemption shall also apply if the lease is recorded with the county clerk and recorder of the county where the property is located or based or a memorandum of the lease is filed with the department of revenue on such forms as may be prescribed by said department after the execution of the lease at a cost for such filing of two dollars and fifty cents per document. Motor vehicles which are properly registered in this state, showing the lessor as owner thereof, shall be exempt from the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1); except that said lien shall apply to the extent that the lessee has an earned reserve, allowance for depreciation not to exceed fair market value, or similar interest which is or may be credited to the lessee. Where the lessor and lessee are blood relatives or relatives by law or have twenty-five percent or more common ownership, a lease between such lessee and such lessor shall not be considered as bona fide for purposes of this section.

(b.5) Any coin-operated vending machine or video or other game machine shall be exempt from the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) if:

(I) The machine is placed on the retailer's premises under the terms of a lease or other agreement under which the retailer is given no right to become the owner of the machine;

(II) The machine is plainly marked in a location accessible to agents of the department of revenue with information sufficient to permit identification of the owner of said property; and

(III) The owner of the machine has filed with the department of revenue a schedule listing the machine by serial number and including thereon the owner's full name and the address of his business and such other information as the executive director of the department of revenue may require. To protect the anonymity of owners of property, the executive director of the department of revenue may permit property covered by this paragraph (b.5) to be marked using numbers or other coded identification.

(c) Any retailer who is in possession of property under the terms of a lease, which property is exempt from lien as provided in this section, may be required by the executive director of the department of revenue to remit taxes collected at more frequent intervals than monthly, but no more frequently than semimonthly, or may be required to furnish security for the proper payment of taxes whenever the collection of taxes appears to be in jeopardy.

(d) Any retailer who sells out his business or stock of goods, or quits business, shall be required to make out the return as provided in this part 1, within ten days after the date he sold his business or stock of goods or quit business, and his successor in business shall be required to withhold sufficient purchase money to cover the amount of said taxes due and unpaid until such time as the former owner produces a receipt from the executive director of the department of revenue showing that the taxes have been paid or a certificate that no taxes are due.

(e) If the purchaser of a business or stock of goods fails to withhold the purchase money as provided in paragraph (d) of this subsection (1), and the taxes are due and unpaid after the ten-day period allowed, he, as well as the vendor, shall be personally liable for the payment of the taxes unpaid by the former owner. Likewise, anyone who takes any stock of goods or business fixtures of or used by any retailer under lease, title retaining contract, or other contract arrangement, by purchase, foreclosure sale, or otherwise, takes same subject to the lien for any delinquent sales taxes owed by such retailer and shall be liable for the payment of all delinquent sales taxes of such prior owner, not, however, exceeding the value of property so taken or acquired.

(f) Any qualified purchaser that provides a direct payment permit number issued pursuant to section 39-26-103.5 to a vendor or retailer shall be subject to the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) to the extent of any tax owed as a result of purchases made by the qualified purchaser plus any penalty and interest assessed pursuant to this article or article 21 of this title.

(2) Whenever the business or property of any taxpayer subject to this part 1 shall be placed in receivership, bankruptcy, or assignment for the benefit of creditors, or seized under distraint for property taxes, all taxes, penalties, and interest imposed by this part 1, and for which said retailer is in any way liable under the terms of this part 1, shall be a prior and preferred claim against all the property of said taxpayer, except as to preexisting claims or liens of a bona fide mortgagee, pledgee, judgment creditor, or purchaser whose rights shall have attached prior to the filing of the notice as provided in section 39-26-118 on the property of the taxpayer, other than the goods, stock in trade, and business fixtures of such taxpayer. No sheriff, receiver, assignee, or other officer shall sell the property of any person subject to this part 1 under process or order of any court without first ascertaining from the executive director the amount of any taxes due and payable under this part 1, and, if there are any such taxes due, owing, or unpaid, it is the duty of such officer to first pay the amount of said taxes out of the proceeds of said sale before making payment of any moneys to any judgment creditor or other claims of whatsoever kind or nature, except the costs of the proceedings and other preexisting claims or liens as provided in this section. For the purposes of this part 1, "taxpayer" includes "retailer".

Constitutionality. This section does not create separate classes of persons in violation of the equal protection clause of the fourteenth amendment. ITT Diversified Credit Corp. v. Couch, 669 P.2d 1355 (Colo. 1983).

This section, as used to seize property of lessor due to lessee's violation, does not violate due process nor does it effect a taking. This section represents a valid exercise of the sovereign power to assess and collect taxes, which is distinguishable from the taking of private property for a public purpose. Burkin Associates v. Tipton, 845 P.2d 525 (Colo. 1993).

This section does not violate the equal protection and due process rights of a consignor when a rational basis exists for exempting leased property from the tax lien while enforcing the tax lien against consigned property. Van Dorn Retail Mgt., Inc. v. City & County of Denver, 902 P.2d 383 (Colo. App. 1994).

Lien imposed by section valid. In an action involving the priority of liens of a chattel mortgage and that of sales taxes under this section, the statutory lien cannot be considered "secret" and thus without validity. Sweeney Elec. Co. v. Poston, 110 Colo. 139, 132 P.2d 443 (1942).

Any lien for general taxes on personal property is inferior to the lien under this section. City & County of Denver v. Armstrong, 105 Colo. 290, 97 P.2d 448 (1939); Sweeney Elec. Co. v. Poston, 110 Colo. 139, 132 P.2d 443 (1942).

Lien takes priority over security interest. A lien for sales and service taxes takes priority over a security interest which has previously attached. Young v. Golden State Bank, 632 P.2d 1053 (Colo. App. 1981).

A lien for state sales taxes is a first and prior lien on goods and business fixtures and has priority over a prior perfected security interest. ITT Diversified Credit Corp. v. Couch, 669 P.2d 1355 (Colo. 1983); Wimmer v. Jenkins, 703 P.2d 1326 (Colo. App. 1985).

There is a statutory priority for tax liens over any interest a third party might have in the goods, stock in trade, and business fixtures of a delinquent taxpayer. ITT Diversified Credit Corp. v. Couch, 669 P.2d 1355 (Colo. 1983).

Statutory priority for tax liens over perfected security interests in goods and business fixtures is not limited to the period when the goods are in the control of the delinquent taxpayer and to permit such priority to be terminated upon repossession of the goods by a secured party would defeat the public policy and legislative intent of tax lien priority statutes. ITT Diversified Credit Corp. v. Couch, 669 P.2d 1355 (Colo. 1983).

Under this section, mere use of personal property subjects it to a lien, notwithstanding the lack of ownership in the using party. Horacek v. Cherry Creek Corp., 28 Colo. App. 258, 472 P.2d 158 (1970).

Subsection (1)(a) exemption limited. The exemption created in subsection (1)(a) protects only the retail customers of the taxpayer who purchased goods from the retailer's inventory in the ordinary course of business. The exception does not apply to persons who obtain the retailer's goods and fixtures by foreclosure, bulk sale of inventory, or repossession. ITT Diversified Credit Corp. v. Couch, 669 P.2d 1355 (Colo. 1983).

Strict compliance with recording requirements in subsection (1)(b) is required in order to qualify for tax lien exemption. Charnes v. Norwest Leasing, Inc., 787 P.2d 145 (Colo. 1990).

Under this section, liens for sales and use taxes are entitled to priority over all other liens, including liens of the FDIC. Pima Financial Serv. v. Intermountain Home Sys., 786 F. Supp. 1551 (D. Colo. 1992).

39-26-118. Recovery of taxes, penalty, and interest. (1) All sums of money paid by the purchaser to the retailer as taxes imposed by this article shall be and remain public money, the property of the state of Colorado, in the hands of such retailer, and he shall hold the same in trust for the sole use and benefit of the state of Colorado until paid to the executive director of the department of revenue, and, for failure to so pay to the executive director, such retailer shall be punished as provided by law.

(2) (a) If a person neglects or refuses to make a timely return in payment of the tax or to pay or correctly account for any tax as required by this article, the executive director of the department of revenue shall make an estimate, based upon the information that may be available, of the amount of taxes due or not accounted for or incorrectly accounted for on a return for the period for which the taxpayer is delinquent and shall add thereto a penalty equal to the sum of fifteen dollars for the failure or ten percent of such unpaid, unaccounted, or incorrectly accounted amount plus one-half percent per month from the date when due, not exceeding eighteen percent in the aggregate, and interest if applicable on the delinquent taxes at the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5. Promptly thereafter, the executive director shall give to the delinquent taxpayer written notice of the estimated taxes, penalty, and interest, which notice shall be sent by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5.

(b) Such estimate shall thereupon become a notice of deficiency as provided in section 39-21-103. A hearing may be held and the executive director shall make a final determination pursuant to that section. The taxpayer may appeal the said final determination in the manner provided in section 39-21-105.

(3) (a) If any taxes, penalty, or interest imposed by this article and shown due by returns filed by the taxpayer or as shown by assessments duly made as provided in this section are not paid within five days after the same are due, the executive director shall issue a notice, setting forth the name of the taxpayer, the amount of the tax, penalties, and interest, the date of the accrual thereof, and that the state of Colorado claims a first and prior lien therefor on the real and tangible personal property of the taxpayer except as to preexisting claims or liens of a bona fide mortgagee, pledgee, judgment creditor, or purchaser whose rights have attached prior to the filing of the notice as provided in this section on property of the taxpayer, other than the goods, stock in trade, and business fixtures of such taxpayer.

(b) Said notice shall be on forms prepared by the executive director, and shall be verified by him or his duly qualified deputy, or any duly qualified agent of the executive director, whose duties are the collection of such tax, and may be filed in the office of the county clerk and recorder of any county in the state in which the taxpayer owns real or tangible personal property, and the filing of such notice shall create such lien on such property in that county and constitute notice thereof. After said notice has been filed, or concurrently therewith, or at any time when taxes due are unpaid, whether such notice is filed or not, the executive director may issue a warrant directed to any duly authorized revenue collector, or to the sheriff of any county of the state, commanding him to levy upon, seize, and sell sufficient of the real and personal property of the tax debtor found within his county for the payment of the amount due, together with interest, penalties, and costs, as may be provided by law, subject to valid preexisting claims or liens.

(4) Such revenue collector or the sheriff shall forthwith levy upon sufficient of the property of the taxpayer, or any property used by such taxpayer in conducting his retail business, except property made exempt from lien pursuant to the provisions of section 39-26-117 (1) (b), and said property so levied upon shall be sold in all respects with like effect and in the same manner as is prescribed by law in respect to executions against property upon judgment of a court of record, and the remedies of garnishments shall apply. The sheriff shall be entitled to such fees in executing such warrant as are allowed by law for similar services.

(5) Any lien for taxes as shown on the records of the county clerk and recorders as provided in this section, upon payment of all taxes, penalties, and interest covered thereby, shall be released by the executive director in the same manner as mortgages and judgments are released.

(6) It is the duty of any county clerk and recorder to whom such notices are sent to file and record the same without cost or charge.

(7) (a) The executive director may also treat any such taxes, penalties, or interest due and unpaid as a debt due the state from the vendor. In case of failure to pay the tax or any portion thereof, or any penalty or interest thereon when due, the executive director may receive at law the amount of such taxes, penalties, and interest in such county or district court of the county wherein the taxpayer resides or has his principal place of business having jurisdiction of the amounts sought to be collected. The return of the taxpayer or the assessment made by the executive director, as provided in this article, shall be prima facie proof of the amount due.

(b) Such actions may be actions in attachment, and writs of attachment may be issued to the sheriff, and in any such proceeding no bond shall be required of the executive director, nor shall any sheriff require of the executive director an indemnifying bond for executing the writ of attachment or writ of execution upon any judgment entered in such proceedings; and the executive director may prosecute appeals in such cases without the necessity of providing bond therefor. It is the duty of the attorney general or any district attorney, when requested by the executive director, to commence action for the recovery of taxes due under this article, and this remedy shall be in addition to all other existing remedies or remedies provided in this article and article 21 of this title.

(8) In any action affecting the title to real estate or the ownership or rights to possession of personal property, the state of Colorado may be made a party defendant for the purpose of obtaining an adjudication or determination of its lien upon the property involved therein. In any such action, service of summons upon the executive director or any person in charge of the office of the executive director shall be sufficient service and binding upon the state of Colorado.

(9) The executive director is authorized to waive, for good cause shown, any penalty or interest assessed as provided in this article and article 21 of this title, and interest imposed in excess of the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5 shall be deemed a penalty.

Section constitutional. The provisions of this section, giving to the director of revenue the power of distraint, levy, and sale, do not unconstitutionally confer judicial powers upon the executive branch of government. Sweeney Elec. Co. v. Poston, 110 Colo. 139, 132 P.2d 443 (1942).

Retailer collecting tax deemed trustee. A retailer who collects the tax by virtue of this section is a trustee and answerable to the state for such moneys until they are paid over to the state treasurer. Sweeney Elec. Co. v. Poston, 110 Colo. 139, 132 P.2d 443 (1942).

Revocation of authority to remit sales tax on cash receipt basis is not notice of deficiency. A determination that sales tax on credit sales should be remitted on a sales or accrual basis and the revocation of authority to remit on cash receipt basis was not a notice of deficiency and assessment of tax under subsection (2). Montgomery Ward & Co. v. State Dept. of Rev., 675 P.2d 318 (Colo. App. 1983).

Section 39-26-125 governs the department's attempt to collect sales tax in general, including those held in trust by virtue of this section, which merely describes the nature of the taxes held by the retailer and does not purport to usurp the mandates of the statute of limitations. F.W. Woolworth Co. v. State Dept. of Rev., 699 P.2d 1 (Colo. App. 1984).

In order to enforce liens for sales taxes, the department of revenue may activate its liens by recording the notice of delinquency pursuant to this section or by the more immediate means of distraint in accordance with § 39-21-114. ITT Diversified Credit Corp. v. Couch, 669 P.2d 1355 (Colo. 1983).

39-26-120. False or fraudulent return, statement - penalty. (1) It is unlawful for any retailer or vendor to refuse to make any return required to be made in this part 1 or to make any false or fraudulent return or false statement on any return, or fail and refuse to make payment to the executive director of the department of revenue of any taxes collected or due the state, or in any manner evade the collection and payment of the tax, or any part thereof, or for any person or purchaser to fail or refuse to pay such tax, or evade the payment thereof, or to aid or abet another in any attempt to evade the payment of the tax.

(2) Any person willfully violating any of the provisions of this section is guilty of a felony. Any corporation willfully making a false return or a return willfully containing a false statement, is guilty of a felony. Any court of competent jurisdiction of the county in which the offender resides, or, if a corporation, then the county of its principal place of business, shall have jurisdiction to enforce this section.

(3) In addition to the foregoing penalties, any person who knowingly and willfully swears to or verifies any false statement is guilty of perjury in the second degree and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished in the manner provided by law.

The administration of this part 1 is vested in and shall be exercised by the executive director of the department of revenue who shall prescribe forms and reasonable rules and regulations in conformity with this part 1 for the making of returns, for the ascertainment, assessment, and collection of the taxes imposed under this part 1, and for the proper administration and enforcement of this part 1.

ANNOTATION

Injunction prohibiting executive director from promulgating rules and regulations is improper interference with the executive branch of government. Colo. Coll. v. Heckers, 33 Colo. App. 219, 517 P.2d 419 (1973).

Because courts cannot interfere until director exercises authority. Actions of the executive director are subject to judicial review, but until he has exercised his authority, the courts may not interfere with the administrative authority vested in him. Colo. Coll. v. Heckers, 33 Colo. App. 219, 517 P.2d 419 (1973).

39-26-122.5. Collection of sales tax - enhanced efficiencies - intergovernmental agreements with local governments - legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) It is in the best interest of the state, local governments, and taxpayers to have sales tax collected in the most efficient and effective manner feasible;

(b) Sales taxes can be administered and collected most efficiently when the governmental entities that collect the taxes cooperate and share responsibilities to collect and distribute revenues from the taxes;

(c) The administrative burden on taxpayers is lessened when governmental entities cooperate and agree on the processes used to administer and collect sales taxes;

(d) Broad authority and precedent exist for governmental entities to operate more efficiently and effectively by contracting with each other to cooperate in carrying out their respective responsibilities;

(e) The purpose of this section is to encourage the state to work cooperatively with counties and other local governments in the administration and collection of sales taxes in the state to enhance efficiencies and procedures for the benefit of both the department of revenue and local governments.

(2) The executive director of the department of revenue may enter into an intergovernmental agreement with any county for the purpose of enhancing the systemic efficiencies and procedures used in the collection of state and local sales taxes. Such agreement shall be entered into on behalf of and for the benefit of both the county and the department. In addition, a municipality may be included as a party to the agreement to further the same efficiencies and procedures to be enhanced by the agreement between the executive director and a county. The agreement may allow the parties to share in providing any function or service lawfully authorized to each of the parties, including the sharing of costs, information, or duties related to the collection of sales taxes within the boundaries of the county.

(3) The executive director of the department of revenue shall annually provide information to the finance committees of the house of representatives and the senate, or any successor committees, on any agreements entered into in accordance with the provisions of this section and any enhanced effectiveness or procedures that have been achieved as result of the agreements. Such information shall be incorporated into an existing report provided on annual basis by the executive director to the committees.

(3.5) For each state fiscal year commencing on or after the first state fiscal year in which an appropriation or transfer is permitted pursuant to section 24-75-219 (2) (d), C.R.S., the general assembly may appropriate or transfer, in its sole discretion, moneys from the general fund to the sales and use tax holding fund.

(4) (a) Except as otherwise provided in sub-subparagraph (B) of subparagraph (VI) of this paragraph (a) and subsection (4.5) of this section, all moneys in the sales and use tax holding fund shall be transferred to the highway users tax fund, as follows:

(I) to (III) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2009, (SB 09-228), ch. 410, p. 2266, § 21, effective July 1, 2009.)

(IV) If the revenue estimate prepared by the staff of the legislative council in December of state fiscal year 2017-18 or in December of any succeeding state fiscal year indicates that the amount of total general fund revenues for the state fiscal year will be sufficient to maintain the four percent or higher reserve required by section 24-75-201.1 (1), C.R.S., on February 1 of the fiscal year the state treasurer shall transfer from the sales and use tax holding fund to the highway users tax fund an amount equal to the lesser of:

(A) Fifty percent of the amount estimated in the December revenue estimate to be accrued and transferred to the highway users tax fund pursuant to this section for the entire fiscal year; or

(B) The balance of the sales and use tax holding fund.

(V) If the revenue estimate prepared by the staff of the legislative council in March of state fiscal year 2017-18 or in March of any succeeding state fiscal year indicates that the amount of total general fund revenues for the state fiscal year will be sufficient to maintain the four percent or higher reserve required by section 24-75-201.1 (1), C.R.S., on April 15 of the fiscal year the state treasurer shall transfer from the sales and use tax holding fund to the highway users tax fund the lesser of:

(A) The amount needed to ensure that the cumulative amount transferred from the sales and use tax holding fund to the highway users tax fund through April 15 equals seventy-five percent of the amount estimated in the March revenue estimate to be accrued and transferred to the highway users tax fund pursuant to this section for the entire fiscal year; or

(B) The balance of the sales and use tax holding fund.

(VI) (A) Effective June 30 of state fiscal year 2006-07, and effective June 30 of each state fiscal year thereafter, the state controller shall accrue all moneys in the sales and use tax holding fund as of that date to the highway users tax fund.

(B) Notwithstanding the provisions of sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (VI), the state controller shall reduce the amount accrued to the highway users tax fund pursuant to said sub-subparagraph and accrue moneys in the sales and use tax holding fund to the general fund to the extent necessary to ensure that the amount of general fund revenues for the state fiscal year is sufficient to maintain the four percent reserve required by section 24-75-201.1 (1), C.R.S.

(C) The state treasurer shall transfer, out of the amounts accrued by the state controller pursuant to sub-subparagraphs (A) and (B) of this subparagraph (VI), on September 20, 2007, and on September 20 of each succeeding fiscal year, the amounts needed to ensure that the cumulative amounts required to be accrued and transferred from the sales and use tax holding fund to the highway users tax fund and, if applicable to the general fund, equal ninety percent of the aggregate amounts required to be accrued and transferred to the funds pursuant to this section for the entire preceding fiscal year. The state treasurer shall transfer the remainder of the amounts accrued pursuant to said sub-subparagraphs on the date on which the state controller distributes the comprehensive annual financial report of the state.

(b) If a change in tax policy resulting in a significant reduction of general fund revenues is implemented, the general assembly shall:

(I) Examine the exception set forth in sub-subparagraph (B) of subparagraph (VI) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) to the general requirement set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) that all moneys in the sales and use tax holding fund be accrued and transferred to the highway users tax fund and determine whether the exception should be modified in light of the change.

(II) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2009, (SB 09-228), ch. 410, p. 2266, § 21, effective July 1, 2009.)

(4.5) (a) The state treasurer shall not transfer any moneys from the sales and use tax holding fund to the highway users tax fund during state fiscal years 2008-09 and 2009-10.

(b) On June 30, 2009, and June 30, 2010, the state treasurer shall transfer the balance of the sales and use tax holding fund as of that date, as applicable, to the general fund.

(5) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2009, (SB 09-228), ch. 410, p. 2266, § 21, effective July 1, 2009.)

(6) (a) For any state fiscal year commencing on or after July 1, 2010, the general assembly shall annually appropriate the first two million dollars of sales taxes attributable to sales taxes remitted, pursuant to this article, by persons or entities licensed pursuant to article 43.3 of title 12, C.R.S., or equally appropriate the sales taxes attributable to sales taxes remitted, pursuant to this article, by persons or entities licensed pursuant to article 43.3 of title 12, C.R.S., if less than two million dollars is generated.

39-26-201. Definitions. In addition to the definitions in section 39-26-102, as used in this part 2, unless the context otherwise requires:

(2) "Person" means an individual, corporation, limited liability company, partnership, firm, joint venture, association, estate, trust, receiver, or group acting as a unit and includes the plural as well as the singular number.

(3) "Storage" or "storing" means any keeping or retention of, or exercise of dominion or control over, tangible personal property in this state.

39-26-202. Authorization of tax. (1) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1) and in subsection (3) of this section, there is imposed and shall be collected from every person in this state a tax or excise at the rate of three percent of storage or acquisition charges or costs for the privilege of storing, using, or consuming in this state any articles of tangible personal property purchased at retail.

(b) On and after January 1, 2001, there is imposed and shall be collected from every person in this state a tax or excise at the rate of two and ninety one-hundredths percent of storage or acquisition charges or costs for the privilege of storing, using, or consuming in this state any articles of tangible personal property purchased at retail.

(c) Such tax shall be payable to and shall be collected by the executive director of the department of revenue and shall be computed in accordance with schedules or systems approved by said executive director. The transfer of wireless telecommunication equipment as an inducement to enter into or continue a contract for telecommunication services that are taxable pursuant to part 1 of this article shall not be construed to be storage, use, or consumption of such equipment by the transferor.

(2) Notwithstanding the three percent rate provisions of subsection (1) of this section, for the period May 1, 1983, through July 31, 1984, the rate of the tax imposed pursuant to this section shall be three and one-half percent.

(3) (a) Notwithstanding the rate provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of subsection (1) of this section, for any fiscal year commencing on or after July 1, 2000, if the revenue estimate prepared by the staff of the legislative council in June of the calendar year in which that fiscal year ends indicates that the aggregate amount of state revenues will exceed the limitation on state fiscal year spending imposed by section 20 (7) (a) of article X of the state constitution for that fiscal year by three hundred fifty million dollars or more, as adjusted pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (3), and voters statewide either have not authorized the state to retain and spend all of the excess state revenues or have authorized the state to retain and spend only a portion of the excess state revenues for that fiscal year, the tax imposed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall be imposed upon any sale of a new or used commercial truck, truck tractor, tractor, semitrailer, or vehicle used in combination therewith that has a gross vehicle weight rating in excess of twenty-six thousand pounds for the period commencing on July 1 of the calendar year in which that fiscal year ends through June 30 of the immediately subsequent calendar year, at a rate of one one-hundredth of one percent.

(b) (I) No later than October 1 of any given calendar year commencing on or after January 1, 2001, the executive director shall annually adjust the dollar amount specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) to reflect the rate of growth of Colorado personal income for the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year in which such adjustment is made. For purposes of this subparagraph (I), "the rate of growth of Colorado personal income" means the percentage change between the most recent published annual estimate of total personal income for Colorado, as defined and officially reported by the bureau of economic analysis in the United States department of commerce for the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year in which the adjustment is made and the most recent published annual estimate of total personal income for Colorado, as defined and officially reported by the bureau of economic analysis in the United States department of commerce for the calendar year prior to the calendar year immediately preceding the calendar year in which the adjustment is made.

(II) Upon calculating the adjustment of said dollar amount in accordance with subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b), the executive director shall notify in writing the executive committee of the legislative council created pursuant to section 2-3-301 (1), C.R.S., of the adjusted dollar amount and the basis for the adjustment. Such written notification shall be given within five working days after such calculation is completed, but such written notification shall be given no later than October 1 of the calendar year.

(III) It is the function of the executive committee of the legislative council to review and approve or disapprove such adjustment of said dollar amount within twenty days after receipt of such written notification from the executive director. Any adjustment that is not approved or disapproved by the executive committee within said twenty days shall be automatically approved; except that, if within said twenty days the executive committee schedules a hearing on such adjustment, such automatic approval shall not occur unless the executive committee does not approve or disapprove such adjustment after the conclusion of such hearing. Any hearing conducted by the executive committee pursuant to this subparagraph (III) shall be concluded no later than twenty-five days after receipt of such written notification from the executive director.

(IV) (A) If the executive committee of the legislative council disapproves any adjustment of said dollar amount calculated by the executive director pursuant to this paragraph (b), the executive committee shall specify such adjusted dollar amount to be utilized by the executive director. Any adjusted dollar amount specified by the executive committee pursuant to this sub-subparagraph (A) shall be calculated in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph (b).

(B) For the purpose of determining whether the use tax rate reduction authorized by paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) is to be allowed for any given income tax year, the executive director shall not utilize any adjusted dollar amount that has not been approved pursuant to subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (b) or otherwise specified pursuant to sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (IV).

(V) If one or more ballot questions are submitted to the voters at a statewide election to be held in November of any calendar year commencing on or after January 1, 2001, that seek authorization for the state to retain and spend all or any portion of the amount of excess state revenues for the state fiscal year ending during said calendar year, the executive director shall not determine whether the use tax rate reduction authorized by paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) shall be allowed and shall not promulgate rules containing said use tax rate reduction until the impact of the results of said election on the amount of the excess state revenues to be refunded is ascertained.

(c) The general assembly finds and declares that reducing the rate of the use tax imposed on the storage, use, or consumption of a new or used commercial truck, truck tractor, tractor, semitrailer, or vehicle used in combination therewith that has a gross vehicle weight rating in excess of twenty-six thousand pounds is a reasonable method of refunding excess state revenues required to be refunded in accordance with section 20 (7) (d) of article X of the state constitution.

(d) Any state use tax rate reduction allowed pursuant to this section shall be published in rules promulgated by the executive director of the department of revenue in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., and shall be included in such notices and publications as are customarily issued by the department of revenue on at least a quarterly basis concerning exemptions from the state sales and use tax.

Law reviews. For article, "Colorado Sales and Use Tax Consequences in Sales of Businesses", see 11 Colo. Law. 679 (1982). For article, "Recent Developments in Colorado Sales and Use Taxes", see 18 Colo. Law. 2101 (1989).

Annotator's note. The following annotations include cases decided under former provisions similar to this section.

Denial of trade-in allowance on out-of-state purchase unconstitutional. It is constitutionally impermissible for the Colorado taxing authorities to deny a trade-in allowance in computing the use tax on a motor vehicle purchased outside the state when such a credit is allowed when the vehicle was purchased in Colorado. Such unequal treatment is discriminatory and constitutes an impermissible burden on interstate commerce. Matthews v. Dept. of Rev., 193 Colo. 44, 562 P.2d 415 (1977).

When issue of material fact existed as to whether general partnership had been assessed with a use tax, trial court erred in entering motion for summary judgment in favor of individual partner on grounds that partner could not be held jointly and severally liable for deficiency owed by partnership. AF Prop. v. Dept. of Rev., 852 P.2d 1267 (Colo. App. 1992).

Use taxes equalize burden between in-state and out-of-state purchasers. Use taxes are enacted primarily to equalize the tax burden as between those who purchase within and without the state. Matthews v. Dept. of Rev., 193 Colo. 44, 562 P.2d 415 (1977).

Use tax is not a separate tax from the sales tax and should not be viewed in isolation. Matthews v. Dept. of Rev., 193 Colo. 44, 562 P.2d 415 (1977).

The use tax is supplementary to the sales tax. Matthews v. Dept. of Rev., 193 Colo. 44, 562 P.2d 415 (1977).

Multiple taxation is to be avoided. CF&I Steel Corp. v. Charnes, 637 P.2d 324 (Colo. 1981).

Use tax no greater than necessary to compensate for earlier avoided sales tax. Given the supplementary nature and equalizing function of the use tax, the burden on the taxpayer should be no greater than necessary to compensate for the sales tax originally avoided on purchases of materials for manufacturing and resale. A levy upon the "full finished goods cost" or "capitalized cost" of goods withdrawn from a company's inventory inevitably would have the effect of taxing the company's labor and overhead. In effect, it would amount to a value added tax. Int'l. Bus. Machs. Corp. v. Charnes, 198 Colo. 374, 601 P.2d 622 (1979).

Only tangible personalty purchased at retail subject to use tax. While the use of tangible personal property may constitute a taxable event, only that tangible personal property purchased at retail is subject to the use tax. CF&I Steel Corp. v. Charnes, 637 P.2d 324 (Colo. 1981).

Use tax liability depends on use, not ownership. Tri-State Generation & Transmission Ass'n v. Dept. of Rev., 636 P.2d 1335 (Colo. App. 1981); AF Prop. v. Dept. of Rev., 852 P.2d 1267 (Colo. App. 1992).

It is the privilege of using property installed in making an improvement on realty that is taxable under this and following sections. The exercise of the privilege of using it results in the incidence of the tax, and no subsequent use, or failure to use, the completed structure can relieve the owner from its payment. Fifteenth St. Inv. Co. v. People, 102 Colo. 571, 81 P.2d 764 (1938).

Party controlling construction project "uses" materials. Where a party shares in the direction and control of a construction project, that party "uses" the materials going into the project for use tax purposes. Tri-State Generation & Transmission Ass'n v. Dept. of Rev., 636 P.2d 1335 (Colo. App. 1981).

Contractors purchasing out-of-state supplies for in-state job liable for tax. Painting and electrical contractors who purchase supplies outside the state and use such supplies in a construction job which is delivered complete for a fixed price are liable for the use tax on the supplies. Craftsman Painters & Decorators, Inc. v. Carpenter, 111 Colo. 1, 137 P.2d 414 (1942).

Purchase of a laundry business is subject to a use tax deficiency assessment upon the privilege of storing, using, or consuming the tangible personal property so purchased in connection therewith. Palmer v. Perkins, 119 Colo. 533, 205 P.2d 785 (1949).

Purchase of bar snacks subject to use tax. Hotel's purchase of bar snacks to promote its bar services is subject to a use tax since the snacks were made available on a complimentary basis and were not purchased for resale. Broadmoor Hotel v. Dept. of Rev., 773 P.2d 627 (Colo. App. 1989).

In considering the meaning of the statutory use tax exemption, the definitions of wholesale and retail sale established by the general assembly differ from the ordinarily accepted general conception of those terms. Bedford v. Colo. Fuel and Iron Corp., 102 Colo. 538, 81 P.2d 752 (1938); Hirschfeld Press v. Denver, 806 P.2d 917 (Colo. 1991).

39-26-204. Periodic return - collection. (1) (a) Every person subject to the provisions of this part 2 who uses, stores, or consumes tangible personal property in the conduct of a business in this state, which property is purchased either inside or outside this state, and who has not paid the sales or use tax imposed by this article to a retailer shall make a return and remit the tax imposed by this part 2 to the executive director of the department of revenue for the preceding period covered by the remittance on forms prescribed by him, showing in detail the tangible personal property stored, used, or consumed by said person in the conduct of his business within the state in the preceding period covered by the remittance and on which property the said sales or use tax has not been paid. Every person subject to the provisions of this part 2 shall maintain monthly records of the amount of tax due. At such time as the cumulative tax due at the end of any month is in excess of three hundred dollars, such person shall make a return and remit the tax due before the twentieth day of the following month. If the total tax due in a calendar year is less than three hundred dollars, such person shall make a single return and remittance for such calendar year before January 20 of the following calendar year.

(b) Every person who is subject to the provisions of this part 2 who uses, stores, or consumes tangible personal property not in the conduct of a business, which is purchased either inside or outside this state, who has not paid the sales or use tax imposed by this article to a retailer, shall make a return and remit the tax annually, at the time the Colorado income tax of such person is due and payable as provided in article 22 of this title, on forms prescribed by the executive director, showing in detail the tangible personal property stored, used, or consumed by said persons within this state for the preceding taxable year.

(c) All such returns shall be subscribed by the taxpayer or his agent and shall contain a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury in the second degree.

(2) Every retailer doing business in this state and making sales of tangible personal property for storage, use, or consumption in the state, and not exempted as provided in part 7 of this article, at the time of making such sales or taking the orders therefor, or, if the storage, use, or consumption of such tangible personal property is not then taxable under this part 2, then at the time such storage, use, or consumption becomes taxable under this part 2, shall collect the tax imposed by section 39-26-202, from the purchaser and give to the purchaser a receipt therefor, which receipt shall identify the property, the date sold or the date ordered, and the tax collected and paid. The tax required to be collected by such retailer from such purchaser shall be displayed separately from the advertised price listed on the forms or advertising matter on all sales checks, orders, sales slips, or other proof of sales.

(3) It is unlawful for such retailer or agent to advertise or hold out or state to the public or to any customer, directly or indirectly, that the tax or any part thereof will be assumed or absorbed by such retailer or agent, or that it will not be added to the selling price of the property sold, or, if added, that it or any part thereof will be refunded. The tax required to be collected by such retailer or agent shall be remitted to the state in like manner as otherwise provided in this article for the remittance of sales taxes collected by retailers, and all such retailers or agents collecting the tax imposed by section 39-26-202 shall make returns on forms provided by the executive director at such times and in such manner as is provided for the making of returns in the payment of the sales taxes. The procedure for assessing and collecting said taxes from such retailers or agents, or from the user when not paid to a retailer or agent, shall be the same as provided in this article and article 21 of this title for the collection of sales taxes, including collection by distraint warrant, and said taxes due and owing from any retailer or agent for the storage, use, or consumption of tangible personal property shall bear interest and be subject to the same penalties as is provided in this article and article 21 of this title for nonpayment or delinquencies of sales taxes.

(4) All sums of money paid by the purchaser to the retailer as taxes imposed by this article shall be and remain public money, the property of the state in the hands of such retailer, and he shall hold the same in trust for the sole use and benefit of the state until paid to the executive director of the department of revenue. For failure to so pay to the executive director, such retailer shall be punished as provided by law.

(5) (a) If a person neglects or refuses to make a return in payment of the tax or to pay any tax as required by this article, the executive director of the department of revenue shall make an estimate, based upon the information that may be available, of the amount of taxes due for the period for which the taxpayer is delinquent and shall add thereto a penalty equal to ten percent thereof and interest on the delinquent taxes at the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5, plus one-half of one percent per month from the date when due. Promptly thereafter, the executive director shall give to the delinquent taxpayer written notice of the estimated taxes, penalty, and interest, which notice shall be sent by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5.

(b) Such estimate shall thereupon become a notice of deficiency as provided in section 39-21-103. At the delinquent taxpayer's request, a hearing shall be held and the executive director shall make a final determination pursuant to said section. 39-26-205. Tax constitutes lien - exemption from lien. (1) The tax imposed by section 39-26-202 shall be a first and prior lien on the tangible personal property stored, used, or consumed, subject only to any valid mortgage or other liens of record on and prior to the recording of notice as required by section 39-26-118 (3), and, when such tax is collected by retailers or agents, shall be a first and prior lien on all the stock of goods or business fixtures of or used by such retailer, excepting goods sold in the ordinary course of business, which lien shall have precedence over all other liens of whatsoever kind or nature, except as to preexisting claims or liens of a bona fide mortgagee, pledgee, judgment creditor, or purchaser whose rights have attached prior to the filing of the notice on property of the taxpayer, other than the goods, stock in trade, and business fixtures of such taxpayer.

(2) Upon default of payment thereof, the executive director of the department of revenue, after demand upon the person owing such tax, may bring an action in his name as executive director in attachment and seize property as authorized by this section to secure the payment of said tax, interest, and penalties. In any such proceeding, no bond shall be required of the executive director, nor shall any sheriff require from the executive director an indemnifying bond for executing the writ of attachment or levy, and no sheriff shall be liable in damages when acting in accordance with such writs. The remedies provided in this section shall be in addition to all other remedies.

(3) Any taxpayer or person in possession shall provide a copy of any lease pertaining to the assets and property described in subsection (1) of this section to the department of revenue within ten days after seizure by the department of such assets and property. The department shall verify that such lease is bona fide and notify the owner that such lease has been received by the department. The department shall use its best efforts to notify the owner of the real or personal property which might be subject to the lien created in subsection (1) of this section. The real or personal property of an owner who has made a bona fide lease to any taxpayer described in subsection (1) of this section shall be exempt from the lien created therein if such property can reasonably be identified from the lease description or if the lessee is given an option to purchase in such lease and has not exercised such option to become the owner of the property leased. This exemption shall be effective from the date of the execution of the lease. Such exemption shall also apply if the lease is recorded with the county clerk and recorder of the county where the property is located or based on a memorandum of the lease is filed with the department of revenue on such forms as may be prescribed by said department after the execution of the lease at a cost for such filing of two dollars and fifty cents per document. Motor vehicles which are properly registered in this state, showing the lessor as owner thereof, shall be exempt from the lien created in subsection (1) of this section; except that said lien shall apply to the extent that the lessee has an earned reserve, allowance for depreciation not to exceed fair market value, or similar interest which is or may be credited to the lessee. Where the lessor and lessee are blood relatives or relatives by law or have twenty-five percent or more common ownership, a lease between such lessee and such lessor shall not be considered as bona fide for purposes of this section.

(3.5) Any coin-operated vending machine or video or other game machine shall be exempt from the lien created in subsection (1) of this section if:

(a) The machine is placed on the retailer's premises under the terms of a lease or other agreement under which the retailer is given no right to become the owner of the machine;

(b) The machine is plainly marked in a location accessible to agents of the department of revenue with information sufficient to permit identification of the owner of said property; and

(c) The owner of the machine has filed with the department of revenue a schedule listing the machine by serial number and including thereon the owner's full name and the address of his business and such other information as the executive director of the department of revenue may require. To protect the anonymity of owners of property, the executive director of the department of revenue may permit the marking of property covered by this subsection (3.5) to be marked using numbers or other coded identification.

(4) Any retailer who is in possession of property under the terms of a lease, which property is exempt from the lien as provided in this section, may be required by the executive director to remit tax funds due at more frequent intervals than monthly, but no more frequently than semimonthly, or may be required to furnish security for the proper payment of taxes whenever the collection of taxes appears to be in jeopardy.

Federal lien possesses priority over inchoate state tax lien. Federal liens take priority over all competing liens except those which are both earlier in time and choate. State taxes, until due, are uncertain in amount, hence lacking in choateness. Dir. of Rev. v. United States, 392 F.2d 307 (10th Cir. 1968).

Lien survives incorporation of sole proprietorship. The department's lien on tangible personal property on which use taxes are due and unpaid may survive the incorporation of a sole proprietorship. Dye Constr. Co. v. Dolan, 41 Colo. App. 293, 589 P.2d 497 (1978).

39-26-206. Failure to make return. Any person who willfully fails or refuses to make the return required in section 39-26-204, or who makes a false or fraudulent return, or who willfully fails to pay any tax owing by him, and any person who aids or abets another in an attempt to evade such tax, shall be punished as provided by section 39-21-118.

39-26-207. Penalty interest on unpaid tax. The executive director of the department of revenue may recover at law the amount of such tax and interest in a suit instituted by the attorney general in the name of the executive director of the department of revenue, and this remedy shall be in addition to all other remedies.

(1) No registration shall be made of a motor or other vehicle for which registration is required and no certificate of title shall be issued for such vehicle or for a mobile home by the department of revenue or its authorized agent until any tax due upon the storage, use, or consumption thereof pursuant to section 39-26-202 or imposed by ordinance of any municipality or resolution of any county has been paid.

(2) If an applicant for registration and certificate of title for any motor or other vehicle or for a certificate of title for a mobile home fails to show payment of the taxes applicable under this section by means of proper receipts therefor, the department of revenue or its authorized agent shall collect all such applicable taxes at the time such application is made.

(3) Revenues due the state and collected pursuant to this section shall be distributed as are other revenues under this part 2, and revenues due any municipality so collected shall be distributed as specified by contract entered into with the department of revenue pursuant to section 24-35-110, C.R.S.

(4) To facilitate collection of taxes as provided in this section, the governing body of each municipality which has imposed a tax upon storage, use, or consumption shall certify to the department of revenue and to the county clerk and recorder of the county in which such municipality is located a true copy of its current applicable tax ordinances and shall likewise certify any subsequent changes therein.

39-26-210. Limitations. The taxes for any period, together with the interest thereon and penalties with respect thereto, imposed by this part 2 shall not be assessed, nor shall any notice of lien be filed, or distraint warrant issued, or suit for collection be instituted, nor any other action to collect the same be commenced, more than three years after the date on which the tax was or is payable; nor shall any lien continue after such period, except for taxes assessed before the expiration of such period, notice of lien with respect to which has been filed prior to the expiration of such period, in which cases such lien shall continue only for one year after the filing of notice thereof. In the case of a false or fraudulent return with intent to evade tax, the tax, together with interest and penalties thereon, may be assessed, or proceedings for the collection of such taxes may be begun at any time. Before the expiration of such period of limitation, the taxpayer and the executive director of the department of revenue may agree in writing to an extension thereof, and the period so agreed on may be extended by subsequent agreements in writing.

ANNOTATION

Section 39-21-107 applicable where use taxes assessed, no return filed. It is the intent of the general assembly that § 39-21-107, rather than this section, should be the controlling statute of limitations in the case where use taxes are assessed but no return is filed. *Dye Constr. (1) Should a dispute arise between the purchaser and seller as to whether or not any sale, service, or commodity is exempt from taxation pursuant to this part 7, nevertheless the seller shall collect and the purchaser shall pay the tax, and the seller shall thereupon issue to the purchaser a receipt showing the tax paid.

(b) The right of any person to a refund under this article shall not be assignable, and, except as provided in paragraph (c) of this subsection (2) and subsection (2.5) of this section, such application for refund shall be made by the same person who purchased the goods and paid the tax thereon as shown in the invoice of the sale.

(c) A refund shall be made or a credit allowed by the executive director of the department of revenue to any person entitled to an exemption where the person establishes: That a tax was paid by another on a purchase made on behalf of such person or that a tax was paid by an independent contractor on or before July 1, 1979, on tangible personal property incorporated into realty for the sole use, benefit, and ownership of any person entitled to an exemption; that a refund has not been granted to the person making the purchase; and that the person entitled to exemption paid or reimbursed the purchaser for such tax. No such refund shall be made or credit allowed in an amount greater than the tax paid less the expense allowance on the purchase retained by the vendor pursuant to section 39-26-105 (1).

(c.5) The executive director of the department of revenue shall make a refund or allow a credit to any person who establishes that he or she has overpaid the tax due pursuant to this article. No such refund shall be made or credit allowed in an amount greater than the tax paid less the expense allowance on the purchase retained by the vendor pursuant to section 39-26-105 (1).

(d) An application for refund under paragraph (c) of this subsection (2) shall be made within three years after the date of purchase and shall be made on forms prescribed and furnished by the executive director of the department of revenue, which form shall contain, in addition to the foregoing information, such pertinent data as the executive director prescribes.

(d.5) Upon receipt of the application and proof of the matters contained therein, the executive director of the department of revenue shall give notice to the applicant by order in writing of the executive director's decision. Aggrieved applicants, within thirty days after such decision is mailed to them, may petition the executive director for a hearing on the claim in the manner provided in section 39-21-103 and may appeal to the district courts in the manner provided in section 39-21-105.

(e) The proceeds of any claim for refund shall first be applied by the department of revenue to any tax deficiencies or liabilities existing against the claimant before allowance of the claim by the department; except that, if such excess payment of tax moneys in any period is discovered as a result of audit by the department and deficiencies are discovered and assessed against the taxpayer as a result of the audit, the excess moneys shall be first applied against any deficiencies outstanding to the date of the assessment but shall not be applied to any future tax liabilities.

(2.5) (a) Within three years after the due date of the return showing the overpayment or one year after the date of overpayment, whichever is later, a vendor shall file any claim for refund with the executive director of the department of revenue. The executive director shall promptly examine such claim and shall make a refund or allow a credit to any vendor who establishes that such vendor overpaid the tax due pursuant to this article.

(b) (I) A vendor may claim a refund on behalf of any purchaser of the vendor if:

(A) The purchaser could timely file a claim for a refund on his or her own behalf; and

(B) The vendor establishes to the satisfaction of the executive director of the department of revenue that the amount claimed, including any interest payable pursuant to section 39-21-110, has been or will actually be paid by the vendor to the purchaser.

(II) Nothing in this paragraph (b) shall prohibit a vendor from taking a credit that the vendor believes to be due on a subsequent period return for an overpayment or for tax collected in error and subsequently refunded to a purchaser; except that such credit shall be subject to audit and shall not bear any interest pursuant to section 39-21-110.

(c) No vendor shall be compelled by any party to file a refund claim pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (2.5). It shall be a complete defense to any claim by a purchaser against a vendor for tax collected in error that the vendor has paid the tax over to the department of revenue. Any action by a purchaser for tax collected by a vendor in error that has been remitted to the department must be made pursuant to subsection (2) of this section and section 39-21-108.

(3) If any person is convicted under the provisions of section 39-21-118, the convictions shall be prima facie evidence that all refunds received by the person during the current year were obtained unlawfully, and the executive director of the department of revenue is empowered to bring appropriate action for recovery of such refunds. A brief summary statement of the above mentioned penalties shall be printed on each form application for refund.

(4) The burden of proving that sales, services, and commodities on which tax refunds are claimed are exempt from taxation under this part 7, or were not at retail, shall be on the one making such claim under such reasonable requirements of proof as the executive director of the department of revenue prescribes. Should the applicant for refund be aggrieved at the final decision of the executive director, the applicant may proceed to have the same reviewed by the district courts in the manner provided for review of other decisions of the executive director as provided in section 39-21-105.

(1) All sales to the United States government and to the state of Colorado, its departments and institutions, and the political subdivisions thereof in their governmental capacities only shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of part 1 of this article.

(2) There shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of part 1 of this article all sales that the state of Colorado is prohibited from taxing under the constitution or laws of the United States or the state of Colorado and all retail sales within a distance of twenty miles within the boundaries of this state to persons resident, excluding corporations, of adjoining states, which adjoining states do not impose or levy a retail sales tax on such sales, if the residents of the adjoining states are in this state for the express purpose of making purchases and not as tourists.

(3) There shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of part 1 of this article all sales and purchases of commodities and services under the provisions of section 39-26-102 (11) to any occupant who is a permanent resident of any hotel, apartment hotel, lodging house, motor hotel, guesthouse, guest ranch, trailer coach, mobile home, auto camp, or trailer court or park and who enters into or has entered into a written agreement for occupancy of a room or accommodations for a period of at least thirty consecutive days during the calendar year or preceding year.

Law reviews. For article, "Home Rule Use-Tax Credits and Interstate Multi-Jurisdictional Transactions", see 30 Colo. Law. 79 (May 2001).

Sales to governmental agencies exempt only when used in governmental capacity. Sales to the United States government and to the state of Colorado, its departments, institutions, and political subdivisions thereof, are exempt under the provisions of the sales and use tax only where they are to be used by them in their "governmental capacities". Sec. Life & Accident Co. v. Heckers, 177 Colo. 455, 495 P.2d 225 (1972).

Governmental exemption not applicable to independent contractor. This section does not embrace a contractor which is neither a branch, agency, or alter ego of the United States government, but merely an independent contractor under contract with the United States government. Temple v. Arthur Venneri Co., 172 Colo. 105, 470 P.2d 576 (1970).

Reimbursement of taxes to contractor cannot exempt sale. The mere fact that a municipiality reimburses a private contractor for taxes does not establish that a sale of goods was made to the municipality and is thus exempt from taxes under subsection (1)(a). Weed v. City of Pueblo, 197 Colo. 52, 591 P.2d 80 (1979).

Insurance companies do not fall within the classifications of the entities exempted under the sales and use tax. Sec. Life & Accident Co. v. Heckers, 177 Colo. 455, 495 P.2d 225 (1972).

No exemption for state chartered credit unions. No exemption as to payment of sales taxes is provided to state chartered credit unions. S.W. Catholic Credit Union v. Charnes, 665 P.2d 626 (Colo. App. 1982).

Railroad is exempt from the sales tax imposed by this section with respect to sales of food and beverages sold by the railroad to passengers on its line pursuant to subparagraph (1)(A)(III) of this section and § 40-20-109. Dept. of Rev. v. Durango & Silverton Narrow Gauge R.R. Co., 989 P.2d 208 (Colo. App. 1999).

City should have imposed sales tax on golf cart rentals because city acted in a proprietary capacity in renting golf carts. Since sales tax had not been collected, requiring city to pay use tax in lieu of sales tax was appropriate. Colo. Dept. of Rev. v. City of Aurora, 32 P.3d 590 (Colo. App. 2001).

39-26-705. Miscellaneous use tax exemptions - printers ink and newsprint - manufactured goods. (1) The storage, use, or consumption of printers ink and newsprint shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of part 2 of this article.

(2) There shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of part 2 of this article the storage, use, or consumption of manufactured goods, including, but not limited to, high technology goods, donated by the manufacturer of such goods to the United States government; the state of Colorado or any department, institution, or political subdivision thereof; or any organization exempt from federal income taxes pursuant to section 501 (c) (3) of the "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, to the extent that the aggregate value of all such goods included in a single donation exceeds one thousand dollars.

(II) Except as allowed in section 39-30-106, on or after July 1, 1996, purchases of machinery or machine tools, or parts thereof, in excess of five hundred dollars to be used in Colorado directly and predominantly in manufacturing tangible personal property, for sale or profit; and

(III) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2008, p. 1323, § 8, effective May 27, 2008.)

(IV) Purchases of machinery and machine tools, or parts thereof, used in the production of electricity in a facility for which a long-term power purchase agreement was fully executed between February 5, 2001, and November 7, 2006, whether or not such purchases are capitalized or expensed.

(b) A parent corporation and all closely held subsidiary corporations, as defined in section 39-26-102 (10) (k), shall be considered one person for the purposes of this section and, as a group, shall be subject to the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1).

(c) As used in this subsection (1):

(I) “Long-term power purchase agreement” means an agreement executed between one or more independent power producers and a provider of retail electric service for a term of no less than ten years, pursuant to which the independent power producer or producers agree to sell all of the production offered for sale from a particular power generation facility for a specified price over a specified term.

(II) “Machinery” means any apparatus consisting of interrelated parts used to produce an article of tangible personal property. The term includes both the basic unit and any adjunct or attachment necessary for the basic unit to accomplish its intended function.

(III) “Manufacturing” means the operation of producing a new product, article, substance, or commodity different from and having a distinctive name, character, or use from raw or prepared materials.

(IV) “Specified price” means a price set by a long-term power purchase agreement that is not dependent on either the cost of production or the market price of electricity; except that a specified price may provide for a percentage increase over time so long as the percentage increase is specified in the original long-term power purchase agreement and is also not dependent on either the cost of production or the market price of electricity.

(d) For purposes of this subsection (1), direct use in manufacturing is deemed to begin for items normally manufactured from inventoried raw material at the point at which raw material is moved from plant inventory on a contiguous plant site and to end at a point at which manufacturing has altered the raw material to its completed form, including packaging, if required. Machinery used during the manufacturing process to move material from one direct production step to another in a continuous flow and machinery used in testing during the manufacturing process is deemed to be directly used in manufacturing.

(e) In order to qualify for the exemption provided in this subsection (1), a purchase shall be of such nature that it would have qualified for the investment tax credit against federal income tax as was provided by section 38 of the federal “Internal Revenue Code of 1954”, as amended.

(f) An exemption may not be claimed under this section for sales tax paid in another state that is credited against Colorado sales tax or use tax or both.

(g) To receive an exemption under this subsection (1), a declaration of entitlement shall be filed by the purchaser with the vendor of the machinery or machine tools, or parts thereof, and with the executive director of the department of revenue.

(2) Effective July 1, 1979, the storage, use, or consumption of machinery or machine tools, or parts thereof, exempt from sales tax by subsection (1) of this section shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of part 2 of this article.

(a) Any right to the continuous possession or use for three years or less of any article of tangible personal property under a lease or contract, if the lessor has paid to the state of Colorado a sales or use tax on such tangible personal property upon its acquisition. The department of revenue may permit a lessor of tangible personal property leased for a period of three years or less to acquire the property free of sales or use tax if the lessor agrees to collect sales tax on all lease payments received on the property.

(b) The transfer of tangible personal property without consideration, other than the purchase, sale, or promotion of the transferor's product, to an out-of-state vendee for use outside of this state in selling products normally sold at wholesale by the transferor;

(c) The sale of tangible personal property for testing, modification, inspection, or similar type of activities in this state if the ultimate use of the property in manufacturing or similar type of activities occurs outside of this state and if the test, modification, or inspection period does not exceed ninety days; and

(d) All sales and purchases of tangible personal property by a manufacturer that uses the property as a component part of goods that it manufactures, including, but not limited to, high technology goods, and that donates such goods to the United States government; the state of Colorado or any department, institution, or political subdivision thereof; or any organization exempt from federal income taxes pursuant to section 501 (c) (3) of the "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, to the extent that the aggregate value of the goods included in a single donation exceeds one thousand dollars.

(2) The following shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of part 2 of this article:

(a) The storage, use, or consumption of any tangible personal property the sale of which is subject to the retail sales tax imposed by part 1 of this article, including transactions that are exempt from taxation under section 39-26-704 (5);

(b) (I) The storage, use, or consumption of any tangible personal property purchased for resale in this state, either in its original form or as an ingredient of a manufactured or compounded product, in the regular course of a business.

(II) For purposes of this paragraph (b), any motor vehicle purchased and held for resale in this state by a licensed motor vehicle dealer, as defined in section 12-6-102 (13), C.R.S., who meets the eligibility requirements to receive a full-use dealer plate set forth in section 42-3-116 (6) (a) (I), C.R.S., shall be considered to be in the regular course of business and shall not be subject to taxation under part 2 of this article. A motor vehicle shall be considered to be purchased and held for resale if:

(A) The manufacturer's certificate of origin or certificate of title for the motor vehicle is assigned to the motor vehicle dealer;

(B) The motor vehicle is included in a current list of vehicles for retail sale that is prepared by the motor vehicle dealer in the ordinary course of business; and

(e) (I) The storage, use, or consumption of tangible personal property by a person engaged in the business of manufacturing or compounding for sale, profit, or use any article, substance, or commodity, which tangible personal property enters into the processing of or becomes an ingredient or component part of the product or service that is manufactured, compounded, or furnished, and the container, label, or the furnished shipping case.

(II) As used in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (e) with regard to food products, tangible personal property enters into the processing of such products and is therefore exempt from taxation when:

(A) It is intended that such property become an integral or constituent part of a food product that is intended to be sold ultimately at retail for human consumption; or

(B) Such property, whether or not it becomes an integral or constituent part of a food product, is a chemical, solvent, agent, mold, skin casing, or other material; is used for the purpose of producing or inducing a chemical or physical change in a food product or is used for the purpose of placing a food product in a more marketable condition; and is directly utilized and consumed, dissipated, or destroyed, to the extent it is rendered unfit for further use, in the processing of a food product that is intended to be sold ultimately at retail for human consumption.

(f) The storage, use, or consumption of any article of tangible personal property the sale or use of which has already been subjected to a tax equal to or in excess of that imposed by part 2 of this article. A credit shall be granted against the use tax imposed by part 2 of this article with respect to a person's storage, use, or consumption in this state of tangible personal property purchased by the person in another state. The amount of the credit shall be equal to the tax paid by the person to another state by reason of the imposition of a similar tax on the purchase or use of the property. (j) The testing, modification, inspection, or similar type activities of tangible personal property acquired for ultimate use outside of this state in manufacturing or similar type of activities if the test, modification, or inspection period does not exceed ninety days.

Annotator's note. Since § 39-26-713 is similar to § 39-26-114 and § 39-26-203 as they existed prior to their 2004 repeal and relocation to this part 7, relevant cases construing those provisions have been included in the annotations to this section.

Denial of trade-in allowance on out-of-state purchases unconstitutional. It is constitutionally impermissible for the Colorado taxing authorities to deny a trade-in allowance in computing the use tax on a motor vehicle purchased outside the state when such a credit is allowed when the vehicle is purchased in Colorado. Such unequal treatment is discriminatory and constitutes an impermissible burden on interstate commerce. Matthews v. State Dept. of Rev., 193 Colo. 44, 562 P.2d 415 (1977).

Use taxes equalize burden between in-state and out-of-state purchasers. Use taxes are enacted primarily to equalize the tax burden as between those who purchase within and without the state. Matthews v. State Dept. of Rev., 193 Colo. 44, 562 P.2d 415 (1977).

Use tax no greater than necessary to compensate for earlier avoided sales tax. Given the supplementary nature and equalizing function of the use tax, the burden on the taxpayer should be no greater than necessary to compensate for the sales tax originally avoided on purchases of materials for manufacturing and resale. A levy upon the "full finished goods cost" or "capitalized cost" of goods withdrawn from a company's inventory inevitably would have the effect of taxing the company's labor and overhead. In effect, it would amount to a value added tax. Int'l Bus. Mchs. Corp. v. Charnes, 198 Colo. 374, 601 P.2d 622 (1979).

In considering the meaning of the statutory use tax exemption, the definitions of wholesale and retail sale established by the general assembly differ from the ordinarily accepted general conception of those terms. Bedford v. Colo. Fuel and Iron Corp., 102 Colo. 538, 81 P.2d 752 (1938); Hirschfeld Press v. Denver, 806 P.2d 917 (Colo. 1991).

The primary purpose of a purchase, as determined by objective criteria, determines whether the purchase is for resale. Hirschfeld Press v. Denver, 806 P.2d 917 (Colo. 1991).

The determination of whether a transaction constitutes a purchase for resale turns on whether the item purchased is acquired primarily for resale in an unaltered condition and basically unused by the purchaser. Hirschfeld Press v. Denver, 806 P.2d 917 (Colo. 1991).

Only price of parts, not labor, taxable. Of the contract prices of elevators installed in a building, that part representing the amount expended for labor is exempt from the tax, the balance representing the cost of materials being taxable. Fifteenth St. Inv. Co. v. People, 102 Colo. 571, 81 P.2d 764 (1938).

Section prevents use tax on property for which sales tax paid. This section is intended to prevent the imposition of a "use" tax on tangible personal property in those instances where the consumer has actually paid to a licensed "vendor" the statutory sales tax due on the sale. J. A. Tobin Constr. Co. v. Weed, 158 Colo. 430, 407 P.2d 350 (1965).

Phrase "in the regular course of a business" in subsection (1)(b) involves a requirement of commercial continuity of consistency. Rose v. Executive Dir. of Dept. of Rev., 42 Colo. App. 319, 593 P.2d 982 (1979).

The question of whether a purchase of an item of personal property is a purchase for resale as contemplated by subsection (1)(b) requires a determination of whether the item is purchased primarily for resale in an unaltered condition and basically unused by the purchaser. Reg'l Transp. Dist. v. Martin Marietta Corp, 805 P.2d 1102 (Colo. 1991).

The use to which the purchaser puts the property will often define the true nature of a particular transaction. The test of whether a purchase of an item of tangible property is a purchase for resale does not emphasize the subjective intent of the purchaser, but rather focuses on the conduct of the purchaser. Reg'l Transp. Dist. v. Martin Marietta Corp, 805 P.2d 1102 (Colo. 1991).

Exemption for tangible personal property purchased for resale in the regular course of business was construed in Martin Marietta v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 772 P.2d 668 (Colo. App. 1989), cert. denied, 785 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1989).

Only property becoming constituent part of finished product entitled to exemption. In order to be exempt under the processing clause of the sales and use tax provisions, tangible personal property purchased by a manufacturer must become a constituent part of the finished product, wholly or partially, by either chemical or mechanical means. CF & I Steel Corp. v. Charnes, 637 P.2d 324 (Colo. 1981).

City should have imposed sales tax on golf cart rentals because city acted in a proprietary capacity in renting golf carts. Since sales tax had not been collected, requiring city to pay use tax in lieu of sales tax was appropriate. Colo. Dept. of Rev. v. City of Aurora, 32 P.3d 590 (Colo. App. 2001).

City liable for use tax on golf cart rentals. City acted in a proprietary capacity in renting golf carts and was therefore liable to the state under § 39-26-105 for sales tax that it failed to collect from customers renting golf carts. Since sales tax had not been collected, requiring city to pay use tax in lieu of sales tax was appropriate.

Colo. Dept. of Rev. v. City of Aurora, 32 P.3d 590 (Colo. App. 2001).

Purchase of communications apparatus by telephone company. The purchase by a telephone company of instruments, apparatus, cable, wire, etc., does not "enter into the processing of" the service rendered by the company, and therefore is not exempt from the sales and use tax. Western Elec. Co. v. Weed, 185 Colo. 340, 524 P.2d 1369 (1974).

Components of beer manufacturer's load-out facility and the brewing adjunct used by the manufacturer were exempt from use tax pursuant to subsections (1)(y) and (1)(f), respectively. Coors Brewing Co. v. Fagan, 949 P.2d 110 (Colo. App. 1997).

39-26-714. Vending machines - definitions. (1) (a) Every vendor selling individual items of personal property through vending machines shall pay a sales tax pursuant to section 39-26-106 (2) (b) on the personal property sold in excess of fifteen cents through the vending machines unless the sale is otherwise exempt under the provisions of this part 7.

(b) To be eligible for the exemption provided for in this subsection (1), each vendor shall:

(I) Be licensed under section 39-26-103;

(II) Maintain a record of the identification number, ownership, location, and disposition of every vending machine used by the vendor in his or her operation as a vendor;

(III) Within sixty days after commencing business as such vendor, submit to the department of revenue an accurate list containing the information required under subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b) and submit such list annually thereafter on January 1, commencing in 1971;

(IV) Make application to the department of revenue for identification numbers to be affixed to every such vending machine, in accordance with rules promulgated by the executive director of the department of revenue;

(V) Remit a fee of ten cents per machine with the application submitted under subparagraph (IV) of this paragraph (b), to defray the expenses of the department of revenue in furnishing the identification numbers; except that the executive director of the department of revenue by rule or as otherwise provided by law may reduce the amount of the fee if necessary pursuant to section 24-75-402 (3), C.R.S., to reduce the uncommitted reserves of the fund to which all or any portion of the fee is credited. After the uncommitted reserves of the fund are sufficiently reduced, the executive director by rule or as otherwise provided by law may increase the amount of the fee as provided in section 24-75-402 (4), C.R.S.

(c) Any unregistered vending machine found being used for retail sales at any place in this state without the prescribed identification number affixed thereto may be seized without warrant by the department of revenue, its agents, or employees or by any peace officer when directed or requested by the department. At the time of seizure, written notice of seizure shall be given to the proprietor or person in charge of the business, or to the agents or employees of the proprietor or person in charge of the business, where the vending machine is seized. The department shall also give notice by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5 to the person whose name and mailing address appear on the machine. The department shall not be required to seize and confiscate any unregistered vending machine or assess a penalty when there is reason to believe that the owner is not intentionally evading the tax imposed by this article.

(d) In addition to any other penalty provided by law, the department of revenue is authorized to assess and collect a penalty of twenty-five dollars for each unregistered vending machine being operated in this state.

(e) Upon proof of ownership, the department of revenue shall deliver to the owner any vending machine seized under paragraph (c) of this subsection (1) after payment of the twenty-five-dollar penalty and seizure costs, if the owner is liable therefor, and upon registration of the machine. At the expiration of sixty days after the date of notice, any unregistered vending machine and the contents therein still in the possession of the department may be sold at public sale to the highest bidder, but, prior to any such sale, ten days' notice of the sale shall be given by first-class mail as set forth in section 39-21-105.5 to those entitled to notice under paragraph (c) of this subsection (1).

(2) On and after January 1, 2000, all sales and purchases of food, as defined in section 39-26-102 (4.5), by or through vending machines shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of part 1 of this article; except that, on and after May 1, 2010, sales and purchases of candy and soft drinks by or through vending machines shall be subject to state sales taxation. Absent an express provision in the contract to the contrary, any vending machine contract that references the price at which products shall be sold from a vending machine shall be interpreted to include any applicable sales tax as an addition to the referenced price.

(3) On and after January 1, 2000, the storage, use, or consumption of food, as defined in section 39-26-102 (4.5), purchased by or through vending machines shall be exempt from taxation under the provisions of part 2 of this article; except that, on and after May 1, 2010, the storage, use, or consumption of candy and soft drinks purchased by or through vending machines shall be subject to state use taxation.

(4) For the purposes of this section:

Law reviews. For article, "State and Local Sales and Use Tax Exemptions for Colorado Charitable Organizations", see 29 Colo. Law. 55 (August 2000).

The definition of "charitable organization" in a municipal tax code lends itself to two conflicting plain-meaning interpretations. In the first interpretation, in order to be eligible for a sales and use tax exemption, both religious and nonreligious charitable organizations must meet strict guidelines; in the second, a distinction is made between religious and charitable organizations, and the guidelines apply only to those organizations whose functions are nonreligious in nature. The court is obligated to support the first interpretation so as to avoid invoking a violation of the establishment clause of the federal constitution. Catholic Health Initiatives Colo. v. City of Pueblo, 207 P.3d 812 (Colo. 2009).

Tax incentives that inure only to the benefit of religious organizations solely by virtue of their religious nature violate the establishment clause. Catholic Health Initiatives Colo. v. City of Pueblo, 207 P.3d 812 (Colo. 2009).

A sales or use tax exemption for a charitable organization, whether religious or secular, must serve a broad, secular purpose. Catholic Health Initiatives Colo. v. City of Pueblo, 207 P.3d 812 (Colo. 2009).

Company purchases made for charitable functions exempt. Purchases made by a company in connection with its charitable functions and activities, regardless of the nature of its ordinary business, are exempt from the operation of this article. Bedford v. Colo. Fuel & Iron Corp., 102 Colo. 538, 81 P.2d 752 (1938).

Only purchases used in regular charitable activities. Only those purchases by charitable organizations which are for use in the conduct of their regular charitable functions and activities are exempt from the sales and use tax. Sec. Life & Accident Co. v. Heckers, 177 Colo. 455, 495 P.2d 225 (1972).

Purchases by charitable organizations for use in charitable functions exempt. Those purchases by charitable organizations which are for use in the conduct of their regular charitable functions and activities are exempt from the sales and use tax. Sec. Life & Accident Co. v. Heckers, 177 Colo. 455, 495 P.2d 225 (1972).

Fraternal benevolent societies are not exempt from sales taxes that were not contemplated in 1911 when they were declared to be "charitable and benevolent institution[s]" when such sales tax was first adopted in 1935 and the legislature imposed the tax on "all sales and purchases of tangible personal property at retail". This is particularly true if the legislation that created the tax listed specific exemptions that did not include fraternal benevolent societies. Colo. Dept. of Rev. v. Woodmen of the World, 919 P.2d 806 (Colo. 1996).

The reintroduction of the words "and every" to a phrase making it read "all and every state tax" does not strengthen and reaffirm the broad scope of the exemption for fraternal benefit societies, it merely was replaced after being determined by the revisor of statutes to be redundant. The meaning of the phrase remains unchanged. Colo. Dept. of Rev. v. Woodmen of the World, 919 P.2d 806 (Colo. 1996).

Applied in First Lutheran Mission v. Dept. of Rev., 44 Colo. App. 417, 613 P.2d 351 (1980).

Part 1 of article does not violate interstate commerce clause of federal constitution. State v. Tolbert, 98 Colo. 433, 56 P.2d 45 (1936).

The title of the underlying statutory act is sufficiently broad under § 21 of art. V, Colo. Const., to include the transportation of gasoline and distributors' licenses. State v. Tolbert, 98 Colo. 433, 56 P.2d 45 (1936).

39-27-102. Tax imposed on gasoline and special fuel - deposits - penalties.

(1) (a) (I) An excise tax is imposed and shall be collected on all gasoline or special fuel acquired, sold, offered for sale, or used in this state for any purpose whatsoever, but only one tax shall be paid upon the same gasoline or special fuel in this state. Except as otherwise provided in this subparagraph (I), no more than three tax-deferred transactions shall take place after the gasoline or special fuel has left the terminal of its origin, either within or outside of this state; except that, for purposes of counting the applicable transactions in order to collect the tax imposed by this subparagraph (I), counting shall begin when the gasoline or special fuel first enters this state, whether by truck or by rail. If more than three distributors acquire the gasoline or special fuel, the third distributor shall be liable for payment of the tax imposed. Nothing in this paragraph (a) shall preclude previous distributors from paying the tax. A distributor shall not be required to pay tax on gasoline or special fuel that is exempt pursuant to section 39-27-103 (2). The tax imposed shall be computed upon the total amount of gasoline or special fuel, measured in gallons, acquired by each distributor in this state and shall be paid in the manner provided in this section.

(II) (A) The excise tax imposed on gasoline by subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) shall be twenty cents per gallon or fraction thereof from August 1, 1989, through December 31, 1990, and twenty-two cents per gallon or fraction thereof for calendar years beginning on and after January 1, 1991.

(B) The excise tax imposed on special fuel by subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) shall be twenty and one-half cents per gallon or a fraction thereof for calendar years beginning on and after January 1, 1992.

(III) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2005, p. 863, § 1, effective July 1, 2005.)

(IV) (A) The excise tax imposed by subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) shall be six cents per gallon or fraction thereof on gasoline used as fuel for the propulsion of nonturbo-propeller or nonjet engine aircraft and shall be four cents per gallon or fraction thereof on gasoline used as fuel for the propulsion of turbo-propeller or jet engine aircraft.

(B) The provisions of this subparagraph (IV) shall not apply to domestic or foreign part 121 air carriers as defined in section 39-27-101 (19) or part 135 commuter air carriers as defined in section 39-27-101 (20) authorized to provide passenger and cargo air transportation services pursuant to the regulations of the office of the secretary of transportation and federal aviation administration of the United States department of transportation. The provisions of this subparagraph (IV) also shall not apply to direct air carriers as defined in section 39-27-101 (6), providing air transportation to authorized public charter operators pursuant to 14 CAR 380. For those air carriers that are certificated by the United States department of transportation for both part 121 air carrier operations and part 135 on-demand operations, the provisions of this sub-subparagraph (B) shall not apply to the air carrier's part 135 on-demand operations.

(C) Based upon reports submitted by wholesalers or distributors pursuant to the provisions of this article, the department of revenue shall compile a monthly report showing the amount of excise taxes collected on gasoline pursuant to the provisions of this subparagraph (IV). Such monthly report shall be transmitted to the division of aeronautics created in section 43-10-103, C.R.S., for use by the division in distributing moneys in the aviation fund in accordance with section 43-10-110, C.R.S.

(V) In the case of a user, the tax imposed by this section shall be measured by the gallons of special fuel imported into this state or acquired without payment of the tax imposed by this section and used in the propulsion of a motor vehicle on the highways of this state.

(b) In the case of gasoline or special fuel shipped to a distributor from a terminal, the amount of gasoline or special fuel acquired shall be deemed to be the amount shipped from the terminal, as shown by the terminal manifest; except that an allowance of two percent of the total amount of gasoline or special fuel acquired during any calendar month, as shown by terminal manifests, shall be deducted by the licensed distributor to cover losses in transit and in unloading the gasoline or special fuel and costs of collection and payment to the state of the tax imposed by this section, out of which allowance the distributor shall make to each retailer an allowance of one percent of the amount of gasoline or special fuel delivered during each calendar month by the distributor to the retailer, as shown by delivery invoices signed by the retailer. The tax imposed by this section shall be exempted on each recorded and reported sale by a distributor to the United States, or any of its agencies, and to any town, city, county, city and county, special district, or school district when the sale involves a single delivery and the gasoline or special fuel is used exclusively by the governmental entity in performing its governmental functions and activities. The exemption shall apply solely to machines owned or operated by the United States or any of its agencies, by the state, or by any town, city, county, city and county, school district, or other political division of the state. Exemptions for persons conducting business for such governmental entities on a contract basis using an aircraft shall be based solely on the applicable operating certificate of the aircraft operator pursuant to sub-subparagraph (B) of subparagraph (IV) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). Any governmental entity referred to in this paragraph (b) shall obtain an exemption certificate from the executive director of the department of revenue. Upon receipt of an exemption certificate, such governmental entity may purchase gasoline or special fuel from a distributor without payment of the excise tax imposed pursuant to this part 1 if the gasoline or special fuel is used exclusively by the governmental entity in performing its governmental functions and activities.

(2) (a) Every person who uses any gasoline or special fuel for propelling a motor vehicle on the public highways of this state or who is licensed to import any gasoline or special fuel into this state for use or sale in this state, upon which gasoline or special fuel a licensed distributor has not paid or is not liable to pay the tax imposed in this section, is deemed to be a distributor and is liable for and shall pay an excise tax at a rate established by paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section on all such gasoline or special fuel so used, or imported for use or sale, in this state. Such person shall pay such tax to the department of revenue, pursuant to section 39-27-105.3, on or before the twenty-sixth day of the calendar month following the month in which such gasoline or special fuel was used or imported and shall, at the time of payment, render to the department, on forms provided by it, an itemized statement, signed under the penalties of perjury in the second degree, as defined in section 18-8-503, C.R.S., of all such gasoline or special fuel so used or imported during such preceding calendar month. When such gasoline or special fuel is delivered from a terminal in a carload lot, the quantity thereof and the amount of tax thereon shall be computed in the same manner as in the case of a distributor.

(b) A person operating a passenger car into this state may bring into the state, for the operation of such passenger car, not more than the capacity for gasoline or special fuel in the ordinary fuel tank attached to such passenger car without being liable for payment of the tax on such gasoline or special fuel. Any person operating a motor truck or motor bus into this state, except those persons operating a qualified motor vehicle pursuant to motor fuel tax cooperative agreement entered into under part 3 of this article, may bring into this state, for the operation of such motor truck or motor bus, not more than the capacity for gasoline or special fuel in the ordinary fuel tank attached to such motor truck or motor bus without being liable for payment of the tax on such gasoline or special fuel. Any person operating an aircraft into this state, other than an aircraft operated by scheduled air carriers or commuter airline operators, may bring into this state, for the operation of such aircraft, not more than the capacity for gasoline or special fuel in the ordinary fuel tank attached to such aircraft without being liable for payment of the tax on such gasoline or special fuel. In the event of a disagreement between the operator, driver, or owner of any vehicle, truck, or bus and any officer or inspector of this state regarding the capacity of the ordinary fuel tank of any vehicle traveling upon the highways, the operator, driver, or owner shall be required, at his or her own expense, to prove to the satisfaction of the officer or inspector the capacity of the ordinary fuel tank attached to such vehicle, and, in the event it exceeds that exempted by law, he or she shall be required to pay the tax on any additional gallonage then and there, securing a receipt from the officer or inspector with whom such disagreement occurred.

(c) and (d) Repealed.

(2.5) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section, every person who imports gasoline or special fuel into this state for use or sale in this state without a valid importer, supplier, blender, or distributor license is liable for and shall pay an excise tax pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section on all gasoline or special fuel such person imports for use or sale in this state. In addition to the excise tax, such person shall be subject to the civil penalties set forth in subsection (9) of this section. Immediately upon discovery of a violation of this subsection (2.5), the department of revenue and agents thereof may demand payment of such excise tax and all applicable fines associated with the unlicensed importation of gasoline or special fuel and may detain the shipment of gasoline or special fuel until such excise tax and fines are collected.

(3) to (8) Repealed.

(9) (a) Any person who imports or distributes gasoline or special fuel into this state without a license shall be subject to the following civil penalties:

(I) A five-thousand-dollar fine for the first violation;

(II) A ten-thousand-dollar fine for the second violation;

(III) A fifteen-thousand-dollar fine for a third or subsequent violation.

(b) The executive director of the department of revenue is authorized to waive, for good cause shown, any civil penalty assessed pursuant to this subsection (9).

(c) All moneys collected pursuant to this subsection (9) shall be credited to the highway users tax fund, created in section 43-4-201, C.R.S., and allocated and expended as specified in section 43-4-205 (5.5) (a), C.R.S.

(10) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit the criminal prosecution of any person who commits a criminal offense in connection with or as a result of violating any provision of this part 1.

Both acts contained a July 1, 1991, effective date. However the Governor did not sign the act enacted at the First Extraordinary Session until July 5. The act contained in chapter 1 from the First Extraordinary Session was subject to an interrogatory submitted to the Supreme Court by the Governor. The court held the act constitutional on its face. ANNOTATION Subsection (1)(a)(III) held constitutional. Archer Daniels Midland Co. v. State, 690 P.2d 177 (Colo. 1984).

General assembly has the power to tax gasoline used in propelling motor vehicles on the streets of home-rule cities. People v. City & County of Denver, 90 Colo. 598, 10 P.2d 1106 (1932).

The excise tax provided in this section is a tax which in its discretion the general assembly, as the coordinate law-making branch of the government, has ample power to impose. State v. Tolbert, 98 Colo. 433, 56 P.2d 45 (1936).

Tax imposed deemed excise, not property, tax. The tax imposed on the various products of petroleum offered for sale or used for power purposes in propelling motor vehicles is an excise, and not a property, tax. Altitude Oil Co. v. People, 70 Colo. 452, 202 P. 180 (1921), appeal dismissed per curiam, 260 U.S. 693, 43 S. Ct. 11, 67 L. Ed. 467 (1922); People v. City & County of Denver, 84 Colo. 576, 272 P. 629 (1928).

Tax is not tax on gasoline, but on right to sell it, offer it for sale, or use it to propel motor vehicles. People v. City & County of Denver, 84 Colo. 576, 272 P. 629 (1928).

Tax is not only an excise tax but it is indirect tax, and taxes of this character, if not always, usually are levied upon and collected from a person other than the one who ultimately pays them. It is competent for the lawmakers to require payment in the first instance by the seller and for him, in turn, to pass it on to the user. Miller v. People, 76 Colo. 157, 230 P. 603, 39 A.L.R. 269 (1924).

Distributor receiving product prima facie liable for tax. The one who first receives the fuel product in this state which he sells or offers to sell to a consumer is prima facie liable for the amount of the tax on the number of gallons so received. Miller v. People, 76 Colo. 157, 230 P. 603, 39 A.L.R. 269 (1924).

Although he neglects or intentionally refuses to collect from user. It would be a novel doctrine to announce that a dealer, who is made primarily liable for a tax, may escape payment merely because he neglects or intentionally refuses to collect it from the one ultimately liable, to whom he sells and from whom the law gives him the right to reimburse himself. Miller v. People, 76 Colo. 157, 230 P. 603 (1924).

No tax can be levied on gasoline sold to the United States. People v. Texas Co., 85 Colo. 289, 275 P. 896 (1929).

This exemption applies to purchases of gasoline by the United States for sale in exchange service stations on military reservations in this state. U.S. v. State of Colo., 666 F. Supp. 1479 (D. Colo. 1987) (decided prior to 1988 amendment to subsection (1)(b)).

Allowance for losses in transit and unloading not statutory "exemption". The two percent allowance to cover losses in unloading and transit granted in subsection (1)(b) is not an "exemption" within the meaning of the rule that if a taxpayer claims an exemption under a taxing statute the burden is on him to establish clearly his right to it. Champlin Ref. Co. v. Cruse, 115 Colo. 329, 173 P.2d 213 (1946).

Injunction maintainable to restrain use of motor fuel on which tax not paid. Although the violation of this section is made a crime by § 39-27-103, a suit for an injunction may be maintained by the state to restrain the use of motor fuel upon which the statutory tax has not been paid, as provided by this section. State v. Tolbert, 98 Colo. 433, 56 P.2d 45 (1936).

Distributor's eligibility for five-cent reduction in fuel tax for alcohol-blended fuels is to be determined on the basis of quantity of alcohol actually produced and sold for fuel, not on the basis of production capacity. Western Refining v. Dept. of Rev., 767 P.2d 772 (Colo. App. 1988).

Applied in Armstrong v. Driscoll Constr. Co., 107 Colo. 218, 110 P.2d 651 (1941).

39-27-102.5. Exemptions on tax imposed - ex-tax purchases.

(1) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2005, p. 866, § 2, effective July 1, 2005.)

(1.5) Except as otherwise provided in paragraphs (a) and (b) of subsection (2) of this section, paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of this section, and section 39-27-102 (1) (b), indelible dye meeting federal regulations must be added to special fuel before or upon withdrawal at a terminal or refinery rack for that special fuel to be exempt from the excise tax imposed pursuant to this part 1. Such tax-exempt special fuel shall not be used for taxable purposes; except that dyed special fuel may be used for a taxable purpose to the extent that such use is allowed under federal law or regulations with such fuel being subject to the excise tax imposed pursuant to this part 1. For purposes of this subsection (1.5), "taxable purpose" means any use on which an excise tax on special fuel is imposed pursuant to this part 1. The terminal operator shall ensure that tax-exempt special fuel is dyed before it leaves the terminal. The seller shall give notice to the purchaser in accordance with federal regulations that the dyed special fuel is not legal for taxable use.

(2) (a) Dyed diesel fuel purchased to propel farm vehicles, when the same are being used on farms and ranches, farm tractors, and implements of husbandry only incidentally operated or moved on a highway, when operated off the public highways, and vehicles or construction equipment operated within the confines of highway construction projects when the same are actually being used in the construction of such highways shall be exempt from the excise tax imposed pursuant to this part 1. In accordance with section 39-27-104 (1) (d.5), dyed diesel fuel may be blended by a licensed distributor with biodiesel fuel after withdrawal at a terminal or refinery rack up to the maximum federally allowable blend. Such blended special fuel shall be exempt from the excise tax imposed pursuant to this part 1, so long as it is purchased for the purposes set forth in this paragraph (a). A person who purchases undyed special fuel for the purposes set forth in this paragraph (a) may, in accordance with section 39-27-103, apply to the department of revenue for a refund of the excise tax paid thereon.

(b) (I) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2005, p. 866, § 2, effective July 1, 2005.)

(II) Dyed diesel purchased by the state of Colorado, any of its agencies, any town, city, county, city and county, school district of this state, or any other political subdivision of this state shall be exempt from the excise tax imposed pursuant to this part 1 if the special fuel is used exclusively by the governmental entity in performing its governmental functions and activities. A person who purchases dyed diesel fuel for the purposes set forth in this subparagraph (II) may, in accordance with section 39-27-103, apply to the department of revenue for a refund of the excise tax paid thereon.

(III) Any state or local governmental entity referred to in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b) may obtain an exemption certificate from the executive director of the department of revenue pursuant to subsection (3) of this section. Upon receipt of an exemption certificate, such governmental entity may purchase from a distributor undyed special fuel without payment of the excise tax imposed pursuant to this part 1 if the special fuel is used exclusively by the governmental entity in performing its governmental functions and activities.

(c) Any person operating a vehicle other than a qualified motor vehicle pursuant to the motor fuel tax cooperative agreement entered into under part 3 of this article may bring into this state for the operation of such vehicle only the amount of special fuel that is in the ordinary fuel tank attached to such vehicle without being liable for the payment of the tax under this part 1.

(3) (a) The tax collected by the distributor pursuant to this section is deemed to have been received by the distributor at the time such fuel is acquired irrespective of when payment is received by the distributor for the amount of the invoice, including the tax, and the tax required to be collected by the distributor constitutes a debt owed by the distributor to this state.

(b) The executive director of the department of revenue shall issue an exemption certificate to a user of special fuel to purchase undyed special fuel from a distributor without payment of the tax if such user is exempt under the provisions of paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section.

(c) With each sale of special fuel made without payment of the tax pursuant to this subsection (3), the distributor shall secure evidence that the user has authorization from the executive director of the department of revenue to purchase special fuel ex-tax, together with the distributor's name and address and such other information as the executive director may require.

(4) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2000, p. 1932, § 15, effective October 1, 2000.)

(5) (a) The tax imposed by section 39-27-102 (1) (a) (II) (B) shall not apply to any motor vehicle that has been registered in this state, that is powered by liquefied petroleum gas or natural gas, and for which a valid decal has been acquired as provided in this subsection (5). The owners or operators of such motor vehicles shall, in lieu of the tax imposed under section 39-27-102 (1) (a) (II) (B), pay an annual license tax fee on each such vehicle in accordance with the following schedule of motor vehicle gross weights:

Gross Weight in Pounds	Annual License Tax Fee
(I) 1-10,000	$ 70.00
(II) 10,001-16,000	100.00
(III) Over 16,000	125.00

(b) The executive director of the department of revenue shall annually, starting January 1 of each year commencing in 1984, collect or cause to be collected from owners or operators of the motor vehicles specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) the annual license tax fee. Applications for such licenses shall be supplied by the department of revenue. In the case of a motor vehicle that is purchased or converted to liquefied petroleum gas or natural gas by January 1 of any year, a license shall be purchased for a fractional period of such year, and the amount of the license tax shall be reduced by one-twelfth for each complete month that shall have elapsed since the beginning of such year.

(c) Upon payment of the tax required by this subsection (5), the executive director of the department of revenue shall issue a decal, which shall be valid for the current calendar year and shall be attached to the upper right-hand corner of the front windshield on the motor vehicle for which it was issued.

(d) The identifying decal and license tax fee paid for each motor vehicle shall be transferable upon a change of ownership of the motor vehicle. Such transfer shall be accomplished in accordance with rules promulgated by the executive director of the department of revenue.

(e) It is unlawful for any person to operate a motor vehicle required to have a liquefied petroleum gas or natural gas decal upon the highways of this state without such decal unless such motor vehicle is titled outside Colorado and all Colorado purchases are taxed pursuant to section 39-27-102 (1) (a) (II) (B) or such vehicle is otherwise exempt from the provisions of this part 1.

(f) No person shall put, or cause to be put, liquefied petroleum gas or natural gas into the fuel tank of a motor vehicle required to have a liquefied petroleum gas or natural gas decal unless the motor vehicle has such decal attached to it or written or electronic evidence that a valid decal has been acquired for the motor vehicle and such evidence has been provided to such person or such person's employer. Sales of fuel placed in the fuel tank of a motor vehicle not displaying such decal or otherwise evidencing acquisition of a valid decal and for which the distributor is obligated to collect the tax specified by section 39-27-102 (1) (a) (II) (B) shall be recorded upon an invoice, which invoice shall include the date, the motor vehicle license number, the number of gallons or, in the case of natural gas, the energy equivalent in gallons placed in such fuel tank, and the tax due thereon.

(g) Any person violating any provision of this subsection (5) is subject to the penalty provisions of sections 39-27-114 and 39-27-120.

(h) Motor vehicles displaying a liquefied petroleum gas or natural gas decal are exempt from the licensing and reporting requirements stated in the remainder of this part 1.

(6) (a) The department of revenue shall promulgate rules allowing for payment of the annual license tax fee, if applicable, and acquisition of the decal as set forth in subsection (5) of this section by a user directly from a vendor or distributor of liquefied petroleum gas or natural gas.

(b) Such rules shall permit each vendor or distributor who participates in the program to return decals that are not issued by the vendor or distributor and remit the applicable annual license tax fees collected by the vendor or distributor not earlier than one hundred twenty days from the time decals are supplied to the vendor or distributor by the department of revenue.

(7) Motor vehicles that are owned or operated by a nonprofit transit agency that receives public funds and that are used exclusively in performing the agency's nonprofit functions and activities shall be exempt from the provisions of subsection (5) of this section and from the special fuel tax imposed by section 39-27-102 (1) (a) (II) (B) upon liquefied petroleum gas and natural gas. A person who purchases special fuel for the purposes set forth in this subsection (7) may, in accordance with section 39-27-103, apply to the department of revenue for a refund of the excise tax paid thereon.

(8) The department of revenue is authorized to promulgate reasonable rules, consistent with this part 1, concerning annual license tax fees collected and decals issued pursuant to subsections (5) and (6) of this section, including, but not limited to, reporting procedures, reporting forms, and the penalties described in sections 39-27-114 and 39-27-120.

39-27-103. Refunds - penalties - checkoff. (1) A credit or refund shall be allowed for the tax paid or accrued on gasoline or special fuel that is lost or destroyed by fire, lightning, flood, windstorm, explosion, accident, or other cause beyond the control of the distributor or transporter of such gasoline or special fuel. This credit or refund shall be allowed only on gasoline or special fuel in quantities of one hundred gallons or more lost or destroyed at any one time. Any loss of gasoline or special fuel while in transit or while being loaded or unloaded shall be subject to credit or refund under this section. After any such loss or destruction, the distributor or transporter shall notify the executive director of the department of revenue within thirty days of such loss or destruction and, within the same deadline, shall file with the executive director proof sufficient to establish the loss or destruction as the executive director may require.

(1.5) A refund shall be allowed to a distributor for the tax paid on gasoline or special fuel pursuant to the provisions of this part 1 that was erroneously paid due to mistake of fact, law, or computation. A distributor who has paid any such tax may, within three years from the date of payment thereof, file with the department of revenue an application for refund of such tax so erroneously paid. Such application shall be on such forms as prescribed by the department of revenue.

(2) Refund shall be made or credit allowed for the tax paid on all gasoline or special fuel that is purchased and used exclusively, pursuant to section 39-27-102 (1) (b) by the United States or any of its agencies or by the state or by any town, city, county, or other political subdivision of the state, including specifically any school district therein, solely in any machines owned or operated by the United States or any of its agencies or by the state or by such town, city, county, school district, or other political subdivision of the state. Any other use or any resale for any other use shall be a violation of paragraph (c) of subsection (3) of this section.

(3) (a) (I) Any person who purchases gasoline or special fuel and pays the tax thereon at the time of such purchase shall be entitled to a refund by the controller, upon voucher certified by the department of revenue of the amount of such tax paid by him or her upon complying with the applicable conditions and provisions of this section, if the gasoline or special fuel is used for the purpose of:

- (A) Operating a stationary gas engine;
- (B) Operating a motor vehicle on or over fixed rails;
- (C) Operating a tractor, truck, or other farm implement or machine for agricultural purposes on a farm or ranch;
- (D) Operating a state-licensed agricultural applicator aircraft from a private landing facility used solely and exclusively for agricultural applications, to the extent of fifty percent of taxes payable pursuant to section 39-27-102 (1) (a) (IV);
- (E) Operating a motor boat;
- (F) Operating an aircraft by a part 121 air carrier as defined in section 39-27-101 (19), a part 135 commuter air carrier as defined in section 39-27-101 (20), or a direct air carrier as defined in section 39-27-101 (6) providing transportation to an authorized public charter operator pursuant to 14 CAR 380;
- (G) Cleaning or dyeing;
- (H) Any commercial use other than the operation of a motor vehicle upon the highways of this state and the operation of any aircraft other than the operation of aircraft specified in sub-paragraphs (D) and (F) of this subparagraph (I); or
- (I) Any other use that entitles a person to a refund under the provisions of this part 1 or federal law.

(II) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, no person shall be entitled to a refund on purchases of gasoline or special fuel in quantities of less than twenty gallons.

(III) The executive director of the department of revenue shall calculate the amount of the refund allowed by subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) for gasoline or special fuel use in accordance with the industry-specific percentages of such fuel use exempted by said subparagraph (I) that can be justified by studies done by industries that use the fuel for such exempt purposes, studies done by other states for refunds of tax imposed on the fuel used for such exempt purposes, or studies done by the department about the historical fuel usage for such exempt purposes. The executive director shall set such percentages by rule promulgated in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S.

(a.3) (I) Any person who purchases or uses gasoline for the propulsion of an aircraft shall be entitled to a refund by the controller if:

(A) The use of such gasoline in such aircraft is subject to the excise tax levied pursuant to section 39-27-102 (1) (a) (IV) (A); and

(B) The excise tax actually paid was the excise tax levied pursuant to section 39-27-102 (1) (a) (II).

(II) The amount of such refund shall be the difference between the amount actually paid pursuant to section 39-27-102 (1) (a) (II) and the amount that should have been paid pursuant to section 39-27-102 (1) (a) (IV) as certified by the department of revenue.

(b) All applicants claiming a refund under the provisions of this section shall obtain a refund permit from the department of revenue by application therefor on such forms as it prescribes. Such permits shall be obtained before or at the time the first application for refund is made. The application shall be made under oath and shall contain, among other things, the name, address, and occupation of the applicant, and the nature of the business, and a sufficient description of the machines and equipment in which the gasoline or special fuel is to be used for which a refund may be claimed. Upon approval of the application, the department of revenue shall issue to the applicant a refund permit number, and refund claim forms with the approved exemption percentage to calculate the amount of the refund allowed. The department shall make additional copies of the application for refund forms available to dealers. It is the duty of the department of revenue to keep a record for twenty-four months of all permits issued and cumulative records of the amount of refund claimed and paid thereon.

(c) Refund permits shall be cancelled by the department of revenue if no claim is filed by the permit holder for a period of twenty-four months. If any person makes any false statement in an application for a permit or upon any claim for refund or submits with any claim for refund an invoice that does not represent a bona fide purchase of gasoline or special fuel at the time and place and in the quantity indicated on the invoice, or if any dealer or other person prepares an invoice that does not represent a bona fide sale of gasoline or special fuel at the time and place and in the quantity indicated in the invoice, or if any person uses gasoline or special fuel on which refunds are claimed in any motor vehicle on the public highways of this state, except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, said person or dealer is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. In addition, the executive director shall forthwith cancel the permit of such person, and such person shall not be issued a new permit within one year after such cancellation.

(d) Application for a refund under this section shall be made within twelve months after the date of purchase of the gasoline or special fuel but not more than once each calendar quarter. Such application shall be made on forms prescribed and furnished by the executive director, which shall contain such information as the executive director may deem necessary. At the time of making each sale and delivery of gasoline or special fuel upon which a refund of tax may be claimed, the dealer shall prepare an invoice, in duplicate, in a form approved by the executive director and containing such information as the executive director may deem necessary and carrying a serial number that shall not be repeated through any one calendar year. No additional invoices covering the same sale and delivery of gasoline or special fuel shall be issued by the dealer. The original copy of such invoice shall be delivered to the purchaser of the gasoline or special fuel, and, upon payment in full of such invoice, the dealer shall enter thereon the dealer's full name and a notation showing payment thereof. With respect to invoices covering the sale and delivery of gasoline or special fuel to the state or those political subdivisions of the state specified in subsection (2) of this section, it shall not be necessary for the dealer to enter the dealer's name and the notation showing payment thereof. Upon proper application, refund shall be made directly to such political subdivisions upon presentation of the completed refund claim form. Original invoices together with a certification of the date and number of the warrant by which such invoices were paid shall be retained by such political subdivisions for a period of twenty-four months. The duplicate copy of the invoice shall be retained by the dealer for a period of twenty-four months at the place of business where issued, and such duplicate invoices and other records of the dealer shall be available for examination by the executive director or the executive director's representatives. The executive director shall make demand for repayment of any refund of tax that has been illegally or erroneously made to any person, and the executive director is authorized to request the attorney general or any district attorney of the state to institute a suit for collection of any money illegally or erroneously refunded to any person.

(e) No refund shall be claimed by or allowed to any person on account of any gasoline or special fuel carried from this state in the ordinary fuel tank of a motor vehicle or aircraft. The application for a refund shall be made by the same person who purchased the gasoline or special fuel and paid the tax thereon as shown in the invoice of the seller thereof. The right of any person to a refund under this part 1 shall not be assignable. No refund of the gasoline or special fuel tax shall be claimed by or allowed to any person on any gasoline or special fuel used for propelling motor vehicles operated in whole or in part during the calendar year upon public highways of the state or upon the streets of any city or town in the state, except as otherwise provided in this subsection (3) or subsection (2) of this section.

(4) Any applicant for refund under the provisions of this section who willfully makes any false statement in connection with an application for a permit or an application for a refund of any taxes, or who uses the gasoline or special fuel other than as stated in the permit and application, shall be punished as provided by section 39-21-118, and by suspension or revocation of his or her permit or license. These penalties shall be in addition to any other penalty imposed by this part 1. If any applicant for refund under the provisions of this section makes any false statement on any application for permit or credit for refund, or submits any invoices on which erasures, changes, alterations, or additions have been made, or that are otherwise incorrect, the executive director shall cancel all or part of any pending claim for refund of such applicant and shall also deduct from any subsequent claims an amount equal to one hundred percent of the amount claimed on any altered or incorrect invoice.

(5) If any person is convicted under the provisions of this section, such conviction shall be prima facie evidence that all refunds received by such person during the current year were obtained unlawfully, and the executive director is empowered to bring appropriate action for recovery of such refunds. A brief summary statement of the above mentioned penalties shall be printed on each form of permit and application for refund.

(6) Repealed.

ANNOTATION

Right to a refund rests solely on this section, which does not authorize any excuse for a delay in filing the application therefor. Armstrong v. Driscoll Constr. Co., 107 Colo. 218, 110 P.2d 651 (1941).

Procedure to obtain refund to be strictly followed. Refunds of the tax imposed by the preceding section are a matter of grace, and the procedure outlined by this section to obtain the same must be strictly followed. Armstrong v.

Driscoll Constr. Co., 107 Colo. 218, 110 P.2d 651 (1941).

Section's time limitation undoubtedly is legislative attempt to prevent filing of stale claims and other corrupt practices that so often materialize when state governmental agencies are authorized to make refunds. Armstrong v. Driscoll Constr. Co., 107 Colo. 218, 110 P.2d 651 (1941).

39-27-104. License and deposit - exception. (1) (a) It is unlawful for any person to act as a distributor, supplier, importer, exporter, carrier, or blender of gasoline or special fuel in this state without being licensed as such. Any person who acts as a distributor, supplier, importer, exporter, carrier, or blender of gasoline or special fuel within this state without being licensed as such is guilty of a misdemeanor. Each day of operation without a license shall be considered a separate offense. Such person shall also be subject to the civil penalties imposed pursuant to section 39-27-105 (5).

(b) Each applicant for the gasoline or special fuel distributor, supplier, importer, exporter, carrier, or blender license required by this section shall file with the executive director of the department of revenue an application in such form and manner as the executive director shall prescribe, stating the name and address of the applicant and such other information as may be required by this section or by the executive director. The application shall include a statement that such application is signed under oath and under the penalty of perjury in the second degree, as defined in section 18-8-503, C.R.S. An applicant for a license to export gasoline or special fuel from this state shall provide verification as required by the executive director that the applicant has an appropriate license valid in any state into which the gasoline will be exported. Each application for a gasoline or special fuel distributor, supplier, importer, exporter, carrier, or blender license shall be accompanied by a ten-dollar filing fee.

(c) The executive director of the department of revenue shall issue a license to an applicant if the application for a gasoline or special fuel distributor, supplier, importer, exporter, carrier, or blender license is in proper form, has been accepted for filing, and meets the other conditions and requirements of this section. The license shall be valid until surrendered, suspended, or revoked.

(d) A person who engages in the business of blending or compounding any products to make gasoline or special fuel thereof shall obtain a blender license and set forth in his or her application the kind and general characteristics of the products to be blended, the place where such blending is done, the purpose of such blending, and the intended disposition of such blended products and any other information as the executive director of the department of revenue deems necessary or advisable for the enforcement of this part 1.

(d.5) No person shall blend exempt dyed diesel fuel with biodiesel fuel after withdrawal at a terminal rack or refinery rack unless such person is a licensed blender in accordance with paragraph (d) of this subsection (1) who has a valid federal blending permit. Any person who violates the provisions of this paragraph (d.5) or the reporting or other requirements of this section relating to such blending or who misrepresents the amount of biodiesel fuel that is blended with dyed diesel fuel shall be subject to the following civil penalties:

(I) A five-thousand-dollar fine for the first violation;

(II) A ten-thousand-dollar fine for the second or subsequent violation; and

(III) In accordance with rules promulgated pursuant to the "State Administrative Procedure Act", article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., revocation of any license issued in accordance with the provisions of this section for the third violation.

(e) When any person ceases to be a distributor, supplier, importer, exporter, carrier, or blender of gasoline or special fuel by reason of discontinuance, sale, or transfer of such person's business at any location, such person shall notify the executive director of the department of revenue in writing at the time the discontinuance, sale, or transfer takes effect. The notice shall state the date of discontinuance and, in the event of sale or transfer, the name and address of the purchaser or transferee. All taxes, penalties, and interest not yet due and payable under the provisions of this part 1 shall, notwithstanding any other provisions of this part 1, become due and payable concurrently with the discontinuance, sale, or transfer; and the distributor shall make a report and pay all taxes, penalties, and interest and shall surrender to the executive director of the department of revenue the gasoline distributor, supplier, importer, exporter, carrier, or blender license together with all duplicates issued to him or her.

(f) The gasoline or special fuel distributor, supplier, importer, exporter, carrier, or blender license issued under the provisions of this section shall be conspicuously displayed in the established place of business of the licensee. A licensee shall obtain a duplicate license for each established branch office or location, which shall be displayed in a like manner as the original license. Each such duplicate license shall be issued by the executive director of the department of revenue upon payment of a five-dollar fee.

(g) (I) No person shall export gasoline or special fuel out of this state without a valid license pursuant to this section. Any person who violates the reporting requirements of this part 1, exports gasoline or special fuel out of this state without a valid license, or imports gasoline or special fuel into this state without a license shall be subject to the following civil penalties:

- (A) A five-thousand-dollar fine for the first violation;
- (B) A ten-thousand-dollar fine for the second violation;
- (C) A fifteen-thousand-dollar fine for a third or subsequent violation.

(II) The executive director of the department of revenue is authorized to waive, for good cause shown, any civil penalty assessed pursuant to this paragraph (g).

(III) All moneys collected pursuant to this paragraph (g) shall be credited to the highway users tax fund, created in section 43-4-201, C.R.S., and allocated and expended as specified in section 43-4-205 (5.5) (a), C.R.S.

(IV) Nothing in this paragraph (g) shall be construed to prohibit the criminal prosecution of any person who commits a criminal offense in connection with or as a result of violating any provision of this part 1.

(V) Immediately upon discovery of a violation of this paragraph (g), the department of revenue and agents thereof:

(A) May require payment of the excise tax imposed pursuant to section 39-27-102 (1) (a) and all applicable civil penalties imposed pursuant to this paragraph (g) from any person who violates the provisions of this paragraph (g); and

(B) May detain the shipment of gasoline or special fuel until payment is collected.

(h) The executive director of the department of revenue may refuse to issue a gasoline or special fuel distributor, supplier, importer, exporter, carrier, or blender license if the executive director finds, after affording the applicant due notice and an opportunity to be heard, that the application:

(I) Was filed by any person whose license has previously been suspended or revoked for cause by the executive director of the department of revenue;

(II) Contains any misrepresentation, misstatement, or omission of material information required by the application;

(III) Was filed by some person other than the real person in interest whose license has been previously suspended or revoked for cause by the executive director of the department of revenue;

(IV) Was filed by any person who is or has been delinquent in the payment of any fee, tax, penalty, or other amount due to the department of revenue for more than two taxable periods; or

(V) Was submitted by a person who the executive director of the department of revenue determines is unable or unwilling to perform the duties and responsibilities of a licensed gasoline or special fuel distributor, supplier, importer, exporter, carrier, or blender, as applicable, based upon evidence furnished to him or her.

(2) (a) (I) No license to act as a distributor, refiner, or terminal operator of gasoline or special fuel shall be issued until the applicant therefor has deposited with the department of revenue evidence of a savings account, deposit, or certificate of deposit meeting the requirements of section 11-35-101, C.R.S., or a surety bond or a negotiable certificate of deposit issued by a commercial bank doing business in this state acceptable to the executive director of the department of revenue. When such deposit is a surety bond, such bond shall be in the sum of approximately three times the monthly tax liability estimated by the executive director to become due by the licensee; except that the amount of the surety bond shall never be less than twenty-five thousand dollars nor more than two hundred thousand dollars. If the deposit is a surety bond, it shall also be conditioned upon compliance by the distributor or refiner with all provisions of this part 1 and payment of all taxes and penalties to become due and payable thereunder; if it is a negotiable certificate of deposit, it shall be subject to forfeiture upon failure of the distributor or refiner to comply with said provisions or to pay all said taxes and penalties. Upon approval by the executive director of the application, a license to act as a distributor or refiner shall be issued to the applicant.

(II) The total amount of bond required of a distributor shall be fixed by the executive director of the department of revenue and may be increased or decreased by such director at any time, subject to the limitations imposed by this subsection (2).

(b) If at any time after issuance of the license the executive director of the department of revenue finds that the licensee is acquiring gasoline or special fuel in a quantity that makes the licensee liable for payment of excise tax for the preceding and current month in an amount greater than the amount of the deposit, the executive director shall, by written notice to the licensee, demand an additional surety bond or negotiable certificate of deposit to be deposited in an amount determined necessary to secure payment of a greater amount of taxes, but the aggregate amount of deposit shall in no event exceed two hundred thousand dollars. If the licensee fails or refuses within ten days after receipt of the written notice and demand to deposit an additional surety bond or negotiable certificate of deposit in the amount determined, the executive director may by written notice suspend or revoke the license held by the licensee. The requirements of this section relative to making a deposit shall apply only to distributors who are liable to the state for payment of the tax imposed by section 39-27-102.

(c) If the surety upon any surety bond so elects, said surety bond may be conditionally cancelled by the filing by said surety with the licensee and the executive director of the department of revenue of written notices of such conditional cancellation, but said surety shall not be discharged from any liability already accrued or that may accrue under said bond before the expiration of sixty days after the filing of said notices; if the licensee fails or refuses within sixty days after receiving said notice to deposit a new surety bond or a negotiable certificate of deposit acceptable to the executive director, then such license shall be revoked and cancelled.

(d) When a new surety bond or a negotiable certificate of deposit is deposited by a licensee, the executive director of the department of revenue shall surrender the old surety bond as soon as such director shall be satisfied that all liability thereunder has been fully discharged. When the liability upon a surety bond deposited by a licensee is discharged or reduced, whether by judgment rendered, payment made, or otherwise, or when a surety bond deposited by a licensee becomes insufficient by reason of the insolvency of the surety, or when for any other cause such surety bond is found to be insufficient, the executive director shall require the licensee to deposit a new surety bond or a negotiable certificate of deposit, in default of which the executive director may revoke and cancel said license. The validity of any surety bond and the liability of the surety thereon shall not be affected by the revocation of a license, or by partial recovery upon said surety bond, or by the deposit of a new surety bond or a negotiable certificate of deposit, but all such surety bonds shall continue in force and effect until surrendered by the executive director.

(e) Any surety on a bond furnished by a distributor pursuant to this subsection (2), upon written request to the executive director of the department of revenue, shall be discharged from any liability to this state accruing on the bond after expiration of sixty days from the date of filing the request but not from liability already accrued or accruing before the expiration of the sixty-day period. The executive director, upon receipt of such a request, shall promptly notify the distributor who furnished the bond in question and, unless such distributor, prior to the expiration of the sixty-day period, files a new bond satisfactory to the executive director, the executive director shall forthwith revoke such distributor's license.

(2.1) (a) No person, unless qualified as a distributor or exempt from payment of the special fuel tax imposed by this part 1, shall be issued authorization to purchase special fuel ex-tax from a distributor for use as the propulsion source for a motor vehicle that is operated upon the highways of this state, as provided in section 39-27-102.5 (3), until such person has filed a surety bond with the executive director of the department of revenue. The terms and conditions of such surety bond shall be the same as those provided under subsection (2) of this section for the bonding of distributors; except that the amount of such bond shall never be less than one hundred dollars nor more than fifty thousand dollars. The executive director may accept cash or certificates of deposits in lieu of surety meeting the requirements of section 11-35-101, C.R.S., or an irrevocable letter of credit meeting the requirements of section 11-35-101.5, C.R.S.

(b) Any person who fails or refuses to furnish additional bond or file a new bond upon the request of the executive director of the department of revenue or who has authorization to purchase special fuel ex-tax from a distributor revoked by the executive director and who continues to use such authorization is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of fifty dollars for each such offense.

(c) If an examination of the financial responsibility of a person who has been issued authorization to purchase special fuel ex-tax from a distributor indicates that a financial guarantee is necessary to guarantee payment of the tax, such person may be required to deposit a surety bond. The terms and conditions of such surety bond shall be the same as those provided in subsection (2) of this section for the bonding of distributors; except that the amount of such bond shall never be less than one hundred dollars nor more than fifty thousand dollars. In lieu of a surety bond, the executive director of the department of revenue may accept cash or certificates of deposit meeting the requirements of section 11-35-101, C.R.S., or an irrevocable letter of credit meeting the requirements of section 11-35-101.5, C.R.S.

(2.2) (a) The executive director of the department of revenue, in accordance with rules promulgated pursuant to the "State Administrative Procedure Act", article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., may revoke or suspend the license of any licensee who:

- (I) Fails to timely file any report required under this part 1 or files a false report;
- (II) Fails to pay the tax imposed pursuant to this part 1 together with any applicable penalty and interest;
- (III) Fails to pay any civil penalty assessed pursuant to this part 1;
- (IV) Is convicted of any criminal offense related to a violation of the provisions of this part 1;
- (V) Abuses the privileges for which the license was issued;
- (VI) Fails to produce records requested or otherwise fails to cooperate with the department in the administration of the provisions of this part 1.

(b) The executive director of the department of revenue may reinstate a license, terminate a suspension, or grant a new license to a person whose license has been revoked if no fact or condition exists that would constitute grounds for the executive director to refuse to reinstate, grant, or terminate a suspension of a license.

(2.5) (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (2) of this section, a distributor or refiner who has been licensed in this state for five consecutive years and who, during this period, has not been delinquent in the payment of taxes imposed under this part 1 shall be exempt from the requirement to file a bond or any other evidence of financial responsibility meeting the requirements of section 11-35-101, C.R.S.

(b) If any delinquency in the payment of taxes imposed under this part 1 subsequently occurs, the executive director may reinstate the requirement of a bond or any other evidence of financial responsibility meeting the requirements of section 11-35-101, C.R.S., as a condition of licensure.

(3) In addition to all other applicable penalties and fines set forth in this part 1, each day on which any person engages in the business of a distributor, supplier, importer, exporter, carrier, or blender within this state without a license as required by this part 1 shall constitute a separate offense, and for each such offense, such person commits a class 6 felony and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-401, C.R.S.

(4) Notwithstanding the amount specified for any fee in subsection (1) of this section, the executive director of the department of revenue, by rule or as otherwise provided by law, may reduce the amount of one or more of the fees if necessary pursuant to section 24-75-402 (3), C.R.S., to reduce the uncommitted reserves of the fund to which all or any portion of one or more of the fees is credited. After the uncommitted reserves of the fund are sufficiently reduced, the executive director, by rule or as otherwise provided by law, may increase the amount of one or more of the fees as provided in section 24-75-402 (4), C.R.S.

39-27-105. Collection of tax on gasoline and special fuel. (1) In addition to the reporting requirements set forth in subsection (1.5) of this section, every distributor, supplier, carrier, exporter, importer, blender, refiner, or terminal operator of gasoline or special fuel on or before the twenty-sixth day of each calendar month shall file with the executive director of the department of revenue, on forms prescribed and furnished by the department, an itemized statement made under penalty of perjury in the second degree, showing the following:

(a) The number of gallons of gasoline or special fuel acquired by the distributor in this state from any source whatsoever during the preceding calendar month;

(b) The quantity of the different kinds of gasoline or special fuel so acquired;

(c) The amount of gasoline or special fuel exported from this state, with the date of shipment, the car number and initials, and the number of invoiced gallons of gasoline or special fuel contained in each tank car if exported by rail, and the name of the owner and the make and license number of the tank truck or tank wagon if such transportation is used, and the name of the person to whom such exported gasoline or special fuel was sold, the point of shipment, and the point of delivery;

(d) The date of acquisition of each shipment of gasoline or special fuel acquired by the distributor, the name of the person from whom purchased or acquired, the point of origin and point of destination of each shipment, the quantity in gallons of each of said purchases or shipments, the name of the carrier, the number of each tank car, its initial, and the number of invoiced gallons contained in each tank car if shipped by rail, and the name of the owner and the make, license number, and capacity in gallons of the tank truck or tank wagon if such transportation was used;

(e) Further information pertaining to the acquisition of gasoline or special fuel and its disposition as the executive director of the department of revenue may reasonably require. In the case of a distributor duly licensed as a blender of gasoline or special fuel, the report shall show the amount and character of the unblended products and the blended products on hand on the last day of the preceding calendar month, the amount of unblended products acquired and the amount of products blended during said calendar month, and any other information relative to the disposition of the blended products as the executive director may deem necessary or advisable for the correct determination of the amount of excise tax applicable to gasoline or special fuel acquired, used, or offered for sale by the distributor.

(f) The information required for reporting acquisition or disposition of gasoline or special fuel pursuant to this article shall be submitted electronically in the manner prescribed by the department of revenue by rule. The department, in consultation with distributors, shall promulgate rules regarding filing of information that includes, but is not limited to, the data elements, the format of the data elements, and the method and medium of transmission to the department.

(b) The executive director of the department of revenue, if said executive director deems it necessary in order to ensure payment of the tax imposed by this part 1 or to facilitate the administration of this part 1, may require a report of a distributor and payment of the tax due by the distributor to be made for other than, or in addition to, the monthly period. When such option is authorized, the amount of surety bond required by section 39-27-104 (2) may be adjusted by the executive director proportionately with the change in liability.

(c) Distributors may aggregate figures stated in the reports required by this part 1 for liquefied petroleum gas and natural gas for all service stations or other facilities that dispense liquefied petroleum gas or natural gas for sale to users and that are owned or operated by the same distributor.

(d) Distributors may aggregate figures stated in the reports required by this part 1 for liquefied petroleum gas and natural gas for sales of such fuels to a particular class or type of individual user or holder of the decals authorized by section 39-27-102.5 (5). Distributors of liquefied petroleum gas and natural gas shall not be required to separately report the amount of sales to individual users.

(e) Any inventory reporting requirements established pursuant to this subsection (1.3) shall not apply to distributors of natural gas whose service stations or other facilities receive special fuel for sale through a pipeline and have a maximum special fuel storage capacity of less than one-thousand-gallon equivalents at the site where sales are made to users.

(1.5) On or before the twenty-sixth day of each calendar month, every licensee shall file with the executive director of the department of revenue, on forms prescribed and furnished by the department, a report made under penalty of perjury in the second degree specifying any information that the executive director of the department of revenue shall require. The executive director shall consult with persons in the gasoline or special fuel industry to determine such reporting requirements and promulgate said requirements by rule in accordance with the "State Administrative Procedure Act", article 4 of title 24, C.R.S.

(2) It is the duty of every distributor of gasoline or special fuel to compute the amount of tax payable on all gasoline or special fuel acquired during the preceding calendar month at the rate of tax per gallon imposed thereon in section 39-27-102 (1), and, in computing the amount of tax, the allowance of two percent provided for in section 39-27-102 (1) shall be taken into account. From the amount of tax so computed, the distributor of gasoline or special fuel shall deduct one-half of one percent to cover expenses of collection of the tax and bad debt losses and shall pay the remaining balance to the department of revenue at the time of filing the statement required to be filed by the provisions of this section. A penalty of thirty dollars or ten percent of the tax due, plus one-half of one percent per month from the date when due, not to exceed eighteen percent in the aggregate, whichever is greater, shall be imposed for failure to file any statement when due or pay the tax as provided in this section, in addition to any other penalties provided by this part 1.

(3) If any distributor of gasoline or special fuel fails or refuses to make and file the sworn statement and pay the tax due for any calendar month or if any distributor of gasoline or special fuel makes and files any incorrect or fraudulent statement or return for any calendar month as required by this part 1, the executive director of the department of revenue, upon such information as is available in his or her office or elsewhere, shall determine the amount of gasoline or special fuel taxes due from said distributor and shall add to said amount a penalty of thirty percent thereof for failure to file such report or for filing such false or fraudulent report and collect the amount of said tax and penalty plus interest on the whole amount due from said distributor at the rate imposed under section 39-21-110.5 from the date due until paid. The executive director may waive, for good cause shown, any penalty assessed as provided in this article and article 21 of this title.

(4) (a) (I) Every person who has obtained a passenger-mile tax permit pursuant to section 42-3-309, C.R.S., where such permit relates to a motor vehicle that is powered by special fuel, shall, on or before the last day of the month following the end of the quarter, file with the executive director of the department of revenue a report stating the amount of special fuel subject to the tax imposed by this part 1 consumed by such person during the prior quarter and such other information relating to the use of special fuel for the propulsion of a motor vehicle on the highways of this state as the executive director may require. The executive director, under rules and procedures established by said executive director, may exempt from the reporting requirement of this subsection (4) any motor vehicle used exclusively within this state. Failure to receive the authorized report form does not relieve such person from the obligation of submitting a report to the executive director setting forth all information required on the prescribed report form. The report shall contain or be accompanied by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury in the second degree, as defined in section 18-8-503, C.R.S.

(II) The tax due pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) shall be computed by multiplying the rate per gallon as set forth in section 39-27-102 (1) (a) (II) (B) by the number of gallons of special fuel used in this state.

(b) From the tax due, an authorized user may claim credit for tax paid on purchases of special fuel from vendors within this state. Any credit in excess of the tax due from a user under this part 1 may be claimed on a consolidated report authorized under paragraph (c) of this subsection (4) as a credit against the taxes imposed under sections 42-3-304 to 42-3-306, C.R.S. Otherwise, such credit is refundable under the provisions of section 39-27-103 and such rules and procedures as the executive director of the department of revenue may adopt.

(c) The executive director of the department of revenue may authorize, under rules and procedures established by said executive director, the consolidation of the report required by this subsection (4) and the report required by section 42-3-308, C.R.S., into a single report.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section to the contrary, any owner or operator of a motor vehicle required to pay a special fuel tax imposed by the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) may pay the tax and file the statement required by said paragraph (a) on a quarterly basis. The executive director of the department of revenue, under rules and procedures established by the executive director, may exempt from the reporting requirement of this subsection (4) any motor vehicle used exclusively within this state.

(5) (a) Except as provided in paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of this section and in section 39-27-102.5 (2) (c), every person who imports into this state special fuel within the fuel tank of a motor vehicle and who is not required to report special fuel usage under the provisions of subsection (4) of this section shall obtain from the port of entry, from the office of the department of revenue nearest the point of entry into this state, or from any officer of the Colorado state patrol a single trip permit that shall contain a description of the motor vehicle, a description of the points of travel within the state of Colorado, and such other information as the executive director of the department of revenue may require. At the time of issuance of such single trip permit, a tax will be computed and paid based on the consumption rate of four miles per gallon for special fuel consumed within Colorado at the special fuel tax rate provided by section 39-27-102.5. A fee of one dollar shall be paid for each single trip permit and the permit shall be valid for a period of seventy-two hours.

(b) (I) The holder of a single trip permit shall be entitled to a refund of any tax imposed by this part 1 paid to a vendor within this state if:

(A) The special fuel, upon which such tax is paid, is placed into the fuel tank of the motor vehicle described within the permit; and

(B) The sale and delivery of such special fuel is within the seventy-two-hour period for which the permit is valid.

(II) The refund allowed by this paragraph (b) shall be issued under the provisions of section 39-27-103 and such rules and procedures as the executive director of the department of revenue may adopt.

(c) Any person whose use of special fuel is for the propulsion of a privately operated automobile shall be exempt from the provisions of this subsection (5). A privately operated passenger automobile does not include a motor vehicle used for the transportation of persons for hire or for compensation or designed, used, or maintained primarily for the transportation of property. A motor vehicle exempt from the mileage taxes of article 3 of title 42, C.R.S., is deemed to be a privately operated passenger automobile for purposes of this subsection (5).

(d) Any person who violates this subsection (5) is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of seventy-five dollars, which shall be in addition to the civil penalties imposed by section 39-27-104 (1) (g).

(6) (a) Every person who imports special fuel into this state for use or sale in this state without a single trip permit or a valid importer's, supplier's, or distributor's license is liable for and shall pay an excise tax pursuant to section 39-27-102 (1) on all undyed special fuel such person imports for use or sale in this state.

(b) Immediately upon discovering a violation of this subsection (6), the department of revenue and agents thereof:

(I) May demand payment of such excise tax and all applicable fines associated with the unlicensed importation of special fuel, as set forth in this subsection (6); and

(II) May detain the shipment of special fuel until such excise tax and fines are collected.

(c) Any person who imports special fuel into this state without a valid license pursuant to section 39-27-104 shall be subject to the civil penalties set forth in section 39-27-104 (1) (g).

(7) (a) If any person other than a licensed distributor or supplier physically diverts to one or more destinations within the boundaries of this state all or any portion of a shipment of gasoline or special fuel that is claimed as an export on the bill of lading or other affidavit, such person shall report to the department of revenue the destinations within this state to which the diverted gasoline or special fuel shipment was delivered within one working day after such diversion. Such person shall be liable for payment of the excise tax established in this part 1 on the amount of gasoline or special fuel diverted to a destination within this state.

(b) Any licensed distributor or supplier who diverts gasoline or special fuel for use or sale within this state after claiming such shipment as an export shall report such diversion to the department of revenue within one working day after the diversion.

(c) Any person who violates the reporting requirements of this subsection (7) shall be subject to the civil penalties set forth in section 39-27-104 (1) (g).

(d) Immediately upon discovery of a violation of this section, the department of revenue and agents thereof may require payment of the excise tax and all applicable civil penalties from any person who violates the provisions of this section and may detain the shipment of special fuel until payment is collected.

(8) to (10) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2005, p. 869, § 5, effective July 1, 2005.)

(11) Distributors who sell natural gas exclusively to distributors, vendors, or other retailers of special fuels shall be exempt from the reporting and tax collection and remittance requirements of this section. This subsection (11) shall not apply to any distributor who sells natural gas to a user.

ANNOTATION

State, not distributor, determines time and place of ascertaining tax. A distributor cannot usurp the prerogative of the state in determining the time or place of the ascertainment of the tax due or the payment thereof. People v. Texas Co., 85 Colo. 289, 275 P. 896 (1929).

Exacting penalty for failure to pay tax valid. The exacting of a penalty for the failure to pay the gasoline tax is a valid exercise of the police power of the state. People v. Texas Co., 85 Colo. 289, 275 P. 896 (1929).

Burden of proof in action for collection on distributor. In an action by the state to collect a gasoline tax, the dealer must show the quantity sold, and the burden is upon him to show how much, if any, of the product was sold for a nontaxable use. Miller v. People, 76 Colo. 157, 230 P. 603, 39 A.L.R. 269 (1924).

General statute of limitations does not apply to such actions for collection. People v. Miller, 90 Colo. 269, 8 P.2d 269 (1932).

39-27-105.3. Remittance of tax on gasoline and special fuel - mandatory electronic funds transfers. For any calendar month commencing on or after July 1, 2005, any distributor, supplier, carrier, exporter, importer, blender, refiner, licensee, or terminal operator shall use electronic funds transfers to remit all taxes required to be remitted to the executive director of the department of revenue. Such distributor, supplier, carrier, exporter, importer, blender, refiner, licensee, or terminal operator shall pay such taxes by electronic funds transfers to the department on or before the twenty-sixth day of each calendar month. The executive director may promulgate rules to effectively implement this section, but shall first consult with the state treasurer to ensure that any rules promulgated do not adversely affect the ability of the state treasurer to optimize gasoline and special fuel tax investment earnings. Such rules shall be promulgated in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S.

39-27-105.5. Lien to secure payment of taxes - exemption - recovery. (1) (a) The state of Colorado and the department of revenue shall have a lien to secure the payment of the taxes, penalties, and interest imposed pursuant to this part 1 upon all the assets and property of the distributor owing such tax, including the stock in trade, business fixtures, and equipment owned or used by the distributor in the conduct of his business, as long as a delinquency in the payment of such tax continues. Such lien shall be prior to any lien of any kind whatsoever, including existing liens for taxes.

(b) Any distributor or person in possession shall provide a copy of any lease pertaining to the assets and property described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) to the department of revenue within ten days after seizure by the department of such assets and property. The department shall verify that such lease is bona fide and notify the owner that such lease has been received by the department. The department shall use its best efforts to notify the owner of the real or personal property which might be subject to the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). The real or personal property of an owner who has made a bona fide lease to a distributor shall be exempt from the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) if such property can reasonably be identified from the lease description or if the lessee is given an option to purchase in such lease and has not exercised such option to become the owner of the property leased. This exemption shall be effective from the date of the execution of the lease. Such exemption shall also apply if the lease is recorded with the county clerk and recorder of the county where the property is located or based or a memorandum of the lease is filed with the department of revenue on such forms as may be prescribed by said department after the execution of the lease at a cost for such filing of two dollars and fifty cents per document. Motor vehicles which are properly registered in this state, showing the lessor as owner thereof, shall be exempt from the lien created in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1); except that said lien shall apply to the extent that the lessee has an earned reserve, allowance for depreciation not to exceed fair market value, or similar interest which is or may be credited to the lessee. Where the lessor and lessee are blood relatives or relatives by law or have twenty-five percent or more common ownership, a lease between such lessee and such lessor shall not be considered as bona fide for the purposes of this section.

(2) If a distributor fails to comply with the provisions of section 39-27-105, the executive director of the department of revenue may seek to enforce collection of the unpaid taxes, penalties, and interest in accordance with the provisions of article 21 of this title.

39-27-106. Distributor trustee of tax. Every distributor who sells any gasoline or special fuel for any purpose that is subject to the tax imposed by this part 1 shall collect from the purchaser the amount of excise tax thereon, and any sums of money paid by the purchaser to the distributor as gasoline or special fuel taxes shall be and remain public money, the property of the state in the hands of such distributor, and such distributor shall hold the same in trust for the sole use and benefit of the state until paid to the executive director of the department of revenue as provided in this part 1. Any distributor who willfully fails or refuses upon demand to pay over to the executive director the moneys paid to the distributor as gasoline or special fuel taxes that are by this part 1 declared to be trust funds in the distributor's hands and the property of the state of Colorado or who fraudulently withholds, converts to such distributor's own use, or appropriates or otherwise uses such moneys or any part thereof belonging to the state shall be punished as provided by section 39-21-118.

ANNOTATION

Distributor who collects tax answerable to state for funds collected. A distributor of motor fuel who collects a state tax thereon under the provisions of this section is a trustee as to the funds collected and answerable to the state therefor until they are paid over to the proper officials. Wade v. State, 97 Colo. 52, 47 P.2d 412 (1935).

Distributor cannot question legality of tax provision. A distributor of motor fuel, who is neither benefited nor injured by the determination of the validity of a statute taxing the products distributed, is in no position to question the legality of the statute; that can only be done by one who first protests, and then pays, the tax. Wade v. State, 97 Colo. 52, 47 P.2d 412 (1935).

39-27-107. When users other than distributors must report. Except as otherwise provided in section 39-27-102 for persons that export gasoline, every person not a licensed distributor who uses any gasoline in this state or who has in his or her possession any gasoline, other than that contained in the ordinary fuel tank attached to a motor vehicle or aircraft, upon which a licensed distributor has not paid or is not liable for the tax imposed in this part 1 shall file a sworn statement with the executive director of the department of revenue on or before the twenty-fifth day of the calendar month on such form as the executive director prescribes and furnishes, showing the amount of gasoline so used and held, and shall pay to the executive director the tax imposed on all such gasoline.

39-27-108. Penalty for failure to report or pay tax. Any person who willfully fails or refuses to make the report or payment of tax due to the executive director of the department of revenue as provided in sections 39-27-105 to 39-27-108, for which no penalty is expressly provided, and any person who willfully makes any false report or statement as to the amount of gasoline or special fuel acquired, sold, or used or any false statement relative to the kind or character and the amount of the gasoline or special fuel received by such person and required to be reported, with intent to evade the payment of the tax imposed in this part 1 on gasoline or special fuel, shall be punished as provided by section 39-21-118. The making and filing of any false statement shall be deemed prima facie evidence of intent to evade the payment of tax imposed in this part 1 on gasoline or special fuel by that means.

39-27-109.7. Data collection services. In order to track the movement of gasoline or special fuel within this state and thereby facilitate and expedite the collection of excise taxes imposed pursuant to this part 1, the executive director of the department of revenue may enter into a contract with one or more private entities for the provision of a computer-based program to monitor and track the data that licensees are required to report to the department pursuant to this part 1. Such computer-based program shall be funded solely with moneys from the highway users tax fund; except that, for the state fiscal year 2009-10, up to thirty-seven thousand six hundred thirty dollars for the computer-based program to monitor and track exempt dyed diesel fuel that is blended with biodiesel fuel after withdrawal at a terminal rack or refinery rack pursuant to section 39-27-102.5 (2) (a) may be funded by moneys received by the governor's energy office created in section 24-38.5-101, C.R.S., as said office existed prior to July 1, 2012, from the United States department of energy.

Injunction lies to restrain use of fuel not taxed. While it is the general rule that injunction does not lie to restrain the commission of a crime, there are exceptions to that rule, and a suit by the state to restrain the use of motor fuel upon which the statutory tax has not been paid is within the exceptions. State v. Tolbert, 98 Colo. 433, 56 P.2d 45 (1936).

39-28-102. Licensing of wholesalers - rules - fines. (1) It is unlawful for any wholesaler to sell or offer for sale in this state cigarettes without first obtaining a license therefor, granted and issued by the department, which license shall be in effect until June 30 following the date of issue, unless sooner revoked. Such licenses shall be granted only to such wholesalers who own or operate the places from which such sales are to be made, and, in case sales are made from two or more separate places by any such wholesaler, a separate license for each place of business shall be required. Such licenses shall be renewed only upon timely application and payment of the required fee prior to expiration. Such licenses may be transferred in the discretion of and pursuant to the rules adopted by the department. The license fee shall be ten dollars per year, and such license fees shall be credited to the general fund. Such license fees shall be reduced at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents for each expired quarter of the license year. The department shall, on reasonable notice and after a hearing, suspend or revoke the license of any wholesaler violating any provision of this article, and no license shall be issued to such wholesaler within a period of two years thereafter. The department may share information on the names and addresses of persons who purchased cigarettes for resale with the department of public health and environment and county and district public health agencies. The department shall refuse to issue a new or renewal wholesaler license, and shall revoke a wholesaler's license, if the wholesaler owes the state any delinquent taxes administered by the department or interest thereon pursuant to this title that have been determined by law to be due and unpaid, unless the wholesaler has entered into an agreement approved by the department to pay the amount due.

(1.3) (a) In addition to the requirements set forth in subsection (1) of this section, no license shall be issued to a wholesaler unless the wholesaler:

(I) Has a current license issued pursuant to section 39-26-103;

(II) Provides evidence to the satisfaction of the executive director of the department demonstrating that the wholesaler will buy cigarettes from at least one manufacturer that is either part of the master settlement agreement or that places funds into a qualified escrow account pursuant to section 39-28-203 (2); and

(III) Has filed with the department evidence of a surety bond issued by a company authorized to do business in this state in an amount equal to the wholesaler's anticipated total monthly purchase of stamps pursuant to section 39-28-104 for the benefit of the department. The amount of a wholesaler's anticipated total monthly purchase shall be determined solely in the discretion of the wholesaler. A wholesaler may file a replacement surety bond if the wholesaler's anticipated total monthly purchase of stamps changes after the wholesaler has been issued a license pursuant to this section.

(b) In addition to the requirements set forth in subsection (1) of this section, no license shall be renewed unless a wholesaler:

(I) Has a current license issued pursuant to section 39-26-103;

(II) Provides evidence to the satisfaction of the executive director of the department demonstrating that the wholesaler has bought and will continue to buy cigarettes from at least one manufacturer that is either part of the master settlement agreement or places funds into a qualified escrow account pursuant to section 39-28-203 (2); and

(III) Has filed with the department evidence of a surety bond issued by a company authorized to do business in this state in an amount equal to the wholesaler's anticipated total monthly purchase of stamps pursuant to section 39-28-104 for the benefit of the department. The amount of a wholesaler's anticipated total monthly purchase shall be solely in the discretion of the wholesaler. For each consecutive preceding year that a wholesaler has not been delinquent in the payment of taxes imposed under this part 1, as determined by the executive director of the department, the amount of the bond required shall be reduced by twenty percentage points of the wholesaler's anticipated total monthly purchase of stamps. A wholesaler may file a replacement surety bond if the wholesaler's anticipated total monthly purchase of stamps changes after the wholesaler's license has been renewed pursuant to this section. A wholesaler that has not been delinquent in the payment of such taxes for five consecutive years shall be exempt from the requirement to file a surety bond with the department.

(1) It is unlawful for any wholesale subcontractor to sell or offer for sale cigarettes to a retailer in this state without first obtaining a license therefor, granted and issued by the department, which license shall be in effect until June 30 following the date of issue, unless sooner revoked. Such licenses shall be granted only to such wholesale subcontractors who own or operate the places from which such sales are to be made, and, in case sales are made from two or more separate places by any such wholesale subcontractor, a separate license for each place of business shall be required. No license shall be issued to a wholesale subcontractor unless the wholesale subcontractor has a current license issued pursuant to section 39-26-103. Such licenses shall be renewed only upon timely application and payment of the required fee prior to expiration. Such licenses may be transferred in the discretion of and pursuant to rules adopted by the department. The license fee shall be ten dollars per year, and such license fees shall be credited to the wholesale and distributing subcontractor license fund, which is hereby created in the state treasury. All moneys in the fund shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly to the department for costs incurred in administering this section and section 39-28.5-104.5. Such license fees shall be reduced at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents for each expired quarter of the license year. The department shall, on reasonable notice and after a hearing, suspend or revoke the license of any wholesale subcontractor violating any provision of this article, and no license shall be issued to such wholesale subcontractor within a period of two years thereafter. The department may share information on the names and addresses of persons who purchased cigarettes from a wholesale subcontractor for resale with the department of public health and environment and county and district public health agencies. The department shall refuse to issue a new or renewal wholesale subcontractor license and shall revoke a wholesale subcontractor's license, if the wholesaler owes the state any delinquent taxes administered by the department or interest thereon pursuant to this title that have been determined by law to be due and unpaid, unless the wholesaler has entered into an agreement approved by the department to pay the amount due.

39-28-103.5. Tax levied - state constitution. Pursuant to section 21 of article X of the state constitution, there is levied, in addition to the tax levied pursuant to section 39-28-103, a tax on the sale of cigarettes by wholesalers, at a rate of three and two-tenths cents per cigarette. The tax shall be paid to and collected by the department.

39-28-104. Evidence of payment of tax - credits - redemptions. (1) (a) Payment of the taxes imposed by the provisions of this article and section 21 of article X of the state constitution shall be evidenced by the affixing of stamps to, or by an imprint or impression by suitable metering machines approved by the department on, packages containing cigarettes. The department shall procure stamps of such design and legend as it deems necessary and suitable for the purpose. Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), the department shall sell such stamps for cash to licensed wholesalers at a discount of four percent of their face value for sales occurring prior to July 1, 2003, or on or after July 1, 2005, and three percent of their face value for sales occurring on or after July 1, 2003, but before July 1, 2005, if payment is made on or before the tenth day of the month following the month in which the purchase is made to cover the licensed wholesaler's expense in the collection and remittance of such tax; but, if any licensed wholesaler is delinquent in remitting such payment, other than in unusual circumstances shown to the satisfaction of the executive director of the department, the licensed wholesaler shall not be allowed to retain any amounts to cover his or her expense in collecting and remitting said tax, and, in addition, the penalty imposed under section 39-28-108 (2) shall apply. The department shall keep accurate records of all stamps sold to each wholesaler. No wholesaler shall sell or transfer any stamps purchased pursuant to the provisions of this article.

(b) The tax imposed pursuant to section 39-28-103.5 and section 21 of article X of the state constitution shall not be subject to the discount provided for in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1).

(c) Wholesalers shall electronically remit tax payments due pursuant to this article and section 21 of article X of the state constitution to the department. The department may require wholesalers to file tax returns electronically. The department shall promulgate rules governing electronic payment and filing.

(1.5) In any month that a wholesaler purchases an amount of stamps that is greater than the wholesaler's anticipated total monthly purchase of stamps, which shall be determined from the surety bond filed pursuant to section 39-28-102 (1.3) (a) (III) and (1.3) (b) (III), the wholesaler shall be required to pay cash or certified funds or use one of the electronic payment options offered by the department for the stamps that exceed the anticipated total monthly purchase of stamps upon the delivery of the stamps. This subsection (1.5) shall not apply if the wholesaler is exempt from the surety bond requirement pursuant to section 39-28-102 (1.3) (b) (III).

(2) Each wholesaler shall affix stamps or cause them to be affixed, in such manner as the department may specify, to each individual package of cigarettes sold or distributed by such wholesaler or, in lieu thereof, an imprint or impression by means of a suitable metering machine approved by the department. Such stamps or imprints or impressions may be affixed by the wholesaler at any time before the cigarettes are transferred out of his possession.

(3) Credit shall be given by the department for all taxes levied pursuant to the provisions of this article on unsalable merchandise when the department is satisfied that the same has been returned to the manufacturer or has been destroyed by the wholesaler. The department shall redeem any unused and uncanceled stamps presented by any wholesaler within one year after the date of issue of said stamps at the price paid therefor by such wholesaler.

(4) (a) Credit shall be given by the department to a wholesaler for all taxes levied pursuant to this article and section 21 of article X of the state constitution and paid pursuant to the provisions of this article that are bad debts. Such credit shall offset taxes levied pursuant to this article and section 21 of article X of the state constitution and paid pursuant to the provisions of this article only. No credit shall be given unless the bad debt has been charged off as uncollectible on the books of the wholesaler. Subsequent to receiving the credit, if the wholesaler receives a payment for the bad debt, the wholesaler shall be liable to the department for the amount received and shall remit this amount in the next payment to the department under this section or section 39-28-105.

(b) Any claim for a bad debt credit under this subsection (4) shall be supported by all of the following:

(I) A copy of the original invoice issued by the wholesaler;

(II) Evidence that the cigarettes described in the invoice were delivered to the person who ordered them; and

(III) Evidence that the person who ordered and received the cigarettes did not pay the wholesaler for them and that the wholesaler used reasonable collection practices in attempting to collect the debt.

(c) If credit is given to a wholesaler for a bad debt, the person who ordered and received the cigarettes but did not pay the wholesaler for them shall be liable in an amount equal to the credit for the tax imposed in this article on the cigarettes. Subsequent to receiving the credit, if the wholesaler receives a payment for the bad debt and the wholesaler makes a payment to the department, the amount of taxes owed by such person shall be reduced by the amount paid to the department.

(d) As used in this subsection (4), "bad debt" means the taxes attributable to any portion of a debt that is related to a sale of cigarettes subject to tax under this article, that is not otherwise deductible or excludable, that has become worthless or uncollectible in the time after the tax has been paid pursuant to this section or section 39-28-105, and that is eligible to be claimed as a deduction pursuant to section 166 of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended. A bad debt shall not include any interest on the wholesale price of cigarettes, uncollectible amounts on property that remain in the possession of the wholesaler until the full purchase price is paid, expenses incurred in attempting to collect any account receivable or any portion of the debt recovered, an account receivable that has been sold to a third party for collection, or repossessed property.

39-28-104.5. Federal requirements - placement of labels - penalty. (1) No person shall import into this state any package of cigarettes that violates any federal requirement for the placement of labels, warnings, or other information, including health hazards, required to be placed on the container or individual package.

(2) No person shall sell or offer to sell a package of cigarettes or affix the stamp or imprint required by section 39-28-104 on a package of cigarettes unless that package of cigarettes complies with all federal tax laws, federal trademark and copyright laws, and federal laws regarding the placement of labels, warnings, or any other information upon a package of cigarettes.

(3) No person shall sell or offer to sell a package of cigarettes or affix the stamp or imprint required by section 39-28-104 on a package of cigarettes if the package is marked as manufactured for use outside of the United States or if any label or language has been altered from the manufacturer's original packaging and labeling to conceal the fact that the package was manufactured for use outside of the United States.

(4) (a) No person shall affix a stamp, label, or decal on a package of cigarettes to conceal the fact that the package was manufactured for use outside of the United States.

(b) No person shall sell or offer to sell a package of cigarettes on which a stamp, label, or decal was affixed to conceal the fact that the package was manufactured for use outside of the United States.

(5) The violation of any provision of this section is a class 1 misdemeanor.

(6) (a) Any package of cigarettes found for sale at retail or wholesale at any place in this state that is marked for use outside of the United States is declared to be contraband goods and may be seized without a warrant by the department, by its agents or employees, or by any peace officer in this state when directed or requested by the department to do so. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the department to confiscate packages of cigarettes that are so marked in quantities less than ten cartons when the packages are held for personal consumption and not for resale.

(b) Any cigarettes seized by virtue of the provisions of this subsection (6) shall be confiscated, and the department shall destroy such confiscated goods.

ANNOTATION

The state's ability to declare packages of cigarettes marked in compliance with the federal packaging requirements as contraband is not intrusive on the advertising or promotion of these cigarettes and is, therefore, not precluded by the supremacy clause. Premium Tobacco Stores, Inc. v. Fisher, 51 F. Supp.2d 1099 (D. Colo. 1999).

Plaintiff not likely to prevail on equal protection challenge of this statute. Reviewing the statute under the rational basis test, the state's desire to curb youth smoking and to shift the health-related costs of smoking onto the smoking public are legitimate governmental objectives. Premium Tobacco Stores, Inc. v. Fisher, 51 F. Supp.2d 1099 (D. Colo. 1999).

Plaintiff not likely to prevail on contract clause challenge of this statute. The state has demonstrated a significant and legitimate public purpose for the prohibition against repatriated tobacco products in the health and cost shifting goals of the master settlement agreement, reached between various states and the tobacco companies, which are protected by this statute. Additionally, the state's adjustment of the right to sell a product deemed dangerous to the health of its citizenry by prohibiting the further sale and distribution of that product is appropriate to the public purpose. Premium Tobacco Stores, Inc. v. Fisher, 51 F. Supp.2d 1099 (D. Colo. 1999).

39-28-105. Use of metering machines. (1) The department, if it determines that it is practicable to stamp by imprint or impression on packages of cigarettes by means of a metering machine, may authorize any licensed wholesaler to use any metering machine approved by the department in lieu of requiring the wholesaler to affix stamps to such packages. Such metering machines shall be sealed by the department and shall be used in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by it. Any wholesaler authorized to use a metering machine shall file with the department evidence of a savings account, deposit, or certificate of deposit meeting the requirements of section 11-35-101, C.R.S., or a bond issued by a surety company authorized to do business in this state in the amount of one thousand dollars, conditioned upon the payment of the tax upon cigarettes so imprinted.

(2) (a) The department may cause each metering machine approved by it to be read and inspected at least once each month. The department shall set the machine to the number of units requested by the wholesaler and shall determine as of the time of setting the amount of tax due from the wholesaler using such machine, after allowing the discount provided in section 39-28-104. The tax for each unit placed on the machine at the time of setting, less any discount that is not otherwise prohibited by paragraph (b) of this subsection (2) to cover the licensed wholesaler's expense in the collection and remittance of such tax, shall be due and payable to the department on or before the tenth day of the month following the month in which the meter is set. If any licensed wholesaler is delinquent in remitting such payment, other than in unusual circumstances shown to the satisfaction of the executive director, the licensed wholesaler shall not be allowed to retain any amounts to cover his or her expense in collecting and remitting said tax, and, in addition, the penalty imposed under section 39-28-108 (2) shall apply.

(b) The tax imposed pursuant to section 39-28-103.5 and section 21 of article X of the state constitution shall not be subject to the discount provided for in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2).

39-28-106. Nonresident wholesalers. (1) When the department determines that the collection of the tax imposed by the provisions of this article and section 21 of article X of the state constitution would be facilitated thereby, it may authorize any person, firm, limited liability company, partnership, or corporation outside of this state and engaged in the business of selling and shipping into this state cigarettes, upon complying with the requirements of this article, to affix or cause to be affixed the stamps, imprints, or impressions required by this article on behalf of the wholesalers within this state. The department may sell such stamps and approve the use of metering machines to such nonresident wholesalers as provided in this article; except that the nonresident wholesaler shall agree in writing to submit his or her books, accounts, and records to examination during reasonable business hours by any duly authorized agent of the department. Each such nonresident wholesaler shall appoint in writing the secretary of state of the state of Colorado to be his or her agent in this state for service of process, pursuant to part 7 of article 90 of title 7, C.R.S., with respect to foreign corporations.

(2) Any nonresident wholesaler complying with the requirements and provisions of this section shall be deemed a licensed wholesaler within the meaning of this article and shall be subject to all provisions of this article applicable to wholesalers.

39-28-107. Unstamped packages - tax collected - fines - subject to confiscation - tobacco tax enforcement cash fund - creation. (1) (a) Any package of cigarettes found at any place in this state without a stamp or imprint affixed thereto as provided in this article, unless such cigarettes are in the possession of a licensed wholesaler in the original unopened shipping package or in transit to such wholesaler, are declared to be contraband goods and may be seized without a warrant by the department, its agents or employees, or by any peace officer in this state when directed or requested by the department to do so. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the department to confiscate unstamped packages of cigarettes when it has reason to believe that the owner thereof is not willfully or intentionally evading the taxes imposed by the provisions of this article and section 21 of article X of the state constitution. The executive director may impose a civil penalty on any person, firm, limited liability company, partnership, or corporation for the purchase or possession of unstamped cigarettes, regardless of whether the cigarettes have been confiscated, in an amount that does not exceed twenty-five cents per cigarette purchased or possessed; except that the penalty shall not apply if the cigarettes are in the possession of a licensed wholesaler in the original unopened shipping package or in transit to such wholesaler. Any civil penalties received pursuant to this paragraph (a) shall be remitted to the state treasurer for deposit in the tobacco tax enforcement cash fund created in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1).

(b) There is hereby created in the state treasury the tobacco tax enforcement cash fund. The fund shall consist of moneys deposited therein pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) and section 39-28.5-106 (4). The moneys in the fund shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly to the department for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this article and article 28.5 of this title. Any moneys not appropriated by the general assembly shall remain in the fund and shall not be transferred or revert to the general fund at the end of any fiscal year.

(c) The provisions of this section shall not apply to cigarettes purchased from a United States military exchange or commissary, so long as the cigarettes are not for resale in this state.

(2) Any cigarettes seized by virtue of the provisions of this section shall be confiscated, and the department shall sell such confiscated goods at a public sale to a licensed wholesaler to the best advantage of this state. The proceeds from such sale shall be remitted to the state treasurer and distributed as provided in section 39-28-110 (1). Such sale by the state shall not relieve the purchaser at such sale from paying the tax and stamping the articles so sold to him or her in the manner provided in this article. The act or omission of any officer, agent, or other person acting for or employed by any person, firm, limited liability company, partnership, or corporation shall be deemed to be the act or omission of such person, firm, limited liability company, partnership, or corporation, as well as his or her own.

(2) (a) If a person neglects or refuses to make a return as required by this article, the executive director of the department shall impose a penalty of one hundred dollars.

(b) If a person fails to pay the tax in the time allowed for the discount in section 39-28-104 (1), a penalty equal to ten percent thereof plus one-half of one percent per month from the date when due, not to exceed eighteen percent in the aggregate, together with interest on such delinquent taxes at the rate computed under section 39-21-110.5, shall apply.

TOBACCO ESCROW FUNDS

39-28-201. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares:

(a) That cigarette smoking presents serious public health concerns to the state and to the citizens of the state. The surgeon general has determined that smoking causes lung cancer, heart disease and other serious diseases, and that there are hundreds of thousands of tobacco-related deaths in the United States each year. These diseases most often do not appear until many years after the person in question begins smoking.

(b) That cigarette smoking also presents serious financial concerns for the state. Under certain health-care programs, the state may have a legal obligation to provide medical assistance to eligible persons for health conditions associated with cigarette smoking, and those persons may have a legal entitlement to receive such medical assistance.

(c) That under these programs, the state pays millions of dollars each year to provide medical assistance for these persons for health conditions associated with cigarette smoking.

(d) That it is the policy of the state that financial burdens imposed on the state by cigarette smoking be borne by tobacco product manufacturers rather than by the state to the extent that such manufacturers either determine to enter into a settlement with the state or are found culpable by the courts.

(e) That on November 23, 1998, leading United States tobacco product manufacturers entered into a settlement agreement, entitled the "master settlement agreement," with the state. The master settlement agreement obligates these manufacturers, in return for a release of past, present and certain future claims against them as described therein, to pay substantial sums to the state, tied in part to their volume of sales; to fund a national foundation devoted to the interests of public health; and to make substantial changes in their advertising and marketing practices and corporate culture, with the intention of reducing underage smoking.

(f) That it would be contrary to the policy of the state if tobacco product manufacturers who determine not to enter into such a settlement could use a resulting cost advantage to derive large, short-term profits in the years before liability may arise without ensuring that the state will have an eventual source of recovery from them if they are proven to have acted culpably. It is thus in the interest of the state to require that such manufacturers establish a reserve fund to guarantee a source of compensation and to prevent such manufacturers from deriving large, short-term profits and then becoming judgment-proof before liability may arise.

(b) "Tobacco product manufacturer" does not include an affiliate of a tobacco product manufacturer unless such affiliate itself falls within subparagraphs (I) through (III) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (9).

(10) "Units sold" means the number of individual cigarettes sold in the state by the applicable tobacco product manufacturer, whether directly or through a distributor, retailer, or similar intermediary or intermediaries, during the year in question, as measured by excise taxes collected by the state on containers of roll-your-own tobacco, and on packs of cigarettes bearing the excise tax stamp of the state. The department shall promulgate such rules as are necessary to ascertain the amount of state excise tax paid on the cigarettes of such tobacco product manufacturer for each year.

(I) To pay a judgment or settlement on any released claim brought against such tobacco product manufacturer by the state or any releasing party located or residing in the state. Funds shall be released from escrow under this subparagraph (I):

(A) In the order in which they were placed into escrow; and

(B) Only to the extent and at the time necessary to make payments required under such judgment or settlement;

(II) (A) To the extent that a tobacco product manufacturer establishes that the amount it was required to place into escrow on account of units sold in the state in a particular year was greater than the master settlement agreement payments, as determined pursuant to section IX(i) of that agreement including after final determination of all adjustments, that such manufacturer would have been required to make on account of such units sold had it been a participating manufacturer, the excess shall be released from escrow and revert back to such tobacco product manufacturer;

(B) If Senate Bill 04-182, enacted at the second regular session of the sixty-fourth general assembly, or any portion of the amendment to sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II) made by Senate Bill 04-182 is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional, then sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II) shall be deemed to be repealed in its entirety. If this paragraph (b) shall thereafter be held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be unconstitutional, then Senate Bill 04-182 shall be deemed repealed, and sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II) shall be restored as if no such amendments had been made. Neither any holding of unconstitutionality nor the repeal of sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II) shall affect, impair, or invalidate any other portion of this section, and such remaining portions of this section shall at all times continue in full force and effect.

(III) To the extent not released from escrow under subparagraph (I) or (II) of this paragraph (b), funds shall be released from escrow and revert back to such tobacco product manufacturer twenty-five years after the date on which the funds were placed into escrow.

(c) (I) Each tobacco product manufacturer that elects to place funds into escrow pursuant to this subsection (2) shall annually certify to the attorney general that it is in compliance with this subsection (2). The attorney general may bring a civil action on behalf of the state against any tobacco product manufacturer that fails to place into escrow the funds required under this section. Any tobacco product manufacturer that fails in any year to place into escrow the funds required under this section shall:

(I) The department shall not include or retain in the directory the name or brand families of any nonparticipating manufacturer that has failed to provide the required certification or whose certification the department determines is not in compliance with paragraphs (c) and (d) of subsection (1) of this section, unless the department has determined that the violation has been cured to the satisfaction of the department.

(II) Neither a tobacco product manufacturer nor brand family shall be included or retained in the directory if the executive director of the department concludes that:

(A) In the case of a nonparticipating manufacturer, any escrow payment required pursuant to the tobacco escrow funds act for any period for any brand family, whether or not listed by the nonparticipating manufacturer, has not been fully paid into a qualified escrow fund governed by a qualified escrow agreement that has been approved by the attorney general; or

(B) Any outstanding final judgment, including interest thereon, for violations of the tobacco escrow funds act has not been fully satisfied for the brand family and the manufacturer.

(b) The department shall update the directory as necessary in order to correct mistakes and to add or remove a tobacco product manufacturer or brand family to keep the directory in conformity with the requirements of this part 3.

(c) The department shall transmit by electronic mail or other practicable means to each stamping agent notice of any addition to or removal from the directory of a tobacco product brand manufacturer or brand family. In addition, the department shall transmit by electronic mail or other practical means to each stamping agent notice of the potential removal from the directory of a tobacco product brand manufacturer or brand family three calendar days before the tobacco product brand manufacturer or brand family is actually removed from the directory. Unless otherwise provided by agreement between a stamping agent and a tobacco product manufacturer, a stamping agent shall be entitled to a refund from a tobacco product manufacturer of any money paid by the stamping agent to the tobacco product manufacturer for any cigarettes of the tobacco product manufacturer still held by the stamping agent on the date of notice by the department of the removal from the directory of the tobacco product manufacturer or the brand family of the cigarettes. The department shall not restore to the directory a tobacco product manufacturer or a brand family until the tobacco product manufacturer has paid the stamping agent any refund due.

(d) Every stamping agent shall provide and update as necessary an electronic mail address to the department for the purpose of receiving any notifications that may be required by this part 3.

(3) Prohibition against stamping or sale of cigarettes not in the directory. It shall be unlawful for any person to:

39-28-304. Agent for service of process. (1) A nonresident or foreign nonparticipating manufacturer that has not registered to do business in the state as a foreign corporation or business entity shall, as a condition precedent to having its brand families listed or retained in the directory, appoint and continually engage without interruption the services of an agent in the state to act as an agent for the service of process on whom all process, and any action or proceeding against the nonparticipating manufacturer concerning or arising out of the enforcement of this part 3 and the tobacco escrow funds act, may be served in any manner authorized by law. Such service shall constitute legal and valid service of process on the nonparticipating manufacturer. The nonparticipating manufacturer shall provide the name, address, phone number, and proof of the appointment and availability of the agent to and to the satisfaction of the executive director of the department and the attorney general.

(2) A nonparticipating manufacturer shall provide notice to the executive director of the department and the attorney general at least thirty calendar days prior to termination of the authority of an agent and shall further provide proof to the satisfaction of the attorney general of the appointment of a new agent at least five calendar days prior to the termination of an existing agent appointment. In the event an agent terminates an agency appointment, the nonparticipating manufacturer shall notify the executive director and the attorney general of the termination within five calendar days and shall include proof to the satisfaction of the attorney general of the appointment of a new agent.

(3) A nonparticipating manufacturer whose products are sold in this state without appointing or designating an agent as herein required shall be deemed to have appointed the secretary of state as the agent and may be proceeded against in the courts of this state by service of process upon the secretary of state. However, the appointment of the secretary of state as the agent shall not satisfy the condition precedent to having the nonparticipating manufacturer's brand families listed or retained in the directory.

39-28-305. Reporting of information - escrow installments. (1) Reporting by stamping agents. Not later than twenty days after the end of each month, each stamping agent shall submit to the department such information as the department requires to facilitate compliance with this part 3, including, but not limited to, a list by brand family of the total number of cigarettes, or in the case of roll-your-own, the equivalent stick count for which the stamping agent affixed stamps during the previous calendar month or otherwise paid the tax due for such cigarettes. The stamping agent shall maintain and make available to the department all invoices and documentation of sales of all nonparticipating manufacturer cigarettes and any other information relied upon in reporting to the department for a period of five years.

(2) Disclosure of information. The department is authorized to disclose to the attorney general any information received under this part 3 and requested by the attorney general for purposes of determining compliance with and enforcing the provisions of this part 3. The department and the attorney general shall share with each other the information received under this part 3 and may share the information with other federal, state, or local agencies only for purposes of enforcement of this part 3, the tobacco escrow funds act, or corresponding laws of other states.

(3) Verification of qualified escrow fund. The attorney general may require at any time from a nonparticipating manufacturer, proof from the financial institution in which the manufacturer has established a qualified escrow fund for the purpose of compliance with the tobacco escrow funds act of the amount of money in the fund, exclusive of interest, being held on behalf of the state, the dates of deposits, and the dates and amounts of all withdrawals from such fund.

(4) Requests for additional information. In addition to the information required to be submitted pursuant to regulation number 39-28-202 (3) and (4) or any successor rule of the department (1 CCR 201-7), the department or the attorney general may require a stamping agent, distributor, or tobacco product manufacturer to submit any additional information, including, but not limited to, samples of the packaging or labeling of each brand family, as is necessary to enable the department or the attorney general to determine whether a tobacco product manufacturer is in compliance with this part 3.

(5) Quarterly escrow installments. To promote compliance with the provisions of this part 3, the department may promulgate rules requiring a tobacco product manufacturer subject to the requirements of section 39-28-303 (1) (c) to make the escrow deposits required in quarterly installments during the year in which the sales covered by such deposits are made. The department may require production of information sufficient to enable the department to determine the adequacy of the amount of the installment deposit.

Each stamp affixed and each offer to sell cigarettes in violation of section 39-28-303 (3) shall constitute a separate violation. For each violation, the executive director may also impose a civil penalty in an amount not to exceed the greater of five hundred percent of the retail value of the cigarettes sold or five thousand dollars upon a determination of a violation of section 39-28-303 (3) or any rules adopted pursuant thereto.

(2) Contraband and seizure. Any cigarettes that have been sold, offered for sale, or possessed for sale in this state in violation of section 39-28-303 (3) shall be deemed a contraband article as defined by section 16-13-502 (1), C.R.S. The cigarettes shall be subject to seizure and forfeiture as provided in the "Colorado Contraband Forfeiture Act", part 5 of article 13 of title 16, C.R.S., and any cigarettes so seized and forfeited shall be destroyed and not resold.

(3) Injunction. The attorney general, on behalf of the department, may seek an injunction to restrain a threatened or actual violation of section 39-28-303 (3) or 39-28-305 (1) or (4) by a stamping agent and to compel the stamping agent to comply with those statutory provisions.

(4) Unlawful sale and distribution. It is unlawful for a person to sell, distribute, acquire, hold, own, possess, transport, import, or cause to be imported cigarettes that the person knows or should know are intended for distribution or sale in the state in violation of section 39-28-303 (3). A violation of this section is a class 2 misdemeanor.

(6) Construction and severability. If a court of competent jurisdiction finds that the provisions of this part 3 and of the tobacco escrow funds act conflict and cannot be harmonized, then the provisions of the tobacco escrow funds act shall control. If any provision of this part 3 causes the tobacco escrow funds act to no longer constitute a qualifying or model statute, as those terms are defined in the master settlement agreement, then that portion of this part 3 shall not be valid. If any provision of this part 3 is for any reason held to be invalid, unlawful, or unconstitutional, the decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this part 3 or any part thereof.

ANNOTATION

The tax imposed by this section does not violate the commerce clause of the U.S. Constitution. A state tax impermissibly discriminates against interstate commerce if it is facially discriminatory, has a discriminatory purpose, or has the effect of unduly burdening interstate commerce. A tax is discriminatory if it taxes out-of-state transactions, entities, or products at a higher rate or if it exempts in-state transactions, entities, or products from an otherwise uniform tax. The tax imposed by this section is higher the later in the distribution network the event triggering the tax occurs, but this does not render the tax discriminatory. McLane W., Inc. v. Dept. of Rev., 126 P.3d 211 (Colo. App. 2005).

39-28.5-102.5. Tax levied - state constitution. Pursuant to section 21 of article X of the state constitution, there is levied, in addition to the tax levied pursuant to section 39-28.5-102, a tax on the sale, use, consumption, handling, or distribution of tobacco products by distributors, at a rate of twenty percent of the manufacturer's list price. The tax shall be paid to and collected by the department. The tax shall be imposed in the same manner as the tax described in section 39-28.5-102.

39-28.5-103. Exempt sales. The tax imposed by section 39-28.5-102 shall not apply with respect to any tobacco products which, under the constitution and laws of the United States, may not be made the subject of taxation by this state. Such exempt sales shall be reported to the department with such information as the department shall require.

39-28.5-104. Licensing required - rules - fines. (1) It is unlawful for any person to engage in the business of a distributor of tobacco products at any place of business without first obtaining a license granted and issued by the department, which license shall be in effect until June 30 following the date of issue, unless sooner revoked. Such license shall be granted only to a person who owns or operates the place from which the person engages in the business of a distributor of tobacco products, and, if such business is operated in two or more separate places by any such person, a separate license for each place of business shall be required. Such license shall be renewed only upon timely application and payment of the required fee prior to expiration. Such licenses may be transferred in the discretion of and pursuant to the rules adopted by the department. The fee for a license shall be ten dollars per year, and such fee shall be credited to the general fund. Such fee shall be reduced at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents for each expired quarter of the license year. The department shall, on reasonable notice and after a hearing, suspend or revoke the license of any person violating any provision of this article, and no license shall be issued to such person within a period of two years thereafter. The department may share information on the names and addresses of persons who purchased tobacco products for resale with the department of public health and environment and county and district public health agencies. The department shall refuse to issue a new or renewal distributor license, and shall revoke a distributor's license, if the distributor owes the state any delinquent taxes administered by the department or interest thereon pursuant to this title that have been determined by law to be due and unpaid, unless the distributor has entered into an agreement approved by the department to pay the amount due. The department shall only issue a new or renewal distributor license to a distributor that has a current license issued pursuant to section 39-26-103.

Such licenses may be transferred in the discretion of and pursuant to the rules adopted by the department. The fee for a license shall be ten dollars per year, and such fee shall be credited to the wholesale and distributing subcontractor license fund created in section 39-28-102.5. Such fee shall be reduced at the rate of two dollars and fifty cents for each expired quarter of the license year. The department shall, on reasonable notice and after a hearing, suspend or revoke the license of any person violating any provision of this article, and no license shall be issued to such person within a period of two years thereafter. The department may share information on the names and addresses of persons who purchased tobacco products for resale with the department of public health and environment and county and district public health agencies. The department shall refuse to issue a new or renewal distributor license and shall revoke a distributor's license, if the distributor owes the state any delinquent taxes administered by the department or interest thereon pursuant to this title that have been determined by law to be due and unpaid, unless the distributor has entered into an agreement approved by the department to pay the amount due. The department shall only issue a new or renewal distributing subcontractor license to a distributing subcontractor that has a current license issued pursuant to section 39-26-103.

39-28.5-105. Books and records to be preserved. (1) Every distributor shall keep at each licensed place of business complete and accurate records for that place of business, including itemized invoices of tobacco products held, purchased, manufactured, brought in or caused to be brought in from without the state, or shipped or transported to retailers in this state, and of all sales of tobacco products made, except sales to the ultimate consumer.

(2) These records shall show the names and addresses of purchasers, the inventory of all tobacco products on hand, and other pertinent papers and documents relating to the purchase, sale, or disposition of tobacco products.

(3) When a licensed distributor sells tobacco products exclusively to the ultimate consumer at the address given in the license, no invoice of those sales shall be required, but itemized invoices shall be made of all tobacco products transferred to other retail outlets owned or controlled by that licensed distributor. All books, records, and other papers and documents required by this section to be kept shall be preserved for a period of at least three years after the date of the documents, unless the department, in writing, authorizes their destruction or disposal at an earlier date.

(4) (a) Every retailer that is not also a licensed distributor shall keep at its place of business complete and accurate records to show that all tobacco products received by the retailer were purchased from a licensed distributor. The retailer shall provide a copy of such records to the department if so requested. The department may establish the acceptable form of such records.

(b) Any expenses incurred by the department related to enforcing paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) shall be paid from the tobacco settlement defense account, created in section 24-22-115 (2) (a), C.R.S., for the state fiscal year 2009-10, and from the tobacco tax enforcement cash fund created in section 39-28-107 (1) (b), for each state fiscal year thereafter.

(2) Every distributor shall file a return with the department by the twentieth day of the month following the month reported and shall therewith remit the amount of tax due, less three and one-third percent of any sum so remitted that consists of tax collected before July 1, 2003, or on or after July 1, 2005, and less two and one-third percent of any sum so remitted that consists of tax collected on or after July 1, 2003, but before July 1, 2005, to cover the distributor's expense in the collection and remittance of said tax; except that no part of the tax imposed pursuant to section 39-28.5-102.5 and section 21 of article X of the state constitution shall be subject to the discount provided for in this subsection (2). If any distributor is delinquent in remitting said tax, other than in unusual circumstances shown to the satisfaction of the executive director of the department, the distributor shall not be allowed to retain any amounts to cover his or her expense in collecting and remitting said tax, and in addition the penalty imposed under section 39-28.5-110 (2) (b) shall apply.

(3) Distributors shall electronically remit tax payments due pursuant to this article and section 21 of article X of the state constitution to the department. The department may require distributors to file tax returns electronically. The department shall promulgate rules governing electronic payment and filing.

(4) (a) Any person, firm, limited liability company, partnership, or corporation, other than a distributor, in possession of tobacco products for which taxes have not otherwise been remitted pursuant to this section shall be liable and responsible for the uncollected tax that is levied pursuant to section 39-28.5-102 and section 21 of article X of the state constitution on behalf of the distributor who failed to pay the tax. The person or entity shall make the payment to the department within thirty days of first taking possession of the tobacco product. The department shall establish a form to be used for remittance of the payment. The department shall remit the proceeds it receives pursuant to this paragraph (a) to the state treasurer for distribution as follows:

(I) For all moneys received and collected in payment of the tax imposed pursuant to section 39-28.5-102, fifteen percent shall be credited to the tobacco tax enforcement cash fund created in section 39-28-107 (1) (b), and eighty-five percent shall be credited to the old age pension fund; and

(II) All moneys received and collected in payment of the tax imposed pursuant to section 39-28.5-102.5 shall be credited to the tobacco tax cash fund created in section 24-22-117, C.R.S.

(b) The executive director of the department may impose a civil penalty on any person, firm, limited liability company, partnership, or corporation in possession of tobacco products that fails to make a payment required pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) or who is a distributor by virtue of being the first person who receives the tobacco products in the state and who fails to make a payment required pursuant to this section in an amount that does not exceed five hundred percent of such payment. 39-28.5-107. When credit may be obtained for tax paid. (1) Where tobacco products, upon which the tax imposed by this article has been reported and paid, are shipped or transported by the distributor to retailers without the state to be sold by those retailers or are returned to the manufacturer by the distributor or destroyed by the distributor, credit of such tax may be made to the distributor in accordance with regulations prescribed by the department.

(2) (a) Credit shall be given by the department to a distributor for all taxes levied pursuant to this article and section 21 of article X of the state constitution and paid pursuant to the provisions of this article that are bad debts. Such credit shall offset taxes levied pursuant to this article and section 21 of article X of the state constitution and paid pursuant to the provisions of this article only. No credit shall be given unless the bad debt has been charged off as uncollectible on the books of the distributor. Subsequent to receiving the credit, if the distributor receives a payment for the bad debt, the distributor shall be liable to the department for the amount received and shall remit this amount in the next payment to the department under section 39-28.5-106.

(b) Any claim for a bad debt credit under this subsection (2) shall be supported by all of the following:

(I) A copy of the original invoice issued by the distributor;

(II) Evidence that the tobacco products described in the invoice were delivered to the person who ordered them; and

(III) Evidence that the person who ordered and received the tobacco products did not pay the distributor for them and that the distributor used reasonable collection practices in attempting to collect the debt.

(c) If credit is given to a distributor for a bad debt, the person who ordered and received the tobacco products but did not pay the distributor for them shall be liable in an amount equal to the credit for the tax imposed in this article on the tobacco products. Subsequent to receiving the credit, if the distributor receives a payment for the bad debt and the distributor makes a payment to the department, the amount of taxes owed by such person shall be reduced by the amount paid to the department.

(d) As used in this subsection (2), "bad debt" means the taxes attributable to any portion of a debt that is related to a sale of tobacco products subject to tax under this article, that is not otherwise deductible or excludable, that has become worthless or uncollectible in the time after the tax has been paid pursuant to section 39-28.5-106, and that is eligible to be claimed as a deduction pursuant to section 166 of the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended. A bad debt shall not include any interest on the wholesale price of tobacco products, uncollectible amounts on property that remain in the possession of the distributor until the full purchase price is paid, expenses incurred in attempting to collect any account receivable or any portion of the debt recovered, an account receivable that has been sold to a third party for collection, or repossessed property.

ANNOTATION

The state’s ability to declare packages of cigarettes marked in compliance with the federal packaging requirements as contraband is not intrusive on the advertising or promotion of these cigarettes and is, therefore, not precluded by the supremacy clause. Premium Tobacco Stores, Inc. v. Fisher, 51 F. Supp.2d 1099 (D. Colo. 1999).

Plaintiff not likely to prevail on equal protection challenge of this statute. Reviewing the statute under the rational basis test, the state’s desire to curb youth smoking and to shift the health-related costs of smoking onto the smoking public are legitimate governmental objectives. Premium Tobacco Stores, Inc. v. Fisher, 51 F. Supp.2d 1099 (D. Colo. 1999).

Plaintiff not likely to prevail on contract clause challenge of this statute. The state has demonstrated a significant and legitimate public purpose for the prohibition against repatriated tobacco products in the health and cost shifting goals of the master settlement agreement, reached between various states and the tobacco companies, which are protected by this statute. Additionally, the state’s adjustment of the right to sell a product deemed dangerous to the health of its citizenry by prohibiting the further sale and distribution of that product is appropriate to the public purpose. *Premium Tobacco Stores, Inc. v. 39-29-101. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that, when nonrenewable natural resources are removed from the earth, the value of such resources to the state of Colorado is irretrievably lost. Therefore, it is the intent of the general assembly to recapture a portion of this lost wealth through a special excise tax, in addition to other business taxes, on the nonrenewable natural resources removed from the soil of this state and sold for private profit.

(2) The general assembly further finds and declares that the severance of nonrenewable resources provides a potential source of revenue to the state and its political subdivisions. Therefore, it is the intent of the general assembly to impose a tax on the process of severance in addition to other business taxes.

(3) It additionally is the intent of the general assembly that a portion of the revenues derived from such a severance tax be used by the state for public purposes, that a portion be held by the state in a perpetual trust fund, and that a portion be made available to local governments to offset the impact created by nonrenewable resource development.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Synthetic Fuels — Policy and Regulations", see 51 U. Colo. L. Rev. 465 (1980).

39-29-102. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Coal" means coal which has been processed into the form in which it is sold or otherwise used. Such processing includes, but is not limited to, cleaning and washing.

(1.5) "Commercial production", for a commercial oil shale facility, means production from such facility in excess of the first fifteen thousand tons per day of oil shale or ten thousand barrels per day of shale oil, whichever is greater. The calculation of the daily production shall be determined by dividing the total production of a calendar month by the total number of days in such month.

(2) "Executive director" means the executive director of the department of revenue.

(2.5) For tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2000, "gas" means natural gas, coalbed methane, and carbon dioxide.

(3) "Gross income" means:

(a) For oil and gas, the net amount realized by the taxpayer for sale of the oil or gas, whether the sale occurs at the wellhead or after transportation, manufacturing, and processing of the product. Net amount shall be calculated on the basis of the gross lease revenues, less deductions for any transportation, manufacturing, and processing costs borne by the taxpayer. Where the parties to the sale are related parties and the sales price is lower than the price for which that oil or gas could otherwise have been sold to a ready, willing, and able buyer and where the taxpayer was legally able to sell the oil or gas to such a buyer, gross income shall be determined by reference to comparable arms-length sales of like kind, quality, and quantity in the same field or area, less deductions for transportation, manufacturing, and processing done prior to the sale. For purposes of this paragraph (a), "related parties" shall be defined by the department of revenue pursuant to rules and regulations.

(b) For metallic minerals, the value of ore immediately after its removal from the mine, and does not include any value added subsequent to mining by any treatment processes, such as crushing, grinding or concentration, by transportation from the mine, or by marketing of such ore or any products derived therefrom, but does not include income from the extraction or processing of ores or minerals from mine waste or residue of previously processed ores.

(4) "Gross proceeds", for oil shale, means the value of the oil shale at the point of severance. Such value shall be determined by deducting from the first sales price of the shale oil all costs, including direct and indirect expenditures, for:

- (a) Equipment and machinery;
- (b) Fragmenting, crushing, conveying, beneficiating, pyrolysis, retorting, refining, and transporting; and
- (c) Royalty payments.

(4.5) "Local units of government locally impacted" means units of government in the geographic area wherein reside employees of the operation producing the minerals and mineral fuels taxed pursuant to this article. The geographic area shall be determined on the basis of residence as reported in accordance with section 39-29-110 (1) (d).

(5) "Metallic minerals" means all minerals except molybdenum, oil and gas, carbon dioxide, coal, oil shale, rock, sand, gravel, stone products, earths, limestone, and dolomite.

(6) "Molybdenum ore" means ore which is mined primarily for the extraction of molybdenum therefrom.

(6.5) For tax years commencing on or after January 1, 2000, "oil" means crude oil and condensate.

(7) "Transportation" means the cost of moving identifiable, measurable oil or gas, including gas that is not in need of initial separation, from the point at which it is first identifiable and measurable to the sales point or other point where value is established. Any compression downstream of the meter or measurement point is deductible as a component of transportation. "Gathering" means the movement of an unseparated, bulk production stream to a point, on or off the lease, where the production stream undergoes initial separation into identifiable oil, gas, or free water and is not deductible as transportation. This definition shall not be construed to affect the legal relationship between royalty owners and lessees.

Such tax shall be levied against every mining operation engaged in the severance of metallic minerals and shall be based upon the gross income of such mining operation. (1) (a) There shall be allowed, as a credit against any taxes imposed by this article on the severance of minerals or mineral fuels from or for a new operation from or for which first severance occurs subsequent to June 30, 1979, an amount equal to the value of approved contributions by the taxpayer made prior to first severance of such minerals or mineral fuels to assist in solving the impact problems of units of local government resulting from the initiation of such new operation.

(b) There shall be allowed, as a credit against any taxes imposed by this article on the severance of minerals or mineral fuels from or for an operation which has an increase in production from or for which increased severance occurs subsequent to June 30, 1980, an amount equal to the value of approved contributions by the taxpayer made to assist in solving the impact problems of units of local government or local units of government locally impacted by the increase in production of an operation.

(c) There shall be allowed, pursuant to an agreement between or on behalf of the taxpayer and the unit of local government specified in subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section as a credit against any taxes imposed by this article on the severance of minerals or mineral fuels, in addition to any amounts determined under paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (1) and subsection (2) of this section, an amount equal to three-fourths of one percent per month times the amount of approved contributions by a taxpayer for each month that any approved contribution precedes the month in which said approved contribution is credited against a taxpayer's yearly severance tax liability. Any amounts of approved contributions credited against a taxpayer's yearly severance tax liability shall be applied to reduce the amount, if any, of approved contributions not previously credited, and the additional percentage provided in this paragraph (c) shall apply solely to said reduced amount of approved contributions.

(2) (a) Approved contributions, for the purpose of such credits, shall include the contribution of property or payment of money to units of local government or local units of government locally impacted, for use in planning, including financial, architectural, and engineering services, construction, or expansion of public facilities, including but not limited to county or municipal roads, schools, recreation facilities, water facilities, sewage facilities, police and fire protection facilities, and hospitals, which are deemed to be necessitated by the initiation of a new operation or increase in production of an existing operation. In addition, subject to the agreement reached pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section, approved contributions may also include any loss sustained by reason of the sale of any bonds by the taxpayer who purchased such bonds, the proceeds of which bonds are used in the planning, construction, or expansion of any such public facilities by a unit of local government or local unit of government locally impacted, and any loss by reason of the default on loans made by a taxpayer or satisfaction of a guaranty obligation of the taxpayer arising out of the issuance of such bonds, whether or not such bonds are purchased by the taxpayer. Such losses shall be approved contributions as of the date of the making of a loan, the date of issuance of the bonds, or the date of entering into the guaranty obligation; except that, for purposes of the additional credit allowed pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section, the date of the approved contribution shall be the date of default on any such loan, the date of loss on any such bond, or the date of satisfaction of any such guaranty obligation. In no event shall the total amount of approved contributions by a taxpayer exceed fifty percent of the severance tax liability which the taxpayer anticipates will be incurred during the first ten years of severance from a new operation or fifty percent of the increased severance tax liability which the taxpayer anticipates will be incurred during the first ten years of severance from an expanded existing operation plus the amounts calculated pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section. In order for an approved contribution to qualify for credit, the following requirements shall be fulfilled:

(I) Each contribution shall be based on an agreement between or on behalf of the taxpayer and a unit of local government or local unit of government locally impacted, specifying the need for such contribution and its nature, value or amount, and purpose;

(II) Each contribution must be acted upon for credit and, if approved, a certificate of eligibility issued, within ninety days after joint submission by the taxpayer and the unit of local government, or local unit of government locally impacted, by the executive director of the department of local affairs upon the recommendation of the energy impact assistance advisory committee created by section 34-63-102 (5) (b), C.R.S., and failure to act upon the eligibility within said ninety days shall be deemed as approval and certification of the contribution; and

(III) Certification of eligibility for credit of a contribution of a specified value or amount must be transmitted by the executive director of the department of local affairs to the executive director of the department of revenue, the unit of local government or local unit of government locally impacted, and the taxpayer.

(b) In the event that the taxpayer purchases any bonds relating to public facilities as provided in this subsection (2) or makes any loans or guaranty arising out of the issuance of such bonds, the contribution, for purposes of subparagraphs (I) and (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), shall be the purchase price of any bonds purchased, the face value of any bonds guaranteed, or the amount loaned; except that the taxpayer shall be entitled to claim as a credit pursuant to subsection (3) of this section only the amount of loss on any such bonds, the amount paid in satisfaction of any such guaranty, or the amount of default on any such bonds.

(c) In order for a loss from the purchase and sale of bonds to qualify as an approved contribution:

(I) The purchase must arise out of the original distribution of such bonds; and

(II) The sale of such bonds must be made through a registered broker; and

(III) The sale must take place within five business days of the purchase.

(3) A taxpayer shall be entitled to credit against its severance tax liability in an amount equal to the total of all contributions made and certified as eligible for credit plus the amounts calculated pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section. The taxpayer may claim such credit by submitting with the annual declarations and returns required by section 39-29-112 the certifications of eligibility for such credit or evidence regarding deemed certification, and in the case of losses sustained by reason of the sale of any bonds purchased by the taxpayer, by reason of satisfaction of a guaranty obligation of the taxpayer arising out of the issuance of bonds, or by reason of loans made by the taxpayer, evidence of such losses. The amount of credit available in any one taxable year, including carry-overs, shall not exceed the taxpayer's severance tax liability in such year. Any excess shall be carried over and shall be available as a credit in the next succeeding year or years subject to the same annual limitation.

(4) For the purposes of this section, minerals or mineral fuels shall include, but not be limited to, oil shale, crude oil, natural gas, and oil and gas.

(5) The executive director of the department of local affairs, or his or her designee; the executive director of the department of natural resources, or his or her designee; the executive director of the department of revenue, or his or her designee; and the energy impact assistance advisory committee created in section 34-63-102 (5) (b) (I), C.R.S., shall work together with the executive director, or his or her designee, of the Colorado municipal league, or its successor organization; the executive director, or his or her designee, of Colorado counties, incorporated, or its successor organization; representatives of the energy and mineral industry; and any other stakeholders to determine how best to improve the impact assistance credit established in this section so that any major infrastructure needs of communities impacted by the energy and mineral industry are addressed. The group specified in this subsection (5) shall recommend any proposed legislation to the agriculture, livestock, and natural resources committee of the house of representatives and the agriculture, natural resources, and energy committee of the senate, or any successor committees, no later than January 31, 2009.

Moneys may be transferred from the reserve to offset temporary revenue reductions in the programs specified in subsection (1) of this section and to offset reductions for programs specified in subsection (2) of this section, up to fifteen percent of the current fiscal year's transfers specified in subsection (2) of this section; except that, if the general assembly determines that transfers of moneys from the reserve are needed during a state revenue crisis, the transfers shall be a loan from the reserve to be repaid as soon as moneys are available. This provision is intended to mitigate the impact of fluctuations in the amount of revenue credited to the fund from year to year so as to maintain current levels of service for the programs specified in subsection (1) of this section.

(II) This paragraph (b) is repealed, effective July 1, 2014.

(I) Forty percent on July 1;

(II) Thirty percent on January 4;

(III) Thirty percent on April 1.

(b) (I) If the revenue estimate prepared by the staff of the legislative council in June of any fiscal year indicates that the amount of severance tax revenues to be credited to the operational account in the next fiscal year as specified in section 39-29-109 (2) (b) is insufficient for the state treasurer to make the transfers set forth in subsection (2) of this section and to meet the reserve requirement specified in subsection (3) of this section, all transfers scheduled to be made on July 1 shall be proportionally reduced. The July 1 proportional reduction shall be calculated based on the size of the annual transfers as specified in subsection (2) of this section and shall be made to the extent necessary to cover forty percent of the projected shortfall between total moneys available in the operational account and the sum of the total operating appropriations for the programs specified in subsection (1) of this section, the total fiscal year's transfers specified in subsection (2) of this section, and the reserve requirement specified in subsection (3) of this section; except that up to one-third of the fifteen percent of the current fiscal year's transfers specified as part of the reserve set forth in subsection (3) of this section shall be used to offset any proportional reduction required by this subparagraph (I) in any fiscal year.

(II) If the revenue estimate prepared by the staff of the legislative council in December of any fiscal year indicates that the amount of severance tax revenues credited to the operational account as specified in section 39-29-109 (2) (b) is insufficient for the state treasurer to make the transfers set forth in subsection (2) of this section and to meet the reserve requirement specified in subsection (3) of this section, all transfers scheduled to be made on January 4 of the fiscal year shall be proportionally reduced. The January 4 proportional reduction shall be calculated based on the size of the annual transfers as specified in subsection (2) of this section and shall be made to the extent necessary to cover seventy percent of the projected shortfall between total moneys available in the operational account and the sum of the total operating appropriations for the programs specified in subsection (1) of this section, the total fiscal year's transfers specified in subsection (2) of this section, and the reserve requirement specified in subsection (3) of this section; except that up to one-third of the fifteen percent of the current fiscal year's transfers specified as part of the reserve set forth in subsection (3) of this section shall be used to offset any proportional reduction required by this subparagraph (II) in any fiscal year.

(III) If the revenue estimate prepared by the staff of the legislative council in March of any fiscal year indicates that the amount of severance tax revenues credited to the operational account as specified in section 39-29-109 (2) (b) is insufficient for the state treasurer to make the transfers set forth in subsection (2) of this section and to meet the reserve requirement specified in subsection (3) of this section, all transfers scheduled to be made on April 1 of the fiscal year shall be proportionally reduced. The April 1 proportional reduction shall be calculated based on the size of the annual transfers as specified in subsection (2) of this section and shall be made to the extent necessary to cover the projected shortfall between total moneys available in the operational account and the sum of the total operating appropriations for the programs specified in subsection (1) of this section, the total fiscal year's transfers specified in subsection (2) of this section, and the reserve requirement specified in subsection (3) of this section; except that any moneys remaining of the fifteen percent of the current fiscal year's transfers specified as part of the reserve set forth in subsection (3) of this section shall be used to offset any proportional reduction required by this subparagraph (III) in any fiscal year.

(IV) If proportional reductions are made to either the July 1 or January 4 installments, the April 1 installment may be increased to offset proportional reductions made earlier in the current fiscal year to the maximum extent allowable under the revenue estimate prepared by the staff of the legislative council in March of any fiscal year. The April 1 installment shall only be increased if the revenue estimate indicates that the amount of severance tax revenues credited to the operational account as specified in section 39-29-109 (2) (b) is sufficient to fund such increased installments and still meet the reserve requirement specified in subsection (3) of this section.

(c) (I) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (4), the state treasurer shall make the transfers specified in paragraph (f) of subsection (2) of this section as follows:

(A) The transfers to the Colorado energy office low-income energy assistance fund shall be made on July 1;

(B) The transfers to the department of human services low-income energy assistance fund shall be made on January 4;

(C) The transfers to the energy outreach Colorado low-income energy assistance fund shall be made on April 1.

(II) If there are proportional reductions made to the transfers specified in this paragraph (c) pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (4), the treasurer shall transfer on July 1 of the following fiscal year the amount of the proportional reduction to the fund that should have received that money from the funding for the following fiscal year as specified in paragraph (f) of subsection (2) of this section and shall then distribute the remaining funding for the following fiscal year pursuant to the percentages specified in said paragraph (f).

(5) In addition to the distributions specified in paragraph (a) of subsection (4) of this section, if there were any proportional reductions required in a fiscal year as specified in paragraph (b) of said subsection (4), after the reserve specified in subsection (3) of this section is made whole if any portion of the reserve was used as specified in paragraph (b) of subsection (4) of this section to offset any proportional reduction required by said paragraph (b) of subsection (4), the state treasurer shall make proportional distributions on August 20 of the following fiscal year to the programs specified in subsection (2) of this section if the revenues actually received in the operational account of the severance tax trust fund for the previous fiscal year were sufficient for the state treasurer to more fully make the transfers set forth in subsection (2) of this section and to fully meet the reserve requirement specified in subsection (3) of this section.

(6) (a) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, on April 15, 2010, the state treasurer shall deduct eleven million dollars from the operational account and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(b) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, on June 30, 2012, the state treasurer shall deduct three million nine hundred fifty thousand dollars from the operational account and transfer such sum to the general fund.

Moneys in the fund are hereby annually appropriated to the Colorado energy office for the purposes set forth in subsection (3) of this section. All income and interest derived from the deposit and investment of the moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund.

The executive director shall not distribute any moneys or make any loans from such fund unless sufficient moneys remain in the fund to be distributed to each county pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a).

(b) (I) Seventy percent of the funds from the local government severance tax fund shall be distributed to those political subdivisions socially or economically impacted by the development, processing, or energy conversion of minerals and mineral fuels subject to taxation under this article and used for the planning, construction, and maintenance of public facilities and for the provision of public services. Such funds shall also be distributed to political subdivisions to compensate them for loss of property tax revenue resulting from the deduction of severance taxes paid in the determination of the valuation for assessment of producing mines. The executive director of the department of local affairs shall consider the economic needs of a political subdivision for purposes of making distributions pursuant to this subparagraph (I).

(II) (A) In addition to the distribution of moneys authorized under subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b), the executive director may distribute moneys or make loans, or any combination thereof, to such political subdivisions for the planning, design, construction, erection, building, acquisition, alteration, modernization, reconstruction, improvement, or expansion of domestic wastewater treatment works or potable water treatment facilities. (A) Moneys to the uranium mill tailings remedial action program fund in accordance with the provisions of section 39-29-116 (3);

(B) Moneys to the department of public health and environment for any direct and indirect costs associated with the monitoring, notification, and handling of designated uranium mill tailings that are authorized in section 25-11-303, C.R.S., and the amount of the distribution made pursuant to this sub-subparagraph (B) shall be equal to the amount appropriated to the department of public health and environment by the general assembly for such direct and indirect costs; and

(C) Up to fifty thousand dollars each state fiscal year to political subdivisions that include mill sites designated for cleanup pursuant to federal Public Law 95-604 for reimbursement of actual, documented costs related to the cleanup of uranium mill tailings.

(IV) In addition to the distribution of moneys authorized under subparagraphs (I), (II), and (III) of this paragraph (b), the executive director may distribute moneys to those privately organized volunteer fire departments serving areas socially or economically impacted by the development, processing, or energy conversion of minerals and mineral fuels subject to taxation under this article, for the purpose of purchasing equipment to fight fires.

(c) (I) For state fiscal years commencing prior to July 1, 2008, an amount equal to thirty percent of said gross receipts credited to the local government severance tax fund shall be distributed to counties or municipalities on the basis of the proportion of employees of the mine or related facility or crude oil, natural gas, or oil and gas operation who reside in any such county's unincorporated area or in any such municipality to the total number of employees of the mine or related facility or crude oil, natural gas, or oil and gas operation. Such distribution shall be made on the basis of the report required in paragraph (d) of this subsection (1). For state fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 2008, thirty percent of said gross receipts credited to the local government severance tax fund shall be allocated to counties based upon the following factors:

(A) On the basis of the report required in paragraph (d) of this subsection (1), the proportion of employees of mines or related facilities or crude oil, natural gas, or oil and gas operations who reside in a county to the total number of employees of mines or related facilities or crude oil, natural gas, or oil and gas operations who reside in the state;

(B) The proportion of the mine and well permits issued in a county to the total number of such permits issued in the state; and

(C) The proportion of the overall quantity of mineral production within a county to the total overall quantity of production within the state.

(II) (A) For the state fiscal year commencing on July 1, 2008, the factor set forth in sub-subparagraph (A) of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) shall be weighted fifty percent and the factors set forth in sub-subparagraphs (B) and (C) of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) shall be weighted twenty-five percent each.

(B) For state fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 2009, each of the three factors set forth in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) shall be weighted thirty percent, and the executive director of the department of local affairs, in consultation with the energy impact assistance advisory committee established pursuant to section 34-63-102 (5) (b) (I), C.R.S., shall establish guidelines that set forth the factor or factors under which the remaining ten percent shall be weighted.

(III) Except as otherwise set forth in subparagraph (IV) of this paragraph (c), the moneys allocated to each county pursuant to this paragraph (c) shall be further distributed to the county and to each municipality within the county based upon the following factors:

(A) The proportion of employees reported as residents under paragraph (d) of this subsection (1) in any such county's unincorporated area or in any such municipality within the county to the total number of employees reported as residents in the county as a whole under paragraph (d) of this subsection (1);

(B) The proportion of the population in any such county's unincorporated area or in any such municipality within the county to the total population in the county, as such population is reported in the most recently published population estimate from the state demographer appointed by the executive director of the department of local affairs; and

(C) The proportion of road miles in any such county's unincorporated area or in any such municipality within the county to the total road miles in the county, as such miles are certified by the department of transportation to the state treasurer pursuant to sections 43-4-207 (2) (d) and 43-4-208 (3), C.R.S.

(IV) With respect to the distribution made pursuant to subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c), the executive director of the department of local affairs, in consultation with the energy impact assistance advisory committee established pursuant to section 34-63-102 (5) (b) (I), C.R.S., shall establish guidelines that set forth the weight that each of the factors in sub-subparagraphs (A) to (C) of subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c) shall be given. These guidelines shall apply uniformly across the state; except that the executive director may:

(A) Accept a memorandum of understanding from a county and all municipalities contained therein that establishes an alternative distribution that shall be effective within such county; and

(B) After consultation with the energy impact advisory committee established pursuant to section 34-63-102 (5) (b) (I), C.R.S., vary the weight that each of the factors in sub-subparagraphs (A) to (C) of subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c) receives in an individual county, in order to more fairly distribute the gross receipts among the county and all municipalities contained therein.

(V) Moneys distributed from the local government severance tax fund pursuant to this paragraph (c) shall be distributed no later than August 31 of each year. Counties and municipalities shall utilize revenues received under this subsection (1) only for the purposes of capital expenses and general operating expenses.

(VI) On or before January 1, 2010, and every second January 1 thereafter, the executive director of the department of local affairs shall submit to each member of the general assembly a report that evaluates the effectiveness of the allocation and distribution of moneys pursuant to this paragraph (c) to counties and municipalities impacted by the development, processing, or energy conversion of minerals and mineral fuels subject to taxation under this article, and, if appropriate, that proposes changes to the allocation and distribution. The provisions of section 24-1-136 (1) (a) (I), C.R.S., shall not apply to the report.

39-29-111. Withholding of income from oil and gas interest. (1) (a) Every producer or purchaser who disburses funds that are owed to any person owning a working interest, a royalty interest, a production payment, or any other interest in any oil or gas produced in Colorado shall, unless such production is exempt under section 39-29-105 (1) and the producer or purchaser has registered such exempt production with the department of revenue in accordance with rules promulgated by the department, withhold from the amount owed to such person an amount equal to one percent of the gross income from such interest, except for income accruing to the United States or the state of Colorado or to any political subdivision of the state of Colorado. The amount withheld shall be based on gross income as defined in section 39-29-102 (3) (a). On or before each March 1, June 1, September 1, and December 1 prior to July 1, 2007, the aggregate of all such amounts withheld during the prior calendar quarter shall be paid to the department; and, no later than such dates, a report covering the withholding of such amounts shall be filed with the department upon forms prescribed by the executive director. On the first day of each month beginning with July 1, 2007, the aggregate of all such amounts withheld during the calendar month that was three months prior thereto shall be paid to the department in the manner set forth in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1). Nothing in this section shall be so construed as to reduce the tax imposed by this article.

(b) On and after July 1, 2007, all amounts paid to the department of revenue pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall be remitted electronically. The department shall promulgate rules in accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., governing electronic payment.

(2) Every person making a return as required by section 39-29-112 may take credit for the amount withheld by the producer or the first purchaser against the tax shown to be due upon such return, and any overpayment shown on such return shall be refunded to the taxpayer.

(3) For the purposes of subsection (1) of this section, "producer" means every person producing or extracting oil shale or oil and gas deposits located within this state or the first purchaser of oil shale or oil and gas produced from deposits located within this state.

(4) On or before March 1 of each year, every producer or purchaser shall provide each person holding any interest pursuant to subsection (1) of this section with a statement of the amounts deducted and withheld pursuant to this section from disbursements made to such person during the preceding calendar year. Such statements shall be retained in the records of every producer or purchaser for a period of three years and shall be made available to the department of revenue upon the written request of the department.

39-29-112. Procedures and reports. (1) Except as set forth in subsections (6) and (7) of this section, every person subject to taxation under the provisions of this article shall make an annual return to the department of revenue, separate and apart from other returns required to be made under the provisions of articles 20 to 28 of this title, upon a form to be prescribed by the executive director. Such return shall be filed with the department of revenue on or before the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the end of the taxable year. Payment of the tax shown to be due shall be made at the time such return is filed. The executive director may grant a reasonable extension of time for filing returns and for paying the tax under such rules as he may prescribe. In the event of the failure to file the return within the time required or the extension of the time granted by the executive director, there shall be added to the tax a penalty as provided for in section 39-29-115.

(2) Every corporation subject to taxation under the provisions of this article shall make a declaration and payment of estimated tax if the tax imposed by this article for the taxable year can reasonably be expected to exceed one thousand dollars. Such declaration and payment shall be made to the department of revenue, separate and apart from other returns required under the provisions of articles 20 to 28 of this title, upon a form prescribed by the executive director. Such declaration shall be filed with and payment made to the department of revenue in accordance with the provisions of section 39-22-606.

(3) All unexpended balances in any oil shale and oil and gas severance tax withholding fund established to carry out the purposes of this article as of June 30, 1978, and on each June 30 thereafter, or at any time determined by the controller with the approval of the state treasurer shall be credited to the general fund of the state. Such unexpended balances shall include all moneys which for any reason cannot be refunded. All warrants covering refunds from said severance tax withholding fund which cannot for any reason be delivered to the taxpayer to whom due and which are not presented for payment within six months after the date of issuance thereof shall be void, and the moneys represented thereby shall be included in the unexpended balance in said fund at the expiration of any fiscal year. Persons entitled to the refunds of moneys represented by warrants which cannot be delivered to the taxpayer and which are not presented for payment within six months after the date of issuance thereof may file claims for refund at any time within four years after the date the tax return which establishes the right to the refund was required to be filed. Claims for refund not filed within the prescribed four-year period shall not be allowed or paid.

(4) The tax imposed by this article is hereby declared to be a special classified and limited tax in accordance with the provisions of section 17 of article X of the state constitution.

(5) The taxpayer's taxable year under this article shall be the same as his taxable year for federal income tax purposes.

(6) The provisions of subsections (1) to (3) and subsection (5) of this section shall not apply to persons filing quarterly declaration forms and making quarterly payments of tax pursuant to the provisions of section 39-29-104.

(7) A person is not required to make a separate, annual return to the department of revenue for a taxable year pursuant to subsection (1) of this section if:

(a) The person has less than two hundred fifty dollars withheld by all unit operators or first purchasers pursuant to section 39-29-111 (1) for the taxable year; and

(b) The amount of withholding is greater than or equal to the amount of tax levied pursuant to this article that is owed by the person for the taxable year.

39-29-113. Exemption prohibited - when. (1) If any person likely to be liable for taxes imposed pursuant to the provisions of this article transfers all or part of his property to another person controlled, directly or indirectly, by the transferor before or after the transfer, the executive director may disallow to the transferee any exemption from tax otherwise authorized pursuant to this article unless such transferee establishes by a clear preponderance of the evidence that the securing of such an exemption was not a major purpose of such transfer.

(2) As used in this section, "control" means:

(a) The ownership, directly or indirectly, of more than fifty percent of the voting stock of the transferee corporation; or

(b) With respect to a transferee other than a corporation, that the transferor owns, during any part of the transferee's taxable year, a greater economic interest than any other owner of the transferee.

39-29-114. Component members of a controlled group treated as one taxpayer. (1) For the purposes of this article, persons who are members of the same controlled group of corporations shall be treated as one taxpayer.

(2) If fifty percent or more of the beneficial interest in two or more corporations, trusts, or estates is owned by the same or related persons (taking into account only persons who own at least five percent of such beneficial interest), the exemptions allowed under this article shall be allocated among all such entities in proportion to their respective quantities of production from the property of such entities.

(3) In the case of individuals who are members of the same family, the exemptions allowed under this article shall be allocated among such individuals in proportion to their respective quantities of production from the property of such individuals. For the purposes of this article, the family of an individual shall be deemed to include only his spouse and children.

(4) For the purposes of this section, the term "controlled group of corporations" has the meaning given to such term by the "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", in section 613A, as of January 1, 1987. The change of the reference in this section from the "Internal Revenue Code of 1954" to the "Internal Revenue Code of 1986" shall not affect any act done or any right accrued or accruing before or after such change, but all rights and liabilities shall continue and may be enforced in the same manner as if such references had not been changed.

39-29-115. Penalties and interest. (1) Any person who fails to file a report or to pay the tax due thereon shall pay a penalty of thirty percent of the tax assessed or thirty dollars, whichever is greater, and the interest due under the provisions of section 39-21-110.5.

(1.5) Any person who fails to withhold income and make a payment required pursuant to section 39-29-111 shall pay a penalty of up to thirty percent of the required payment or thirty dollars, whichever is the greater amount, and the interest due under the provisions of section 39-21-110.5. Any person who withholds income pursuant to section 39-29-111 and who fails to file the annual report required by the rules promulgated by the department of revenue related to such withholding shall pay a penalty of up to fifteen percent of the amount of withholding that should have been reflected in the report or one thousand five hundred dollars, whichever is the lesser amount. The penalty set forth in this subsection (1.5) for failing to withhold income and make a payment shall not apply if the income was from a well that qualified for the exemption set forth in section 39-29-105 (1) (b) for the prior taxable year.

(2) Tax assessed pursuant to an error contained on a previously filed return which was due to negligence or disregard of the law shall have added thereto:

(a) A penalty of ten percent of the tax assessed; and

(b) Penalty interest of one-half of one percent per month, in addition to the interest due under section 39-21-110.5, on the tax assessed.

(3) (a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this subsection (3), if any person fails, neglects, or refuses to file a report required by this article, the executive director may, upon such information as may be available to him, estimate the amount of tax due for the period for which no report was filed, with applicable penalties and interest, and mail such estimate to the last-known address of such person. The amount so estimated, together with the penalties and interest, shall become fixed, due, and payable, as if such person had filed a report showing such amounts unless, within ten days after receiving the estimate, such person files a true and correct report for the period and pays the tax, penalty, and interest due thereon.

(b) The executive director shall not send an estimate for a taxable year pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) to a person who has less than two hundred fifty dollars withheld by all unit operators or first purchasers for the taxable year pursuant to section 39-29-111 (1), unless the executive director has good cause to believe that such person does not qualify for the exception to the filing requirement set forth in section 39-29-112 (7).

(4) The executive director may waive, for good cause shown, any of the penalties authorized by this section.

39-29-116. Uranium mill tailings remedial action program fund - creation - oversight committee - repeal. (1) The general assembly hereby declares that the purpose of creating the uranium mill tailings remedial action program fund is to provide a funding source to match federal funds available under the federal "Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act of 1978", 42 U.S.C. 7901 et seq., for the purpose of cleaning up certain sites designated in Colorado for cleanup. The general assembly states that its intent in enacting this section is to assure that Colorado has those state moneys set aside in order to obtain the federal funds before those federal funds are completely used in cleaning up other sites or are no longer available. The general assembly further intends that the amount of moneys transferred into this new fund from the severance tax trust fund and the amounts which will be awarded from the local government severance tax fund and the local government mineral impact fund should be sufficient to clean up all of the federal designated sites in Colorado without additional appropriation, transfers, or awards.

(2) There is hereby created in the office of the state treasurer the uranium mill tailings remedial action program fund for the sole purpose of providing a state match to federal funds available for the cleanup of uranium mill tailing sites as designated for cleanup under the federal "Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act of 1978", 42 U.S.C. sec. 7901 et seq. The fund shall consist of moneys transferred to the fund from the severance tax trust fund in accordance with section 39-29-109 (5) as it existed prior to its repeal and any other moneys made available or appropriated into the uranium mill tailings remedial action program fund pursuant to subsection (3) of this section. The moneys in the uranium mill tailings remedial action program fund available for remedial costs only shall not exceed fifty-seven million dollars. Moneys in the fund shall be subject to annual appropriation. All interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the uranium mill tailings remedial action program fund shall be credited to such fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys in the uranium mill tailings remedial action program fund at the end of the 1998-99 fiscal year shall be credited and transferred to the local government severance tax fund established pursuant to section 39-29-110.

(3) (a) The state treasurer may accept and credit to the uranium mill tailings remedial action program fund any donations received by the state for the express purpose of projects for the cleanup of uranium mill tailings. The donations may include any amounts made available from the local government severance tax fund and the local government mineral impact fund as directed by the executive director of the department of local affairs pursuant to section 39-29-110 and section 34-63-102, C.R.S., and with the approval of the oversight committee as created in subsection (4) of this section. It is the intent of the general assembly that a minimum of six million dollars be retained in the local government severance tax fund and the local government mineral impact fund for grants and loans to local communities.

(b) Before or during fiscal year 1993-94, the executive director of the department of local affairs shall distribute not less than five million dollars to the uranium mill tailings remedial action program fund from the local government mineral impact fund, the local government severance tax fund, or a combination thereof. The executive director shall determine the amount of moneys, if any, to be distributed from each fund.

(c) Before or during fiscal years 1994-95, 1995-96, and 1996-97, the executive director of the department of local affairs shall distribute in the aggregate not less than five million dollars to the uranium mill tailings remedial action program fund from the local government mineral impact fund, the local government severance tax fund, or a combination thereof; except that at least two and one-half million dollars shall be distributed before or during fiscal year 1995-96. The executive director shall determine the amount of moneys, if any, to be distributed from each fund.

(d) For fiscal years after 1996-97, the executive director of the department of local affairs may distribute moneys from the local government mineral impact fund and the local government severance tax fund pursuant to sections 34-63-102 and 39-29-110 (1) (b) (III) (A), C.R.S., respectively.

(4) (a) There is hereby created a uranium mill tailings remedial action oversight committee, referred to in this subsection (4) as the "oversight committee". The oversight committee shall consist of five members as set forth in paragraph (a.5) of this subsection (4). The department of public health and environment shall annually report on or before September 15 of each year to the oversight committee at a meeting called by the chairperson of the oversight committee on the progress of the cleanup of uranium mill tailing sites pursuant to the uranium mill tailings remedial action program, the proposed and final transfers or disposition of the land of any of the sites, the proposed program activities, any direct and indirect costs associated with the monitoring, notification, and handling of designated uranium mill tailings that are authorized in section 25-11-303, C.R.S., and financing requested for the next fiscal year. The oversight committee shall review such report and obtain any additional information it needs in order to prepare a recommendation to the joint budget committee on the proposed funding amounts and sources for the next fiscal year. The recommendation shall be made within forty-five days of the oversight committee meeting at which the department of public health and environment presents its annual report.

(a.5) (I) Repealed.

(II) On and after July 1, 2007, the oversight committee shall consist of the executive director of the department of local affairs and one member appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives, by the minority leader of the house of representatives, by the president of the senate, and by the minority leader of the senate. All of the legislative members shall be from districts that include uranium mill tailing sites designated for cleanup under the federal "Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act of 1978", 42 U.S.C. sec. 7901 et seq., as amended. During odd-numbered years, the member appointed by the president of the senate shall be the chairperson of the oversight committee and the member appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives shall be the vice-chairperson of the oversight committee, and, during even-numbered years, the member appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives shall be the chairperson of the oversight committee and the member appointed by the president of the senate shall be the vice-chairperson of the oversight committee.

(b) The terms of the members appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives, the president of the senate, the minority leader of the house, and the minority leader of the senate and who are appointed pursuant to subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a.5) of this subsection (4) shall be extended to and expire on or shall terminate on the convening date of the first regular session of the sixty-seventh general assembly. As soon as practicable after such convening date, the speaker, the president, the minority leader of the house, and the minority leader of the senate shall appoint or reappoint members in the same manner as provided in paragraph (a.5) of this subsection (4). Thereafter, the terms of the members appointed or reappointed by the speaker, the president, the minority leader of the house, and the minority leader of the senate shall expire on the convening date of the first regular session of each general assembly, and all subsequent appointments and reappointments by the speaker, the president, the minority leader of the house, and the minority leader of the senate shall be made as soon as practicable after such convening date. The person making the original appointment or reappointment shall fill any vacancy by appointment for the remainder of an unexpired term. Oversight committee members appointed or reappointed by the speaker, the president, the minority leader of the house, and the minority leader of the senate shall serve at the pleasure of the appointing authority and shall continue in office until the member's successor is appointed.

(c) The legislative members of the oversight committee shall be reimbursed for necessary expenses in connection with the performance of their duties, including attendance at a meeting of the joint budget committee to present the oversight committee's recommendations, and shall be paid the same per diem as other members of interim committees in attendance at meetings.

(5) No new sites may be added to the uranium mill tailings remedial action program without the approval of the general assembly acting by bill.

39-30-102. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares:

(a) That the health, safety, and welfare of the people of this state are dependent upon the continued encouragement, development, and expansion of opportunities for employment in the private sector in this state;

(b) That there currently exist in this state both rural and urban areas which require new employment opportunities to overcome conditions of unemployment, underemployment, net out-migration of the population, chronic economic distress, deterioration of main street business districts, or sudden and severe economic dislocations and that such conditions may well exist, from time to time, in other areas of the state; and

(c) That some rural counties in this state continue to have difficulty in promoting economic growth despite the existence of enterprise zones and their associated tax credits.

(2) It is, therefore, declared to be the policy of the state, in order to provide incentives for private enterprise to expand and for new businesses to locate in such economically depressed areas and to provide more job opportunities for residents of such areas, to establish a pilot program for tax incentives and other assistance for enterprises in designated areas to be known as enterprise zones.

(3) (a) It is the intent of the general assembly that state agencies, including but not limited to the division of local government in the department of local affairs, the department of labor and employment, the department of revenue, the state board for community colleges and occupational education in the department of higher education, and the Colorado office of economic development created in the office of the governor, place special emphasis on providing assistance to designated enterprise zones.

(b) It is further declared to be the intent of the general assembly that areas so designated also be eligible to apply for designation under federal enterprise zone legislation that may be enacted.

39-30-103. Zones established - review - termination - repeal. (1) Any municipality, county, or group of contiguous municipalities or counties may propose an area of such municipality, county, or group of municipalities or counties to be designated as an enterprise zone if the area has a population of no more than one hundred fifteen thousand persons as calculated pursuant to subsection (1.3) of this section, or one hundred fifty thousand persons as calculated pursuant to subsection (1.3) of this section if the area is a rural area, and meets at least one of the following additional criteria:

(a) An unemployment rate at least twenty-five percent above the state average for the most recent period of twelve consecutive months for which data is available from the United States census bureau or the department of local affairs;

(b) A population growth rate less than twenty-five percent of the state average rate for the most recent five-year period for which data are available from the United States census bureau or the department of local affairs, or, if such data is not available for any five-year period, for the most recent period of not less than five nor more than ten years for which such data is available; or

(c) A per capita income less than seventy-five percent of the state average for the most recent period for which data is available from the United States census bureau or the department of local affairs.

(1.3) For the purposes of this article, the population of an enterprise zone shall be calculated using data from the United States census bureau or the department of local affairs at the county, municipal, or block levels. Such calculations that require the use of block level data shall include the entire population of each block in which the enterprise zone is located.

(6) (a) When the termination of an enterprise zone or portion of an enterprise zone would prevent a taxpayer from qualifying for tax benefits under this article and the taxpayer can identify job creation or capital expansion activities that were planned prior to the termination announcement and that would have otherwise entitled the taxpayer to claim tax benefits under section 39-30-103.5, 39-30-104, or 39-30-105, the enterprise zone administrator and the taxpayer shall jointly certify detailed information about such planned activities. A taxpayer who files such certification with the taxpayer's state income tax return may claim tax benefits otherwise actually earned up to the limits of such certified information for a period not to exceed the ten tax years following the year in which the enterprise zone or portion of an enterprise zone was terminated. It is the intent of this subsection (6) only to permit taxpayers to claim tax benefits on which they demonstrably relied in making business planning decisions, and, except as specifically provided in this subsection (6), nothing in this subsection (6) shall be construed to authorize the commission or any enterprise zone administrator to grant tax benefits that have been repealed by the general assembly or to grant tax benefits in excess of the limits established by law.

(b) Notwithstanding any date restriction set forth in its text, any certification that was prepared pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (6) prior to June 3, 2002, that extends the right of a taxpayer to claim tax benefits for the maximum period that was allowed by law at the time the certification was prepared, and that allows the taxpayer to claim tax benefits for one or more income tax years that end on or after June 3, 2002, shall extend the right of the taxpayer to claim tax benefits for the maximum period specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (6).

(7) (a) Beginning on January 1, 2012, before a taxpayer engages in any activity for which the taxpayer intends to claim an income tax credit pursuant to section 39-30-104, 39-30-105, 39-30-105.5, or 39-30-105.6, an authorized company official of the taxpayer's business or the taxpayer who is the owner of the business shall submit a pre-certification form to the enterprise zone administrator as specified in this subsection (7). A taxpayer that completes an activity prior to January 1, 2012, for which the taxpayer intends to claim an income tax credit pursuant to this article shall submit to the zone administrator on or before December 31, 2012, any information related to such completed activity that is necessary to receive certification from the zone administrator that the taxpayer's business is located in the enterprise zone. Nothing in this subsection (7) shall be construed to require a taxpayer to submit a pre-certification form to the zone administrator for activities completed prior to January 1, 2012. In connection with the pre-certification, the taxpayer shall be required to:

(I) Obtain verification from the enterprise zone administrator that the taxpayer's business is located in an enterprise zone;

(II) Certify that the taxpayer is aware of the enterprise zone income tax credits allowed pursuant to this article;

(III) Certify that the enterprise zone income tax credits allowed pursuant to this article are a contributing factor to the start-up, expansion, or relocation of the taxpayer's business in the enterprise zone; and

(IV) Certify that the taxpayer acknowledges that the pre-certification required pursuant to this section is for activities that shall commence after the date that the pre-certification form is executed by the enterprise zone administrator through the end of the business's then-current income tax year.

(b) The department of revenue shall amend the current certification forms that a taxpayer is required to complete in connection with claiming an income tax credit pursuant to this article, to include a section through which the taxpayer or an authorized company official of the taxpayer's business may provide the information required pursuant to subparagraphs (II) to (IV) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (7).

39-30-103.2. Enhanced rural enterprise zones - criteria - termination. (1) The portion of any county within an enterprise zone designated pursuant to section 39-30-103 shall be designated as an enhanced rural enterprise zone if the county that contains the area to be so designated meets two or more of the following criteria:

(a) The county has an unemployment rate at least fifty percent above the state average unemployment rate for the most recent period of twelve consecutive months for which data are available from the department of labor and employment;

(b) The county has a population growth rate less than twenty-five percent of the state average population growth rate for the most recent five-year period for which data are available from the United States census bureau or the department of local affairs, or if such data are not available for any five-year period, for the most recent period of not less than five nor more than ten years for which such data are available;

(c) The average per capita income in the county is less than seventy-five percent of the state average per capita income for the most recent period for which data are available from the United States census bureau or the department of local affairs;

(d) The total assessed value of all nonresidential property within the county ranks in the lower one-half of all counties based on the total value of nonresidential property for the most recent year for which such data are available from the department of local affairs;

(e) The county has a population of five thousand or less as estimated by the department of local affairs.

(2) By December 1, 2002, and every two years thereafter, the director of the Colorado office of economic development shall determine whether each county meets two or more of the criteria specified in subsection (1) of this section. Such determination shall be based on the most recent statistics available. The director of the Colorado office of economic development shall provide to each enterprise zone administrator and to the board of county commissioners of each eligible county a list of the counties that meet two or more of the criteria specified in subsection (1) of this section.

(3) If a county containing a previously designated enhanced rural enterprise zone does not appear on the biennial list of eligible counties provided by the director of the Colorado office of economic development, the enterprise zone within such county shall be terminated as an enhanced rural enterprise zone as of January 1 following the issuance of such list. If the county appears again on a subsequent list of eligible counties, the portion of the county within an enterprise zone shall be designated as an enhanced rural enterprise zone.

(4) The termination of an enhanced rural enterprise zone shall not restrict, curtail, terminate, or otherwise cut off any tax credits that were earned by any taxpayer based on transactions completed while a county was designated as an enhanced rural enterprise zone. In addition, the director of the Colorado office of economic development shall establish procedures for recognizing and allowing credits to taxpayers who have taken actions in reliance on agreements reached with enhanced rural enterprise zone administrators or local governments for long-term investments.

(5) If the termination of an enhanced rural enterprise zone would prevent a taxpayer from qualifying for tax benefits under this article and the taxpayer can identify job creation or capital expansion activities that were planned before the director of the Colorado office of economic development issued the list of eligible counties and that would have otherwise entitled the taxpayer to claim tax benefits under section 39-30-105, the enterprise zone administrator and the taxpayer shall jointly certify detailed information about such planned activities. A taxpayer who files such certification with the taxpayer's state income tax return may claim tax benefits otherwise actually earned up to the limits of such certified information for a period not to exceed the five tax years following the year in which the enhanced rural enterprise zone was terminated. It is the intent of this subsection (5) to permit taxpayers to claim only those tax benefits on which they demonstrably relied in making business planning decisions, and, except as specifically provided in this subsection

(5), nothing in this subsection (5) shall be construed to authorize any enterprise zone administrator to grant tax benefits that have been repealed by law or to grant tax benefits in excess of the limits established by law.

(1) (a) (I) Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), for income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1989, any taxpayer who makes a monetary or in-kind contribution for the purpose of implementing the economic development plan for the enterprise zone to the person or agency designated as the enterprise zone administrator by the department of local affairs, and on or after July 1, 2008, by the person or agency designated as the enterprise zone administrator by the Colorado economic development commission, shall be allowed a credit against the income tax imposed by article 22 of this title in an amount equal to fifty percent of the total value of the contribution as certified by the enterprise zone administrator.

(II) For income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1996, the amount of the credit allowed for contributions made pursuant to this paragraph (a) shall be twenty-five percent of the total value of the contribution as certified by the enterprise zone administrator; except that nothing in this subparagraph (II) shall be construed to affect the amount of the credit:

(A) For contributions made prior to July 1, 1997: To an enterprise zone administrator for a project, program, or organization that was originally approved by an enterprise zone administrator in writing prior to May 1, 1996; or directly to a project, program, or organization that was originally approved by an enterprise zone administrator prior to May 1, 1996, and that is certified by the enterprise zone administrator pursuant to subsection (5) of this section; or

(B) For contributions made on or after July 1, 1997, through December 31, 2000, pursuant to a written agreement executed prior to July 1, 1997, between a taxpayer and an enterprise zone administrator in which the taxpayer pledges to make future contributions to a project, program, or organization that was approved by the enterprise zone administrator pursuant to this section prior to May 1, 1996.

In-kind contributions shall not exceed fifty percent of the total credit claimed.

(c) Upon request, the enterprise zone administrator, acting on behalf of the department of revenue, shall provide the taxpayer with a form to be filed with the department of revenue for the purpose of claiming the credit allowed by this section which shall be accompanied by a copy of the certification of the value and purpose of the contribution furnished to the taxpayer by the enterprise zone administrator.

(d) If the amount of the credit allowed pursuant to the provisions of this section exceeds the amount of income taxes otherwise due on the income of the taxpayer in the income tax year for which the credit is being claimed, the amount of the credit not used as an offset against income taxes in said income tax year may be carried forward as a credit against subsequent years' income tax liability for a period not exceeding five years and shall be applied first to the earliest income tax years possible. Any credit remaining after said period shall not be refunded or credited to the taxpayer.

(e) On or before November 1, 2000, and November 1 of each year thereafter, each zone administrator shall provide to the director of the Colorado office of economic development on behalf of the Colorado economic development commission a list of all programs, projects, and organizations to which taxpayers may contribute during the next calendar year for the purpose of implementing the economic development plan of the zone and receiving a tax credit pursuant to this section. Any modifications to a list, including programs, projects, or organizations that are to be added thereto, shall be submitted to the director of the office of economic development on behalf of the commission by the zone administrator no later than thirty days after the modification is made. Commencing July 1, 1999, the commission is authorized to hold hearings and review any new program, project, or organization included on a list that is submitted to the director of the Colorado office of economic development on behalf of the commission pursuant to this section, any modification to a list, and any other program, project, or organization that the commission determines has changed materially. A list or modification of a list that is submitted to the director of the Colorado office of economic development on behalf of the commission pursuant to this section shall not be considered final until thirty days after the commission has received such information. The commission shall approve any program, project, or organization that it determines is eligible under the requirements of this section or is essential to the mission of the enterprise zone upon a majority vote of the members of the commission present at a meeting at which such approval is considered. The director of the Colorado office of economic development on behalf of the commission shall notify the zone administrator of any program, project, or organization that is not approved within thirty days of receipt of the list or modification of the list. (3) (a) Monetary or in-kind contributions to promote temporary, emergency, or transitional housing programs for the homeless that offer or provide referrals to child care, job placement, and counseling services for the purpose of promoting employment for homeless persons in enterprise zones shall be deemed to be for the purpose of implementing the economic development plan for the enterprise zone and shall include but not be limited to the following types of contributions:

To be eligible for such credit, the employer must contribute fifty percent or more of the total cost of a health insurance plan or program, and such plan or program must be in accordance with the provisions of article 8 of title 10 or part 1, 2, 3, or 4 of article 16 of title 10, C.R.S., or be a self-insurance program and include partial or complete coverage for hospital and physician services.

(4) Repealed.

(5) (a) (I) For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1993, if the total amount of the credits claimed by a taxpayer pursuant to the provisions of subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of subsection (1), paragraph (b) of subsection (1), and paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section exceeds the amount of income taxes due on the income of the taxpayer in the income tax year for which the credits are being claimed, the amount of the credits not used as an offset against income taxes in said income tax year shall not be allowed as a refund but may be carried forward as a credit against subsequent years' tax liability for a period not exceeding five years and shall be applied first to the earliest income tax years possible. Any amount of the credit that is not used during said period shall not be refundable to the taxpayer.

(II) For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2003, if the total amount of credits claimed by a taxpayer pursuant to subparagraph (III) of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section and paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of this section exceeds the amount of income taxes due on the income of the taxpayer in the income tax year for which the credits are being claimed, the amount of credits not used as an offset against income taxes in said income tax year shall not be allowed as a refund but may be carried forward as a credit against subsequent years' tax liability for a period not exceeding seven years and shall be applied first to the earliest income tax years possible. (c) For purposes of this section, a partnership, S corporation, limited liability company, or other entity electing not to be taxed as a corporation may pass through the credits earned under this section in any tax year to its participating partners, shareholders, or members, hereinafter referred to as the "investors" of the entity, in any percentage the entity chooses, up to the amount of the credit earned in the tax year. Credits earned but unclaimed in a tax year for which the entity elects to be taxed as a corporation may not be distributed to investors in a later tax year for which the entity elects not to be taxed as a corporation. In any tax year for which the entity elects not to be taxed as a corporation, all credits passed through to investors may be carried forward at the investor level for the carryover periods specified in this section.

(6) The number of new business facility employees during any taxable year shall be determined by dividing by twelve the sum of the number of new business facility employees on the last business day of each month of such taxable year. If the new business facility is in operation for less than the entire taxable year, the number of new business facility employees shall be determined by dividing the sum of the number of new business facility employees on the last business day of each full calendar month during the portion of the taxable year during which the new business facility was in operation by the number of full calendar months during the period.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (6), for the purpose of determining the credit allowed by this section in the case of a facility that qualifies as a new business facility but is a replacement business facility, the number of new business facility employees employed in the operation of the facility shall be reduced by the average number, determined pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (6), of individuals employed in the operation of the facility that the new business facility replaces during the three taxable years preceding the taxable year in which commencement of commercial operations occurs at the new business facility.

(7) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(II) (A) If a facility that does not constitute a new business facility is expanded by the taxpayer, the expansion shall be considered a separate facility eligible for the credit allowed by this section if: The taxpayer's investment in the expansion exceeds one million dollars or the investment is less than one million dollars but the investment in the expansion exceeds one hundred percent of the investment in the original facility prior to expansion; and the expansion otherwise constitutes a new business facility.

(B) The taxpayer's investment in the expansion and in the original facility prior to expansion shall be determined in the manner provided in paragraph (g) of this subsection (7).

(III) If a facility that does not constitute a new business facility is expanded by the taxpayer, the expansion shall be considered a separate facility for purposes of the credit allowed by this section if:

(A) The expansion results in the employment of ten or more new business facility employees or, for income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1996, a ten percent increase in the number of new business facility employees resulting in the employment of at least one full-time new business facility employee, whichever is less, during the taxable year over and above the average number of employees employed in the enterprise zone by the taxpayer during the twelve months immediately prior to the expansion, determined pursuant to subsection (6) of this section; and

(B) The expansion otherwise constitutes a new business facility.

A facility shall not be considered a new business facility in the hands of the taxpayer if the taxpayer's only activity with respect to the facility is to lease it to another person. If the taxpayer operates only a portion of the facility in the operation of a revenue-producing enterprise and leases another portion of the facility to another person or does not otherwise use the other portions in the operation of a revenue-producing enterprise, the portion operated by the taxpayer in the operation of a revenue-producing enterprise shall be considered a new business facility if the requirements of subparagraphs (II) and (III) of this paragraph (e) are satisfied.

(II) If the facility was acquired by the taxpayer from another person, the facility was not operated immediately prior to the transfer of title to the facility to the taxpayer or immediately prior to the commencement of the term of the lease of the facility to the taxpayer by any other person in the operation of a revenue-producing enterprise, and the taxpayer continues the operation of the same or a substantially identical revenue-producing enterprise at the facility.

(III) The facility is not a replacement business facility.

(f) "New business facility employee" means a person employed by the taxpayer in the operation of a new business facility during the taxable year for which the credit allowed by this section is claimed. A person shall be deemed an employee if the person performs duties in connection with the operation of the new business facility on:

(II) A part-time basis if the person is customarily performing his or her duties at least twenty hours per week throughout the taxable year; or

(III) A seasonal basis if the person performs his or her duties for substantially all of the season customary for the position in which the person is employed.

(g) "New business facility investment" means the value of the real and tangible personal property, except inventory or property held for sale to customers in the ordinary course of the taxpayer's business, that constitutes the new business facility or that is used by the taxpayer in the operation of the new business facility during the taxable year for which the credit allowed by this section is claimed. The value of the property during the taxable year shall be:

A new facility shall be deemed to replace an old facility if the following conditions are met:

(A) The old facility was operated by the taxpayer or a related taxpayer for more than three full taxable years out of the five taxable years next preceding the taxable year in which commencement of commercial operations occurs at the new facility; and

(B) The old facility was operated by the taxpayer or a related taxpayer in the operation of a revenue-producing enterprise and the taxpayer continues the operation of the same or a substantially identical revenue-producing enterprise at the new facility.

(II) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (i), a facility shall not be considered a replacement business facility if the taxpayer's investment in the new facility exceeds three million dollars or the investment is less than three million dollars but the investment in the new facility exceeds three hundred percent of the investment in the old facility by the taxpayer or related taxpayer. The investment in the new facility and in the old facility shall be determined in the manner provided in paragraph (g) of this subsection (7).

ANNOTATION

Only the first $150,000 of the purchase price of used machinery is exempt from taxation pursuant to this section. By incorporating the provisions of § 39-26-114 (1) to govern the administration of this exemption, the limitation on purchases of used equipment contained in the federal investment tax credit is also incorporated pursuant to § 39-26-114 (1)(d). Colo. Dept. of Rev. v. Cray Computer Corp., 18 P.3d 1277 (Colo. 2001).

By its terms, this section governs when it conflicts with § 39-26-114 (1). The "capitalized and expensed" language in this section thus prevents the depreciability and useful life requirements of the federal investment tax credit from being applied to purchases of machinery that are exempt from state sales tax made within enterprise zones and the regional transportation district and certain other districts could not impose use tax on such purchases. Ball Corp. v. Fisher, 51 P.3d 1053 (Colo. App. 2001).

39-30-107. Zoning regulations and labor agreements not affected. Nothing in this article shall affect any zoning measure or labor-management agreement in effect when an enterprise zone is established or adopted or entered into after the establishment.

(b) A special district shall not enter into an agreement pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (1) unless, prior to or simultaneous with the execution of the agreement, the taxpayer also enters into an agreement with a municipality or county pursuant to this section.

(2) Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, any county, municipality, or city and county within an enterprise zone may negotiate with any taxpayer who qualifies for a credit pursuant to section 39-30-105, who establishes a new business facility within an enterprise zone, or who expands a facility within an enterprise zone, the expansion of which constitutes a new business facility, a refund of the sales taxes levied by such county, municipality, or city and county for the purchase of equipment, machinery, machine tools, or supplies used in the taxpayer's business in the enterprise zone.

(3) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Facility" means a facility as defined in section 39-30-105 (7) (c).

(b) "New business facility" means a new business facility as defined in section 39-30-105 (7) (e).

(c) "Special district" means a special district as defined in section 32-1-103 (20), C.R.S.

(1) Any taxpayer who is subject to the tax on insurance premiums established by sections 10-3-209, 10-5-111, and 10-6-128, C.R.S., and who is therefore exempt from the payment of income tax and who is otherwise eligible to claim a credit or refund pursuant to this article may claim such credit or refund against such insurance premium tax to the same extent as the taxpayer would have been able to claim such credit or refund against income tax.

(1) For the 2012 income tax year and each income tax year thereafter, any taxpayer that claims one or more income tax credits pursuant to this article shall file a state income tax return with the department of revenue in an electronic format, unless filing in an electronic format would cause undue hardship to the taxpayer because the taxpayer does not have access to a computer, or does not have sufficient internet access, internet capability, or computer knowledge to file income taxes electronically.

(2) For the 2012 income tax year and each income tax year thereafter, any taxpayer that claims one or more income tax credits pursuant to this article shall submit to the department of revenue, along with the taxpayer's state income tax return, a full carryforward schedule for each income tax credit claimed pursuant to this article.

(3) For the 2012 income tax year and each income tax year thereafter, the department of revenue shall aggregate and report data on all of the income tax credits that are claimed pursuant to this article for each income tax year. The department shall categorize such aggregated data by the date that the income tax credit was certified by an enterprise zone administrator, the specific income tax credit allowed pursuant to this article that each taxpayer was authorized to claim, and the total amount of the income tax credits claimed for each income tax credit allowed pursuant to this article.

(c) (I) The grant authorized by this section shall also be allowed to individuals having resided in this state for the entire taxable year and coming within the limitations imposed by subsection (3) of this section who, regardless of age, were disabled during the entire taxable year to a degree sufficient to qualify for the payment to them of full benefits from any bona fide public or private plan or source based solely upon such disability.

(II) An individual is disabled for the purposes of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) if such individual is unable to engage in any substantial gainful activity by reason of any medically determinable physical or mental impairment which can be expected to result in death or which has lasted for a continuous period of not less than twelve months.

(d) Eligibility under more than one provision of this subsection (1) shall not operate to increase the amount of any grant available to an individual or husband and wife under subsection (2) of this section.

(2) Such grant shall be the amount of the general property taxes actually paid on the residence or the amount of taxes actually paid on a mobile home, plus any tax-equivalent payments computed pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, with respect to the rent of a trailer space during the year for which such grant is claimed, the amount of the specific

(3) Such grant shall be allowed to such persons as described in subsection (1) of this section who meet the following requirements:

(a) Are not claimed as an exemption for purposes of Colorado income tax by any other person for the taxable year;

(b) Have income from all sources for the taxable year of less than the maximum amount for which such persons are eligible to receive a grant based on the operation of paragraphs (a) and (b) of subsection (2) of this section, including, but not limited to, for this purpose, alimony, support money, cash public assistance and relief, pension or annuity benefits, federal social security benefits, veterans' benefits, nontaxable interest, workers' compensation, and unemployment compensation benefits. 39-32-102. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) The ability of the people in all parts of this state to access the internet, also known as the information superhighway, is an important component in the ability of the state to remain competitive in the fields of business and education as well as the ability of government to provide services to these people both now and in the future; and

(b) A disparity currently exists in the state between the ability of people living in urban areas and people living in rural areas to access the internet because of a lack of adequate technology, infrastructure, and advance telecommunications service in rural areas.

(2) The general assembly further finds and declares that it is the policy of the state, in order to provide incentives for private businesses to invest in the infrastructure needed to improve the ability of the people living in rural areas to access the internet, to establish a program to provide a tax incentive to enterprises that provide such infrastructure in designated areas to be known as rural technology enterprise zones.

39-32-103. Needs assessment and inventory - public hearing. (1) In order to determine the extent to which the internet can be accessed in rural areas of the state, the public utilities commission shall conduct a technology infrastructure needs assessment and inventory in such areas to determine the status of internet access in rural areas. Such needs assessment and inventory shall specifically examine the following:

(a) The need and ability to provide or improve internet access in rural areas in the state;

(b) The existence and identification of any barriers that prevent or reduce internet access in rural areas; and

(c) The types of technology infrastructure, including advanced and emerging technologies, that would improve internet access in rural areas.

(2) After conducting the needs and assessment inventory pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the public utilities commission shall conduct a public hearing on the designation of rural technology enterprise zones pursuant to section 39-32-104. The commission shall provide public notice of such hearing to residents living within any proposed rural technology enterprise zone and to any other interested parties the commission may identify.

The commission shall consider any testimony or other evidence presented at such hearing in designating any rural technology enterprise zone pursuant to section 39-32-104.

39-32-104. Zones established. (1) Based upon the needs and assessment inventory and the evidence received during the public hearing conducted pursuant to section 39-32-103, the public utilities commission may designate rural areas in the state as rural technology enterprise zones. In designating such zones, the commission shall specify by rule, based upon the needs and assessment inventory and the evidence received at the public hearing, the specific technology infrastructure needs of each rural technology enterprise zone and the types of investments that will meet those needs. For each rural technology enterprise zone designated pursuant to this section, the commission shall further specify the following:

- (a) The boundaries of the rural technology enterprise zone;
- (b) The potential for increasing internet access within the rural technology enterprise zone;
- (c) The specific technology infrastructure required to provide adequate internet access within the zone and any unique needs or characteristics of the zone;
- (d) The specific investments in technology infrastructure that will qualify for income tax credits in the zone pursuant to section 39-32-105; and
- (e) Any other information the commission deems pertinent.

39-32-105. Credit against tax - investment in technology infrastructure. (1) There shall be allowed to any person as a credit against the tax imposed by article 22 of this title, for income tax years commencing on or after January 1, 1999, but prior to January 1, 2005, an amount equal to ten percent of the amount of the total investment made during such years in technology infrastructure required to provide internet access in rural technology enterprise zones. Such credit may be claimed only for specific capital investments in technology infrastructure that will qualify for income tax credits in such zone as specified by the public utilities commission pursuant to section 39-32-104 (1) (d). The credit claimed by a person pursuant to this section shall not exceed one hundred thousand dollars in any one tax year.

(2) If the credit allowed under this section exceeds the income taxes otherwise due on the claimant's income, the amount of the credit not used as an offset against income taxes may be carried forward as a tax credit against subsequent years' income tax liability for a period not to exceed ten years and shall be applied first to the earliest years possible.

39-35-104. Aircraft manufacturer - credit for new employees. (1) For any income tax year commencing on or after January 1, 2006, but before January 1, 2017, any aircraft manufacturer that is located in an aviation development zone in the state, that employs at least ten full-time employees within the zone, and that hires one or more new employees during the income tax year shall be allowed a credit against the income tax imposed by article 22 of this title in an amount equal to one thousand two hundred dollars for each new employee who is working within the zone, prorated according to the number of months the new employee was employed by the aircraft manufacturer during the income tax year.

(2) An aircraft manufacturer that qualifies for the credit allowed pursuant to this section shall be allowed the credit for each subsequent tax year for each additional new employee. Any credit shall be allowed for a maximum of twelve consecutive months for each new employee employed by the aircraft manufacturer.

(3) (a) The number of new employees employed during any income tax year shall be determined by dividing by twelve the sum of the number of new employees on the last business day of each month of the income tax year. If the aircraft manufacturer is in operation for less than the entire income tax year, the number of new employees shall be determined by dividing the sum of the number of new employees on the last business day of each full calendar month during the portion of such income tax year during which the aircraft manufacturer was in operation by the number of full calendar months in such income tax year.

(b) For the purpose of determining the amount of the credit allowed pursuant to this section in the case of an aircraft manufacturer that already operates a facility in an aviation development zone on January 1, 2006, or that opens a facility in an aviation development zone to replace another facility in or outside of an aviation development zone at which the aircraft manufacturer discontinued operations before the close of the first income tax year in which the credit is allowed pursuant to this section, the number of new employees for which the credit is claimed shall not exceed the difference between the average number of employees employed during the income tax year less the average number of employees employed at the existing facility or the replacement facility, as determined pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), during the two income tax years preceding the income tax year in which the credit is claimed.

(4) If the total amount of the credits claimed by an aircraft manufacturer pursuant to the provisions of this section exceeds the amount of income taxes due on the income of the aircraft manufacturer in the income tax year for which the credits are being claimed, the amount of the credits not used as an offset against income taxes in said income tax year shall not be allowed as a refund but may be carried forward as a credit against subsequent years' tax liability for a period not to exceed five years and shall be applied first to the earliest income tax years possible. Any amount of the credit that is not used during said period shall not be refundable to the aircraft manufacturer.

(5) For purposes of this section, a partnership, S corporation, limited liability company, or other entity electing not to be taxed as a corporation may pass through the credits earned under this section in any tax year to its participating partners, shareholders, or members, referred to in this section as the "investors", in any percentage the entity chooses, up to the amount of the credit earned in the tax year. Credits earned but unclaimed in a tax year for which the entity elects to be taxed as a corporation may not be distributed to investors in a later tax year for which the entity elects not to be taxed as a corporation. In any tax year for which the entity elects not to be taxed as a corporation, all credits passed through to investors may be carried forward at the investor level for the carryover periods specified in this section.

(6) For purposes of this section, an aircraft manufacturer may only claim the new employee credit for employees for whom:

(a) The aircraft manufacturer withholds social security, medicare, and income taxes under the aircraft manufacturer's own federal and state taxpayer identification numbers; or

(b) The aircraft manufacturer is the work-site employer, as defined in section 8-70-114 (2) (a) (VII), C.R.S., and an employee leasing company, as defined in section 8-70-114 (2) (a) (V), C.R.S., as the employing unit for, or co-employer with, the aircraft manufacturer, withholds social security, medicare, and income taxes under the employee leasing company's own federal and state taxpayer identification numbers.

40-1-102. Definitions. As used in articles 1 to 7 of this title, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (1) "Alternative fuel vehicle" means any automobile, truck, motor bus, boat, airplane, train, tractor, or other type of motorized off-highway equipment or other self-propelled device or vessel that is capable of moving itself or being moved from place to place utilizing, in whole or in part, liquefied petroleum gas, natural gas, electricity, or a combination of natural gas and electricity as transportation fuel, whether or not the vehicle is used in agricultural, commercial, domestic, or industrial operations.

(1.5) "Commission" means the public utilities commission of the state of Colorado.

(2) "Commissioner" means one of the members of the commission.

(3) (a) "Common carrier" means:

(I) Every person directly or indirectly affording a means of transportation, or any service or facility in connection therewith, within this state by motor vehicle or other vehicle whatever by indiscriminately accepting and carrying passengers for compensation; and

(II) Every person affording a means of transportation within this state by railroad by indiscriminately accepting and carrying for compensation passengers or property.

(b) "Common carrier" does not include a motor carrier that provides transportation not subject to regulation pursuant to section 40-10.1-105 or that is subject to part 3, 4, or 5 of article 10.1 of this title.

(4) "Compensation" means any money, property, service, or thing of value charged or received, or to be charged or received, whether directly or indirectly.

(5) (a) "Cost-effective", with reference to a natural gas or electric demand-side management program or related measure, means having a benefit-cost ratio greater than one.

(b) In calculating the benefit-cost ratio, the benefits shall include, but are not limited to, the following, as applicable:

(I) The utility's avoided generation, transmission, distribution, capacity, and energy costs;

(II) The valuation of avoided emissions; and

(III) Nonenergy benefits as determined by the commission.

(c) In calculating the benefit-cost ratio, the costs shall include, but are not limited to, utility and participant expenditures for the following, as applicable:

(I) Program design, administration, evaluation, advertising, and promotion;

(8) "Full service customer" means a residential or commercial customer that purchases natural gas or electric supply from an investor-owned utility.

(9) "Net present value of revenue requirements" means the current worth of the expected stream of future revenue requirements associated with a particular resource portfolio, expressed in dollars in the year the plan is filed. To determine the current worth of the expected stream of future revenue requirements, a discount rate at the utility's weighted average cost of capital shall be applied to the expected stream of future revenue requirements.

(10) "Person" means any individual, firm, partnership, corporation, company, association, joint stock association, and other legal entity.

(11) "Renewable energy" means useful electrical, thermal, or mechanical energy converted directly or indirectly from resources of continuous energy flow or that are perpetually replenished and whose utilization is sustainable indefinitely. ANNOTATION

Neither the general assembly nor the commission has precisely defined contract carriage. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974); Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

Distinction between common carriers and contract carriers. One of the fundamental distinctions between a contract carrier and a common carrier is that a contract carrier has an obligation only to its contract customers and has no obligation to others desiring its carriage; in contrast, the common carrier must convey for all desiring its transportation. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

Applied in Greeley Transp. Co. v. People, 79 Colo. 307, 245 P. 720 (1926); Jones v. Dressel, 623 P.2d 370 (Colo. 1981); Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981).

40-1-103. Public utility defined. (1) (a) (I) The term "public utility", when used in articles 1 to 7 of this title, includes every common carrier, pipeline corporation, gas corporation, electrical corporation, telephone corporation, water corporation, person, or municipality operating for the purpose of supplying the public for domestic, mechanical, or public uses and every corporation, or person declared by law to be affected with a public interest, and each of the preceding is hereby declared to be a public utility and to be subject to the jurisdiction, control, and regulation of the commission and to the provisions of articles 1 to 7 of this title.

(II) As used in this paragraph (a), "water corporation" includes a combined water and sewer corporation, whether as a single entity or as different entities under common ownership.

(b) Nothing in articles 1 to 7 of this title shall be construed to apply to:

(I) Irrigation systems, the chief or principal business of which is to supply water for the purpose of irrigation;

(II) Exemptions provided for in the constitution of the state of Colorado relating to municipal utilities;

(III) Hotels, motels, or other lodging-type entities that resell intrastate toll services to their lodging patrons and not to the general public;

(IV) Any consumer who owns pay telephone terminal equipment and who resells local exchange and toll service paid for by coin deposit, credit card, or otherwise by using the tariff services and facilities of regulated telephone utilities;

(V) The provision or resale to the general public of communications services over a cellular radio system. For purposes of this subparagraph (V), a "cellular radio" means a mobile communications system in which the radio frequency spectrum is divided into discrete channels which are assigned in groups to geographic cells within a service area and which are capable of being reused in different cells within that service area.

(VI) Providers of telephone or telecommunications service from inmates at penal institutions.

(2) (a) Every cooperative electric association, or nonprofit electric corporation or association, and every other supplier of electric energy, whether supplying electric energy for the use of the public or for the use of its own members, is hereby declared to be affected with a public interest and to be a public utility and to be subject to the jurisdiction, control, and regulation of the commission and to the provisions of articles 1 to 7 of this title.

(b) (I) Paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) requiring regulation by the commission shall not be applicable to a cooperative electric association which has voted to exempt itself from regulation pursuant to the provisions of section 40-9.5-103. Regulation of such cooperative electric associations shall be in the manner provided in part 1 of article 9.5 of this title.

(II) Repealed.

(c) The supply of electricity or heat to a consumer of the electricity or heat from solar generating equipment located on the site of the consumer's property, which equipment is owned or operated by an entity other than the consumer, shall not subject the owner or operator of the on-site solar generating equipment to regulation as a public utility by the commission if the solar generating equipment is sized to supply no more than one hundred twenty percent of the average annual consumption of electricity by the consumer at that site. For purposes of this paragraph (c), the consumer's site shall include all contiguous property owned or leased by the consumer, without regard to interruptions in contiguity caused by easements, public thoroughfares, transportation rights-of-way, or utility rights-of-way.

(3) For the purposes of articles 1 to 7 of this title, a motor carrier that provides transportation not subject to regulation pursuant to section 40-10.1-105 or that is subject to part 3, 4, or 5 of article 10.1 of this title is not a public utility.

(4) Repealed.

Fact that telephone company is a regulated utility is not sufficient state action on which a former employee may base a claim for relief under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Hughes v. Mountain States Tel. and Tel. Co., 686 P.2d 814 (Colo. App. 1984).

Applied in City of Loveland v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 195 Colo. 298, 580 P.2d 381 (1978); Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1982).

II. PUBLIC UTILITY DEFINED.

To fall into class of public utility, business or enterprise must be impressed with public interest and those engaged in the conduct thereof must hold themselves out as serving or ready to serve all members of the public, who may require it, to the extent of their capacity: The nature of the service must be such that all members of the public have an enforceable right to demand it. City of Englewood v. City & County of Denver, 123 Colo. 290, 229 P.2d 667 (1951); Parrish v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 134 Colo. 192, 301 P.2d 343 (1956); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Interstate Gas Co., 142 Colo. 361, 351 P.2d 241 (1960); Cady v. City of Arvada, 31 Colo. App. 85, 499 P.2d 1203 (1972).

If operation is not impressed with public interest, that fact is readily determined by the fact that the public has no right to demand the service. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Interstate Gas Co., 142 Colo. 361, 351 P.2d 241 (1960).

Service to public is controlling factor. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Interstate Gas Co., 142 Colo. 361, 351 P.2d 241 (1960).

Intention and willingness to serve do not alone create utility status. One of the requirements for utility status is intention and willingness to serve: This qualification, standing alone, is not sufficient to endow a company with the protection of this title. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 135, 350 P.2d 543, cert. denied, 364 U.S. 820, 81 S. Ct. 53, 5 L. Ed.2d 50 (1960).

Dedication of operation to public service can never be presumed, but must be supported by evidence of an unequivocal intention to make such dedication. Parrish v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 134 Colo. 192, 301 P.2d 343 (1956); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Interstate Gas Co., 142 Colo. 361, 351 P.2d 241 (1960).

Appropriate test for determining public utility status is no longer common law "Englewood" test, but rather this section and other Colorado statutes and constitutional provisions. Bd. of Cty. Comm'rs v. Denver Bd. of Water Comm'rs 718 P.2d 235 (Colo. 1986).

Municipally owned public utility subject to regulation. A municipally owned public utility, as to service furnished consumers beyond its territorial jurisdiction, should be subject to the same regulation to which a privately owned public utility must conform in similar circumstances. City & County of Denver v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 181 Colo. 38, 507 P.2d 871 (1973).

"Public utility" is not applicable to chattel or other property used for benefit of public, but applies to a system of works operated for public use. Searle v. Haxtun, 84 Colo. 494, 271 P. 629 (1928).

Question whether corporation is public utility depends upon acts not powers. While power possessed by a corporation under its charter or general statutes may be inquired into to determine whether it is authorized to perform a public service, the question of whether it is or is not a public utility depends not upon its powers, but upon its acts. Colo. Utils. Corp. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 99 Colo. 189, 61 P.2d 849 (1936); Colorado-Ute Elec. Ass'n v. W. Colo. Power Co., 385 U.S. 22, 87 S. Ct. 230, 17 L. Ed.2d 21, reh'g denied, 385 U.S. 984, 87 S. Ct. 500, 17 L. Ed.2d 445 (1966).

General assembly has declared that "common carrier" is "public utility". Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

Contract carriage has not been declared a "public utility". Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

Contract carrier and public utility distinguished. A party who installs a water distribution system and contracts with a city to furnish water to such line at the city limit upon certain conditions, and who has no contract with any water user on said system, and who does not hold himself out to serve the public indiscriminately, is a contract carrier and not a public utility and not subject to the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission. Parrish v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 134 Colo. 192, 301 P.2d 343 (1956); Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974); Denver Cleanup Serv. Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 195 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

Smelting company may be public utility. A smelting company treating ores from various parts of the state is affected with a public interest. Ohio & Colo. Smelting & Ref. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 68 Colo. 137, 187 P. 1082 (1920).

Coal mining corporation held not public utility. A coal mining corporation not declared by law to be "affected with a public interest", which contracted with a municipality to sell to it surplus electrical energy generated by it for use in its mining operations, such being its only sale, is not to be a public utility within the meaning of the public utilities act. Colo. Utils. Corp. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 99 Colo. 189, 61 P.2d 849 (1936).

Supplier of natural gas not public utility simply because it exercises eminent domain. An interstate supplier of natural gas, supplying a limited number of industrial customers with fuel gas under contract, which obtains, from the federal power commission, certificates of public convenience and necessity for the purpose of exercising the right of eminent domain does not thereby become a public utility as defined by this section. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Interstate Gas Co., 142 Colo. 361, 351 P.2d 241 (1960).

Sanitation district not public utility. A sanitation district organized pursuant to statute does not fall within the definition of a public utility. Schlarb v. North Sub. San. Dist., 144 Colo. 590, 357 P.2d 647 (1960).

Water conservancy districts are not public utilities subject to the regulation of the public utilities commission. Matthews v. Tri-County Water Conservancy Dist., 200 Colo. 202, 613 P.2d 889 (1980).

Motor carriers for hire, of whatever commodity, are public utilities. Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

That common carriers do or do not compete with railroads is immaterial. Greeley Transp. Co. v. People, 79 Colo. 307, 245 P. 720 (1926).

The department of corrections is not a telephone corporation pursuant to this section and therefore not subject to review or regulation by the public utilities commission with respect to inmate telephone system. Powell v. Colo. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 956 P.2d 608 (Colo. 1998).

III. JURISDICTION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION.

This section vests jurisdiction exclusively in public utilities commission over the adequacy, installation, and extension of the power services and the facilities necessary to supply, extend, and connect the same; and the district court only has jurisdiction to review the decisions of the public utilities commission in appropriate proceedings. Intermountain Rural Elec. Ass'n v. District Court, 160 Colo. 128, 414 P.2d 911 (1966).

Theory upon which structure of public utility commission powers is based is that of regulated monopoly. Denver & R. G. W. R. R. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 400, 351 P.2d 278 (1960); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Verl Harvey, Inc., 150 Colo. 158, 371 P.2d 452 (1962);

Ephraim Freightways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 596, 380 P.2d 228 (1963); Colo. Transp. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 136, 405 P.2d 682 (1965).

General assembly has granted to P.U.C. very extensive and broad regulatory powers including the power to designate location of facilities and also relocation or removal thereof; in exercising any power, the interest of the public should always be given first and paramount consideration. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 135, 350 P.2d 543, cert. denied, 364 U.S. 820, 81 S. Ct. 53, 5 L. Ed.2d 50 (1960).

As function of police power of state. The power to regulate entities affected with a public interest is a function of the police power of the state, and any business or activity which is affected with a public interest may be so classified and so regulated. W. Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 262, 411 P.2d 785, appeal dismissed, 385 U.S. 22, 87 S. Ct. 230, 17 L. Ed.2d 21, reh'g denied, 385 U.S. 984, 87 S. Ct. 500, 17 L. Ed.2d 445 (1966).

IV. COOPERATIVE ELECTRIC ASSOCIATIONS.

Subsection (2) constitutional. Subsection (2), which generally confers jurisdiction over cooperatives in the public utilities commission, does not violate the constitution of Colorado or of the United States. W. Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 262, 411 P.2d 785, appeal dismissed, 385 U.S. 22, 87 S. Ct. 230, 17 L. Ed.2d 21, reh'g denied, 385 U.S. 984, 87 S. Ct. 500, 17 L. Ed.2d 445 (1966).

Subsection (2) makes no exceptions: "Every cooperative electric association" is public utility, as well as all other electric suppliers. W. Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 262, 411 P.2d 785, appeal dismissed, 385 U.S. 22, 87 S. Ct. 230, 17 L. Ed.2d 21, reh'g denied, 385 U.S. 984, 87 S. Ct. 500, 17 L. Ed.2d 445 (1966); *Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Service may affect so considerable a fraction of the public that it is public in the same sense in which any other may be called so. The public does not mean everybody all the time. W. Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 262, 411 P.2d 785, appeal dismissed, 385 U.S. 22, 87 S. Ct. 230, 17 L. Ed.2d 21, reh'g denied, 385 U.S. 984, 87 S. Ct. 500, 17 L. Ed.2d 445 (1966).

Legislative act did not purport to affect the contractual rights between cooperatives and their members which were created at a time when the cooperatives did not enjoy the status of public utilities, and thus a rural electric association may continue to serve all members who were receiving service prior to the effective date of its becoming a public utility, regardless of any extensive certificates granted to others. W. Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 163 Colo. 61, 428 P.2d 922 (1967).

Effect of subsection (2) is prospectively to establish electrical cooperatives as public utilities and to give them a regulated monopoly status as of that date in those areas in which they were rendering service on an exclusive basis. W. Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 163 Colo. 61, 428 P.2d 922 (1967).

40-1-103.3. Alternative fuel vehicles - definition. (1) As used in this section, "property or premises", with respect to an electric, natural gas, or liquefied petroleum gas extension or connection of service, includes alternative fuel vehicle charging and fueling facilities in addition to buildings and other improvements.

(2) For the purposes of articles 1 to 7 of this title, persons generating electricity for use in alternative fuel vehicle charging or fueling facilities as authorized by subsection (4) of this section, persons reselling electricity supplied by a public utility, or persons reselling compressed or liquefied natural gas, liquefied petroleum gas, or any component parts or by-products to governmental entities or to the public for use as fuel in alternative fuel vehicles or buying electricity stored in such vehicles for resale are not subject to regulation as a public utility. Electric and natural gas public utilities may provide the services described in this subsection (2) as unregulated services, and these unregulated services may not be subsidized by the regulated services of the electric or natural gas public utility.

(3) Owners or operators of property or premises containing an alternative fuel vehicle charging or fueling facility, or the owners or operators of the facility, shall purchase the electricity required for the facility from a public utility with the right to sell electricity to the property, premises, or facility except when the owners or operators of the property, premises, or facility generate electricity on the property or premises for use in alternative fuel vehicles as authorized by subsection (4) of this section.

(4) The owner or operator of a facility that generates electricity for use in alternative fuel vehicle charging or fueling facilities is not subject to regulation as a public utility, if:

(a) The electricity is generated on the property or premises where the charging or fueling facilities are located; and

(b) The electricity is generated from a renewable resource that:

(I) Qualifies as "retail distributed generation" as defined in section 40-2-124 (1) (a) (V), if located on the system of an entity subject to the requirements of section 40-2-124. The electric power requirements for the property pursuant to section 40-2-124 (1) include the demand for existing or proposed alternative fuel vehicle charging or fueling facilities in addition to buildings and other improvements.

(II) Complies with section 40-9.5-118, if located on the system of a cooperative electric association; or

(III) Complies with section 40-2-124 (7), if located on the system of a municipally owned utility.

(5) Sale of electricity or natural gas by a public utility to the owner or operator of an alternative fuel vehicle charging or fueling facility is a retail transaction.

(6) The regulated expenditures and investments made by a public utility to accommodate alternative fuel vehicle charging and fueling facilities are equal in priority to all other infrastructure necessary to serve any customer of the public utility in its service territory, but are subordinate to the safety and reliability obligations of the utility.

40-1-103.5. Limited exemption of master meter operators - conditions - rules.

(1) Upon its own motion or upon application by any person who purchases gas or electric service from a regulated public utility for the purpose of delivery of such service to end users whose aggregate usage is to be measured by a master meter or other composite measurement device, the commission may exempt such person from regulation of rates under the "Public Utilities Law", articles 1 to 7 of this title, as the commission deems appropriate, so long as all of the following conditions are met:

(a) Such person, referred to in this section as a “master meter operator” or “MMO”, does not charge the end users, as part of its billing for utility service, for any costs in addition to the actual cost billed to the MMO by the serving utility, including without limitation costs of construction, maintenance, financing, administration, metering, or billing for the utility distribution system owned by the MMO;

(b) If the MMO bills the end users separately for service, the sum of such billings does not exceed the amount billed to the MMO by the serving utility;

(c) If the MMO bills the end users separately for service, the MMO passes on to the end users any refunds, rebates, rate reductions, or similar adjustments it receives from the serving utility;

(d) Any other conditions deemed necessary by the commission.

(2) In passing on refunds, rebates, rate reductions, or similar adjustments to end users, the MMO shall notify its current end users, either by first-class mail with a certificate of mailing or by inclusion in any monthly or more frequent regular written communication, of such adjustments and inform the end users that they may claim the adjustments within ninety days after receipt of the notice. The MMO may retain any portion of such adjustments which rightfully belongs to the MMO. Upon the expiration of the ninety-day claims period, the MMO shall identify any such adjustments which are unclaimed and, if the aggregate amount unclaimed exceeds one hundred dollars, the MMO shall contribute such unclaimed amount to the fund established by the commission on low-income energy assistance pursuant to section 40-8.5-104.

(3) The commission shall adopt such rules as it deems necessary to implement this section.

40-1-104. Securities - issuance. (1) The term “securities”, when used in articles 1 to 7 of this title, includes stocks, bonds, notes, and other evidences of indebtedness.

(2) The power of every gas corporation and of every electrical corporation operating as a public utility as defined in section 40-1-103 that derives more than five percent of its consolidated gross revenues in the state of Colorado as a public utility, or derives a lesser percentage if said revenues are realized by supplying an amount of energy which equals five percent or more of this state’s consumption, to issue or assume securities and to create liens on its property situated within this state is a special privilege, hereby subjected to the supervision and control of the commission. Such public utility, when authorized by order of the commission and not otherwise, may issue or assume securities with a maturity date of more than twelve months after the date of issuance for the following purposes: The acquisition of property; the construction, completion, extension, or improvement of its facilities; the improvement or maintenance of its service; the discharge or lawful refunding of its obligations; the reimbursement of moneys actually expended for said purposes from income or from any other moneys in the treasury not secured by or obtained from the issue of securities within five years next prior to the filing of an application with the commission for the required authorization; or any of such purposes or any other lawful purpose authorized by the commission.

(3) Such public utility, by written petition filed with the commission setting forth the pertinent facts involved, shall make application to the commission for an order authorizing the proposed issue or assumption of securities and the application of the proceeds therefrom to the purpose specified. The commission, with or without a hearing and upon such notice as the commission may prescribe, shall enter its written order approving the petition and authorizing the proposed securities transactions unless the commission finds that such transactions are inconsistent with the public interest or that the purpose thereof is not permitted or is inconsistent with the provisions of this section.

(4) Such public utility may issue or renew, extend, or assume liability on securities, other than stocks, with a maturity date of not more than twelve months after the date of issuance and secured or unsecured, without application to or order of the commission; but no such securities so issued shall in whole or in part be refunded by any issue of securities having a maturity of more than twelve months except on application to and approval of the commission.

(5) All applications for the issuance or assumption of securities shall be placed at the head of the commission's docket and shall be disposed of promptly, within thirty days after the petition is filed with the commission unless it is necessary for good cause to continue the same for a longer period. Whenever such application is continued beyond thirty days after the time it is filed, the commission shall enter an order making such continuance and stating fully the facts necessitating the continuance.

(6) No provision of this section nor any act or deed performed in connection therewith shall be construed to obligate the state of Colorado to pay or guarantee in any manner whatsoever any security authorized, issued, or assumed under the provisions of this section.

(7) All securities issued or assumed without application to and approval of the commission, except the securities mentioned in subsection (4) of this section, shall be void.

(8) The commission shall provide for a serial number or other device to be placed on the face of any such securities for the proper and easy identification thereof.

(9) Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the commission may approve a petition from a public utility proposing an investment in any of the following if the commission determines that such investment is not otherwise inconsistent with the public interest or that such investment is not otherwise inconsistent with this section:

(a) Any public-private initiative with the department of transportation, as defined in section 43-1-1201 (3), C.R.S.;

(b) Bonds issued for turnpikes in accordance with part 2 of article 3 of title 43, C.R.S.; or

(c) Repealed.

(d) Any other public-private initiative program for transportation system projects in Colorado authorized by law.

40-1.1-101. Legislative declaration. In order to promote improved transportation for the elderly, for persons with disabilities, and for the residents of rural areas and small towns through an expanded and coordinated transportation network, the general assembly hereby declares it to be the policy of the state to legally define and to recognize people service transportation and volunteer transportation as separate but contributing components of the transportation system. Therefore, it is the policy of the state to remove barriers to low-cost people service transportation and volunteer transportation. For this purpose, transportation systems meeting the criteria prescribed in this article will not be classified as public utilities or as any form of carrier subject to regulation by the commission but as people service transportation and volunteer transportation subject to appropriate regulation and administration.

(5) “People service transportation” means motor vehicle transportation provided on a nonprofit basis by a people service organization generally for the purpose of transporting clients or program beneficiaries in connection with people service programs sponsored by the organization, or by another people service organization. The motor vehicle may be owned, leased, borrowed, or contracted for use by the people service organization.

(6) “Volunteer transportation” means motor vehicle transportation provided on a nonprofit basis by an individual, company, firm, partnership, agency, or corporation under the direction, sponsorship, or supervision of a people service organization. generation, including, but not limited to, small wind turbines, thermal biomass, electric biomass, and solar thermal energy. (8) Notwithstanding the amount specified for any fee in section 40-10.1-111, the commission by rule or as otherwise provided by law may reduce the amount of one or more of the fees if necessary pursuant to section 24-75-402 (3), C.R.S., to reduce the uncommitted reserves of the fund to which all or any portion of one or more of the fees is credited. 40-2-111. Report of utilities to department of revenue. Each public utility required to pay such fees shall, on or before May 15 of each year, file a return with the department of revenue on such forms as shall be prescribed by the executive director of the department of revenue and the public utilities commission setting forth the gross operating revenues of such public utility from intrastate utility business only transacted in the state of Colorado during the preceding calendar year. Such return shall be executed and verified by two of the executive officers of the utility making the return and shall contain or be verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury in the second degree, and any officer who knowingly and willfully makes and signs a false return is guilty of perjury in the second degree.

40-2-112. Computation of fees. (1) On or before June 1 of each year, the executive director of the department of revenue shall ascertain the aggregate amount of gross operating revenues of all public utilities filing returns as provided in section 40-2-111. The executive director shall then compute the percentage which the full amount determined by the general assembly for administrative expenses of the public utilities commission for the supervision and regulation of such public utilities is of the aggregate amount of gross operating revenues of such public utilities derived from intrastate utility business transacted during the preceding calendar year, and the percentage so computed shall be the basis upon which fees for the ensuing year shall be fixed.

(2) In recognition of the fact that nonprofit generation and transmission electric corporations or associations may be subject to less regulation and to no rate regulation by the commission, the executive director of the department of revenue shall disregard any revenues reported by such entities in making the computations required under subsection (1) of this section. In addition, the executive director of the department of revenue shall, in consultation with the director of the commission, enter into an agreement with each nonprofit generation and transmission electric corporation or association whereby such entity agrees to pay an amount equal to the administrative expenses reasonably anticipated to be incurred by the commission for the regulation of such entity. Said agreement shall be made by May 1 of the year in which it is to become effective and shall remain effective for not less than two and not more than five years. In the event that the anticipated amount set forth in the agreement proves to be substantially higher or lower than the commission's actual expenses incurred, the agreement for the next following year or years shall be adjusted so as to take such fact into account. If no such agreement is made as provided in this subsection (2), the commission, on its own motion or upon application by the executive director of the department of revenue or by such entity, shall set the matter for hearing and determine the amount to be paid by the entity. Amounts paid under agreements as contemplated by this subsection (2) or by order of the commission shall be used to reduce amounts paid by other utilities under subsection (1) of this section.

40-2-113. Collection of fees - limitation. On or before June 15 of each year, the department of revenue shall notify each public utility subject to the provisions of this article of the amount of its fee for the ensuing fiscal year beginning July 1, computed by multiplying its gross intrastate utility operating revenues for the preceding calendar year, as set forth in its return filed for such purpose, by the percentage determined in accordance with section 40-2-112; but no public utility shall be required to pay a fee in excess of one-fifth of one percent of its gross intrastate utility operating revenues for the preceding calendar year. Such fee shall be paid to the department of revenue in equal quarterly installments on or before July 15, October 15, January 15, and April 15 in each fiscal year. If payment is not made on or before said dates, there shall be added as a penalty ten percent of the installment due, together with interest at the rate of one percent per month on the amount of the unpaid installment until such time as the full amount of the installment, penalty, and interest has been paid. Upon failure, refusal, or neglect of any public utility to pay such fee, or any penalty or interest, the attorney general shall bring suit in the name of the state to collect the same.

40-2-114. Disposition of fees collected. All fees collected under section 40-2-113 by the department of revenue shall be remitted to the state treasurer and credited by him as follows: Three percent to the general fund and ninety-seven percent to the public utilities commission fixed utility fund, which fund is hereby created and shall be expended only to defray the full amount determined by the general assembly for the administrative expenses of the commission for the supervision and regulation of the public utilities paying such fees and for the financing of the office of consumer counsel created in article 6.5 of this title. Any unexpended balance remaining in said fund at the end of any fiscal year shall be retained by the state treasurer to defray such administrative expenses of the commission during subsequent fiscal years, and the executive director of the department of revenue shall take any such unexpended balance into account when computing the percentage upon which fees for the ensuing fiscal year shall be based.

40-2-115. Cooperation with other states and with the United States. (1) The commission is authorized to confer with or hold joint hearings with the authorities of any state or any agency of the United States in connection with any matter arising in proceedings under this title, under the laws of any state, or under the laws of the United States; to avail itself of the cooperation, services, records, and facilities of authorities of this state, any other state, or any agency of the United States as may be practicable in the enforcement or administration of the provisions of this title; and to enter into cooperative agreements with the various states and with any agency of the United States to enforce the economic and safety laws and rules of this state and of the United States. The commission is authorized to provide for the exchange of information concerning the enforcement of the economic and safety laws and rules of this state, any other state, and the United States relating to public utilities or to safety of transportation of gas by any person including a municipality; and, in particular, the commission may enforce the rules of the United States department of transportation concerning pipeline safety drug testing promulgated under the federal "Natural Gas Pipeline Safety Act", 49 U.S.C. sec. 60101 et seq., and may adopt such rules as are necessary and proper to comply with federal requirements under said act.

(1.5) The commission is authorized to adopt such rules as may be necessary to enforce and administer, in cooperation with the United States department of transportation, the provisions of the "Natural Gas Pipeline Safety Act", 49 U.S.C. sec. 60101 et seq., for the purpose of gas pipeline safety. Such rules shall apply to all public utilities and all municipal or quasi-municipal corporations transporting natural gas or providing natural gas service, all operators of master meter systems, as defined in 49 CFR 191.3, and all operators of pipelines transporting gas in intrastate commerce.

(2) As used in this section:

(a) "Transportation of gas" means the gathering, transmission, or distribution of gas by pipeline or its storage as defined in 49 CFR 192.3.

(b) "Gas" means natural gas, flammable gas, or gas which is toxic or corrosive.

(c) "Manufacturing goods" does not include farming or activities associated with the production of oil or natural gas.

(1) The commission shall by rule or regulation establish standards and procedures to be used in determining whether certain transportation provided by a rail carrier in this state should be exempted, in whole or in part, from one or more provisions of this title. Such rules and regulations shall provide for such exemption when the commission finds that:

(a) Jurisdiction, regulation, and control by the commission are not necessary to carry out the transportation policy of this title; and

(b) Either the transaction or service is of limited scope or the application of a provision of this title is not needed to protect shippers from the abuse of market power.

40-2-122. Natural gas - deregulation of supply - voluntary separation of service offerings - consumer protection - legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly finds, determines, and declares that natural gas service is essential to the health and well-being of all Colorado natural gas customers. The general assembly further finds, determines, and declares that natural gas is traded in competitive markets at the wellhead and in downstream markets for sale to utilities, industrial customers, and large commercial customers and there may be the potential for natural gas also to be traded competitively for sale to all other classes of consumers. As a result, it may be predicted that competition in the natural gas supply market may increase the choices available to consumers and reduce the price of such service. Accordingly, it is the policy of the state of Colorado to encourage competition after a reasonable transition period during which consumers are educated about choices in natural gas supply that are now available or will be available in the future. The commission is authorized to approve voluntary plans consistent with this section that separate the sale of natural gas to retail customers into natural gas delivery and natural gas supply and, after a transition period, deregulate the charge for natural gas supply where the commission finds that the plan provides customers with adequate choices, ensures the provision of reliable natural gas supply on a fallback basis on terms and conditions that are just and reasonable to all customers, promotes the development of a competitive market for gas supply, limits the unreasonable exercise of market power, and retains and enhances programs to support low-income consumers.

(2) (a) Natural gas public utilities shall continue to be regulated with respect to their delivery functions and shall be required to continue to offer nondiscriminatory natural gas delivery services over their pipeline systems so that Colorado natural gas consumers, both individually and on an aggregated basis, shall have ready access to natural gas supply from among competing sources.

(b) Any natural gas public utility providing for individual consumer choice between competing suppliers shall implement a separately stated distribution charge, applicable to all customers regardless of the identity of the natural gas supplier and denoted as a "public benefits charge", to help defray the costs associated with funding low-income energy assistance programs such as bill assistance and weatherization for residential energy consumers in Colorado, subject to the following conditions:

(I) The total amount collected annually through such public benefits charge shall be at least three-quarters of one percent of the real dollar equivalent of each utility's 1998 nominal-dollar regulated gas revenues received for the geographic area or group of customers that is subject to the plan. Additionally, within one year following the implementation of the first natural gas supplier choice program by a natural gas utility that affects a significant number of low-income households, the public benefits charges for all natural gas public utilities that have implemented a voluntary plan shall be set at a level sufficient to raise a total additional sum of one hundred fifty thousand dollars to fund the study provided for in subsection (12) of this section.

(II) The public benefits charge shall be separately stated on each customer's bill for natural gas delivery service in the same manner and with the same prominence as is the charge to defray the utility's transition costs; and

(III) The public benefits charge shall be imposed on all natural gas delivered by the utility in a manner that is competitively neutral and nonbypassable.

(c) The governing body of each municipal utility providing natural gas service shall have the authority to consider and approve or reject a voluntary plan submitted by the natural gas municipal utility, for all or a portion of its service territory, that provides for:

(I) The separation of natural gas service into natural gas supply service and natural gas delivery service; and

(II) The deregulation of municipal natural gas supply service. In making a determination to approve or reject the voluntary plan submitted, the governing body shall apply the criteria set forth in paragraph (c) of subsection (3) of this section, but only to the extent applicable to municipal utility operations.

(d) (I) If the governing body of a municipality approves a plan for the voluntary separation of natural gas service offerings and the deregulation of natural gas supply, the municipal utility may request authority from the governing body of the municipality to treat any proposed contracts or agreements for natural gas supply service being negotiated by the municipal utility as confidential information until such contracts or agreements are formally executed. Upon such request, the governing body of the municipality shall hold a hearing to determine whether confidential treatment of such contracts is warranted in order to allow the municipal utility to compete effectively as a provider of natural gas supply service.

(II) If, after a hearing pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (d), the governing body determines that confidential treatment of the contracts is warranted, then:

(A) Such contracts shall not be subject to public disclosure under section 24-72-203, C.R.S., until formally executed by the parties; and

(B) Discussion by the governing body of such contracts or the contents thereof prior to execution may properly be the subject of an executive session, as the term is used in section 24-6-402, C.R.S. This paragraph (d) shall not be construed to limit or condition the governing body's authority to meet in executive session for any other reason enumerated in section 24-6-402, C.R.S.

(e) The commission or other governing body shall retain the authority to establish guidelines regarding gas transportation service. Such guidelines may include, but are not limited to, provisions concerning the establishment of rates, terms, and conditions for the provisioning of gas transportation services by a natural gas public utility, regardless of whether the utility has an approved voluntary plan.

(3) (a) The commission is hereby granted the authority to consider and approve, reject, or approve with modifications a voluntary plan submitted by a natural gas public utility, for all or a portion of its service territory, that:

(I) Provides for the separation of natural gas service into natural gas supply service and natural gas delivery service; and

(II) Allows for competition in natural gas supply service.

(b) The commission may also consider and approve, reject, or approve with modifications as a part of any plan submitted in accordance with paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), the proposal of a natural gas public utility to participate as a competing supplier of natural gas. If the commission finds that a utility's plan meets the criteria set forth in paragraph (c) of this subsection (3) and is in the public interest, the commission shall approve the plan. If the plan is approved or approved with modifications, the commission shall determine the requirements or conditions under which the natural gas public utility shall be permitted to offer supply service. The commission may, without limitation, determine that the natural gas public utility shall be permitted to compete as a supplier of natural gas on an unregulated basis or determine that the natural gas public utility shall be permitted to compete as a supplier of natural gas on an unregulated basis only through an affiliate. Alternatively, the commission may establish such requirements or conditions as are in the public interest considering the market position of the natural gas public utility. After the plan is approved, all natural gas supply service, other than fallback service, established under the plan as a competitive service shall thereafter be sold on an unregulated basis without an obligation to serve.

(c) The commission shall not approve a plan submitted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) unless the price charged for natural gas delivery services does not subsidize natural gas supply service under the plan and, in addition, the plan:

(I) Provides for nondiscriminatory natural gas delivery service over the public utility's pipelines so that all natural gas consumers covered by the plan, including those who are currently transportation customers of the natural gas public utility, shall have ready access to natural gas supply service from competing sources;

(II) Does not present any unnecessary barriers that prevent or reduce ready access to natural gas supply service for all classes of consumers, including ensuring nondiscriminatory access to upstream capacity and storage services by all competitors;

(III) Establishes safeguards to eliminate the unreasonable exercise of market power by any person to the detriment of consumers or competitors;

(IV) Provides for consumer protection deemed necessary by the commission to assure reliable natural gas supply service, taking into consideration the needs of consumers. Such protections may include, but shall not be limited to, backup gas supply availability, excess peak day supply margins, standards of conduct, and full-rate recovery of any prudent costs incurred by a natural gas public utility related to any reasonable efforts the utility may undertake to avoid gas supply interruptions to consumers served by its delivery system.

(V) Further provides for those consumer protections deemed necessary by the commission to assure that fallback retail natural gas supply service, on a firm basis with adequate backup, is available to customers under reasonable terms and conditions. Such fallback retail natural gas supply service protection may or may not be provided by the incumbent natural gas public utility. These protections shall include, but are not limited to, the development of a commission-approved standard offer gas supply service or the use of a commission-approved competitive bidding process to assure that natural gas supply is available at fair and reasonable prices for those customers who do not receive supply offers, who do not select a competitive natural gas provider, who are refused service by a supplier, whose service is canceled by a supplier, who need service while moving or during other transitions, or whose supplier fails to supply service. If a utility provides regulated fallback service, the utility shall be allowed to recover all prudently incurred costs related to the provision of fallback supplies through regulated standard offer gas supply service.

(VI) Provides for consumer education concerning the natural gas public utility's restructuring of its rates and the choices that will be made available to consumers in the competitive supply market;

(VII) Does not degrade the integrity or reliability of natural gas delivery service or of any upstream third-party pipeline and storage services that are necessary to maintain such reliability and that may be held by the public utility as part of the plan; except that this subparagraph (VII) shall not preclude the necessary upstream third-party pipeline and storage services from being held by competitive natural gas providers unless the commission finds that such condition results in a degradation of the integrity or reliability of natural gas distribution service;

(VIII) Provides for funding of low-income energy assistance programs such as bill assistance and weatherization through the assessment of a separately stated distribution charge, denoted a "public benefits charge", consistent with the authority of the utility to collect the public benefits charge as established in this section. The moneys received through the implementation of the public benefits charge shall be administered by the Colorado energy assistance foundation, which is the entity created under section 40-8.5-104, or its successor, to be used for the purposes of low-income energy assistance payments and programs, low-income weatherization assistance and programs, low-income energy education, and energy conservation. The Colorado energy assistance foundation shall file a report with the commission annually showing amounts of money collected under the public benefits charge and demonstrating that the moneys were used to fund low-income energy assistance programs as established herein.

(IX) Contains all terms and conditions that the commission deems necessary to protect the public interest and to foster competition in the supply of natural gas, including, without limitation, terms and conditions that address the following issues:

- (A) The manner in which price and terms and conditions should be disclosed;
- (B) The extent to which natural gas utilities and suppliers are obligated to serve all customers;
- (C) Appropriate credit and collection practices;
- (D) The terms under which service may be discontinued;
- (E) How partial payments are allocated;
- (F) Protecting customer privacy;
- (G) Prohibiting unfair and deceptive marketing practices; and
- (H) The degree of access to customer information needed by suppliers to promote competition;

(X) Provides that, as an aspect of implementing the plan, no consumer's natural gas supplier may be changed without the consumer's prior express consent except as ordered by the commission. Either through rule-making or through consideration of methodology proposed in the plan, the commission shall establish allowable express consent verification methods which may include written confirmation, third-party oral confirmation, or other appropriate procedures. The commission shall also establish and determine the extent to which a supplier who causes consumers to be changed without their consent is liable to those consumers and their chosen providers.

(XI) Provides for funding of the commission and the office of consumer counsel based upon a charge to end-use customers, as determined by the commission, as a part of the natural gas delivery function, regardless of the identity of the natural gas supplier. Such new funding method shall be competitively neutral and shall be designed to generate annual revenues equivalent to the average annual revenues generated under sections 40-2-109 to 40-2-114 during calendar years 1994 to 1998 associated with the sale of natural gas service from the geographic area or group of customers affected by the plan. Whenever such new funding method is instituted for any specific geographic area or group of customers, the natural gas public utilities serving such area or group shall no longer pay the fees that would otherwise have been required under said sections.

(XII) (A) Maintains regulated, cost-based rates for gas supply service from the public utility until such time as, in the aggregate, no less than thirty-three and one-third percent of the customers covered by a plan are served by competitive natural gas providers, which may include affiliates of the public utility; there are a minimum of five competitive natural gas providers not affiliated with the public utility unless the commission determines that, in geographic areas covered by the plan, less than five competitive natural gas suppliers provide effective competition; and the competitive natural gas suppliers not affiliated with the public utility serve no less than eighteen percent of the customers covered by a plan. When these conditions are met, the public utility supply service to the geographic area or to customers covered by a plan may be deregulated and the fallback supply provision of the plan shall become effective.

(B) For purposes of this subparagraph (XII), the number of customers served by competitive natural gas suppliers shall be determined based on the number of natural gas meters served by competitive natural gas suppliers in the geographic area covered by the plan, other than those meters served under the natural gas utility's gas transportation tariffs at the time the plan is implemented, whether directly or through a marketer or broker, compared to the total number of natural gas meters in the geographic area covered by the plan.

(4) If the commission approves a natural gas public utility's voluntary plan with modifications, the utility shall have the option to reject the modified plan and continue to be regulated as before. However, if a natural gas public utility exercises this option, it may not file another voluntary plan for a minimum of two years unless otherwise permitted by the commission and it may not recover in rates the costs and administrative charges incurred associated with the design and litigation of its voluntary plan proposal.

(5) The department of revenue is hereby authorized to collect funding for the commission and the office of consumer counsel in accordance with subparagraph (XI) of paragraph (c) of subsection (3) of this section.

(6) The commission shall establish, by rule or by alternative filing by natural gas public utilities or gas supply companies, such certification requirements, terms and conditions for gas supply service, reporting requirements, and compliance procedures for competitive suppliers, aggregators other than municipalities or counties operating as aggregators within their jurisdictional boundaries, or brokers as the commission deems necessary to provide Colorado retail consumers with reliable natural gas supply service. Such requirements may include, without limitation, complaint procedures for enforcement of the commission's rules and procedures for the suspension or revocation of certification and operating authority of competitive suppliers, aggregators other than municipalities or counties operating as aggregators within their jurisdictional boundaries, or brokers for violation of commission rules as well as the assessment of fines and penalties for violations of commission rules and standards of conduct, in addition to other commission rules and enforcement mechanisms. In the certification requirements the commission shall require natural gas suppliers to operate a customer service location in the state and provide customers with a toll-free telephone number to reach the natural gas supplier.

(7) (a) The commission shall permit each natural gas public utility recovery, through its tariff rates for delivery of natural gas, of all or a portion of the utility's transition costs as may be just and reasonable if such recovery, for transition costs other than costs identified in sub-subparagraphs (G) and (H) of subparagraph (II) of paragraph (b) of this subsection (7), does not increase the annual charges for regulated gas delivery service in excess of one percent of the utility's jurisdictional gas revenues booked or recorded in calendar year 1998 unless the utility is thereby unable to recover such transition costs as may be approved by the commission pursuant to this subsection (7) within fifteen years. In such a case, the commission shall ensure that the recovery of the utility's transition costs, excluding those identified in sub-subparagraphs (G) and (H) of subparagraph (II) of paragraph (b) of this subsection (7), does not increase the annual charges for regulated gas delivery service in excess of two percent of the utility's jurisdictional gas revenues booked or recorded in calendar year 1998. To the extent the commission approves the recovery of transition costs identified in sub-subparagraphs (G) and (H) of subparagraph (II) of paragraph (b) of this subsection (7), those costs shall be recovered over a reasonable period of time, as determined by the commission.

(b) (I) As used in this subsection (7), "transition costs" means all costs determined by the commission to be legitimate, verifiable, and prudently incurred in the provision of natural gas service to customers in Colorado that arise from or are related to contracts, investments, or other obligations existing on or before the date of implementation of the voluntary plan and no longer recoverable under the plan, whether such costs are in the form of direct expenditures for capital assets, operating expenses, investments, long-term supply contracts or other future obligations, or any other form.

(II) Transition costs may include, but are not limited to, the following:

(A) Costs and administrative charges incurred by a natural gas public utility resulting from the design and implementation of its voluntary plan;

(B) Costs incurred before, on, or after the date of implementation of the voluntary plan and that are related to preexisting gas supply, transportation, or storage service contracts, including any contract buyout or buy-down costs, contract reformation or termination costs, contract litigation costs, fees, judgments, or settlements, other than those costs that have been the subject of litigation prior to January 1, 1999, as identified in sub-subparagraph (H) of this subparagraph (II);

(C) Investments in assets that are stranded by competition for natural gas supply service;

(D) Interstate or intrastate third-party pipeline costs;

(E) Balancing costs;

(F) Underground storage costs;

(G) Deferred or prior-period gas costs not yet recovered at the time of conversion to competition in the provision of natural gas supply service;

(H) Costs incurred before, on, or after the date of implementation of the voluntary plan and that are related to preexisting gas supply contracts that have been the subject of litigation prior to January 1, 1999, including any above market costs, contract buyout, buy-down, reformation, or termination costs, litigation costs, fees, judgments, or settlements; and

(I) Any other costs that the commission determines to be recoverable transition costs.

(III) Transition costs shall not include:

(A) Costs that are or could be included within the existing rates of the natural gas public utility and that would result in double recovery of such costs if they were so included; or

(B) Costs committed to or incurred after the implementation date of the voluntary plan unless the commission determines that allowing recovery of such costs is in the public interest or that the incurrence of such costs is reasonable and prudent for the purpose of resolving or mitigating other transition costs.

(IV) A natural gas public utility shall not be entitled to recover its transition costs unless the commission finds that the utility has made reasonable efforts to mitigate transition costs. The commission shall determine the appropriate method and amortization period for a utility's recovery of transition costs and may establish such other reasonable procedures and conditions for the recovery of transition costs as the commission may determine are consistent with this section and in the public interest.

(c) Except to the extent provided in plan provisions or rules adopted by the commission governing the relationship between the public utility and its affiliates, the commission shall not impose on a natural gas public utility or its affiliate, with respect to competitive natural gas supply services, any requirement that is not imposed upon competing, non-utility providers of natural gas supply services, unless the commission determines that the imposition of such requirement is necessary to protect the public interest.

(8) The public benefits charge and its funding method shall continue in effect until at least December 31, 2005, and shall remain in effect thereafter until and unless replaced with a different legislatively adopted funding mechanism for statewide low-income energy assistance programs that assures the availability of adequate resources and that is consistent with the recommendations of the 1998 governor's energy assistance reform task force for the purpose of defraying the costs of low-income energy assistance. On or before December 1, 2004, the Colorado energy assistance foundation, which is the entity created under section 40-8.5-104, or its successor, in conjunction with any interested natural gas utility or natural gas supplier, shall recommend such a different funding mechanism for low-income energy assistance programs to the general assembly for adoption.

(9) Repealed.

(10) The general assembly determines that a new funding formula should be devised to adequately fund the commission's and office of consumer counsel's administrative expenses. On or before December 1, 2000, the commission and the office of consumer counsel shall recommend to the general assembly those legislative changes needed to develop appropriate funding mechanisms for the public utilities commission and the office of consumer counsel. This provision is intended to provide a comprehensive replacement for the funding method contained in the utility plan under subparagraph (XI) of paragraph (c) of subsection (3) of this section.

(11) The commission is specifically authorized at its sole discretion to adopt all necessary rules in furtherance of this section, including, but not limited to, standards of conduct, unfair and deceptive marketing practices, and consumer protections.

(12) Repealed.

(13) In any area where competitive gas supply choices are afforded to customers, any municipality or county or combination thereof may serve as a competitive supplier or, without buying and selling gas, act as an aggregator of the loads of its residents and businesses and contract with a certified supplier for its gas supply needs and the gas supply needs of its residents or businesses or both such residents and businesses; except that nothing in this subsection (13) shall require either a resident or business to buy natural gas supply service from a municipality serving as a supplier or acting as an aggregator of the loads of its residents or businesses.

(14) Each provider of natural gas supply service and natural gas delivery service shall collect and remit all applicable sales and use taxes. In a transaction involving the sale or furnishing of natural gas service, the transaction shall be deemed to occur where the natural gas is used or consumed.

(15) The commission shall undertake an investigation into natural gas public utilities' supply acquisition practices. The investigation shall examine, among other items, how public utilities currently acquire supply and their ability to manage the risk of price spikes in natural gas markets. Based on the investigation's findings, the commission may provide recommendations as to how natural gas portfolios might be structured in the future so as to provide greater long-term natural gas price stability for consumers. Information from the investigation shall be made available to interested parties at the commission's office. Such portfolio shall include a comparison of costs of natural gas contracts to the cost of coal syngas contracts that may become available in the future.

40-2-123. New energy technologies - consideration by commission - incentives - demonstration projects - definitions - legislative declaration - repeal. (1) (a) The commission shall give the fullest possible consideration to the cost-effective implementation of new clean energy and energy-efficient technologies in its consideration of generation acquisitions for electric utilities, bearing in mind the beneficial contributions such technologies make to Colorado's energy security, economic prosperity, environmental protection, and insulation from fuel price increases. The commission shall consider utility investments in energy efficiency to be an acceptable use of ratepayer moneys.

(b) The commission may give consideration to the likelihood of new environmental regulation and the risk of higher future costs associated with the emission of greenhouse gases such as carbon dioxide when it considers utility proposals to acquire resources. Where utilities eliminate or reduce carbon dioxide emissions through the use of capture and sequestration, the commission may consider the benefits of using carbon dioxide for enhanced oil recovery or other uses.

(c) The commission shall give the fullest possible consideration to proposals under the reenergize Colorado program, created in section 24-33-115, C.R.S., with particular attention to those projects offering the prospect of job creation and local economic growth.

(2) (a) The commission shall consider proposals by Colorado electric utilities to propose, fund, and construct integrated gasification combined cycle generation facilities to demonstrate the feasibility of this clean coal technology with the use of western coal and with carbon dioxide capture and sequestration.

(b) As used in this subsection (2):

(I) "IGCC project" means an IGCC facility that:

(A) Demonstrates the use of IGCC technology to generate electricity using Colorado or other western coal;

(B) Does not exceed three hundred fifty megawatts nameplate capacity; except that it may exceed this capacity if the commission determines that a larger size is necessary to obtain the benefits of federal cost-sharing, financial grants or tax benefits, or other financial opportunities or arrangements benefitting the project, including opportunities to jointly develop the project with other electric utilities;

(C) Demonstrates the capture and sequestration of a portion of the project's carbon dioxide emissions;

(D) Includes methods and procedures to monitor the fate of the carbon dioxide captured and sequestered from the facility; and

(E) Is located in Colorado.

(II) "Integrated gasification combined cycle generation facility" or "IGCC facility" means a facility that converts coal to a gaseous fuel from which impurities are removed prior to combustion, uses the gaseous fuel in a combustion turbine to produce electricity, and captures the waste heat from the combustion turbine to drive a steam turbine to produce more electricity. An IGCC facility may also use natural gas, in addition to gasified coal, as a fuel in the combustion turbine.

(c) A public utility may apply under this subsection (2) to the commission for a certificate of public convenience and necessity and for cost recovery for one IGCC project. The utility's application shall demonstrate why the utility should be granted a waiver of the commission's rules requiring competitive resource acquisition. In addition, in its application, the utility shall set forth information concerning:

(I) The proposed IGCC project's economic and technical feasibility;

(II) Its near-term and future commercial development potential;

(III) Its projected efficiency;

(IV) The projected cost of the project, the projected incremental average rate impact expected from the project, and the form of rate recovery requested by the utility; and

(V) Other relevant information as the commission may require.

(d) In its application, the public utility seeking to build an IGCC project shall also provide information concerning the following environmental matters:

(I) The IGCC project's projected water savings, emission rates, and other environmental benefits;

(II) Any environmental and public safety impacts of the project;

(III) The capture and sequestration of a portion of the project's carbon dioxide emissions and the proposed level of carbon dioxide to be captured and sequestered from the IGCC project;

(IV) An analysis of the economic implications and technical feasibility of different levels of carbon capture and sequestration; and

(V) Other relevant information as may be required by the commission.

(e) (I) The commission shall provide an opportunity for public comment and evidentiary hearing on the public utility's application. The commission shall determine whether the purposes of this section and the public interest are served by waiving the commission's rules to grant the utility a certificate of public convenience and necessity to construct the IGCC project instead of requiring the utility to acquire resources in accordance with the commission's rules requiring competitive resource acquisition. If the commission grants the utility a certificate of public convenience and necessity for the proposed IGCC project, the commission shall issue a declaratory order for cost recovery in accordance with paragraphs (f) and (g) of this subsection (2). In making its determination, the commission shall consider whether the project can be constructed for reasonable cost and rate impact, taking into account the breakthrough nature of the project.

(II) In evaluating a project under this section, in addition to the considerations set forth in subsection (1) of this section, the commission shall consider the factors set forth in paragraphs (c) and (d) of this subsection (2) and the amount of federal, state, or other moneys available for the project. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the commission to monetize the potential environmental benefits associated with a proposed IGCC project.

(f) (I) A public utility shall be entitled to fully recover, through a separate rate adjustment clause from its Colorado retail customers, the costs that it prudently incurs in planning, developing, constructing, and operating an approved IGCC project, net of any federal or state funds received for such IGCC project. The rate adjustment clause may be terminated by the commission if all of the planning, development, construction, and operating costs of the IGCC project have been included in the public utility's base rates as a result of a rate case filed after the IGCC plant commences operation. Capital investments made by a utility in connection with an approved IGCC project shall be recoverable over the useful life of the project. To provide additional encouragement to utilities to pursue the development of an IGCC project, the commission shall approve current recovery by the utility through the rate adjustment clause of the utility's weighted average cost of capital, including its most recently authorized rate of return on equity, for expenditures on an IGCC project during the construction, startup, and implementation phases of the IGCC project.

(II) If a public utility's wholesale sales are subject to regulation by the federal energy regulatory commission, and if the public utility sells power on the wholesale market from an IGCC project developed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), the commission shall determine whether to assign a portion of the IGCC project's cost of service to be recovered from the public utility's wholesale customers. The commission may make such assignment to the extent that it does not conflict with the public utility's wholesale contracts entered into before April 1, 2006.

(III) If the commission makes an assignment of costs pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (f), the public utility may apply to the federal energy regulatory commission for recovery, effective on the date of filing of the application, of the portion of the IGCC project's costs assigned to the public utility's wholesale customers. During the pendency of such application, the commission shall permit the public utility to recover the portion of costs assigned to the public utility's wholesale customers from its retail customers.

(IV) Notwithstanding subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (f), if the public utility fails to apply to the federal energy regulatory commission within six months after the commission's final order assigning a portion of the IGCC project's costs to the public utility's wholesale customers, or if the public utility fails to make a diligent, good faith effort to persuade the federal energy regulatory commission to approve the cost recovery from the public utility's wholesale customers, the public utility shall not be entitled to recover the assigned portion of the IGCC project costs from its retail customers.

(V) All revenues that a public utility receives from its wholesale customers for the IGCC project's costs shall be credited as an offset to the IGCC project's costs charged to the public utility's retail customers.

(g) If the commission approves the utility's application, the utility shall be entitled to recover the full life-cycle capital and operating costs associated with an IGCC project unless the commission finds such costs to be imprudent after fully taking into account the technical and financial challenges and uncertainties associated with the project. During the initial startup and testing period, to be determined by the commission as part of the application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, the utility shall be entitled to recover through an adjustment clause any additional costs for electricity purchased as a result of planned and unplanned outages of an IGCC project. In structuring the adjustment clause, the utility's return on investment in an IGCC project from time to time shall be limited to the utility's most recent commission-approved return on investment in other utility generation facilities.

(h) Following the initial startup and testing period, the public utility shall be entitled to recover through an adjustment clause any additional costs for electricity purchased as a result of planned and unplanned outages of an IGCC project in the same manner, and under the same terms and conditions, as are applicable to non-IGCC projects. After the IGCC project achieves commercial operation, the public utility shall report on the cost and performance of the IGCC project. After investigation and public hearing, the commission may, on its own motion, order shutdown, decommissioning, or repowering of the IGCC project if it finds that continued operation would be contrary to the public interest. The public utility shall be entitled to full recovery of the prudently incurred costs associated with the shutdown, decommissioning, or repowering of the IGCC project.

(i) If the commission determines that the public utility should be granted a waiver of the commission's rules requiring competitive resource acquisition and that the incremental cost and rate impact of the IGCC facility to be reasonable, taking into account the breakthrough nature of the project, the factors set forth in paragraphs (c) and (d) of this subsection (2), and the amount of federal, state, or other moneys available for the project, the commission shall authorize the project as an appropriate component of a utility's resource plan.

(j) In order to reduce the cost to Colorado consumers of an IGCC project, the department of public health and environment, the governor's office of economic development, and the Colorado energy office may provide public utilities with reasonable assistance in seeking and obtaining financial and other support and sponsorship for a project from the United States congress, the United States department of energy, and other appropriate federal and state agencies and institutions. To obtain this assistance, the utility may provide to these state agencies copies of its IGCC project proposal. The Colorado energy office shall manage and distribute to the utility some or all of any funds provided by the state of Colorado or by the United States government to the state of Colorado for purposes of study or development of an IGCC project.

(k) To encourage advanced coal technology, which should lead to lower emissions and other environmental benefits compared to conventional coal-fired generation, financial support for the study, engineering, and development of an IGCC facility shall be appropriated from the clean energy development fund created in section 24-22-118, C.R.S. The utility shall report to the commission the results of its study, irrespective of whether the utility files an application with the commission under paragraph (c) of this subsection (2).

(l) To facilitate financing of an IGCC project, one or more public utilities may develop, construct, or own an IGCC facility through a special purpose entity or other affiliated partnership or corporation. If such an ownership structure is employed, the utility or utilities may apply to the commission for a waiver of the commission's rules requiring competitive resource acquisition. If the commission determines that the purposes of this section and the public interest are served by granting the waiver, the utility or utilities may enter into a power purchase agreement with the owner of the IGCC facility that provides compensation to the facility owner for its costs and provides a reasonable return on investment. Public utility payments made under such a power purchase agreement shall be recoverable through a rate adjustment clause on a timely basis.

(m) (I) Nothing in this subsection (2) shall be construed to prohibit a utility from proposing to acquire, through the commission-approved resource planning and acquisition processes, power and energy derived from an IGCC facility developed by the utility or by contract from an affiliate of the utility or from an owner of an IGCC facility not affiliated with the utility. Nothing in this section shall prevent a utility from applying for a certificate of public convenience and necessity to construct more than one IGCC facility.

(II) Notwithstanding any provision of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (m), a utility may request a waiver of the commission's rules requiring competitive resource acquisition pursuant to this subsection (2) for only one IGCC project.

(3) (a) (I) Energy is critically important to Colorado's welfare and development and its use has a profound impact on the economy and environment. In order to diversify Colorado's energy resources, attract new businesses and jobs, promote development of rural economies, minimize water use for electric generation, reduce the impact of volatile fuel prices, and improve the natural environment of the state, the general assembly finds it in the best interests of the citizens of Colorado to develop and utilize solar energy resources in increasing amounts.

(II) For purposes of this subsection (3), "utility-scale" means projects with nameplate ratings in excess of two megawatts.

(b) The commission may consider whether acquisition of utility-scale solar resources is in the public interest, taking into account the associated costs and benefits, and, if so, the appropriate amount of utility-scale solar resources that should be acquired. In making this determination, the commission may consider the following potential attributes of utility-scale solar electric generation:

(I) Whether the proposed generation could provide energy storage to match the times during which utility generation is generally higher cost;

(II) Whether the proposed generation, due to modularity, scalability, and rapid deployment, could result in reduction of performance and financial risk for the utility;

(III) Whether utility-scale solar electric generation could reduce the consumption of water for electric generation;

(IV) Whether future costs can be stabilized through mitigation of the impact of unpredictable fossil fuel prices; and

(V) Whether carbon-free generation reduces long-term costs and risks related to potential carbon regulation or taxation.

(3.2) In its consideration of generation acquisitions for electric utilities, the commission may give the fullest possible consideration, at a utility's request, to the cost-effective implementation of new energy technologies for the generation of electricity from:

(a) Geothermal energy;

(b) The combustion of biomass, biosolids derived from the treatment of wastewater, and municipal solid waste. For purposes of this paragraph (b), "biomass" has the meaning established in section 40-2-124 (1) (a), as clarified by the commission.

(c) Hydroelectricity and pumped hydroelectricity, taking into account the associated costs and benefits. For purposes of this paragraph (c):

(I) "Hydroelectricity" means the generation and delivery to the interconnection meter of any source of electrical or mechanical energy by harnessing the kinetic energy of water that is:

(A) A new facility that is an addition to water infrastructure such as a reservoir, ditch, or pipeline that existed before January 1, 2011, and does not result in any change in the quantity or timing of diversions or releases for purposes of peak power generation; or

(B) A new facility that is placed into production as part of new water infrastructure such as a reservoir, ditch, or pipeline constructed on or after January 1, 2011, and operated for primary beneficial uses of water other than solely for production of electricity.

(II) "Pumped hydroelectricity" means electricity that is generated during periods of high electrical demand from water that has been pumped during periods of low electrical demand from a lower-elevation reservoir to a higher-elevation reservoir taking into account the potential benefits or impacts of the proposed facility on fishery health.

(3.3) In its consideration of generation acquisitions for electric utilities, the commission may give the fullest possible consideration to the cost-effective implementation of new energy technologies for the generation of electricity from methane produced biogenically in geologic strata as a result of human intervention.

(3.5) (a) The commission shall give the fullest possible consideration to projects that are eligible for full or partial funding under the federal "American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009", Pub.L. 111-5, referred to in this subsection (3.5) as the "federal act", or any amendments thereto.

(b) The commission may create incentives and establish performance goals for a utility related to any project that the utility proposes that:

(I) Promotes renewable energy, demand side management, energy storage, transmission, smart grid, advanced fossil fuel technologies, or carbon capture and sequestration; and

(II) Uses tax credits, grants, loan guarantees, or other incentives that are provided for in or derived from the federal act.

(c) The commission may provide an incentive for a project pursuant to this subsection (3.5) only if the commission determines that the project will receive federal act funding and that the project benefits the economy and employment in the state.

(d) This subsection (3.5) applies only to rate-regulated utilities.

(e) This subsection (3.5) is repealed, effective July 1, 2013.

(4) This section does not expand or contract the commission's jurisdiction over cooperative electric associations under this title.

40-2-124. Renewable energy standard - definitions - net metering - legislative declaration. (1) Each provider of retail electric service in the state of Colorado, other than municipally owned utilities that serve forty thousand customers or fewer, shall be considered a qualifying retail utility. Each qualifying retail utility, with the exception of cooperative electric associations that have voted to exempt themselves from commission jurisdiction pursuant to section 40-9.5-104 and municipally owned utilities, shall be subject to the rules established under this article by the commission. No additional regulatory authority of the commission other than that specifically contained in this section is provided or implied. In accordance with article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., the commission shall revise or clarify existing rules to establish the following:

(a) Definitions of eligible energy resources that can be used to meet the standards. "Eligible energy resources" means recycled energy and renewable energy resources. The commission shall determine, following an evidentiary hearing, the extent to which such electric generation technologies utilized in an optional pricing program may be used to comply with this standard. A fuel cell using hydrogen derived from an eligible energy resource is also an eligible electric generation technology. Fossil and nuclear fuels and their derivatives are not eligible energy resources. For purposes of this section:

(I) "Biomass" means:

(A) Nontoxic plant matter consisting of agricultural crops or their byproducts, urban wood waste, mill residue, slash, or brush;

(B) Animal wastes and products of animal wastes; or

(C) Methane produced at landfills or as a by-product of the treatment of wastewater residuals.

(II) "Distributed renewable electric generation" or "distributed generation" means:

(A) Retail distributed generation; and

(B) Wholesale distributed generation.

(III) "Recycled energy" means energy produced by a generation unit with a nameplate capacity of not more than fifteen megawatts that converts the otherwise lost energy from the heat from exhaust stacks or pipes to electricity and that does not combust additional fossil fuel. "Recycled energy" does not include energy produced by any system that uses energy, lost or otherwise, from a process whose primary purpose is the generation of electricity, including, without limitation, any process involving engine-driven generation or pumped hydroelectricity generation.

(IV) "Renewable energy resources" means solar, wind, geothermal, biomass, new hydroelectricity with a nameplate rating of ten megawatts or less, and hydroelectricity in existence on January 1, 2005, with a nameplate rating of thirty megawatts or less.

(V) "Retail distributed generation" means a renewable energy resource that is located on the site of a customer's facilities and is interconnected on the customer's side of the utility meter. In addition, retail distributed generation shall provide electric energy primarily to serve the customer's load and shall be sized to supply no more than one hundred twenty percent of the average annual consumption of electricity by the customer at that site. For purposes of this subparagraph (V), the customer's "site" includes all contiguous property owned or leased by the customer without regard to interruptions in contiguity caused by easements, public thoroughfares, transportation rights-of-way, or utility rights-of-way.

(VI) "Wholesale distributed generation" means a renewable energy resource in Colorado with a nameplate rating of thirty megawatts or less and that does not qualify as retail distributed generation.

(b) Standards for the design, placement, and management of electric generation technologies that use eligible energy resources to ensure that the environmental impacts of such facilities are minimized.

(c) Electric resource standards:

(I) Except as provided in subparagraph (V) of this paragraph (c), the electric resource standards shall require each qualifying retail utility to generate, or cause to be generated, electricity from eligible energy resources in the following minimum amounts:

(A) Three percent of its retail electricity sales in Colorado for the year 2007;

(B) Five percent of its retail electricity sales in Colorado for the years 2008 through 2010;

(C) Twelve percent of its retail electricity sales in Colorado for the years 2011 through 2014, with distributed generation equaling at least one percent of its retail electricity sales in 2011 and 2012 and one and one-fourth percent of its retail electricity sales in 2013 and 2014;

(D) Twenty percent of its retail electricity sales in Colorado for the years 2015 through 2019, with distributed generation equaling at least one and three-fourths percent of its retail electricity sales in 2015 and 2016 and two percent of its retail electricity sales in 2017, 2018, and 2019; and

(E) Thirty percent of its retail electricity sales in Colorado for the years 2020 and thereafter, with distributed generation equaling at least three percent of its retail electricity sales.

(II) (A) Of the amounts of distributed generation in sub-subparagraphs (C), (D), and (E) of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c), at least one-half shall be derived from retail distributed generation.

(B) Solar generating equipment located on-site at customers' facilities shall be sized to supply no more than one hundred twenty percent of the average annual consumption of electricity by the consumer at that site. For purposes of this sub-subparagraph (B), the consumer's "site" shall include all contiguous property owned or leased by the consumer, without regard to interruptions in contiguity caused by easements, public thoroughfares, transportation rights-of-way, or utility rights-of-way.

(C) Distributed generation amounts in the electric resource standard for the years 2015 and thereafter may be changed by the commission for the period after December 31, 2014, if the commission finds, upon application by a qualifying retail utility, that these percentage requirements are no longer in the public interest. If such a finding is made, the commission may set the lower distributed generation requirements, if any, that shall apply after December 31, 2014. If the commission finds that the public interest requires an increase in the distributed generation requirements, the commission shall report its findings to the general assembly.

(III) Each kilowatt-hour of electricity generated from eligible energy resources in Colorado, other than retail distributed generation, shall be counted as one and one-quarter kilowatt-hours for the purposes of compliance with this standard.

(IV) To the extent that the ability of a qualifying retail utility to acquire eligible energy resources is limited by a requirements contract with a wholesale electric supplier, the qualifying retail utility shall acquire the maximum amount allowed by the contract. For any shortfalls to the amounts established by the commission pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c), the qualifying retail utility shall acquire an equivalent amount of either renewable energy credits; documented and verified energy savings through energy efficiency and conservation programs; or a combination of both. Any contract entered into by a qualifying retail utility after December 1, 2004, shall not conflict with this section.

(V) Notwithstanding any other provision of law but subject to subsection (4) of this section, the electric resource standards shall require each cooperative electric association and municipally owned utility that is a qualifying retail utility to generate, or cause to be generated, electricity from eligible energy resources in the following minimum amounts:

(A) One percent of its retail electricity sales in Colorado for the years 2008 through 2010;

(B) Three percent of retail electricity sales in Colorado for the years 2011 through 2014;

(C) Six percent of retail electricity sales in Colorado for the years 2015 through 2019; and

(D) Ten percent of retail electricity sales in Colorado for the years 2020 and thereafter.

(VI) Each kilowatt-hour of electricity generated from eligible energy resources at a community-based project shall be counted as one and one-half kilowatt-hours. For purposes of this subparagraph (VI), "community-based project" means a project located in Colorado:

(A) That is owned by individual residents of a community, by an organization or cooperative that is controlled by individual residents of the community, or by a local government entity or tribal council;

(B) The generating capacity of which does not exceed thirty megawatts; and

(C) For which there is a resolution of support adopted by the local governing body of each local jurisdiction in which the project is to be located.

(VII) (A) For purposes of compliance with the standards set forth in subparagraph (V) of this paragraph (c), each kilowatt-hour of renewable electricity generated from solar electric generation technologies shall be counted as three kilowatt-hours.

(B) Sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (VII) applies only to solar electric technologies that begin producing electricity prior to July 1, 2015. For solar electric technologies that begin producing electricity on or after July 1, 2015, each kilowatt-hour of renewable electricity shall be counted as one kilowatt-hour for purposes of compliance with the renewable energy standard.

(VIII) Electricity from eligible energy resources shall be subject to only one of the methods for counting kilowatt-hours set forth in subparagraphs (III), (VI), and (VII) of this paragraph (c).

(IX) For purposes of stimulating rural economic development and for projects up to thirty megawatts of nameplate capacity that have a point of interconnection rated at sixty-nine kilovolts or less, each kilowatt hour of electricity generated from renewable energy resources that interconnects to electric transmission or distribution facilities owned by a cooperative electric association or municipally owned utility may be counted for the life of the project as two kilowatt hours for compliance with the requirements of this paragraph (c) by qualifying retail utilities. This multiplier shall not be claimed for interconnections that first occur after December 31, 2014, and shall not be used in conjunction with another compliance multiplier. For qualifying retail utilities other than investor-owned utilities, the benefits described in this subparagraph (IX) apply only to the aggregate first one hundred megawatts of nameplate capacity of projects statewide that report having achieved commercial operations to the commission pursuant to the procedure described in this subparagraph (IX). To the extent that a qualifying retail utility claims the benefit described in this subparagraph (IX), those kilowatt-hours of electricity do not qualify for satisfaction of the distributed generation requirement of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c). The commission shall analyze the implementation of this subparagraph (IX) and submit a report to the senate local government and energy committee and the house of representatives committee on transportation and energy, or their successor committees, by December 31, 2011, regarding implementation of this subparagraph (IX), including how many megawatts of electricity have been installed or are subject to a power purchase agreement pursuant to this subparagraph (IX) and whether the commission recommends that the multiplier established by this subparagraph (IX) should be changed either in magnitude or expiration date. Any entity that owns or develops a project that will take advantage of the benefits of this subparagraph (IX) shall notify the commission within thirty days after signing a power purchase agreement and within thirty days after beginning commercial operations of an applicable project.

(d) A system of tradable renewable energy credits that may be used by a qualifying retail utility to comply with this standard. The commission shall also analyze the effectiveness of utilizing any regional system of renewable energy credits in existence at the time of its rule-making process and determine whether the system is governed by rules that are consistent with the rules established for this article. The commission shall not restrict the qualifying retail utility's ownership of renewable energy credits if the qualifying retail utility complies with the electric resource standard of paragraph (c) of this subsection (1), uses definitions of eligible energy resources that are limited to those identified in paragraph

(a) of this subsection (1), as clarified by the commission, and does not exceed the retail rate impact established by paragraph (g) of this subsection (1). Once a qualifying retail utility either receives a permit pursuant to article 7 or 8 of title 25, C.R.S., for a generation facility that relies on or is affected by the definitions of eligible energy resources or enters into a contract that relies on or is affected by the definitions of eligible energy resources, such definitions apply to the contract or facility notwithstanding any subsequent alteration of the definitions, whether by statute or rule. For purposes of compliance with the renewable energy standard, if a generation system uses a combination of fossil fuel and eligible renewable energy resources to generate electricity, a qualified retail utility that is not an investor-owned utility may count as eligible renewable energy only the proportion of the total electric output of the generation system that results from the use of eligible renewable energy resources.

(e) A standard rebate offer program, under which:

(I) (A) Each qualifying retail utility, except for cooperative electric associations and municipally owned utilities, shall make available to its retail electricity customers a standard rebate offer of a specified amount per watt for the installation of eligible solar electric generation on customers' premises up to a maximum of one hundred kilowatts per installation.

(B) The standard rebate offer shall allow the customer's retail electricity consumption to be offset by the solar electricity generated. To the extent that solar electricity generation exceeds the customer's consumption during a billing month, such excess electricity shall be carried forward as a credit to the following month's consumption. To the extent that solar electricity generation exceeds the customer's consumption during a calendar year, the customer shall be reimbursed by the qualifying retail utility at its average hourly incremental cost of electricity supply over the prior twelve-month period unless the customer makes a one-time election, in writing, to request that the excess electricity be carried forward as a credit from month to month indefinitely until the customer terminates service with the qualifying retail utility, at which time no payment shall be required from the qualifying retail utility for any remaining excess electricity supplied by the customer. The qualifying retail utility shall not apply unreasonably burdensome interconnection requirements in connection with this standard rebate offer. Electricity generated under this program shall be eligible for the qualifying retail utility's compliance with this article.

(I.5) The amount of the standard rebate offer shall be two dollars per watt; except that the commission may set the rebate at a lower amount if the commission determines, based upon a qualifying retail utility's renewable resource plan or application, that market changes support the change.

(II) Sales of electricity to a consumer may be made by the owner or operator of the solar electric generation facilities located on the site of the consumer's property if the solar generating equipment is sized to supply no more than one hundred twenty percent of the average annual consumption of electricity by the consumer at that site. For purposes of this subparagraph (II), the consumer's site shall include all contiguous property owned or leased by the consumer, without regard to interruptions in contiguity caused by easements, public thoroughfares, transportation rights-of-way, or utility rights-of-way. If the solar electric generation facility is not owned by the consumer, then the qualifying retail utility shall not be required by the commission to pay for the renewable energy credits generated by the facility on any basis other than a metered basis. The owner or operator of the solar electric generation facility shall pay the cost of installing the production meter.

(III) The qualifying retail utility may establish one or more standard offers to purchase renewable energy credits generated from the eligible solar electric generation on the customer's premises so long as the generation meets the size and location requirements set forth in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (e) and so long as the generation is five hundred kilowatts or less in size. When establishing the standard offers, the prices for renewable energy credits should be set at levels sufficient to encourage increased customer-sited solar generation in the size ranges covered by each standard offer, but at levels that will still allow the qualifying retail utility to comply with the electric resource standards set forth in paragraph (c) of this subsection (1) without exceeding the retail rate impact limit in paragraph (g) of this subsection (1). The commission shall encourage qualifying retail utilities to design solar programs that allow consumers of all income levels to obtain the benefits offered by solar electricity generation and shall allow programs that are designed to extend participation to customers in market segments that have not been responding to the standard offer program.

(f) Policies for the recovery of costs incurred with respect to these standards for qualifying retail utilities that are subject to rate regulation by the commission. These policies shall provide incentives to qualifying retail utilities to invest in eligible energy resources in the state of Colorado. Such policies shall include:

(I) Allowing a qualifying retail utility to develop and own as utility rate-based property up to twenty-five percent of the total new eligible energy resources the utility acquires from entering into power purchase agreements and from developing and owning resources after March 27, 2007, if the new eligible energy resources proposed to be developed and owned by the utility can be constructed at reasonable cost compared to the cost of similar eligible energy resources available in the market. The qualifying retail utility shall be allowed to develop and own as utility rate-based property more than twenty-five percent but not more than fifty percent of total new eligible energy resources acquired after March 27, 2007, if the qualifying retail utility shows that its proposal would provide significant economic development, employment, energy security, or other benefits to the state of Colorado. The qualifying retail utility may develop and own these resources either by itself or jointly with other owners, and, if owned jointly, the entire jointly owned resource shall count toward the percentage limitations in this subparagraph (I). For the resources addressed in this subparagraph (I), the qualifying retail utility shall not be required to comply with the competitive bidding requirements of the commission's rules; except that nothing in this subparagraph (I) shall preclude the qualifying retail utility from bidding to own a greater percentage of new eligible energy resources than permitted by this subparagraph (I). In addition, nothing in this subparagraph (I) shall prevent the commission from waiving, repealing, or revising any commission rule in a manner otherwise consistent with applicable law.

(II) Allowing qualifying retail utilities to earn an extra profit on their investment in eligible energy resource technologies if these investments provide net economic benefits to customers as determined by the commission. The allowable extra profit in any year shall be the qualifying retail utility's most recent commission authorized rate of return plus a bonus limited to fifty percent of the net economic benefit.

(III) Allowing qualifying retail utilities to earn their most recent commission authorized rate of return, but no bonus, on investments in eligible energy resource technologies if these investments do not provide a net economic benefit to customers.

(IV) Considering, when the qualifying retail utility applies for a certificate of public convenience and necessity under section 40-5-101, rate recovery mechanisms that provide for earlier and timely recovery of costs prudently and reasonably incurred by the qualifying retail utility in developing, constructing, and operating the eligible energy resource, including:

(A) Rate adjustment clauses until the costs of the eligible energy resource can be included in the utility's base rates; and

(B) A current return on the utility's capital expenditures during construction at the utility's weighted average cost of capital, including its most recently authorized rate of return on equity, during the construction, startup, and operation phases of the eligible energy resource.

(V) If the commission approves the terms and conditions of an eligible energy resource contract between the qualifying retail utility and another party, the contract and its terms and conditions shall be deemed to be a prudent investment, and the commission shall approve retail rates sufficient to recover all just and reasonable costs associated with the contract. All contracts for acquisition of eligible energy resources shall have a minimum term of twenty years; except that the contract term may be shortened at the sole discretion of the seller. All contracts for the acquisition of renewable energy credits from solar electric technologies located on site at customer facilities shall also have a minimum term of twenty years; except that such contracts for systems of between one hundred kilowatts and one megawatt may have a different term if mutually agreed to by the parties.

(VI) A requirement that qualifying retail utilities consider proposals offered by third parties for the sale of renewable energy or renewable energy credits. The commission may develop standard terms for the submission of such proposals.

(VII) A requirement that all distributed renewable electric generation facilities with a nameplate rating of one megawatt or more be registered with a renewable energy generation information tracking system designated by the commission.

(g) Retail rate impact rule:

(I) (A) Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (IV) of this paragraph (g), for each qualifying utility, the commission shall establish a maximum retail rate impact for this section of two percent of the total electric bill annually for each customer. The retail rate impact shall be determined net of new alternative sources of electricity supply from noneligible energy resources that are reasonably available at the time of the determination.

(B) If the retail rate impact does not exceed the maximum impact permitted by this paragraph (g), the qualifying utility may acquire more than the minimum amount of eligible energy resources and renewable energy credits required by this section. At the request of the qualifying retail utility and upon the commission's approval, the qualifying retail utility may advance funds from year to year to augment the amounts collected from retail customers under this paragraph (g) for the acquisition of more eligible energy resources. Such funds shall be repaid from future retail rate collections, with interest calculated at the qualifying retail utility's after-tax weighted average cost of capital, so long as the retail rate impact does not exceed two percent of the total annual electric bill for each customer.

(C) As between residential and nonresidential retail distributed generation, the commission shall direct the utility to allocate its expenditures according to the proportion of the utility's revenue derived from each of these customer groups; except that the utility may acquire retail distributed generation at levels that differ from these group allocations based upon market response to the utility's programs.

(II) Each wholesale energy provider shall offer to its wholesale customers that are cooperative electric associations the opportunity to purchase their load ratio share of the wholesale energy provider's electricity from eligible energy resources. If a wholesale customer agrees to pay the full costs associated with the acquisition of eligible energy resources and associated renewable energy credits by its wholesale provider by providing notice of its intent to pay the full costs within sixty days after the wholesale provider extends the offer, the wholesale customer shall be entitled to receive the appropriate credit toward the renewable energy standard as well as any associated renewable energy credits. To the extent that the full costs are not recovered from wholesale customers, a qualifying retail utility shall be entitled to recover those costs from retail customers.

(III) Subject to the maximum retail rate impact permitted by this paragraph (g), the qualifying retail utility shall have the discretion to determine, in a nondiscriminatory manner, the price it will pay for renewable energy credits from on-site customer facilities that are no larger than five hundred kilowatts.

(IV) (A) For cooperative electric associations, the maximum retail rate impact for this section is one percent of the total electric bill annually for each customer.

(B) Notwithstanding subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (g), the commission may ensure that customers who install distributed generation continue to contribute, in a nondiscriminatory fashion, their fair share to their utility's renewable energy program fund or equivalent renewable energy support mechanism even if such contribution results in a charge that exceeds two percent of such customers' annual electric bills.

(h) Annual reports. Each qualifying retail utility shall submit to the commission an annual report that provides information relating to the actions taken to comply with this article including the costs and benefits of expenditures for renewable energy. The report shall be within the time prescribed and in a format approved by the commission.

(i) Rules necessary for the administration of this article including enforcement mechanisms necessary to ensure that each qualifying retail utility complies with this standard, and provisions governing the imposition of administrative penalties assessed after a hearing held by the commission pursuant to section 40-6-109. The commission shall exempt a qualifying retail utility from administrative penalties for an individual compliance year if the utility demonstrates that the retail rate impact cap described in paragraph (g) of this subsection (1) has been reached and the utility has not achieved full compliance with paragraph (c) of this subsection (1). The qualifying retail utility's actions under an approved compliance plan shall carry a rebuttable presumption of prudence. Under no circumstances shall the costs of administrative penalties be recovered from Colorado retail customers.

(1.5) Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, paragraph (e) of subsection (1) of this section shall not apply to a municipally owned utility or to a cooperative electric association.

(2) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2007, p. 257, § 1, effective March 27, 2007.)

(3) Each municipally owned electric utility that is a qualifying retail utility shall implement a renewable energy standard substantially similar to this section. The municipally owned utility shall submit a statement to the commission that demonstrates such municipal utility has a substantially similar renewable energy standard. The statement submitted by the municipally owned utility is for informational purposes and is not subject to approval by the commission. Upon filing of the certification statement, the municipally owned utility shall have no further obligations under subsection (1) of this section. The renewable energy standard of a municipally owned utility shall, at a minimum, meet the following criteria:

(a) The eligible energy resources shall be limited to those identified in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section;

(b) The percentage requirements shall be equal to or greater in the same years than those identified in subparagraph (V) of paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section, counted in the manner allowed by said paragraph (c); and

(c) The utility must have an optional pricing program in effect that allows retail customers the option to support through utility rates emerging renewable energy technologies.

(4) For municipal utilities that become qualifying retail utilities after December 31, 2006, the percentage requirements identified in subparagraph (V) of paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of this section shall begin in the first calendar year following qualification as follows:

(a) Years one through three: One percent of retail electricity sales;

(b) Years four through seven: Three percent of retail electricity sales;

(c) Years eight through twelve: Six percent of retail electricity sales; and

(d) Years thirteen and thereafter: Ten percent of retail electricity sales.

(5) Procedure for exemption and inclusion - election.

(a) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2007, p. 257, § 1, effective March 27, 2007.)

(b) The board of directors of each municipally owned electric utility not subject to this section may, at its option, submit the question of its inclusion in this section to its consumers on a one meter equals one vote basis. Approval by a majority of those voting in the election shall be required for such inclusion, providing that a minimum of twenty-five percent of eligible consumers participates in the election.

(5.5) Each cooperative electric association that is a qualifying retail utility shall submit an annual compliance report to the commission no later than June 1 of each year in which the cooperative electric association is subject to the renewable energy standard requirements established in this section. The annual compliance report shall describe the steps taken by the cooperative electric association to comply with the renewable energy standards and shall include the same information set forth in the rules of the commission for jurisdictional utilities. Cooperative electric associations shall not be subject to any part of the compliance report review process as provided in the rules for jurisdictional utilities. Cooperative electric associations shall not be required to obtain commission approval of annual compliance reports, and no additional regulatory authority of the commission other than that specifically contained in this subsection (5.5) is created or implied by this subsection (5.5).

(6) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2007, p. 257, § 1, effective March 27, 2007.)

(7) (a) Definitions. For purposes of this subsection (7), unless the context otherwise requires:

(I) "Customer-generator" means an end-use electricity customer that generates electricity on the customer's side of the meter using eligible energy resources.

(II) “Municipally owned utility” means a municipally owned utility that serves five thousand customers or more.

(b) Each municipally owned utility shall allow a customer-generator’s retail electricity consumption to be offset by the electricity generated from eligible energy resources on the customer-generator’s side of the meter that are interconnected with the facilities of the municipally owned utility, subject to the following:

(I) Monthly excess generation. If a customer-generator generates electricity in excess of the customer-generator’s monthly consumption, all such excess energy, expressed in kilowatt-hours, shall be carried forward from month to month and credited at a ratio of one to one against the customer-generator’s energy consumption, expressed in kilowatt-hours, in subsequent months.

(II) Annual excess generation. Within sixty days after the end of each annual period, or within sixty days after the customer-generator terminates its retail service, the municipally owned utility shall account for any excess energy generation, expressed in kilowatt-hours, accrued by the customer-generator and shall credit such excess generation to the customer-generator in a manner deemed appropriate by the municipally owned utility.

(III) Nondiscriminatory rates. A municipally owned utility shall provide net metering service at nondiscriminatory rates.

(IV) Interconnection standards. Each municipally owned utility shall adopt and post small generation interconnection standards and insurance requirements that are functionally similar to those established in the rules promulgated by the public utilities commission pursuant to this section; except that the municipally owned utility may reduce or waive any of the insurance requirements. If any customer-generator subject to the size specifications specified in subparagraph (V) of this paragraph (b) is denied interconnection by the municipally owned utility, the utility shall provide a written technical or economic explanation of such denial to the customer.

(V) Size specifications. Each municipally owned utility may allow customer-generators to generate electricity subject to net metering in amounts in excess of those specified in this subparagraph (V), and shall allow:

(A) Residential customer-generators to generate electricity subject to net metering up to ten kilowatts; and

(B) Commercial or industrial customer-generators to generate electricity subject to net metering up to twenty-five kilowatts.

SECTION 1. Legislative declaration of intent:

Energy is critically important to Colorado’s welfare and development, and its use has a profound impact on the economy and environment. Growth of the state’s population and economic base will continue to create a need for new energy resources, and Colorado’s renewable energy resources are currently underutilized.

Therefore, in order to save consumers and businesses money, attract new businesses and jobs, promote development of rural economies, minimize water use for electricity generation, diversify Colorado’s energy resources, reduce the impact of volatile fuel prices, and improve the natural environment of the state, it is in the best interests of the citizens of Colorado to develop and utilize renewable energy resources to the maximum practicable extent.

40-2-125. Eminent domain restrictions. (1) A qualifying retail utility shall not have the authority to condemn or exercise the power of eminent domain over any real estate, right-of-way, easement, or other right pursuant to section 38-2-101, C.R.S., to site the generation facilities of a renewable energy system used in whole or in part to meet the electric resource standards set forth in section 40-2-124. This section shall not be construed to limit the authority of a home rule municipality under article XX of the Colorado constitution.

(2) Section 3 of this initiated measure provides that this section and section 40-2-124 shall be effective December 1, 2004.

40-2-126. Transmission facilities - biennial review - energy resource zones - definitions - plans - approval - cost recovery. (1) As used in this section, "energy resource zone" means a geographic area in which transmission constraints hinder the delivery of electricity to Colorado consumers, the development of new electric generation facilities to serve Colorado consumers, or both.

(2) On or before October 31 of each odd-numbered year, commencing in 2007, each Colorado electric utility subject to rate regulation by the commission shall:

- Designate energy resource zones;
- Develop plans for the construction or expansion of transmission facilities necessary to deliver electric power consistent with the timing of the development of beneficial energy resources located in or near such zones;
- Consider how transmission can be provided to encourage local ownership of renewable energy facilities, whether through renewable energy cooperatives as provided in section 7-56-210, C.R.S., or otherwise; and
- Submit proposed plans, designations, and applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity to the commission for simultaneous review pursuant to subsection (3) of this section.

(3) The commission shall approve a utility's application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity for the construction or expansion of transmission facilities pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section if the commission finds that:

(a) The construction or expansion is required to ensure the reliable delivery of electricity to Colorado consumers or to enable the utility to meet the renewable energy standards set forth in section 40-2-124; and

(b) The present or future public convenience and necessity require such construction or expansion.

(4) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, in any application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity for the construction or expansion of transmission facilities pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section, the commission shall issue a final order within one hundred eighty days after the application is filed. If the commission does not issue a final order within that period, the application shall be deemed approved.

40-2-127. Community energy funds - community solar gardens - definitions - rules - legislative declaration - repeal. (1) Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Local communities can benefit from the further development of renewable energy, energy efficiency, conservation, and environmental improvement projects, and the general assembly hereby encourages electric utilities to establish community energy funds for the development of such projects;

(b) It is in the public interest that broader participation in solar electric generation by Colorado residents and commercial entities be encouraged by the development and deployment of distributed solar electric generating facilities known as community solar gardens, in order to:

(I) Provide Colorado residents and commercial entities with the opportunity to participate in solar generation in addition to the opportunities available for rooftop solar generation on homes and businesses;

(II) Allow renters, low-income utility customers, and agricultural producers to own interests in solar generation facilities;

(III) Allow interests in solar generation facilities to be portable and transferrable; and

(IV) Leverage Colorado's solar generating capacity through economies of scale.

(2) Definitions. As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) The definitions in section 40-2-124 apply; and

(b) In addition:

(I) (A) "Community solar garden" means a solar electric generation facility with a nameplate rating of two megawatts or less that is located in or near a community served by a qualifying retail utility where the beneficial use of the electricity generated by the facility belongs to the subscribers to the community solar garden. There shall be at least ten subscribers. The owner of the community solar garden may be the qualifying retail utility or any other for-profit or nonprofit entity or organization, including a subscriber organization organized under this section, that contracts to sell the output from the community solar garden to the qualifying retail utility. A community solar garden shall be deemed to be "located on the site of customer facilities".

(B) A community solar garden shall constitute "retail distributed generation" within the meaning of section 40-2-124, as amended by House Bill 10-1001, enacted in 2010.

(II) "Subscriber" means a retail customer of a qualifying retail utility who owns a subscription and who has identified one or more physical locations to which the subscription shall be attributed. Such physical locations shall be within either the same municipality or the same county as the community solar garden; except that, if the subscriber lives in a county with a population of less than twenty thousand, according to the most recent available census figures, such physical locations may be in another county, also with a population of less than twenty thousand, within the service territory of the same qualifying retail utility and also adjacent to that of the community solar garden. The subscriber may change from time to time the premises to which the community solar garden electricity generation shall be attributed, so long as the premises are within the geographical limits allowed for a subscriber.

(III) "Subscription" means a proportional interest in solar electric generation facilities installed at a community solar garden, together with the renewable energy credits associated with or attributable to such facilities under section 40-2-124. Each subscription shall be sized to represent at least one kilowatt of the community solar garden's generating capacity and to supply no more than one hundred twenty percent of the average annual consumption of electricity by each subscriber at the premises to which the subscription is attributed, with a deduction for the amount of any existing solar facilities at such premises. Subscriptions in a community solar garden may be transferred or assigned to a subscriber organization or to any person or entity who qualifies to be a subscriber under this section.

(3) Subscriber organization - subscriber qualifications - transferability of subscriptions. (a) The community solar garden may be owned by a subscriber organization, whose sole purpose shall be beneficially owning and operating a community solar garden. The subscriber organization may be any for-profit or nonprofit entity permitted by Colorado law. The community solar garden may also be built, owned, and operated by a third party under contract with the subscriber organization.

(b) On or before October 1, 2010, the commission shall commence a rule-making proceeding to adopt rules as necessary to implement this section, including but not limited to rules to facilitate the financing of subscriber-owned community solar gardens. Such rules shall include:

(I) Minimum capitalization;

(II) The share of a community solar garden's eligible solar electric generation facilities that a subscriber organization may at any time own in its own name; and

(III) Authorizing subscriber organizations to enter into leases, sale-and-leaseback transactions, operating agreements, and other ownership arrangements with third parties.

(c) If a subscriber ceases to be a customer at the premises on which the subscription is based but, within a reasonable period as determined by the commission, becomes a customer at another premises in the service territory of the qualifying retail utility and within the geographic area served by the community solar garden, the subscription shall continue in effect but the bill credit and other features of the subscription shall be adjusted as necessary to reflect any differences between the new and previous premises' customer classification and average annual consumption of electricity.

(4) Community solar gardens not subject to regulation. Neither the owners of nor the subscribers to a community solar garden shall be considered public utilities subject to regulation by the commission solely as a result of their interest in the community solar garden. Prices paid for subscriptions in community solar gardens shall not be subject to regulation by the commission.

(5) Purchases of the output from community solar gardens. (a) (I) Each qualifying retail utility shall set forth in its plan for acquisition of renewable resources a plan to purchase the electricity and renewable energy credits generated from one or more community solar gardens over the period covered by the plan.

(II) For the first three compliance years commencing with the 2011 compliance year, each qualifying retail utility shall issue one or more standard offers to purchase the output from community solar gardens of five hundred kilowatts or less at prices that are comparable to the prices offered by the qualifying retail utility under standard offers issued for on-site solar generation. During these three compliance years, the qualifying retail utility shall acquire, through these standard offers, one-half of the solar garden generation it plans to acquire, to the extent the qualifying retail utility receives responses to its standard offers. Notwithstanding any provision of this subparagraph (II) to the contrary, renewable energy credits generated from solar gardens shall not be used to achieve more than twenty percent of the retail distributed generation standard in years 2011 through 2013.

(III) For the first three compliance years commencing with the 2011 compliance year, a qualifying retail utility shall not be obligated to purchase the output from more than six megawatts of newly installed community solar garden generation.

(IV) For each qualifying retail utility's compliance years commencing in 2014 and thereafter, the commission shall determine the minimum and maximum purchases of electrical output from newly installed community solar gardens of different output capacity that the qualifying retail utility shall plan to acquire, without regard to the six-megawatt ceiling of the first three compliance years. In addition, as necessary, the commission shall formulate and implement policies consistent with this section that simultaneously encourage:

(A) The ownership by customers of subscriptions in community solar gardens and of other forms of distributed generation, to the extent the commission finds there to be customer demand for such ownership;

(B) Ownership in community solar gardens by residential retail customers and agricultural producers, including low-income customers, to the extent the commission finds there to be demand for such ownership;

(C) The development of community solar gardens with attributes that the commission finds result in lower overall total costs for the qualifying retail utility's customers;

(D) Successful financing and operation of community solar gardens owned by subscriber organizations; and

(E) The achievement of the goals and objectives of section 40-2-124.

(b) (I) The output from a community solar garden shall be sold only to the qualifying retail utility serving the geographic area where the community solar garden is located. Once a community solar garden is part of a qualifying retail utility's plan for acquisition of renewable resources, as approved by the commission, the qualifying retail utility shall purchase all of the electricity and renewable energy credits generated by the community solar garden. The amount of electricity and renewable energy credits generated by each community solar garden shall be determined by a production meter installed by the qualifying retail utility or third-party system owner and paid for by the owner of the community solar garden.

(II) The purchase of the output of a community solar garden by a qualifying retail utility shall take the form of a net metering credit against the qualifying retail utility's electric bill to each community solar garden subscriber at the premises set forth in the subscriber's subscription. The net metering credit shall be calculated by multiplying the subscriber's share of the electricity production from the community solar garden by the qualifying retail utility's total aggregate retail rate as charged to the subscriber, minus a reasonable charge as determined by the commission to cover the utility's costs of delivering to the subscriber's premises the electricity generated by the community solar garden, integrating the solar generation with the utility's system, and administering the community solar garden's contracts and net metering credits. The commission shall ensure that this charge does not reflect costs that are already recovered by the utility from the subscriber through other charges. If, and to the extent that, a subscriber's net metering credit exceeds the subscriber's electric bill in any billing period, the net metering credit shall be carried forward and applied against future bills. The qualifying retail utility and the owner of the community solar garden shall agree on whether the purchase of the renewable energy credits from subscribers will be accomplished through a credit on each subscriber's electricity bill or by a payment to the owner of the community solar garden.

(c) The owner of the community solar garden shall provide real-time production data to the qualifying retail utility to facilitate incorporation of the community solar garden into the utility's operation of its electric system and to facilitate the provision of net metering credits.

(d) The owner of the community solar garden shall be responsible for providing to the qualifying retail utility, on a monthly basis and within reasonable periods set by the qualifying retail utility, the percentage shares that should be used to determine the net metering credit to each subscriber. If the electricity output of the community solar garden is not fully subscribed, the qualifying retail utility shall purchase the unsubscribed renewable energy and the renewable energy credits at a rate equal to the qualifying retail utility's average hourly incremental cost of electricity supply over the immediately preceding calendar year.

(e) Each qualifying retail utility shall set forth in its plan for acquisition of renewable resources a proposal for including low-income customers as subscribers to a community solar garden. The utility may give preference to community solar gardens that have low-income subscribers.

(f) Qualifying retail utilities shall be eligible for the incentives and subject to the ownership limitations set forth in section 40-2-124 (1) (f) for utility investments in community solar gardens and may recover through rates a margin, in an amount determined by the commission, on all energy and renewable energy credits purchased from community solar gardens. Such incentive payments shall be excluded from the cost analysis required by section 40-2-124 (1) (g).

(6) Nothing in this section shall be construed to waive or supersede the retail rate impact limitations in section 40-2-124 (1) (g). Utility expenditures for unsubscribed energy and renewable energy credits generated by community solar gardens shall be included in the calculations of retail rate impact required by that section.

(7) Applicability to cooperative electric associations and municipally owned utilities. This section shall not apply to cooperative electric associations or to municipally owned utilities.

40-2-128. Solar photovoltaic installations - supervision by certified practitioners - qualifications of electrical contractors. (1) Effective January 1, 2012, for all photovoltaic installations funded wholly or partially through ratepayer-funded incentives as part of the renewable energy standard adjustment allowed under section 40-2-124:

(a) (I) The performance of all photovoltaic electrical work, the installation of photovoltaic modules, and the installation of photovoltaic module mounting equipment shall be subject to on-site supervision by a certified photovoltaic energy practitioner as designated by the north American board of certified energy practitioners (NABCEP) or another nationally recognized professional organization designated by the Colorado state electrical board by rule. Upon the initial application for funding or in the initial contract proposal, the applicant shall assume responsibility for employing or contracting with one or more certified energy practitioners to supervise the installation and as necessary to maintain the three-to-one ratio required by paragraphs (b) and (c) of this subsection (1), including during any off-site, preinstallation assembly. Approval of the payment of any incentives for the work shall be conditioned upon the applicant's supplying the name and certification number of each certified energy practitioner who actually provided on-site supervision or was present to maintain the three-to-one ratio required by paragraphs (c) and (d) of this subsection (1).

(II) Neither the commission nor the utility shall have responsibility for monitoring or enforcing compliance with this section. It shall be the responsibility of the applicant to obtain the information required by subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), and it shall be the responsibility of the qualifying retail utility to obtain from the applicant and retain, for at least one year after completion of the installation, copies of all documentation submitted by the applicant in connection with the installation.

(b) All work performed on the alternating-current side of the inverter will be performed by an electrical contractor who employs a licensed journeyman electrician or a licensed residential wireman who will perform the work. All electrical work that pertains to article 23 of title 12, C.R.S., will be performed by an electrical apprentice registered with the appropriate state regulatory agency, a licensed journeyman electrician, or a licensed residential wireman. The appropriate ratio of no less than one journeyman or residential wireman for every three electrical apprentices will be maintained.

(c) On a system with a direct current design capacity of more than five hundred kilowatts:

(I) During any photovoltaic electrical work, the ratio of the number of persons who are assisting with the work and who are neither licensed electricians nor registered electrical apprentices to the number of persons who are certified as provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall never exceed three to one, and a person who is both licensed and certified shall not count double for purposes of measuring this ratio; and

(II) There shall be at least one on-site supervisor who is certified as provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) during the following stages; except that, if at any time during any of the following stages, there are more than twelve persons on the work site who are neither licensed electricians nor registered electrical apprentices and who are not certified as provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), there shall be at least two persons who are certified as provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) present on the work site and providing direct supervision of:

(A) The installation of photovoltaic modules;

(B) The installation of photovoltaic module mounting equipment; and

(C) Any photovoltaic electrical work.

(d) On a system with a direct current design capacity of five hundred kilowatts or less:

(I) The ratio of the number of persons who are assisting with the work and who are neither licensed electricians nor registered electrical apprentices to the number of persons who are certified as provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall never exceed three to one, and a person who is both licensed and certified shall not count double for purposes of measuring this ratio, during the following stages:

(A) The installation of photovoltaic modules;

(B) The installation of photovoltaic module mounting equipment; and

(C) Any photovoltaic electrical work; and

(II) There shall be, at all times, at least one on-site supervisor who is certified as provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1).

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) (I) "Photovoltaic electrical work" means wiring, grounding, or repairing electrical apparatus and equipment in a photovoltaic distributed generation system.

(II) "Photovoltaic electrical work" includes the preinstallation assembly of photovoltaic modules to photovoltaic module mounting equipment for installation on-site.

(III) "Photovoltaic electrical work" does not include site preparation, trenching or excavating, hauling, or other work that is not specifically described in subparagraph (I) or (II) of this paragraph (a).

(b) "Photovoltaic module" means the module or panel that generates electricity through a photovoltaic process.

(c) "Photovoltaic module mounting equipment" means the racking, mounting, apparatus, equipment, or structure that physically supports and secures one or more photovoltaic modules in place or to a roof, wall, foundation, or pedestal.

40-2-129. New resource acquisitions - factors in determination - local employment - "best value" metrics. When evaluating electric resource acquisitions, the commission shall consider, on a qualitative basis, factors that affect employment and the long-term economic viability of Colorado communities. To this end, the commission shall require utilities to request the following information regarding "best value" employment metrics: The availability of training programs, including training through apprenticeship programs registered with the United States department of labor, office of apprenticeship and training; employment of Colorado workers as compared to importation of out-of-state workers; long-term career opportunities; and industry-standard wages, health care, and pension benefits. When a utility proposes to construct new facilities of its own, the utility shall supply similar information to the commission.

II. REASONABLE CHARGES.

Commission's use of cost of service study prepared by commission's staff was supported by substantial evidence. The commission did not act arbitrarily and capriciously in accepting the staff's study under circumstances where the experts' opinions were varied and presented irreconcilable differences. In the absence of evidence that the staff study was inherently unsound, commission's decision should not be abandoned. Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 786 P.2d 1086 (Colo. 1990).

Rates set by commission for interLATA access charge and intraLATA toll rates do not unreasonably discriminate against resellers. When establishing an intraLATA toll rate, the commission is under no obligation to require a Bell operating company to impute to itself an access charge similar to one imposed on resellers. Wholesale rates approved by commission and charged to resellers for intraLATA toll services are not discriminatory, even though in some mileage bands and at some times of the day such rates exceed the retail rates charged by the Bell operating company to its own customers. Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 786 P.2d 1086 (Colo. 1990) (decided under the "Intrastate Telecommunication Service Act", § 40-15-101 et seq., as it existed prior to its 1987 repeal and reenactment, which act provided that intraLATA toll services were governed by the doctrine of regulated monopoly and which did not provide for a prohibition against discriminatory charges).

Public utilities commission is entrusted with supervision and regulation of all public utilities, including rates and regulations established by previous contract. Denver & S. Pac. Ry. v. City of Englewood, 62 Colo. 229, 161 P. 151, (1916), writ of error dismissed, 248 U.S. 294, 39 S. Ct. 100, 63 L. Ed. 253 (1919).

Primary purpose of utility regulation is to insure that the rates charged are not excessive or unjustly discriminatory. Cottrell v. City & County of Denver, 636 P.2d 703 (Colo. 1981).

Rates to protect investor and consumer interests. The public utilities commission must set rates which protect both: (1) the right of the public utility company and its investors to earn a return reasonably sufficient to maintain the utility's financial integrity; and (2) the right of consumers to pay a rate which accurately reflects the cost of service rendered. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1982).

Determination as to what is fair, just, and reasonable rate is matter of judgment or discretion. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973). Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 786 P.2d 1086 (Colo. 1990).

Basis for determination. The judgment or discretion on the part of the public utilities commission in determining what is a fair, just, and reasonable rate must be based upon evidentiary facts, calculations, known factors, relationship between known factors, and adjustments which may affect the relationship between known factors. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Utility is entitled to reasonable return on value of property which is used and useful to the rendering of its service to the public. Peoples Natural Gas Div. of N. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 193 Colo. 421, 567 P.2d 377 (1977).

Historic test-year procedure as basis for rate fixing is not inherently unsound, but rather, the use of the most recent test year available is a reliable guideline in fixing rates to be charged for telephone service. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Relationship between costs, investment, and revenue in historic test year is generally constant and reliable factor upon which a regulatory agency can make calculations which formulate the basis for fair and reasonable rates to be charged. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Public utilities law was designed to permit adjustment of rates in order to prevent the hazard of risk of an increase in taxes and to make savings for the ratepayers in case of a decrease in taxes. Colo. Mun. League v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 172 Colo. 188, 473 P.2d 960 (1970).

Out-of-period adjustment involves change which has occurred or will occur or is expected to occur after the close of the test year. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Out-of-period adjustments may be used to test reasonableness of requested rate increases. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Commission may not question reasonableness of rate authorized by federal agency. Where the rate or acquisition cost is subject to federal regulation and authorized by a federal regulatory agency, the public utilities commission may not question its reasonableness. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1982).

Telephone company's proposed use of projected costs or budget estimates for future period would be an unreliable guideline for setting rates to be charged, as it would not be in the public interest to fix rates on pure conjecture. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Rate of return on common equity of telephone company of 11.4% is not unlawful as being in violation of this statute. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Review of rate by court. If the rate of return allowed is just and reasonable, and there is competent evidence to support the finding of the public utilities commission, then a reviewing court may not substitute its judgment for that of the commission. Peoples Natural Gas Div. of N. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 193 Colo. 421, 567 P.2d 377 (1977).

III. ADEQUATE SERVICES.

Finding required before new common carrier service justified. No finding of public convenience and necessity for new common carrier service is justified unless present service offered in the area is inadequate. Colo. Transp. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 136, 405 P.2d 682 (1965).

Test of service is not perfection. When a common carrier renders services to numerous customers in a wide territory undoubtedly some dissatisfaction will arise and some legitimate complaints result; but for a new service to be authorized in the area already served by a common carrier, inadequacy of the present service must be shown to be substantial. Colo. Transp. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 136, 405 P.2d 682 (1965).

40-3-102. Regulation of rates - correction of abuses. The power and authority is hereby vested in the public utilities commission of the state of Colorado and it is hereby made its duty to adopt all necessary rates, charges, and regulations to govern and regulate all rates, charges, and tariffs of every public utility of this state to correct abuses; to prevent unjust discriminations and extortions in the rates, charges, and tariffs of such public utilities of this state; to generally supervise and regulate every public utility in this state; and to do all things, whether specifically designated in articles 1 to 7 of this title or in addition thereto, which are necessary or convenient in the exercise of such power, and to enforce the same by the penalties provided in said articles through proper courts having jurisdiction; except that nothing in this article shall apply to municipal natural gas or electric utilities for which an exemption is provided in the constitution of the state of Colorado, within the authorized service area of each such municipal utility except as specifically provided in section 40-3.5-102.

Commission has two duties. The commission has been charged with the duty to carry out its mission in two areas, to wit: To protect the public and to prevent destructive rate-making which could result in nonavailability of the service to the public. Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Duty of commission to protect public interest. Under the Colorado statutory scheme, the public utilities commission is charged with protecting the interest of the general public from excessive, burdensome rates. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 186 Colo. 278, 527 P.2d 233 (1974).

The commission has a general responsibility to protect the public interest regarding utility rates and practices. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 619 (Colo. 1981).

A primary purpose of utility regulation is to insure that the rates charged are not excessive or unjustly discriminatory. Cottrell v. City & County of Denver, 636 P.2d 703 (Colo. 1981).

Preferential rate-making restricted. Although the public utilities commission has been granted broad rate-making powers by art. XXV, Colo. Const., the commission's power to effect social policy through preferential rate-making is restricted by § 40-3-106 (1) and this section, no matter how deserving the group benefiting from the preferential rate may be. Mountain States Legal Found. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 197 Colo. 56, 590 P.2d 495 (1979).

Right of utility customer to receive service is not absolute right, but is a qualified right. The right is dependent upon payment for the service and product provided. The continuation of service during a dispute is dependent upon either the posting of what is, in effect, an indemnity bond or the assertion of a well-founded claim that would justify the customer's refusal to pay for the service which was rendered. Denver Welfare Rights Org. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 190 Colo. 329, 547 P.2d 239 (1976).

Commission's power to impose accelerated depreciation on utility. The public utilities commission not only has the power but also the obligation to impute a method of depreciation which will reasonably permit a substantial saving to ratepayers. Colo. Mun. League v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 172 Colo. 188, 473 P.2d 960 (1970).

Power of the commission as to rates under this section is not confined to regulation of those which are discriminatory or preferential, but extends to those which are unreasonable; that upon any such complaint the commission is authorized to fix a reasonable rate of charge to be thereafter observed by the carrier. Consumers' League v. Colo. & S. Ry., 53 Colo. 54, 125 P. 577, (1912).

Rates set by commission for interLATA access charge and intraLATA toll rates do not unreasonably discriminate against resellers and result in "price squeeze". When establishing an intraLATA toll rate, the commission is under no obligation to require a Bell operating company to impute to itself an access charge similar to one imposed on resellers. Wholesale rates approved by commission and charged to resellers for intraLATA toll services are not discriminatory, even though in some mileage bands and at some times of the day such rates exceed the retail rates charged by the Bell operating company to its own customers. Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 786 P.2d 1086 (Colo. 1990) (decided under the "Intrastate Telecommunication Service Act", § 40-15-101 et seq., as it existed prior to its 1987 repeal and reenactment, which act provided that intraLATA toll services were governed by the doctrine of regulated monopoly and which did not provide for a prohibition against discriminatory charges).

Although the commission has broad power to accomplish its legislative and constitutional purpose, its powers are restricted by the statutory provisions governing utilities, and the commission's delegated powers do not extend generally to adjudicatory matters. Colo. Office of Consumer Counsel v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel., 816 P.2d 278 (Colo. 1991).

Making of rates to govern public utilities is legislative and not judicial function; in this state, that legislative function has been delegated to the public utilities commission. City & County of Denver v. People ex rel. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 129 Colo. 41, 226 P.2d 1105 (1954); Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 176 Colo. 457, 491 P.2d 582 (1971); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 186 Colo. 278, 527 P.2d 233 (1974); City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 619 (Colo. 1981); Office of Consumer Counsel v. Pub. Serv. Co., 877 P.2d 867 (Colo. 1994); Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 26 P.3d 1198 (Colo. 2001).

Judiciary must refrain from any semblance of rate-making. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 186 Colo. 278, 527 P.2d 233 (1974).

Federal courts are prevented from intervening in state rate-making process even though the matter might be repugnant to the federal constitution, unless the remedy in state courts is inadequate, by the so-called Johnson Act of 1934, 28 U.S.C. § 1342 (4). Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 345 F. Supp. 80 (D. Colo. 1972).

Municipality furnishing electricity to its citizens has sole power to fix rates. Where a municipality as the owner of a public utility furnishes electricity to its citizens within the municipal limits, the city itself, through its proper officers, possesses the sole power of fixing the rates to be charged for such utility. City of Lamar v. Town of Wiley, 80 Colo. 18, 248 P. 1009 (1926).

Plant owned and operated by consumers can never become monopoly, nor can it be instrument of oppression; hence there is no room for the exercise of the police power. Town of Holyoke v. Smith, 75 Colo. 286, 226 P. 158 (1924).

Where people are dealing with privately owned public utility, there is good reason for a commission which shall act in the interest of the public, to avoid the possibility of oppression. Willison v. Cooke, 54 Colo. 320, 130 P. 828 (1913).

Commission has power to fix rates of municipally owned utility furnishing services beyond territorial boundaries. When a municipality, whether in its operation of its own public utility it acts in its municipal or governmental, or in its proprietary, or quasi-public, capacity, or partly in one and partly in the other, and as such furnishes public service to its own citizens and in connection therewith supplies its products to consumers outside of its own territorial boundaries, the function it thereby performs, whatever its nature may be, in supplying outside consumers with a public utility, is and should be attended with the same conditions and be subject to the same control and supervision that apply to a private public utility owner who furnishes like service. City of Lamar v. Town of Wiley, 80 Colo. 18, 248 P. 1009 (1926).

Commission has no jurisdiction where charter gave city control of rates prior to home rule amendment. When a city has adopted a charter which gives that city control of the rates to be charged by public utilities within its limits, before the passage of the home-rule amendment, the state commission has no control of rates within that city. City & County of Denver v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 67 Colo. 225, 184 P. 604 (1919), appeal dismissed, 251 U.S. 545, 40 S. Ct. 219, 64 L. Ed. 407 (1920); City of Pueblo v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 68 Colo. 155, 187 P. 1026 (1920); Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 68 Colo. 92, 188 P. 747 (1920); City of Ft. Collins v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 69 Colo. 554, 195 P. 1099 (1921).

Commission has no jurisdiction where charter gives city control of rates subsequent to home rule amendment. The state public utilities commission has no authority to regulate telephone rates in a city, which, after the passage of the home rule amendment, adopted a charter giving it control of the rates to be charged by public utilities within its limits. City of Ft. Collins v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 69 Colo. 554, 195 P. 1099 (1921).

Commission has power to permanently fix rates to be charged by private owner for furnishing public utility, regardless of any contract entered into between the parties as to such rates. Denver & S. Pac. Ry. v. City of Englewood, 62 Colo. 229, 161 P. 151, (1916), appeal dismissed, 248 U.S. 294, 39 S. Ct. 100, 63 L. Ed. 253 (1919); Ohio & Colo. Smelting & Ref. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 68 Colo. 137, 187 P. 1082 (1920); City of Lamar v. Town of Wiley, 80 Colo. 18, 248 P. 1009 (1926).

Public utilities commission is clothed with general powers to regulate and control carriers for hire within state. Lane v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 152 Colo. 335, 381 P.2d 818 (1963).

In the area of utility regulation, the commission has broadly based authority to do whatever it deems necessary or convenient to accomplish the legislative functions delegated to it. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 619 (Colo. 1981).

General assembly has vested commission with considerable discretion in its choice of the means used to fix rates. Colo. Ute Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 198 Colo. 534, 602 P.2d 861 (1979).

General assembly has declared necessity and duty and left to commission determination of rate that is fair to the public and sufficiently compensatory to the utility to insure a fair return on its investments. Consol. Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Commission unlawfully delegated its rate-making obligation to utility when it conferred upon it the discretion to determine whether or not a developer should receive a refund of the underground component of its cash advances and whether to charge underground customers higher rates. Baca Grande Corp. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 190 Colo. 201, 544 P.2d 977 (1976).

Rate-making is not exact science, but a legislative function involving many questions of judgment and discretion, and that judgment or discretion must be based upon evidentiary facts, calculations, known factors, relationship between known factors, and adjustments which may affect the relationship between known factors. Colo. Ute Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 198 Colo. 534, 602 P.2d 861 (1979); City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 619 (Colo. 1981); Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 786 P.2d 1086 (Colo. 1990); Integrated Network Servs. v. PUC, 875 P.2d 1373 (Colo. 1994); Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 26 P.3d 1198 (Colo. 2001).

Commission not bound by prior decisions. Because of the legislative character of rate-making, the commission is not bound by its prior decisions or by any doctrine similar to stare decisis. Colo. Ute Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 198 Colo. 534, 602 P.2d 861 (1979).

Commission functions in "zones of reasonableness". The fixing of rates is a matter largely of prophecy, and because of this fact, the commission in carrying out its functions necessarily deals in what are called "zones of reasonableness", the result of which is that it has some latitude in exercising this most difficult function. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 345 F. Supp. 80 (D. Colo. 1972).

Regulatory agency has some flexibility in fixing rate of return — its decision being subject to existing economic conditions. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 345 F. Supp. 80 (D. Colo. 1972).

Reasonable rate determined by result reached. It is the result reached, not the method employed, which determines whether a rate is just and reasonable. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 619 (Colo. 1981).

Rate of return can be reasonable at one time and too high or low at another depending on economic conditions. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 345 F. Supp. 80 (D. Colo. 1972).

Rate of return is ratio. The rate of return involved in public utility rate proceedings is the ratio between net operating revenues and rate base. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Rate of return and ratio are criteria for determining what is or is not confiscation of a company's property. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Rates which have turned out to be less than commission's projections are not per se confiscatory. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 345 F. Supp. 80 (D. Colo. 1972).

Cost of capital must be given attention as one of the factors in determining what is the appropriate rate of return. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Portion of capital structure included in calculating rates. It is proper and within the public utilities commission's authority to include only that portion of the capital structure which finances the rate base in the calculation of just and reasonable rates. Peoples Natural Gas Div. of N. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 193 Colo. 421, 567 P.2d 377 (1977).

Commission's duty to avail ratepayers of economies ignored by management. When management abuses its managerial discretion to the detriment of its customers, the regulatory commissions have a duty to declare the abuse and make such orders as will give to ratepayers the advantage of those economies of which management has failed to avail itself. Colo.

Mun. League v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 172 Colo. 188, 473 P.2d 960 (1970).

Gas cost adjustment authorized. The public utilities commission has authority to permit cost adjustments such as the gas cost adjustment as part of its wide discretion to govern and regulate the rates of public utilities in this state. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1982).

Such adjustment did not constitute retroactive rate making. Colo. Energy Advocacy v. Pub. Serv. Co., 704 P.2d 298 (Colo. 1985).

Because the commission explicitly considers the heating content of natural gas when setting rates, a deceptive trade practice claim concerning a utility's alleged misrepresentations about the heating content of natural gas is within the commission's exclusive jurisdiction, and the plaintiff's failure to exhaust its administrative remedies mandates dismissal of the claim. City of Aspen v. Kinder Morgan, Inc., 143 P.3d 1076 (Colo. App. 2006).

Public utilities law forbids estoppel of public utility from collecting established rate. Goddard v. Pub. Serv. Co., 43 Colo. App. 77, 599 P.2d 278 (1979).

Utilities law applies to contracts entered into by public utility corporation with municipality as well as with individuals and private corporations. City of Lamar v. Town of Wiley, 80 Colo. 18, 248 P. 1009 (1926).

Commission has the power to initiate investigations into excessive charges and to award reparations under this section, and § 40-6-119 concerning complaints made to the commission, including a statute of limitations therein, is not applicable to complaints by the commission on its own motion. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. P.U.C., 698 P.2d 255 (Colo. 1985).

Commission is empowered to fashion remedy to correct a statutory violation of the requirement that a utility receive commission approval prior to the transfer of utility's assets. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. v. P.U.C., 763 P.2d 1020 (Colo. 1988).

Order directing utility to reacquire assets transferred without required commission approval was appropriate and will be given great deference in light of the commission's special expertise in regulation of utilities. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. v. P.U.C., 763 P.2d 1020 (Colo. 1988).

Inclusion of a merger savings adjustment and an adjustment reflecting the transition from one accounting method to another was within the commission's authority under this section. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 26 P.3d 1198 (Colo. 2001).

It is within power of commission to pierce corporate structures of corporations which also operate nonutility divisions or subsidiaries to impute a capital structure for the utility operation, which is reflective of the capitalization actually backing the utility operation. Peoples Natural Gas Div. of N. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 193 Colo. 421, 567 P.2d 377 (1977).

Although the commission has broad power to issue declaratory orders and to initiate various types of proceedings, where a declaratory order is in essence a rule, the commission is bound by the procedural requirements pertaining to rule-making proceedings. Colo. Office of Consumer Counsel v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel., Co., 816 P.2d 278 (Colo. 1991).

One of purposes of this article is to prevent unjust and unreasonable charges and to have the commission investigate such a complaint, and the commission can certainly make a decision, order, or requirement with reference thereto under the express provisions of this section. Consumers' League v. Colo. & S. Ry., 53 Colo. 54, 125 P. 577 (1912).

Public utility must have adequate revenues for operating expenses and to cover the capital costs of doing business. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 186 Colo. 278, 527 P.2d 233 (1974).

The revenues must be sufficient to assure confidence in the financial integrity of the enterprise, so as to maintain its credit and to attract capital. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 186 Colo. 278, 527 P.2d 233 (1974).

Regulation of information included in billings. The commission has authority to regulate the information which public utilities include in their customer billings. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 619 (Colo. 1981).

Earnings of stockholders are not prime consideration in rate cases. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Establishment of mandatory measured service rates for resellers but allowing other business customers a flat rate option not in violation of this section. Although cost of providing service is the same, the reseller customers are not similarly situated to other business customers because they are in competition with the provider. In addition, because rate is based on actual use, the resellers are not being asked to subsidize other customers. Integrated Network Servs. v. PUC, 875 P.2d 1373 (Colo. 1994).

Commission's discretion whether to award attorneys' fees in own proceeding. The commission has broad constitutional and statutory discretion to determine when attorneys' fees should be awarded in its own proceedings. Colo. Ute Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 198 Colo. 534, 602 P.2d 861 (1979).

Commission's standard for determining attorneys' fee or costs award has three criteria: (1) That the representation and expenses incurred relate to general consumer interests; (2) that the testimony, evidence and exhibits provided materially assist the commission in reaching its decision; and (3) that the fees and costs incurred are reasonable. Colo. Ute Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 198 Colo. 534, 602 P.2d 861 (1979).

Commission has jurisdiction to award reasonable attorney's fees and expenses to successfully protesting municipal league from interest accruing on amount to be refunded to customers. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 180 Colo. 74, 502 P.2d 945 (1972).

40-3-103. Utilities to file rate schedules - rules. Under such rules as the commission may prescribe, every public utility shall file with the commission, within such time and in such form as the commission may designate, and shall print and keep open to public inspection, schedules showing all rates, tolls, rentals, charges, and classifications collected or enforced, or to be collected and enforced, together with all rules, regulations, contracts, privileges, and facilities that in any manner affect or relate to rates, tolls, rentals, classifications, or service.

40-3-104. Changes in rates - notice. (1) (a) In the case of a public utility other than a rail carrier, subject to the provisions of paragraph (c) of this subsection (1), no change shall be made by any public utility in any rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, or classification or in any rule, regulation, or contract relating to or affecting any rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, or service or in any privilege or facility, except after thirty days' notice to the commission and the public. Notwithstanding the provisions of this paragraph (a), changes in intrastate telecommunications services which have been determined by the commission to be competitive in nature, pursuant to the provisions of article 15 of this title, shall not be subject to any notice requirement, including, but not limited to, any requirement in this section whether or not denoted as a notice requirement.

(c) (I) Such notice shall be given by filing with the commission and keeping open for public inspection new schedules stating plainly the changes to be made in the schedules then in force and the time when the changes will go into effect. Transportation and water utilities may be required to give additional notice in a manner and form set forth by commission order or commission rules. For public utilities other than transportation and water utilities, additional notice shall be required prior to an increase or other change in any rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, or service and may be made, at the option of the public utility, by any of the following methods:

(A) Publication of a notice in each newspaper of general circulation in each county in which the public utility provides service, which notice shall be four columns wide and eleven inches high stating plainly the changes and shall be published once each week for two successive weeks during the first twenty days of the thirty-day period prior to the effective date of the increase or change. If notice is given by publication, public utilities other than those providing intrastate telecommunications services pursuant to section 40-15-104 (1) shall also be required to include, with each regular billing statement mailed to affected customers during the first regular billing cycle following the filing of the application for an increase or other change, a bill insert containing the same information contained in the notice by newspaper publication.

(B) Mailing of a notice to each affected customer of the public utility during the first twenty days of the thirty-day period prior to the effective date of the increase or change;

(C) Inclusion of an insert in the bill mailed to each affected customer of the public utility during a regular billing cycle not later than the twentieth day of the thirty-day period prior to the effective date of the increase or change; or

(D) Upon application by the public utility, such other manner as the commission may prescribe.

(II) Such additional notice shall be sufficient if it states the total dollar amount sought to be raised by such increased rates or other changes and, if determinable at the time of filing, the average monthly increase, by dollar amount or percentage, to customers served under residential and small business tariffs; states the effective date or dates thereof; contains a general description of the types of services to be affected thereby; informs affected customers, other than residential and small business customers, where they may call to obtain information during the thirty-day period prior to the effective date of the proposed increases or changes concerning how such increases or changes will affect them; and includes the telephone number and address of the commission with instructions regarding the registration of a protest to the proposed increases or changes. Proof of additional notice shall be filed by the public utility with the commission.

(III) Increases in rates, fares, tolls, rentals, or charges associated with electric and gas utility adjustment clauses are subject only to the provisions of subsection (2) of this section.

(IV) For public utilities other than transportation and water utilities, where increases or changes in any rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, or service result from requested increases in revenue requirements and rate restructuring and are contained in a single advice letter or application, the additional notice required under subparagraphs (I) and (II) of this paragraph (c) shall be deemed sufficient if a single notice is given even if more than one proceeding is established by the commission with respect to the increases or changes.

(V) In the case of a public utility that provides regulated intrastate telecommunications services:

(A) Notice of a decrease in a rate or charge for any regulated telecommunications service shall be given by filing with the commission and keeping open for public inspection for a period of fourteen days the new schedule stating plainly the decrease to be made and the time that the decrease will become effective. Such decreases shall not be subject to any additional notice requirements.

(B) Notice of changes in terms and conditions for any regulated telecommunications service shall be given by filing with the commission and keeping open for public inspection for a period of fourteen days the new schedule stating plainly the changes to be made in the terms and conditions and the time that the changes will become effective. Such changes in the terms and conditions shall not be subject to any additional notice requirements unless the commission determines that such additional notice is in the public interest. Any such additional notice shall be given in a manner specified by the commission.

(2) The commission, for good cause shown, may allow changes with less notice than is required by subsection (1) of this section by an order specifying the changes so to be made and the time when they shall take effect and the manner in which they shall be filed and published.

(3) When any change is proposed in any rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, or classification or in any form of contract or agreement or in any rule, regulation, or contract relating to or affecting any rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, or service or in any privilege or facility, attention shall be directed to such change on the schedule filed with the commission immediately preceding or following the item.

ANNOTATION

New rates not invalid. There was no merit to the contention that new rates were invalid because the public utilities commission, in not suspending them, improperly permitted them to go into effect without any hearing. Such discretion is delegated to the public utilities commission by the general assembly in this section, and the discretionary power to suspend is set forth in § 40-6-111. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 186 Colo. 278, 527 P.2d 233 (1974); Office of Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 752 P.2d 1049 (Colo. 1988).

The public utilities commission made sufficient findings of fact concerning the circumstances and conditions regarding the expedited effective date of proposed tariffs to constitute good cause. Office of Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 752 P.2d 1049 (Colo. 1988).

Subsection (2) of this section allows the public utilities commission to permit a proposed tariff to go into effect without satisfying the 30-day notice requirement of subsection (1) (a) only upon a showing of good cause and not a showing of extraordinary circumstances, either unique or urgent. Office of Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 752 P.2d 1049 (Colo. 1988).

40-3-104.3. Manner of regulation - competitive responses. (1) (a) Upon application by any public utility providing electric, natural gas, or steam service, the commission shall authorize such public utility to provide utility services to a specific customer or potential customer by contract without reference to its tariffs on file with the commission if the commission finds that:

(I) For contracts with a specific customer or potential customer involving electric and steam service:

(A) The price of any such service is not below that service's variable cost;

(B) The customer, or potential customer, has expressed its intention to decline or discontinue, or partially discontinue, service, to provide its own service, or to pursue the purchase of alternate services from another provider;

(C) The approval of the application will not adversely affect the remaining customers of the public utility; and

(D) The approval of the application is in the public interest;

(II) For contracts with existing customers involving natural gas service:

(A) The customer has the ability to provide its own service or has competitive alternatives available from other providers of the same or substitutable service, except from another public utility providing or proposing to provide the same type of service;

(B) The customer will discontinue using the services of the public utility if the authorization is not granted;

(C) Approval of the application will not as adversely affect the remaining customers of the public utility as would the alternative;

(D) The price of any such service provided pursuant to this subparagraph (II) shall be justified and shall not be less than the marginal cost of the service to the public utility. If the price is less than marginal cost, this shall be deemed to be an illegal restraint of trade subject to the provisions of article 4 of title 6, C.R.S.; and

(E) The approval of the application is in the public interest.

(b) Following a notice period of five days after the filing of an application under this section, the commission shall approve or deny the application within thirty days. All applications filed with the commission pursuant to this section shall be placed at the head of the commission's docket and shall be disposed of promptly within the time periods set forth in this paragraph (b); except that, for good cause shown, the commission may extend the period in which it must act for an additional fifteen days, or, in extraordinary circumstances, including but not limited to the existence of numerous pending applications under this section, the commission may extend the period in which it must act for an additional thirty days beyond the fifteen days provided for in this paragraph (b). Whenever such application is continued as provided in this paragraph (b), the commission shall enter an order making such continuance and stating fully the facts necessitating the continuance. If the commission has not approved or denied any such application within the time periods set forth in this paragraph (b), the application shall be deemed approved. If the commission denies any such application for approval within the permitted period, the subject contract shall not become effective. Any contract submitted pursuant to this section shall be filed under seal and treated as confidential by the commission; except that at the time the applicant files an application or contract with the commission, the applicant shall also furnish a copy of the application to any public utility then providing electric, gas, or steam service in the state of Colorado to the customer, and also furnish a copy to the office of consumer counsel, and the office of consumer counsel shall also treat said contract as confidential.

(c) An application filed by a public utility pursuant to this section shall contain the name of the customer, a description of the services proposed to be provided under contract, evidence that the requirements of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) have been met, and any additional information required by the commission. The commission may dismiss an application if the applicant fails to provide information necessary to enable the commission to make the findings required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (1).

(e) Within ten days after the execution of such contract, the public utility shall file with the commission under seal and as a confidential document the final contract or other description of the price and terms of service, together with any additional information required by the commission. The applicant shall also furnish a copy of such information to the office of consumer counsel, who shall treat the information as confidential. The commission shall have no authority to disapprove the contract if the contract complies with the conditions contained in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), but the commission may consider the contract for general regulatory purposes and to ensure compliance with the requirements of this section.

(2) (a) For contracts involving electric and steam service, at the time of any proceeding in which a utility's overall rate levels are determined, the commission shall specify a fully distributed cost methodology to be used to segregate rate base, expenses, and revenues associated with utility service provided by contract pursuant to this section from other regulated utility operations. For contracts involving electric and steam service, if revenues from a service provided pursuant to this section are less than the cost of service as determined by the fully distributed cost methodology specified by the commission, the rates of other regulated utility operations may not be increased to recover such difference between costs and revenues.

(b) For contracts involving natural gas service, the commission may require a public utility to segregate investments, expenses, and revenues associated with utility service provided pursuant to subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section to ensure that such services are not subsidized by revenues from other utility operations. If the commission requires such segregation of such investment and expenses, it shall specify a fully distributed cost allocation methodology.

(3) (a) This section shall neither enlarge nor diminish the rights and obligations of a public utility operating under a certificate issued by the commission to serve customers within a territory pursuant to the provisions of article 3.5, 5, or 9.5 of this title.

(b) Nothing in this section shall be construed to permit any public utility to provide electric, natural gas, or steam service to a customer of another public utility located in or for use in the service territory of such other public utility providing or proposing to provide the same type of service.

(4) (a) The commission has the right to inspect the books and records of any affiliate of a public utility to the extent that the affiliate uses any plant, or incurs any cost, or provides any service or product which is joint and common to the provision of public utility services and products subject to the jurisdiction of the commission. Upon application and for good cause shown, the commission may enter an appropriate protective order which directs the manner in which proprietary information shall be treated.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (4), unless the context otherwise requires, "affiliate of a public utility" means a subsidiary of a public utility, a parent corporation of a public utility, a joint venture organized as a separate corporation or partnership to the extent of the individual public utility's involvement with the joint venture, or a subsidiary of a parent corporation of a public utility.

(5) Nothing in this section shall limit or restrict the commission's authority to regulate rates and charges, correct abuses, or prevent unjust discrimination except as specifically provided in this section.

40-3-104.4. Simplified regulatory treatment for small, privately owned water companies. The commission, with due consideration to public interest, quality of service, financial condition, and just and reasonable rates, shall grant regulatory treatment that is less comprehensive than otherwise provided for under this article to small, privately owned water companies that serve fewer than one thousand five hundred customers. The commission, when considering policy statements and rules, shall balance reasonable regulatory oversight with the cost of regulation in relation to the benefit derived from such regulation.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this section, no public utility shall charge, demand, collect, or receive a greater or lesser or different compensation for any product or commodity furnished or to be furnished, or for any service rendered or to be rendered, than the rates, tolls, rentals, and charges applicable to such product or commodity or service as specified in its schedules on file and in effect at the time, nor shall any such public utility refund or remit, directly or indirectly, in any manner or by any device, any portion of the rates, tolls, rentals, and charges so specified, nor extend to any corporation or person any form of contract or agreement or rule or regulation or any facility or privilege except those which are regularly and uniformly extended to all corporations and persons; but the commission may by rule or order establish such exceptions from the operation of this prohibition as it may consider just and reasonable as to each public utility.

40-3-106. Advantages prohibited - graduated schedules - consideration of household income and other factors - definitions. (1) (a) Except when operating under paragraph (c) or (d) of this subsection (1) or pursuant to article 3.4 of this title, no public utility, as to rates, charges, service, or facilities, or in any other respect, shall make or grant any preference or advantage to any corporation or person or subject any corporation or person to any prejudice or disadvantage. No public utility shall establish or maintain any unreasonable difference as to rates, charges, service, facilities, or in any respect, either between localities or as between any class of service. The commission has the power to determine any question of fact arising under this section.

(b) Repealed.

(c) A local exchange provider, as defined in section 40-15-102 (18), may enter into a contract, when necessary, specifying non-cost-based rates and conditions particular to that contract with one or more purchasers of services for applications of interactive video technology for purposes of distance learning, video arraignment of defendants in criminal cases, or examination, diagnosis, or treatment of patients in the course of medical practice. When an application is subject to a bidding process by the end user of the service, the local exchange providers offering component elements of interactive video technology pursuant to this paragraph (c) shall offer the component elements relating to a specific application to a specific end user to all bidders, including themselves, if bidding, at the same rates, terms, and conditions. This exception shall not apply to any other regulated service. A provider other than a local exchange provider may offer such interactive video services if such services are provided under the same terms and conditions as specified in this paragraph (c). Each contract entered into under this paragraph (c) shall be filed with the commission for information only.

(d) (I) Notwithstanding any provision of articles 1 to 7 of this title to the contrary, the commission may approve any rate, charge, service, classification, or facility of a gas or electric utility that makes or grants a reasonable preference or advantage to low-income customers, and the implementation of such commission-approved rate, charge, service, classification, or facility by a public utility shall not be deemed to subject any person or corporation to any prejudice, disadvantage, or undue discrimination.

(II) As used in this paragraph (d), a "low-income utility customer" means a utility customer who:

(A) Has a household income at or below one hundred eighty-five percent of the current federal poverty line; and

(B) Otherwise meets the eligibility criteria set forth in rules of the department of human services adopted pursuant to section 40-8.5-105.

(III) When considering whether to approve a rate that makes or grants a reasonable preference or advantage to low-income utility customers, the commission shall take into account the potential impact on, and cost-shifting to, utility customers other than low-income utility customers.

(2) Nothing in articles 1 to 7 of this title shall be taken to prohibit a public utility engaged in the production, generation, transmission, or furnishing of heat, light, gas, water, power, or telephone service from establishing a graduated scale of charges subject to the provisions of this title.

(3) Nothing in this section shall prevent the commission from revoking its approval at any time and fixing other rates and charges for the product or commodity or service as authorized by articles 1 to 7 of this title.

(4) The commission shall order a fixed public utility, except a municipally owned utility, to increase its rates only to its customers in a municipality by adding a surcharge to recover the amount such fixed public utility pays to that municipality as a cost of doing business within that municipality under a franchise or pursuant to a license or occupation tax levied by the municipality, so long as the increase in rates by such fixed public utility is pursuant to a method of surcharge approved by the commission. Occupation tax as used in this subsection (4) does not include the employer and employee tax imposed by a municipality for the privilege of employment within that municipality.

When establishing an intraLATA toll rate, the commission is under no obligation to require a Bell operating company to impute to itself an access charge similar to one imposed on resellers. Wholesale rates approved by commission and charged to resellers for intraLATA toll services are not discriminatory, even though in some mileage bands and at some times of the day such rates exceed the retail rates charged by the Bell operating company to its own customers. Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 786 P.2d 1086 (Colo. 1990) (decided under the "Intrastate Telecommunication Service Act", § 40-15-101 et seq., as it existed prior to its 1987 repeal and reenactment, which act provided that intraLATA toll services were governed by the doctrine of regulated monopoly and which did not provide for a prohibition against discriminatory charges).

Specter of discrimination would be raised contrary to subsection (1) if providers of call transfer services that allow a subscriber to place intrastate telephone calls outside of the subscriber's local calling area without incurring long-distance toll charges were allowed to purchase from an exchange tariff rather than an access tariff. Avicomm, Inc. v. Colo. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 955 P.2d 1023 (Colo. 1998).

Reasonable interpretation of state utility law would require a public utility to charge and collect full established charge for transportation of oil from any person liable for the charge and would prevent the utility from canceling the original charge in consideration of a new and different promise to pay. Empire Petroleum Co. v. Sinclair Pipeline Co., 282 F.2d 913 (10th Cir. 1960).

Utility regulation is arguably designed to protect against unreasonably low rates. Cottrell v. City & County of Denver, 636 P.2d 703 (Colo. 1981).

Additional charges are proper when additional service rendered, see Consumers' League v. Colo. & S. Ry., 64 Colo. 502, 172 P. 1064 (1918).

Cannot make flat charge that applies through service unrendered. A rule, under this section, eliminating all distinctions between shipments over the line of the carrier, and switching charges, prescribing a uniform rate for all cases, regardless of whether switching is performed or not, is improper and will be condemned. Consumers' League v. Colo. & S. Ry., 64 Colo. 502, 172 P. 1064 (1918).

Preferential rate-making restricted. Although the public utilities commission has been granted broad rate-making powers by art. XXV, Colo. Const., the commission's power to effect social policy through preferential rate-making is restricted by this section and § 40-3-102 no matter how deserving the group benefiting from the preferential rate may be. Mountain States Legal Found. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 197 Colo. 56, 590 P.2d 495 (1979).

May compel operation of trains over particular routes. Under this section, the commission has power to direct the railroad company to operate passenger trains over its line to one city, so that any disadvantage imposed upon the inhabitants of another city by the railroad company abandoning its line between that point and yet another city will be removed; provided, of course, the company can not justify its action in abandoning that portion of its road. Colo. & S. Ry. v. State R. R. Comm'n, 54 Colo. 64, 129 P. 506 (1912).

May reopen abandoned lines. If the carrier operates its trains over such routes, by reason of a link in its line being abandoned, that unnecessary delays are occasioned, it is not transporting shipments with that degree of diligence which the act requires, and the commission is empowered to direct that it transport freight over the abandoned part of its line, when by so doing shipments will be greatly facilitated, and burdens imposed upon shippers removed, unless the railroad can justify its action in abandoning such part of its line. Colo. & S. Ry. v. State R. R. Comm'n, 54 Colo. 64, 129 P. 506 (1912).

This section was intended to apply to intrastate traffic the same wholesome rules and regulations which congress applied to commerce between the states, and to cut up by the roots the entire system of rebates and discriminations in favor of particular localities, special enterprises, or favored corporations, and to put all shippers on an absolute equality. Union Pac. Ry. v. Goodridge, 149 U.S. 680, 13 S. Ct. 970, 37 L. Ed. 896 (1893).

Limiting the discretion of the public utilities commission in determining how a privately-owned fixed public utility will be allowed to recover the cost of franchise fees, pursuant to subsection (4), is not a matter within the domain of local self-government and does not fall within the scope of protection of § 35 of article V of the Colorado constitution. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 732 P.2d 1181 (Colo. 1987).

Constitutionality of subsection (4). Subsection (4) does not impermissibly impose a new liability upon a city's residents in violation of § 12 of article XV of the Colorado constitution as this section does not require that municipal customers be surcharged for the amount surcharged to and paid by rural customers for franchise fees prior to adoption of this section, and an increase in surcharges after the statutory enactment is not a new liability within the meaning of § 12, article XV. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 732 P.2d 1181 (Colo. 1987).

Subsection (4) does not affect either a home rule city's ability to negotiate and grant franchises and to collect franchise fees or a fixed utility's obligation to pay to a municipality the entire amount of the franchise fee negotiated and, therefore, does not violate §§ 4 and 6 of article XX or article XXV of the Colorado constitution. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 732 P.2d 1181 (Colo. 1987).

Subsection (4), which requires that a fixed public utility be ordered to increase rates charged customers in a municipality by adding a surcharge to recover the amount paid to the municipality under a franchise or license, does not violate article XXV of the Colorado constitution as said section is a legislative restriction on the authority of the commission as authorized by article XXV. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 732 P.2d 1181 (Colo. 1987).

Subsection (4) does not violate the equal protection of the laws. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 732 P.2d 1181 (Colo. 1987).

Using the rational basis analysis, the general assembly could have reasonably concluded that subsection (4) would be a disincentive for municipalities to negotiate inflated franchise fees since such a fee will ultimately be paid for by the residents of the municipality. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 732 P.2d 1181 (Colo. 1987).

The right of home rule cities to grant franchises is not unconstitutionally interfered with by subsection (4), which results in the customers within a municipality which has granted a franchise to pay the cost of the franchise fee as part of the rates for the service. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 732 P.2d 1181 (Colo. 1987).

Establishment of mandatory measured service rates for resellers but allowing other business customers a flat rate option not in violation of this section. Although cost of providing service is the same, the reseller customers are not similarly situated to other business customers because they are in competition with the provider. In addition, because rate is based on actual use, the resellers are not being asked to subsidize other customers. Integrated Network Servs. v. PUC, 875 P.2d 1373 (Colo. 1994).

Applied in Shoemaker v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 38 Colo. App. 321, 559 P.2d 721 (1976).

40-3-107. Transmission of business of other companies. Every telephone public utility operating in this state shall receive, transmit, and deliver, without discrimination or delay, the conversations and messages of every other telephone public utility with whose line a physical connection may have been made.

40-3-107.5. Interconnection with renewable energy cooperatives. Electric utilities shall interconnect with renewable energy cooperatives organized pursuant to section 7-56-210, C.R.S. Every renewable energy cooperative that desires to interconnect its system with any facilities owned or operated by a public utility shall comply with applicable interconnection rules and with reasonable standards and policies related to the reliability of the public utility system. All such standards and policies, as well as all costs for the interconnection, shall be fair, reasonable, and nondiscriminatory to each renewable energy cooperative.

40-3-108. Rates for long and short distances. No telephone public utility subject to articles 1 to 7 of this title shall charge or receive any greater compensation in the aggregate for the transmission of any long distance message or conversation for a shorter than for a longer distance over the same line or route in the same direction within this state, the shorter being included within the longer distance, or charge any greater compensation for a through service than the aggregate of the intermediate rates or tolls subject to articles 1 to 7 of this title. Upon application to the commission, a telephone public utility may be authorized by the commission to charge less for a longer than a shorter distance service for the transmission of messages or conversations in special cases, after investigation; and the commission may from time to time prescribe the extent to which such telephone public utility may be relieved from the operation and requirements of this section.

40-3-109. Street transportation public utility - transfers. Every street transportation public utility shall, upon such terms as the commission finds to be just and reasonable, furnish to its passengers transfers entitling them to one continuous trip in the same general direction over and upon the portions of its lines within the same city and county, city, or town not reached by the originating vehicle.

40-3-110. Information furnished commission - reports. Every public utility shall furnish to the commission at such time and in such form as the commission may require a report in which the utility shall specifically answer all questions propounded by the commission upon or concerning which the commission may desire information. The commission has the authority to require any public utility to file monthly reports of earnings and expenses and to file periodical or special or both periodical and special reports concerning any matter about which the commission is authorized by articles 1 to 7 of this title or in any other law to inquire or to keep itself informed or which it is required to enforce. All reports shall be under oath.

40-3-111. Rates determined after hearing. (1) Whenever the commission, after a hearing upon its own motion or upon complaint, finds that the rates, tolls, fares, rentals, charges, or classifications demanded, observed, charged, or collected by any public utility for any service, product, or commodity, or in connection therewith, including the rates or fares for excursion or commutation tickets, or that the rules, regulations, practices, or contracts affecting such rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, or classifications are unjust, unreasonable, discriminatory, or preferential, or in any way violate any provision of law, or that such rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, or classifications are insufficient, the commission shall determine the just, reasonable, or sufficient rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, rules, regulations, practices, or contracts to be thereafter observed and in force and shall fix the same by order. In making such determination, the commission may consider current, future, or past test periods or any reasonable combination thereof and any other factors which may affect the sufficiency or insufficiency of such rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, or classifications during the period the same may be in effect, and may consider any factors which influence an adequate supply of energy, encourage energy conservation, or encourage renewable energy development.

(1.5) (a) If the commission considers environmental effects when comparing the costs and benefits of potential utility resources, it shall also make findings and give due consideration to the effect that acquiring such resources will have on the state's economy and employment, including, but not limited to, the effect on the mining, electric, natural gas, energy efficiency, and renewable resource industries.

(b) If the commission considers factors which encourage renewable energy development, it shall also make findings and give due consideration to the effect of such factors on the utility's ability to recover its capital and operating costs.

(2) (a) The commission has the power, after a hearing upon its own motion or upon complaint, to investigate a single rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, rule, contract, or practice, or the entire schedule of rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, classifications, rules, contracts, and practices of any public utility; and to establish new rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, classifications, rules, contracts, practices, or schedules, in lieu thereof.

(b) As part of any inquiry or investigation into rate structures of regulated electric utilities undertaken on or before July 1, 2009, the commission shall consider whether to adopt retail rate structures that enable the use of solar or other renewable energy resources in agricultural applications, including, but not limited to, irrigation pumping.

- II. Investigation of Rates.
- III. Establishing Rates.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "May Regulated Utilities Monopolize the Sun?", see 56 Den. L.J. 31 (1979). For article, "Retail Competition in the Electric Utility Industry", see 60 Den. L.J. 1 (1982).

General assembly provided procedural structure. The general assembly clearly intended to place the primary duty and responsibility for the determination of just and reasonable utility rates in the public utilities commission and provided a complete procedural structure for the commission to follow in discharging its function. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Northwest Water Corp., 168 Colo. 154, 451 P.2d 266 (1969).

The commission has the duty to examine proposed rates and to determine whether such rates are unjust, unreasonable, discriminatory, or preferential, or in any way violate any provision of law, and if so, to set just and reasonable rates. CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 949 P.2d 577 (Colo. 1997).

The commission in investigating a rate is not confined to technical rules of procedure, and, as an investigator, its duty was to ascertain the facts so important and basic in reaching its conclusion. Ohio & Colo. Smelting & Ref. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 68 Colo. 137, 187 P. 1082 (1920).

Review. If the rate of return allowed is just and reasonable, and there is competent evidence to support the finding of the public utilities commission, then a reviewing court may not substitute its judgment for that of the commission. Peoples Natural Gas Div. of N. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 193 Colo. 421, 567 P.2d 377 (1977).

Section 40-6-111 applicable even where existing rates unjust. Section 40-6-111 is to be applied in proceedings in which a tariff for a new rate is filed, even where existing rates are unjust under this section. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 197 Colo. 152, 590 P.2d 960 (1979).

Applied in Denver & S. Pac. Ry. v. City of Englewood, 62 Colo. 229, 161 P. 151 (1916).

II. INVESTIGATION OF RATES.

This is the exercise of a very grave and dangerous power and should be asserted with the greatest caution, and the commission by means of every instrumentality at its command should determine with reasonable certainty that the rate fixed in the contract injuriously affects the public welfare. Ohio & Colo. Smelting & Ref. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 68 Colo. 137, 187 P. 1082 (1920).

Exclusion of evidence. Where telephone company offered evidence that customers suffered no excess charges because of purportedly increased costs of doing business, evidence was properly excluded by commission in ordering refund for period during which rate erroneously approved by commission was in effect. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 180 Colo. 74, 502 P.2d 945 (1972).

The provisions of subsection (1) allow the commission to consider test year data but does not require the consideration of such data. Office of Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 752 P.2d 1049 (Colo. 1988).

III. ESTABLISHING RATES.

Final test is whether rate is just and reasonable and includes the constitutional question of whether the rate order has passed beyond the lowest limit of the permitted zone of reasonableness into the forbidden reaches of confiscation. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Nw. Water Corp., 168 Colo. 154, 451 P.2d 266 (1969).

Test of whether value of any given property shall be included in rate base of a public utility is whether it is used and useful in supplying the commodity or service that the utility has undertaken to furnish: If it is used and useful, it is properly included; if not, it must be excluded.

Glenwood Light & Water Co. v. City of Glenwood Springs, 98 Colo. 340, 55 P.2d 1339 (1936).

Portion of capital structure included in calculating rates. It is proper and within the public utilities commission's authority to include only that portion of the capital structure which finances the rate base in the calculation of just and reasonable rates. Peoples Natural Gas Div. of N. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 193 Colo. 421, 567 P.2d 377 (1977).

It is within power of the commission to pierce corporate structures of corporations which also operate nonutility divisions or subsidiaries to impute a capital structure for the utility operation that reflects the capitalization actually backing the utility operation. Peoples Natural Gas Div. of N. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 193 Colo. 421, 567 P.2d 377 (1977).

40-3-112. Commission to provide local government with avoided cost information.

(1) The general assembly hereby finds that it is in the interest of the people of this state to promote the production of energy and the disposal of solid waste in a manner designed to protect the environment; therefore, the general assembly hereby declares that it is the policy of this state to promote the development of systems which generate energy through the burning of solid waste in a manner designed to insure the maintenance of clean air standards.

(2) Prior to the construction of a solid waste-to-energy incineration facility, any unit of local government contemplating construction of such a facility may, by written request, require the commission to calculate the avoided cost to a specified electric utility for the purchase of energy and capacity by said utility from said contemplated facility. Pursuant to such request the utility shall provide the commission with all data necessary to calculate said cost.

(3) As used in this section, "solid waste-to-energy incineration facility" means a facility where flammable waste material is used as a primary fuel for the production of electrical power the total output of which exceeds one hundred kilowatts.

40-3-115. Recovery of utility relocation costs. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Political subdivision" means a county, city and county, city, town, home rule city, home rule town, service authority, school district, local improvement district, law enforcement authority, water, sanitation, fire protection, metropolitan, irrigation, drainage, or other special district, or any other kind of municipal, quasi-municipal, or public organization organized pursuant to law.

(b) "State" means the state government, any state agency, state department, state institution, or state-level authority.

(2) (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 40-15-502 (3) (b) (I) to (3) (b) (V), local exchange providers of basic local exchange service subject to regulation pursuant to part 2, part 3, or part 5 of article 15 of this title may request authorization from the commission to recover the actual costs incurred for the relocation of infrastructure or facilities requested by the state or a political subdivision. Actual costs are the nonfacility costs incurred in the relocation plus the undepreciated amount of the facilities being replaced. Recovery of actual costs incurred for relocation is intended for those state and political subdivision requests that are determined by the commission to be beyond the normal course of business.

(b) The commission shall verify the actual costs that may be recovered, determine the allocation of costs to various customers and services, and prescribe the method of such recovery. In no event shall the period of recovery of the relocation costs exceed three years.

(c) In determining the allocation of the costs to be recovered, the commission shall consider the jurisdiction requiring the relocation and the geographic area that most directly benefits from the required relocation to determine the customers or services that will bear the costs.

COORDINATED UTILITY PLAN TO REDUCE AIR EMISSIONS

40-3.2-201. Short title.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

40-3.2-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that cost-effective natural gas and electricity demand-side management programs will save money for consumers and utilities and protect Colorado's environment. The general assembly further finds, determines, and declares that providing funding mechanisms to encourage Colorado's public utilities to reduce emissions or air pollutants and to increase energy efficiency are matters of statewide concern and that the public interest is served by providing such funding mechanisms. Such efforts will result in an improvement in the quality of life and health of Colorado citizens and an increase in the attractiveness of Colorado as a place to live and conduct business.

40-3.2-102. Recovery of air quality improvement costs. (1) A public utility shall be entitled to fully recover from its retail customers the air quality improvement costs that it prudently incurs as a result of a voluntary agreement entered into pursuant to part 12 of article 7 of title 25, C.R.S., after July 1, 1998, except as provided in subsection (7) of this section.

(2) For the purposes of this article, “air quality improvement costs” means the incremental life-cycle costs including capital, operating, maintenance, fuel, and financing costs incurred or to be incurred by a public utility at electric generating facilities located in Colorado. To account for the timing differences between various costs and revenue recovery, life-cycle costs shall be calculated using net present value analysis.

(3) Upon application by a public utility for cost recovery, the commission shall determine an appropriate method of cost recovery that assures full cost recovery for the public utility. The air quality improvement costs recovered by the public utility shall not cause an average rate impact greater than the equivalent of one and one-half mills per kilowatt hour in any period, nor shall such costs exceed a total of two hundred eleven million dollars calculated using 1998 net present value dollars. The air quality improvement costs for a generating facility shall be recovered over a period of fifteen years or less.

(4) Any revenues a public utility receives from transferring, selling, banking, or otherwise using allowances established under title IV of the federal “Clean Air Act” or under any other trading program of regional or national applicability shall be credited to the public utility’s customers to offset air quality improvement costs if such revenues are a result of a voluntary agreement entered into under part 12 of article 7 of title 25, C.R.S.

(5) To the extent that a voluntary agreement entered into under part 12 of article 7 of title 25, C.R.S., does not increase the public utility’s electric generating capacity, the voluntary agreement shall not be subject to any restrictions that arise from the commission’s integrated resources planning rules.

(6) The commission shall assure that any future industry restructuring does not adversely affect the ability of the public utility to recover its air quality improvement costs. Nothing in this section shall prevent the commission from considering the appropriate value, including market value, of a public utility’s generation assets in any future industry restructuring proceeding.

(7) (a) If a public utility’s wholesale sales are subject to regulation by the federal energy regulatory commission and the public utility sells power on the wholesale market from generating facilities that are subject to a voluntary agreement under part 12 of article 7 of title 25, C.R.S., the public utilities commission shall determine whether to assign a portion of the air quality improvement costs to be recovered from the public utility’s wholesale customers. The public utilities commission may assign a portion of the air quality improvement costs to the public utility’s wholesale customers to the extent that such portion of such cost recovery does not conflict with the public utility’s wholesale contracts entered into prior to April 1, 1998.

(b) If the public utilities commission assigns a portion of the public utility’s air quality improvement costs to be recovered from the public utility’s wholesale customers, the public utility may apply to the federal energy regulatory commission for recovery, effective on the date of filing, of the portion of costs assigned to the public utility’s wholesale customers. The public utilities commission shall permit the public utility to recover the portion of costs assigned to the public utility’s wholesale customers from its retail customers pending the federal energy regulatory commission’s approval of recovery from the public utility’s wholesale customers.

(c) Notwithstanding paragraph (b) of this subsection (7), if the public utility fails to apply to the federal energy regulatory commission within six months after the public utilities commission's final order assigning a portion of the air quality improvement costs to the public utility's wholesale customers or fails to make a diligent, good faith effort to persuade the federal energy regulatory commission to approve the cost recovery from the public utility's wholesale customers, the public utility shall not be entitled to recover said portion of the costs from its retail customers.

(d) All revenues that a public utility receives from its wholesale customers for air quality improvement costs shall be credited as an offset to the air quality improvement costs charged to the public utility's retail customers.

40-3.2-103. Gas distribution utility demand-side management programs - rules - recovery of costs. (1) On or before September 30, 2007, the commission shall commence a rule-making proceeding, as described in subsection (2) of this section, to develop expenditure and natural gas savings targets, funding and cost-recovery mechanisms, and a financial bonus structure for demand-side management programs implemented by an investor-owned gas distribution utility, also referred to in this section as a "gas utility".

(2) As part of the rule-making proceeding required by subsection (1) of this section, the commission shall:

(a) Adopt DSM program expenditure targets equal to at least one-half of one percent of a natural gas utility's revenues from its full service customers in the year prior to setting such targets;

(b) Establish DSM program savings targets that are commensurate with program expenditures and expressed in terms of an amount of gas saved per unit of program expenditures;

(c) (I) Adopt procedures for allowing gas utilities to recover their prudently incurred costs of DSM programs without having to file a rate case. Such costs shall include, but are not limited to, facility investments; rebates; interest rate buy-downs; incremental labor costs, employee benefits, carrying costs, and employee-related administrative costs; and other administrative costs. All such costs shall be recovered through a cost adjustment mechanism that is set on an annual basis, or more frequently if deemed appropriate.

(II) Cost adjustment procedures shall give gas utilities the option of obtaining cost recovery either through expensing DSM program expenditures or adding them to base rates, with an amortization period to be determined by the commission. In addition, such procedures shall provide that cost recovery for programs directed at residential customers are to be collected from residential customers only and that cost recovery for programs directed at nonresidential customers are to be collected from nonresidential customers only.

(d) Adopt a bonus structure to reward gas utilities for investments in cost-effective DSM programs. For each year of operation, the bonus shall be capped at twenty-five percent of the expenditures or twenty percent of the net economic benefits of the DSM programs, whichever amount is lower. The amount of the bonus awarded each year shall be determined based on the extent to which the gas utility has achieved the targets established by the commission in accordance with paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (2). The bonus shall not count against a gas utility's authorized rate of return or be considered in rate proceedings.

(e) Consider the fact that implementing the new DSM programs may require a phase-in period before a gas utility is able to achieve the funding level determined by the commission pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2). A gas utility that implements a new DSM program in phases shall be eligible to receive a bonus under the bonus structure adopted pursuant to paragraph (d) of this subsection (2) during its phase-in period.

(f) Not adopt any measure authorizing a financial penalty against a gas utility that fails to meet the targets in any particular year.

(3) Within twelve months after the completion of the rule-making required by subsection (1) of this section, each gas utility shall:

(a) Develop and begin implementing a set of cost-effective DSM programs for its full service customers. Such programs shall be of the gas utility's choosing, taking into account the characteristics of the gas utility and its customers. One or more programs may be targeted to low-income customers and, if so, may be provided directly by the gas utility or indirectly through financial support of conservation programs for low-income households administered by the state.

(b) In implementing DSM programs, use reasonable efforts to maximize energy savings consistent with the annual energy efficiency budget.

(4) In implementing DSM programs, gas utilities may spend a disproportionate share of total expenditures on one or more classes of customers.

(5) The commission shall authorize each gas utility to recover moneys spent for education programs, impact and process evaluations, and program planning related to natural gas DSM programs offered by the gas utility without having to show that such expenditures, on an independent basis, are cost-effective. The commission may limit the amount spent for these activities.

(6) (a) Gas utilities shall submit annual reports to the commission, as determined by the commission by rule. The annual report shall describe the gas utility's DSM programs and shall document program expenditures, energy savings impacts and the techniques used to estimate these impacts, the estimated cost-effectiveness of program expenditures, and any other information the commission may require.

(b) The commission shall review each report submitted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (6) and shall determine the level of bonus, if any, that the gas utility is eligible to collect on the basis of the information included in the report. The commission's determination shall be made within three months after receiving the report. Any such bonus shall be authorized as a supplement to the cost adjustment mechanism or alternative mechanism approved by the commission and shall be applied over a twelve-month period after approval of the bonus.

(7) Gas utilities may continue DSM programs that were in existence on or before May 22, 2007, and shall not be required to obtain approval from the commission for such programs.

(8) This section shall not be construed to extend the commission's authority to any nonregulated utility businesses or affiliates of a gas utility.

40-3.2-104. Electricity utility demand-side management programs - rules - annual report. (1) It is the policy of the state of Colorado that a primary goal of electric utility least-cost resource planning is to minimize the net present value of revenue requirements. The commission may adopt rules as necessary to implement this policy.

(2) The commission shall establish energy savings and peak demand reduction goals to be achieved by an investor-owned electric utility, taking into account the utility's cost-effective DSM potential, the need for electricity resources, the benefits of DSM investments, and other factors as determined by the commission. The energy savings and peak demand reduction goals shall be at least five percent of the utility's retail system peak demand measured in megawatts in the base year and at least five percent of the utility's retail energy sales measured in megawatt-hours in the base year. The base year shall be 2006. The goals shall be met in 2018, counting savings in 2018 from DSM measures installed starting in 2006. The commission may establish interim goals and may revise the goals as it deems appropriate.

(3) The commission shall permit electric utilities to implement cost-effective electricity DSM programs to reduce the need for additional resources that would otherwise be met through a competitive acquisition process.

(4) The commission shall ensure that utilities develop and implement DSM programs that give all classes of customers an opportunity to participate and shall give due consideration to the impact of DSM programs on nonparticipants and on low-income customers.

(5) The commission shall allow an opportunity for a utility's investments in cost-effective DSM programs to be more profitable to the utility than any other utility investment that is not already subject to special incentives. In complying with this subsection (5), the commission shall consider, without limitation, the following incentive mechanisms, which shall take into consideration the performance of the DSM program:

(a) An incentive to allow a rate of return on DSM investments that is higher than the utility's rate of return on other investments;

(b) An incentive to allow the utility to accelerate the depreciation or amortization period for DSM investments;

(c) An incentive to allow the utility to retain a portion of the net economic benefits associated with a DSM program for its shareholders;

(d) An incentive to allow the utility to collect the costs of DSM programs through a cost adjustment clause;

(e) Other incentive mechanisms that the commission deems appropriate.

(6) Each investor-owned electric utility shall submit an annual report to the commission describing the DSM programs implemented by the electric utility in the previous year. The report shall document the following:

(a) Program expenditures, including incentive payments;

(b) Peak demand and energy savings impacts and the techniques used to estimate those impacts;

(c) Avoided costs and the techniques used to estimate those costs;

(d) The estimated cost-effectiveness of the DSM programs;

(e) The net economic benefits of the DSM programs; and

(f) Any other information required by the commission.

(7) For purposes of this section, "electric utility" or "utility" means "investor-owned utility".

40-3.2-105. Reporting requirement. By April 30, 2009, and by each April 30 thereafter, the commission shall submit a report to the business, labor, and technology committee of the senate, or its successor committee, and the business affairs and labor committee of the house of representatives, or its successor committee, on the progress made by investor-owned utilities in meeting their natural gas and electricity demand-side management goals. The report shall include any recommended statutory changes the commission deems necessary to further the intent of sections 40-3.2-103 and 40-3.2-104.

PART 2

COORDINATED UTILITY PLAN TO REDUCE AIR EMISSIONS

40-3.2-201. Short title. This part 2 shall be known and may be cited as the "Clean Air - Clean Jobs Act".

Source: L. 2010: Entire part added, (HB 10-1365), ch. 140, p. 466, § 1, effective April 19.

40-3.2-202. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that the federal "Clean Air Act", 42 U.S.C. sec. 7401 et seq., will likely require reductions in emissions from coal-fired power plants operated by rate-regulated utilities in Colorado. A coordinated plan of emission reductions from these coal-fired power plants will enable Colorado rate-regulated utilities to meet the requirements of the federal act and protect public health and the environment at a lower cost than a piecemeal approach.

A coordinated plan of reduction of emissions for Colorado's rate-regulated utilities will also result in reductions in many air pollutants and promote the use of natural gas and other low-emitting resources to meet Colorado's electricity needs, which will in turn promote development of Colorado's economy and industry.

(2) The general assembly further finds that the use of natural gas to reduce coal-fired emissions may require rate-regulated utilities to enter into long-term contracts for natural gas in a manner that protects electricity consumers. Even though such long-term contracts might be beneficial to consumers, financial rating agencies could find that such long-term contracts increase the financial risk to rate-regulated utilities, which in turn could increase the cost of capital to these utilities. The general assembly finds that it is important to give financial markets confidence that utilities will be able to recover the costs of long-term gas contracts without the risk of future regulators disallowing contracts.

(3) The general assembly further finds and declares that Colorado rate-regulated utilities require timely and forward-looking reviews of their costs of providing utility service in order to undertake the comprehensive and extensive planning and changes to their business operations contemplated by this part 2. In order to allow these utilities to continue to provide reliable electric service, alter their operations in the manner described by this part 2, and meet other state public policy goals, it is imperative that Colorado rate-regulated utilities continue in sound financial condition and remain attractive investments so that sufficient capital is provided to achieve the state's goals. To that end, the general assembly finds that the commission should have additional tools and more flexibility in its regulatory authority to ensure the continued financial health of these utilities. The general assembly also finds and declares that the actions provided for in this part 2 be implemented in a manner to address the sound economic, health, and environmental conditions of energy producing communities.

(2) "Department" means the department of public health and environment.

(3) "Federal act" means the federal "Clean Air Act", 42 U.S.C. sec. 7401 et seq., as amended.

(4) "State act" means the "Colorado Air Pollution Prevention and Control Act", article 7 of title 25, C.R.S.

(5) "State implementation plan" means the plan required by and described in section 110 (a) and other provisions of the federal act.

Source: L. 2010: Entire part added, (HB 10-1365), ch. 140, p. 467, § 1, effective April 19.

40-3.2-204. Emission control plans - role of the department of public health and environment - timing of emission reductions - approval. (1) On or before August 15, 2010, and in coordination with current or expected requirements of the federal act and the state act, all rate-regulated utilities that own or operate coal-fired electric generating units located in Colorado shall submit to the commission an emission reduction plan for emissions from those units.

(2) (a) The plan filed under this section shall cover a minimum of nine hundred megawatts or fifty percent of the utility's coal-fired electric generating units in Colorado, whichever is smaller. Except as set forth in section 40-3.2-206, the coal-fired capacity covered under the plan filed under this section shall not include any coal-fired capacity that the utility has already announced that it plans to retire prior to January 1, 2015. At the utility's discretion, the plan may include some or all of the following elements:

(I) New emission control equipment for oxides of nitrogen and other pollutants;

(II) Retirement of coal-fired units, if the retired coal-fired units are replaced by natural gas-fired electric generation or other low-emitting resources as defined in section 40-3.2-206, including energy efficiency;

(III) Conversion of coal-fired generation to run on natural gas;

(IV) Long-term fuel supply agreements;

(V) New natural gas pipelines and other supporting gas infrastructure;

(VI) Increased utilization of existing gas-fired generating capacity;

(VII) New transmission lines and other supporting transmission infrastructure;

(VIII) Emission control equipment that is required to be installed at affected units prior to or in conjunction with any retirement, conversion, or emission control equipment retrofit set forth under the plan in order to limit any pollutant other than oxides of nitrogen; and

(IX) Any other capital, fuel, and operations and maintenance expenditures appropriate to support the implementation of the plan.

(b) (I) Prior to filing the plan, the utility shall consult with the department and shall work with the department in good faith to design a plan to meet the current and reasonably foreseeable requirements of the federal act and state law in a cost-effective and flexible manner.

(II) The commission shall provide the department an opportunity to:

(A) Comment on the air quality, all other air pollutants, and other emission reductions of the plan; and

(B) Evaluate and determine whether the plan is consistent with the current and reasonably foreseeable requirements of the federal act.

(III) In commenting upon the utility's plan, the department shall determine whether any new or repowered electric generating unit proposed under the plan, other than a peaking facility utilized less than twenty percent on an annual basis or a facility that captures and sequesters more than seventy percent of emissions not subject to a national ambient air quality standard or a hazardous air pollutant standard, will achieve emission rates equivalent to or less than a combined-cycle natural gas generating unit.

(IV) The commission shall not approve a plan except after an evidentiary hearing and unless the department has determined that the plan is consistent with the current and reasonably foreseeable requirements of the federal act.

(c) The plan shall include a schedule that would result in full implementation of the plan on or before December 31, 2017. The schedule may include interim milestones. The utility shall design the schedule to protect system reliability, control overall cost, and assure consistency with the requirements of the federal act.

(d) The plan shall set forth the costs associated with activities identified in the plan, including the planning, development, construction, and operation of elements identified pursuant to subparagraphs (I) to (IX) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), as well as the costs of any shutdown, decommissioning, or repowering of existing coal-fired electric generating units that are set forth in the plan.

Source: L. 2010: Entire part added, (HB 10-1365), ch. 140, p. 468, § 1, effective April 19.

40-3.2-205. Review - approval. (1) In evaluating the plan, the commission shall consider the following factors:

(a) Whether the department reports that the plan is likely to achieve at least a seventy to eighty percent reduction, or greater, in annual emissions of oxides of nitrogen as necessary to comply with current and reasonably foreseeable requirements of the federal act and the state act. The reduction in emissions under this paragraph (a) shall be measured from 2008 levels at coal-fired power plants identified in the plan. In determining the reduction in emissions under this paragraph (a), the department shall include:

(I) Emissions from coal-fired power plants identified in the plan and continuing to operate after retrofit with emission control equipment; and

(II) Emissions from any facilities constructed to replace any retired coal-fired power plants identified in the plan.

- (b) Whether the department has made the determination under section 40-3.2-204 (2) (b) (III);
 - (c) The degree to which the plan will result in reductions in other air pollutant emissions;
 - (d) The degree to which the plan will increase utilization of existing natural gas-fired generating capacity;
 - (e) The degree to which the plan enhances the ability of the utility to meet state or federal clean energy requirements, relies on energy efficiency, or relies on other low-emitting resources;
 - (f) Whether the plan promotes Colorado economic development;
 - (g) Whether the plan preserves reliable electric service for Colorado consumers;
 - (h) Whether the plan is likely to help protect Colorado customers from future cost increases, including costs associated with reasonably foreseeable emission reduction requirements; and
 - (i) Whether the cost of the plan results in reasonable rate impacts. In evaluating the rate impacts of the plan, the commission shall examine the impact of the rates on low-income customers.
- (2) The commission shall review the plan and enter an order approving, denying, or modifying the plan by December 15, 2010. Any modifications required by the commission shall result in a plan that the department determines is likely to meet current and reasonably foreseeable federal and state act requirements.
- (3) All actions taken by the utility in furtherance of, and in compliance with, an approved plan are presumed to be prudent actions, the costs of which are recoverable in rates as provided in section 40-3.2-207.
- (4) If the utility disagrees with the commission's modifications to its proposed plan with respect to resource selection, the utility may withdraw its application.

40-3.2-206. Coal plant retirements - replacement resources. (1) (a) The general assembly finds that, in designing a coordinated emission reduction plan as described in section 40-3.2-204 and to expeditiously accelerate coal plant retirements, it is in the public interest for utilities to give primary consideration to replacing or repowering their coal generation with natural gas generation and that utilities shall also consider other low-emitting resources, including energy efficiency, if this replacement or repowering can be accomplished prudently and for reasonable rate impacts compared with placing additional emission controls on coal-fired generating units, and if electric system reliability can be preserved. To that end, in the plan required under section 40-3.2-204, each utility shall include an evaluation of the following proposals:

(I) The cost and system reliability impacts of retiring a minimum of nine hundred megawatts of coal-fired electric generating capacity, or fifty percent of the utility's coal-fired generating units in Colorado, whichever is less, by January 1, 2015, and repowering the affected coal-fired facilities with natural gas or replacing them with natural gas-fired generation or other low-emitting resources, including energy efficiency. The coal-fired capacity evaluated under this subparagraph (I) shall not include any coal-fired capacity that the utility has already announced that it plans to retire prior to January 1, 2015. The utility may also prepare evaluations of additional scenarios, including scenarios that result in the retirement of less than nine hundred megawatts of coal-fired electric generating capacity or the retirement of some portion of the nine hundred megawatts of capacity after January 1, 2015, but before January 1, 2018.

(II) Retirements of a portion of its coal-fired generating capacity in the period after April 19, 2010, but prior to January 1, 2015. At a minimum, the utility shall evaluate whether to retire a portion of its coal-fired capacity on or before January 1, 2013, or whether the retirements of coal-fired generating facilities that have already been announced could be advanced to an earlier retirement date.

(b) (I) For all evaluations required by this subsection (1), the utility shall report:

(A) The estimated overall impacts on the utility's emissions of oxides of nitrogen and other pollutants;

(B) The feasibility of the retirement, repowering, or replacement on the schedule proposed in the evaluation;

(C) The costs and impact on electric rates from these proposals; and

(D) The impact of the retirements on the reliability of the utility's electric service.

(II) All evaluations required by this subsection (1) shall contrast the costs of replacing coal generation with natural gas generation and other low-emitting resources, including energy efficiency, with the costs of installing additional emission controls on the coal plants.

(2) The utility shall set forth in its plan the utility's proposal for the best way of timely meeting the emission reduction requirements required by federal and state law, given the need to preserve electric system reliability, to avoid unreasonable rate increases, and the economic and environmental benefits of coordinated emission reductions.

(3) In reviewing the reasonableness of the utility's proposed plan, the commission shall:

(a) Compare the relative costs of repowering or replacing coal facilities with natural gas generation or other low-emitting resources, including energy efficiency, to an alternative that incorporates emission controls on the existing coal-fired units;

(b) Use reasonable projections of future coal and natural gas costs;

(c) Incorporate a reasonable estimate for the cost of reasonably foreseeable emission regulation consistent with the commission's existing practice;

(d) Consider the degree to which the plan will increase utilization of existing natural gas-fired generating resources available to the utility, together with increased utilization of other low-emitting resources including energy efficiency; and

(e) Consider the economic and environmental benefits of a coordinated emissions reduction strategy.

(4) The utility may enter into long-term gas supply agreements to implement the requirements of this part 2. A long-term gas supply agreement is an agreement with a term of not less than three years or more than twenty years. All long-term gas supply agreements may be filed with the commission for review and approval. The commission shall determine whether the utility acted prudently by entering into the specific agreement, whether the proposed agreement appears to be beneficial to consumers, and whether the agreement is in the public interest. If an agreement is approved, the utility is entitled to recover through rates the costs it incurs under the approved agreement, and any approved amendments to the agreement, notwithstanding any change in the market price of natural gas during the term of the agreement. The commission shall not reverse its approval of the long-term gas agreement even if the agreement price is higher than a future market price of natural gas.

Source: L. 2010: Entire part added, (HB 10-1365), ch. 140, p. 470, § 1, effective April 19.

40-3.2-207. Cost recovery - legislative declaration. (1) (a) A utility is entitled to fully recover the costs that it prudently incurs in executing an approved emission reduction plan, including the costs of planning, developing, constructing, operating, and maintaining any emission control or replacement capacity constructed pursuant to the plan, as well as any interim air quality emission control costs the utility incurs while the plan is being implemented.

(b) The general assembly finds that the emissions reductions under this part 2 are being made to assist the state of Colorado to comply with current and reasonably foreseeable emission restrictions under federal law. To provide this assistance, the utility is being asked to make substantial capital investments and to enter into substantial contractual commitments in an expedited time period outside of the normal resource planning process.

(2) (a) If a public utility's wholesale sales are subject to regulation by the federal energy regulatory commission, and if the public utility sells power on the wholesale market from a project developed pursuant to the plan, the commission shall determine whether to assign a portion of the plan cost to be recovered from the public utility's wholesale customers. The commission may make such assignment to the extent that it does not conflict with the public utility's wholesale contracts entered into before April 19, 2010.

(b) Except as specified in paragraph (c) of this subsection (2), if the commission makes an assignment of costs pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) and if the utility applies to the federal energy regulatory commission for recovery and pursues that application in good faith, then:

(I) To the extent that the federal energy regulatory commission does not permit recovery of the allocated wholesale portion of plan-related investment, the commission shall approve retail rates sufficient to recover such disallowed wholesale portion of the investment through the recovery mechanism detailed in this section; and

(II) The public utility may not recover any revenue shortfall caused by a delay in making any filing with the federal energy regulatory commission or due to any rate suspension period employed by the federal energy regulatory commission or because the public utility failed to pursue recovery of the amounts at the federal energy regulatory commission in good faith.

(c) If the public utility fails to apply to the federal energy regulatory commission within six months after the commission's final order assigning a portion of the plan's costs to the public utility's wholesale customers, the public utility is not entitled to recover the assigned portion of the costs from its retail customers.

(3) Current recovery shall be allowed on construction work in progress at the utility's weighted average cost of capital, including its most recently authorized rate of return on equity, for expenditures on projects associated with the plan during the construction, startup, and preservice implementation phases of the projects.

(4) To the extent that an approved plan includes the early conversion or closure of coal-based generation capacity by January 1, 2015, and to the extent that the utility demonstrates that a lag in the recovery of the costs of the plan related to the investment required by such plan contributes to a utility earning less than its authorized return on equity, the commission shall employ rate-making mechanisms, in addition to allowing a current return on construction work in progress, that permit rate adjustments, no less frequently than once per year, without requiring the utility to file a general rate case to allow recovery of the approved plan's costs. Such rate-making mechanisms may include a separate rate adjustment clause, regular make-whole rate increases, or other appropriate mechanisms as determined by the commission.

(5) During the time any special regulatory practice is in effect, the utility shall file a new rate case at least every two years or file a base rate recovery plan that spans more than one year.

(6) The commission shall allow, but not require, the utility to develop and own as utility rate-based property any new electric generating plant constructed primarily to replace any coal-fired electric generating unit retired pursuant to the plan filed under this part 2.

40-3.2-208. Air quality planning. (1) The air quality provisions of the emission reduction plan filed under this part 2 are intended to fulfill the requirements of the state and federal acts and shall be proposed by the department to the air quality control commission after the utility files the plan with the commission to be considered for incorporation into the regional haze element of the state implementation plan.

(2) (a) Upon the utility's filing of the utility plan with the commission pursuant to section 40-3.2-204, the air quality control commission, in response to the proposal by the department, shall initiate a proceeding to incorporate the air quality provisions of the utility plan into the regional haze element of the state implementation plan. Except as set forth in this subsection (2), the air quality control commission shall not act on the utility plan or the provisions of the regional haze element of the state implementation plan that would establish controls for those units covered by the utility plan until after the commission's approval of the utility plan.

(b) The air quality control commission shall vacate the entire proceeding related to the utility plan and shall initiate a new proceeding for the consideration of alternative proposals for the appropriate controls for those units covered by the utility plan for inclusion in the regional haze element of the state implementation plan if:

- (I) The commission does not approve the utility plan by December 15, 2010;
- (II) The utility withdraws its application pursuant to section 40-3.2-205 (4); or
- (III) The air quality control commission rejects any portion of the utility plan as approved by the commission.

(c) The air quality control commission shall conduct the proceedings specified in this subsection (2) after public notice and an opportunity for the public to participate in accordance with the air quality control commission’s procedures.

(3) If the final approved provisions of the state implementation plan are not consistent with the air quality provisions of the utility plan, the utility may file a revised utility plan with the commission that modifies the original plan to be consistent with the final approved state implementation plan. The revised utility plan is subject to all of the review and cost recovery provisions contained in this part 2. Notwithstanding any revision required to the utility plan, the utility is entitled to fully recover any costs it prudently incurred or contracted to incur under the originally approved plan prior to the plan’s revision and any costs incurred as a result of any enforceable state implementation plan or other air quality requirements.

40-3.4-102. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that the absence of basic local exchange telecommunications services, especially during time of emergency, presents a potential hazard and an unnecessary danger to human health and safety. Therefore, the general assembly declares it to be of vital importance to the public health, safety, and welfare that low-income individuals receive assistance that is adequate to insure access to basic local exchange telecommunications services.

40-3.4-103. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) “Basic local exchange telecommunications services” means any of the telecommunications services which provide a dial tone and local usage necessary to place or receive a call within an exchange area or local free calling area.

(2) “Eligible subscriber” means an individual who is qualified to receive low-income telephone assistance pursuant to section 40-3.4-105.

40-3.4-104. Low-income telephone assistance authorization requirements. The general assembly hereby authorizes and directs the implementation of low-income telephone assistance programs. Such programs shall be provided to certain low-income subscribers by providers of basic local exchange telecommunications services. Such programs shall consist of a twenty-five percent discount for a single local dial tone line and the flat rate usage charge in the principal residence of an eligible subscriber. Each fiscal year, the commission, after considering any surplus revenues carried forward from the previous year, shall adjust the amount of the charge as necessary to provide the assistance authorized in this article. Each provider of basic local exchange telecommunications services providing low-income telephone assistance shall collect the entire charge imposed on business and residential access lines as determined by the commission. The charge established by the commission pursuant to this subsection (1) shall not generate any additional profit for the providers of basic local exchange telecommunications services.

40-3.5-101. Application - reasonable charges - adequate service. (1) This article shall be applicable within the authorized electric and natural gas service areas of each municipal utility that lie outside the jurisdictional limits of such municipality. Insofar as municipal utilities establish rates, charges, and tariffs and any regulations pertaining thereto in accordance with the provisions of this article, the provisions of section 40-1-104 and articles 4, 6, and 7 of this title shall not apply; except that section 40-4-105 shall apply with respect to the crossing of railroad rights-of-way. Nothing in this article shall be construed as limiting the applicability of article 5 of this title.

(2) All charges made, demanded, or received by any municipal utility for any rate, product, or commodity furnished or to be furnished or any service rendered or to be rendered shall be just, reasonable, and sufficient.

(3) Every municipal utility shall furnish, provide, and maintain such service, instrumentalities, equipment, and facilities as shall promote the safety, health, comfort, and convenience of its patrons, its employees, and the public, and as shall in all respects be adequate, efficient, just, and reasonable.

40-3.5-102. Regulation of rates. The power and authority is hereby vested in the governing body of each municipal utility and it is hereby made the duty of each such governing body to adopt all necessary rates, charges, and regulations to govern and regulate all rates, charges, and tariffs of its municipal utility within its authorized electric and natural gas service areas which lie outside the jurisdictional limits of the municipality. No rate, charge, tariff, or voluntary plan approved pursuant to section 40-2-122 shall unjustly discriminate between or among those customers or recipients of any commodity, service, or product of the municipal utility within the authorized service area. In the event that any rate, charge, tariff, or voluntary plan established within the authorized service area which lies outside the jurisdictional limits of the municipality varies from the rate, charge, tariff, or voluntary plan established for the same class of customers or recipients of any such service within the authorized service area which lies inside the jurisdictional limits of the municipality, such rate, charge, tariff, or voluntary plan shall not become effective until reviewed and approved by the commission. Such review and approval shall be in accordance with the provisions of article 3 of this title; except that in no event shall the commission modify or establish such rate, charge, or tariff to an amount lower than that established by the municipality, or approve a voluntary plan that differs from the voluntary plan, for the same class of customers or recipients of any utility service within the authorized service area which lies inside the jurisdictional limits of the municipality.

40-3.5-103. Rate schedules. Municipal utilities shall print and keep open for public inspection schedules showing all rates and charges collected or enforced, or to be collected or enforced, together with all rules, regulations, contracts, privileges, and facilities which in any manner affect or relate to rates and service within the authorized electric and natural gas service areas of the municipal utility which lie outside the jurisdictional limits of the municipality.

40-3.5-104. Changes in rates - notice and public hearing. (1) (a) No change shall be made by any municipal utility in any rate or charge or in any rule, regulation, or contract relating to or affecting any base rate, charge, or service, or in any privilege or facility, except after thirty days' notice to the public. Such notice shall be given by keeping open for public inspection new schedules stating plainly the changes to be made in the schedules then in force and the time when the changes will go into effect. In addition, such notice shall be given by publishing the proposed new schedule, or if that is impractical due to the size or bulk of the proposed new schedule, by publishing a notice of the availability of the proposed new schedule for public inspection, at least once in at least one newspaper of general circulation in the authorized service area at least thirty days and no more than sixty days prior to the date set for public hearing on and adoption of the new schedule.

(b) In addition to the notice provided for in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), if a municipal utility serves customers who live outside the municipal corporate boundaries, notice of any change in any rate or charge or in any rule, regulation, or contract relating to or affecting any base rate, charge, or service or any change in any privilege or facility shall be given by mailing to such customer notification of any such change.

(2) The notice required by subsection (1) of this section shall also specify the date, time, and place at which the public hearing shall be held by the governing body of the municipal utility to consider the proposed new schedule. The notice shall specify that each municipal utility customer shall have the right to appear, personally or through counsel, at such hearing for the purpose of providing testimony regarding the proposed new schedule. Said public hearing shall be held on the date and time and at the place set forth in the notice; except that the governing body of the municipal utility may adjourn and reconvene said hearing as it deems necessary.

(3) The governing body of the municipal utility, for good cause shown, may allow changes without requiring the thirty days' notice and public hearing by an order specifying the changes to be made, the circumstances necessitating the change without requiring the thirty days' notice and public hearing, the time when the changes shall take effect, and the manner in which the changes shall be published.

(4) Insofar as municipal utilities establish rates, charges, and tariffs and any regulations pertaining thereto in accordance with the provisions of this article, any conflict shall be resolved by the commission in accordance with the procedures contained in article 6 of this title upon the filing of a complaint by no less than five percent of the affected electric or natural gas customers outside the corporate limits of the municipality or by five such customers, whichever number is greater. Any such complaint shall be filed with the commission within thirty days after the final decision by the governing body of the municipality to change a rate, charge, or tariff or any regulation pertaining thereto. If such complaint is heard by the commission and is deemed not frivolous, all reasonable costs as determined by the commission, including reasonable attorney fees, shall be paid by the utility. In any hearing conducted pursuant to the provisions of this section, the burden of proof shall be sustained by the municipal utility.

indirectly or in any manner or by any device, any portion of the rates and charges so specified nor extend to any corporation or person any form of contract or agreement or rule or regulation or any facility or privilege except one which is regularly and uniformly extended to all corporations and persons. The governing body of the municipal utility may by rule or order establish such exceptions from the operation of this prohibition as it may consider just and reasonable.

40-3.5-106. Advantages prohibited - graduated schedules. (1) No municipal utility, as to rates, charges, service, facilities, or in any other respect, shall make or grant any preference or advantage to any corporation or person or subject any corporation or person to any prejudice or disadvantage. No municipal utility shall establish or maintain any unreasonable difference as to rates, charges, service, facilities, or in any other respect, either between localities or between any class of service. The governing body of each municipal utility shall determine the reasonableness of any such difference.

(2) Nothing in this article shall prohibit a municipal utility engaged in the production, generation, transmission, distribution, or furnishing of heat, light, gas, or power from establishing a graduated scale of charges subject to the provisions of this article.

(3) Nothing contained in this article shall exempt from the public utilities commission of the state of Colorado the power and authority to regulate the rates, charges, tariffs and any regulations pertaining thereto of the sale of natural gas by a municipal utility to another public utility.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Generation and Transmission Loan Policy Under the Rural Electrification Act", see 43 Den. L.J. 269 (1966).

Railroad under obligation to operate in manner contemplated by charter. The consideration for the franchise, rights, and privileges granted a railroad company by a state is the resulting benefits to the public, and the acceptance by the company, generally speaking, imposes upon it the obligation to operate, when constructed, the railroad it was incorporated to construct, and of doing so in the manner and for the purpose contemplated by its charter. Colo. & S. Ry. v. State R. R. Comm'n, 54 Colo. 64, 129 P. 506 (1912).

Question of loss must be considered in connection with duties of railway company to public, and the result of its corporate business, as a whole; it is not to be excused from performing its whole duty, merely because by ceasing to operate a part of its system the net returns will be increased. Colo. & S. Ry. v. State R. R. Comm'n, 54 Colo. 64, 129 P. 506 (1912).

State may impose upon railroad cost of installation of safety devices at grade crossings, or such part thereof, as it deems appropriate. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 190 Colo. 378, 547 P.2d 234 (1976).

Not considering cost of maintenance not unfair or unreasonable. The statutory elimination, in § 40-4-106 (2)(b), of consideration of the cost of maintenance in determining allocation of cost of installation does not render the police power exercised unfair or unreasonable. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 190 Colo. 378, 547 P.2d 234 (1976).

Railway company may be compelled to resume operation of part of line which has been abandoned. Colo. & S. Ry. v. State R. R. Comm'n, 54 Colo. 64, 129 P. 506 (1912).

Commission has exclusive jurisdiction to determine whether railroad company may abandon service upon and dismantle a railroad, lying wholly within the state. People ex rel. Hubbard v. Colo. Title & Trust Co., 65 Colo. 472, 178 P. 6 (1918).

Courts will not interfere with commission's rulings if reasonable. The commission is clothed with general powers to regulate and control carriers for hire within the state, and courts will not interfere with its administrative rulings when they are just and reasonable. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Weicker Transp. Co., 102 Colo. 211, 78 P.2d 633 (1938); Airport Limousine Serv., Inc. v. Cabs, Inc., 167 Colo. 378, 447 P.2d 978 (1968).

Applied in Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Erie, 92 Colo. 151, 18 P.2d 906 (1933); Denver Welfare

40-4-102. Extensions and improvements prescribed - when. (1) Whenever the commission, after a hearing upon its own motion, upon appeal by a public utility or power authority from a local government action pursuant to section 29-20-108 (5), C.R.S., or upon complaint, finds that the additions, extensions, repairs, or improvements to or change in the existing plant, equipment, facilities, or other physical property of any public utility or of any two or more public utilities ought reasonably to be made, that a new structure should be erected to promote the security or convenience of its employees or the public or in any other way to secure adequate service or facilities, or that the conditions imposed by a local government action unreasonably impair the ability of a public utility or power authority to provide safe, reliable, and economical service, the commission shall make and serve an order directing that such additions, extensions, repairs, improvements, or changes be made or such structure be erected in the manner and within the time specified in such order. If the commission orders the erection of a new structure, the selection of the site for such structure shall be subject to the approval of the commission. If a public utility or power authority appeals an order from a local government action under section 29-20-108, C.R.S., the commission may require that the public utility or power authority reimburse the commission for the reasonable expenses, attorney fees, and expert witness fees the commission incurs in reviewing the appeal. Any fee collected pursuant to this section shall be remitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit such fee to the public utilities commission fixed utility fund created pursuant to section 40-2-114.

(2) If any additions, extensions, repairs, improvements, or changes or any new structures which the commission has ordered to be erected require joint action of two or more public utilities, the commission shall notify the public utilities that such additions, repairs, improvements, or changes or new structures have been ordered and that the same shall be made at their joint cost, whereupon the public utilities shall have such reasonable time as the commission may grant within which to agree upon the portion or division of cost of such additions, repairs, extensions, improvements, or changes or new structures which each shall bear. If, at the expiration of such time, such public utilities fail to file with the commission a statement that an agreement has been made for a division or apportionment of the cost or expense of such additions, extensions, repairs, improvements, or changes or new structures, the commission has the authority, after further hearing, to make an order fixing the proportion of such expense to be borne by each public utility and the manner in which the same shall be paid or secured.

ANNOTATION

General assembly has granted extensive and broad regulatory powers to commission including the power to designate location of facilities and also relocation or removal thereof. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 135, 350 P.2d 543, cert. denied, 364 U.S. 820, 81 S. Ct. 53, 5 L. Ed.2d 50 (1960).

This section vests jurisdiction in commission over adequacy, installation, and extension of power services and facilities necessary to supply, extend, and connect the same. It follows, therefore, that the jurisdiction of the district court extends only to a review of the decision of the public utilities commission in appropriate proceedings. Intermountain Rural Elec. Ass'n v. District Court, 160 Colo. 128, 414 P.2d 911 (1966).

40-4-103. Increased transportation facilities prescribed. Whenever the commission, after a hearing upon its own motion or upon complaint, finds that any common carrier does not run a sufficient number of trains or vehicles or does not possess or operate sufficient motive power to reasonably accommodate the traffic, whether passenger or freight, or both, transported by or offered to it for transportation, or does not run its trains or vehicles with sufficient frequency or at a reasonable or proper time having regard to safety, or does not stop the same at proper places or does not run any train or vehicle upon a reasonable time schedule for the run, the commission has the power to make an order directing any such common carrier to increase the number of its trains or of its vehicles or its motive power or to change the time of starting its train or vehicle or to change the time schedule for the run of any train or vehicle, or to change the stopping places thereof, or to make any other change the commission may determine to be reasonably necessary to accommodate and transport the traffic, whether passenger or freight, or both, transported or offered to it for transportation.

40-4-104. Connection of noncompetitive lines - costs and rates apportioned. Whenever the commission, after a hearing upon its own motion or upon complaint, finds that a physical connection can reasonably be made between the lines of two or more noncompetitive telephone public utilities whose lines can be made to form a continuous line of communication by the construction and maintenance of suitable connections for the transmission of messages or conversations and that the public convenience and necessity will be served or finds that two or more telephone public utilities have failed to establish joint rates, tolls, or charges for service by or over said lines and that joint rates, tolls, or charges ought to be established, the commission may by its order require that such connections be made and that conversations be transmitted and messages transferred over such connection under such rules as the commission may establish and prescribe through lines and joint rates, tolls, and charges to be made and used, observed, and in force in the future. If such telephone public utilities do not agree upon the division between them of the joint cost of the physical connection or connections or the division of the joint rates, tolls, or charges established by the commission over such through lines, the commission has authority, after further hearing, to establish the division by supplemental order.

40-4-105. Joint use of equipment and facilities. (1) Whenever the commission, after a hearing upon its own motion or upon complaint of a public utility affected, finds that the public convenience and necessity require the use by one public utility of the conduits, subways, tracks, wires, poles, pipes, or other equipment, or any part thereof on, over, or under any street or highway that belongs to another public utility, or the crossing of a railroad right-of-way by a public utility for installation of its own facilities in a manner and in a location that is compatible with the use for railroad purposes, and that such use will not result in irreparable injury to the owners or other users of such conduits, subways, wires, tracks, poles, pipes, or other equipment or to the railroad's use of the right-of-way, or in any substantial detriment to the service, and that such public utilities have failed to agree upon such use or the terms and conditions or compensation for the same, the commission by order may direct that such use be permitted and prescribe reasonable compensation and reasonable terms and conditions for the joint use. If such use is directed, the public utility to whom the use is permitted shall be liable to the owner or other users of such conduits, subways, tracks, wires, poles, pipes, other equipment, or railroad right-of-way, for such damage as may result therefrom to the property of such owners or other users thereof.

(2) In proceedings arising out of a complaint requesting the commission to authorize and determine appropriate compensation to be paid by a public utility to install its own facilities across a railroad right-of-way in a manner and location compatible with railroad use of the right-of-way, the commission may require the parties involved in the proceeding to reimburse the commission for the reasonable expenses, attorney fees, and expert witness fees the commission incurs in making its determination. Any fee collected pursuant to this section shall be remitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit such fee to the public utilities commission fixed utility fund created pursuant to section 40-2-114.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the right of a public utility to exercise the power of eminent domain to acquire property pursuant to applicable law.

(4) For purposes of this section, with respect to crossing of railroad rights-of-way by a public utility, the term "public utility" shall include power authorities organized under section 29-1-204, C.R.S. The term "public utility" shall also include municipal utilities and cooperative electric associations otherwise exempt from this article.

40-4-106. Rules for public safety - crossings - allocation of expenses. (1) The commission shall have power, after hearing on its own motion or upon complaint, to make general or special orders, rules, or regulations or otherwise to require each public utility to maintain and operate its lines, plant, system, equipment, electrical wires, apparatus, tracks, and premises in such manner as to promote and safeguard the health and safety of its employees, passengers, customers, subscribers, and the public and to require the performance of any other act which the health or safety of its employees, passengers, customers, subscribers, or the public may demand.

(2) (a) The commission has the power to determine, order, and prescribe, in accordance with the plans and specifications to be approved by it, the just and reasonable manner including the particular point of crossing at which the tracks or other facilities of any public utility may be constructed across the facilities of any other public utility at grade, or above or below grade, or at the same or different levels, or at which the tracks or other facilities of any railroad corporation may be constructed across any public highway at grade, or above or below grade, or at which any public highway may be constructed across the tracks or other facilities of any railroad corporation at grade, or above or below grade and to determine, order, and prescribe the terms and conditions of installation and operation, maintenance, and warning at all such crossings that may be constructed, including the posting of personnel or the installation and regulation of lights, block, interlocking, or other system of signaling, safety appliance devices, or such other means or instrumentalities as may to the commission appear reasonable and necessary to the end, intent, and purpose that accidents may be prevented and the safety of the public promoted.

(b) Whenever the commission orders in any proceeding before it, regardless of by whom or how such proceeding was commenced, that automatic or other safety appliance signals or devices be installed, reconstructed, or improved and operated at any crossing at grade of any public highway or road over the tracks of any railroad corporation, the commission shall also determine and order, after notice and hearing, how the cost of installing, reconstructing, or improving such signals or devices shall be divided between and paid by the interested railroad corporation whose tracks are located at the crossing on the one hand and the highway operations and maintenance division and the interested city, city and county, town, county, or other political subdivision of the state on the other hand.

In determining how much of the cost shall be paid by the railroad corporation, consideration shall be given to the benefit, if any, that will accrue from the signals or devices to the railroad corporation, but in every case the part to be paid by the railroad corporation shall be not less than twenty percent of the total cost of the signals or devices at any crossing, and the orders shall provide that every signal or device installed shall be maintained by such railroad corporation for the life of the crossing to be so signalized. In order to compensate for the use of the crossings by the public generally, the commission shall also order that such part of the cost of installing, reconstructing, or improving the signals or devices as will not be paid by the railroad corporation be divided between the highway-rail crossing signalization fund and the city, town, city and county, county, or other political subdivision in which the crossing is located, and the commission shall fix in each case the amount to be paid from the highway-rail crossing signalization fund and the amount to be paid by the city, town, city and county, county, or other political subdivision. Any order of the commission under this section for the payment of any part of any such costs from the highway-rail crossing signalization fund shall be authority for the state treasurer to pay out of said fund to the person, firm, or corporation entitled thereto under the commission's order the amount so determined to be paid from said fund. The requirement of notice and hearing in this section is deemed to have been complied with by the commission's giving notice of and holding a hearing upon the question of whether any such signals or devices are required at any crossing; but in such cases the notice shall state that the question of how the costs will be borne and paid will be considered at and determined as a result of the hearing for which the notice is given. This paragraph (b) shall not apply to any grade crossing when all or any part of the cost of the installation, reconstruction, or improvement of the signals or devices at the crossing will be paid from funds available under any federal or federal-aid highway act.

(3) (a) (I) The commission also has power upon its own motion or upon complaint and after hearing, of which all the parties in interest including the owners of adjacent property shall have due notice, to order any crossing constructed at grade or at the same or different levels to be relocated, altered, or abolished, according to plans and specifications to be approved and upon just and reasonable terms and conditions to be prescribed by the commission, and to prescribe the terms upon which the separation should be made and the proportion in which the expense of the alteration or abolition of the crossing or the separation of the grade should be divided between the railroad corporations affected or between the corporation and the state, county, municipality, or public authority in interest.

(II) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), the affected railroad corporation, the commission, the department of transportation, or the local government responsible for supervising and maintaining the intersecting public highway or road may abolish any crossing at grade of any public highway or road over the tracks of a corporation if:

(A) The crossing is without gates, signals, alarm bells, or warning personnel and is located within one-quarter mile of a crossing with gates, signals, alarm bells, or warning personnel or a separated grade crossing;

(B) The crossing is not the only crossing that provides access to property;

(C) No less than sixty days prior to the proposed abolition date, the railroad corporation, commission, department of transportation, or local government posts conspicuous notice of the proposed abolition at the crossing and gives written notice of the proposed abolition to all other entities authorized to initiate abolition of the crossing pursuant to this subparagraph (II); and

(D) Neither any entity given notice nor any other interested party files an objection to the abolition pursuant to subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (a).

(III) A crossing shall not be abolished pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a) if an entity given notice pursuant to sub-subparagraph (C) of subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a) or any other interested party, within sixty days of receiving such notice, files with the commission and provides to the entity that gave notice of the proposed abolition a written objection to the abolition. The written objection shall include a statement by a professional engineer licensed to practice in Colorado that indicates that the engineer is familiar with the requirements of subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a) and all relevant aspects of the crossing and has examined the crossing and believes that it is safe as designed. However, nothing in this subparagraph (III) shall preclude the abolition of the crossing pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a).

(b) (I) (A) The commission is authorized to approve individual projects wherein the allocation of the total expenses of the separation of grades to be paid by the railroad corporation or railroad corporations may exceed two million five hundred thousand dollars. The commission may approve more than one project, the sum totals of which may exceed the two-million-five-hundred-thousand-dollar cap set forth in this subparagraph (I), but in no event shall an individual class I railroad corporation pay more than two million five hundred thousand dollars of the cost of a single project or the cost of more than one project in any calendar year. Nothing in this subparagraph (I) shall preclude any railroad corporation from voluntarily contributing more than its allotted share for grade separation construction in one year, and, in such event, all amounts contributed by such railroad exceeding its allotted share in any one year shall be credited to and shall serve to reduce any payment for grade separation construction expenses by that railroad in subsequent years.

(B) Repealed.

(II) If the cost of a project is such that it calls for payment by a railroad corporation in more than one calendar year or if the amount due from the railroad corporation exceeds two million five hundred thousand dollars and thus must be made in consecutive calendar years, nothing in this section shall be construed to require that the approved project must be subjected to reapplication or rereview by the commission.

(III) In determining how much of the total expense of the separation of grades shall be paid by the railroad corporation or railroad corporations and by the state, county, municipality, or public authority in interest, consideration shall be given to the benefits, if any, which accrue from the grade separation project and the responsibility for need, if any, for such project. The railroad corporation or railroad corporations and the state, county, municipality, or public authority in interest shall share the costs for that portion of the project which separates the grades and constructs the approaches thereto. The commission shall consider the costs of obtaining rights-of-way, the costs of construction, and the costs of engineering. To the extent that the requirements of the railroad corporation or railroad corporations and the state, county, municipality, or public authority in interest generate additional costs beyond that necessary to provide the grade separation, such costs shall be borne by the responsible entity.

(IV) This paragraph (b) shall not apply to any project for the elimination of hazards at any railway-highway crossing when all or any part of the cost of such project will be paid from moneys made available for expenditure under title 23, U.S.C.; except that any amount paid by a railroad corporation for such an exempt project shall be credited against the two-million-five-hundred-thousand-dollar cap set forth in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b).

(c) (I) The state, county, municipality, or public authority, at its discretion, may withdraw its request for allocation determination at any time prior to the issue of the final order of the commission.

(II) The state, county, municipality, or public authority, at its discretion, after the hearing and prior to final order of the commission, may make a motion for a declaratory ruling on the cost allocation. In response to such a request, the commission shall make a declaratory ruling and shall provide the movant reasonable time to withdraw the request for allocation determination.

(III) After the final order is issued, the project shall proceed, unless the commission revises the order after consideration of a request for change by the state, county, municipality, or public authority in interest.

(d) The commission shall not order the abolition of any crossing for which a grade separation is determined to be necessary until this separation is constructed.

ANNOTATION

Commission to determine property required by railroad. The public utilities commission has the power to determine what property a condemning railroad can use as a "particular point of crossing", so the commission determines what property the railroad requires. Colo. & S. Ry. v. District Court, 177 Colo. 162, 493 P.2d 657 (1972).

Commission's approval not necessary before condemnation for certain construction by railroad. Approval of the public utilities commission for the construction of dust levees by a railroad is not required as a prerequisite to the condemnation of lands required for the proposed construction. Buck v. District Court, 199 Colo. 344, 608 P.2d 350 (1980).

No power to open street across right-of-way. The public utilities commission has no power by an order, without proceedings in eminent domain, to open a street across a railroad right-of-way. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 69 Colo. 275, 193 P. 726 (1920).

Commission's exercise of authority. In the interest of public safety, the public utilities commission has authority to order electric company to bury or relocate a transmission line which constitutes a safety hazard for an airport, and such authority may be exercised whether or not the commission participated in the prior approval of the location of such line. The statute is not an unlawful delegation of power to an administrative agency. Mountain View Elec. Ass'n v. P.U.C., 686 P.2d 1336 (Colo. 1984).

Section applicable to construction of apportionment of costs for viaducts. The construction of an apportionment of costs for viaducts is not such a subject as was intended to fall within the domain of local self-government, and therefore § 35 of art. V, Colo. Const., (delegation of power) does not prohibit the public utility commission's exercise of powers granted it under this section. Denver & R. G. W. R. R. v. City & County of Denver, 673 P.2d 354 (Colo. 1983).

Section empowers commission to apportion cost of constructing railroad crossing protection devices between the railroad that owns the track on one hand and the department of highways, and interested town, city, or county on the other hand, with a portion of the latter cost allocable to the highway crossing protection fund to compensate for general public benefit. Union P. R. R. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 170 Colo. 514, 463 P.2d 294 (1969).

Subsection (3)(b) supersedes city charter. The construction of an apportionment of costs for viaducts is a matter of mixed local and state-wide concern, and where there is a conflict between a city charter and subsection (3)(b) (costs for grade separation projects), this section must supersede the charter. Denver & R. G. W. R. R. v. City & County of Denver, 673 P.2d 354 (Colo. 1983).

Commission held not to have abused its discretion in the allocation of grade separation costs between the city of Denver and the affected railroads pursuant to subsection (3) (c) (I) of this section (now subsection (3) (b) (III)). Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Ry. v. P.U.C., 763 P.2d 1037 (Colo. 1988).

40-4-108. Standards for electricity, gas, and water. The commission has power, after hearing upon its own motion or upon complaint, to ascertain and fix just and reasonable standards, classifications, regulations, practices, measurements, or service to be furnished, imposed, observed, and followed by all electric, gas, and water public utilities; to ascertain and fix adequate and serviceable standards for the measurement of quantity, quality, pressure, initial voltage, or other condition pertaining to the supply of the product, commodity, or service furnished or rendered by any such public utility; to prescribe reasonable regulations for the examination and testing of such product, commodity, or service and for the measurement thereof; to establish reasonable rules, regulations, specifications, and standards to secure the accuracy of all meters and equipment for measurement and weighing; and to provide for the examination and testing of any and all equipment used for the measurement or weighing of any product, commodity, or service of any such public utility.

40-4-109. Entry to premises - testing meters. (1) The commissioners and their officers and employees have power to enter upon any premises occupied by any public utility for the purpose of making the examination and tests and exercising any of the other powers provided for in articles 1 to 7 of this title and to set up and use on such premises any equipment necessary therefor. The agents and employees of such public utility have the right to be present at the making of such examinations and tests.

(2) Any consumer or user of any product, commodity, or service of a public utility may have any equipment used in the measurement thereof tested upon paying the fees fixed by the commission. The commission shall establish and fix reasonable fees to be paid for testing such equipment on the request of the consumer or user, the fee to be paid by the consumer or user at the time of his request but to be paid by the public utility and repaid to the consumer or user if the equipment is found defective or incorrect to the disadvantage of the consumer or user under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the commission.

40-4-111. Uniform system of accounts prescribed. The commission has power to establish a system of accounts to be kept by all public utilities, or to classify said public utilities and to establish a system of accounts for each class, and to prescribe the manner in which such accounts shall be kept. It may also in its discretion prescribe the forms of accounts, records, and memoranda to be kept by such public utilities, including the accounts, records, and memoranda of the movement of traffic as well as the receipts and expenditures of moneys and any other forms, records, and memoranda that in the judgment of the commission may be necessary to carry out the provisions of articles 1 to 7 of this title. The system of accounts established by the commission and the forms of accounts, records, and memoranda prescribed by it shall not be inconsistent in the case of corporations subject to the provisions of the federal "Interstate Commerce Act", Part I, 49 U.S.C., sec. 1 et seq., with the systems and forms from time to time established for such corporations by the surface transportation board; but nothing contained in this section shall affect the power of the commission to prescribe forms of accounts, records, and memoranda covering information in addition to that required by the surface transportation board. The commission, after hearing upon its own motion or upon complaint, may prescribe by order the accounts in which particular outlays and receipts shall be entered, charged, or credited. Where the commission has prescribed the forms of accounts, records, or memoranda to be kept by any public utility for any of its business, it shall thereafter be unlawful for such public utility to keep any accounts, records, or memoranda for such business other than those so prescribed, or those prescribed by or under the authority of any other state or of the United States, excepting such accounts, records, or memoranda as are explanatory of and supplemental to the accounts, records, or memoranda prescribed by the commission.

(c) Vacancies shall be filled by appointment by the official who appointed the member whose absence resulted in the vacancy.

(3) Duties - initial report - updates - issues. (a) The task force shall develop an initial report, designated the 2011 Colorado smart grid report, in which the task force addresses and makes recommendations for the following:

(I) Issues related to the utility side of the meter in the development of a smart grid, including:

(A) Grid reliability;

(B) Grid efficiency;

(C) Outage restoration and recovery;

(D) Distributed generation integration;

(E) Transportation electrification; and

(F) System integration of renewable and conventional sources of electric power generation;

(II) Issues related to the customer side of the meter in the development of a smart grid, including:

(A) Consumer metering protocols;

(B) Driving increases in consumer efficiency;

(C) Providing effective consumer information;

(D) Integration of demand response programs; and

(E) Integration of variable pricing mechanisms; and

(III) Potential impacts from the development of a smart grid, including:

(A) Consumer protection and privacy;

(B) Cyber security;

(C) Communication and technical standards;

(D) Workforce and economic development issues;

(E) Energy efficiency and demand response; and

(F) Emissions from electric generation.

(b) The task force shall periodically revisit the issues set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) and update the report with new information or recommendations as the task force deems advisable.

(4) Timeline. The task force shall produce and deliver its initial report under subsection (3) of this section to the governor, the commission, and the general assembly on or before

January 20, 2011, and shall meet at least annually thereafter to review the report, receive additional information, and consider updates to the report.

(5) Funding. (a) The Colorado energy office may accept private gifts, grants, and donations for the purpose of providing support to the task force to perform its responsibilities specified in this section. Any such gifts, grants, and donations shall be held in a separate account within the innovative energy fund created in section 24-38.5-102.5, C.R.S., and shall be available to the office and the task force only for the purpose of carrying out the task force’s duties under this section. The account shall also consist of moneys appropriated and transferred to the account. Any unexpended or unencumbered moneys remaining in the account as of January 1, 2015, shall revert to the clean and renewable energy fund created in section 24-38.5-102.4, C.R.S., to be used by the Colorado energy office.

(b) It is the intent of the general assembly that the Colorado energy office not be required to solicit gifts, grants, or donations from any source for the purposes of this section and that no general fund moneys be used to pay for grants awarded pursuant to this section or for any expenses of the task force.

(c) If, by June 1, 2010, moneys in the account created pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) have not reached an amount sufficient to pay the expenses of the task force, the task force shall not meet nor undertake any other duties pursuant to this section, and the Colorado energy office shall return to each grantor or donor an amount equal to such grantor’s or donor’s contribution. The interest, if any, earned from the investment of moneys in the account shall be transferred to the general fund.

(6) Definition. As used in this section, “smart grid” means a system for electric transmission or distribution within the certificated service territory of an electric utility that incorporates one or more of the following functionalities:

(a) Enabling consumers to participate actively in managing their electric consumption using information, control, and options for energy efficiency not previously available to consumers;

- (b) Integrating electrical systems using universal interoperability standards;
 - (c) Monitoring, diagnosing, and responding to power quality deficiencies;
 - (d) Optimizing the use of system assets and enhancing overall efficiency through improved load factors and better management of outages;
 - (e) Anticipating and automatically responding to system deficiencies;
 - (f) Operating resiliently when confronted with a cyber-attack or natural disaster; and
 - (g) Optimizing efficiency and demand response.
- (7) Repeal. This section is repealed, effective July 1, 2015.

40-5-106. Designation for service of process.

40-5-101. New construction - extension - compliance with local zoning rules.

(1) (a) A public utility shall not begin the construction of a new facility, plant, or system or the extension of its facility, plant, or system without first obtaining from the commission a certificate that the present or future public convenience and necessity require, or will require, the construction or extension. For purposes of this subsection (1), the present or future public convenience and necessity does not include the consideration of land use rights or siting issues related to the location or alignment of the proposed electric transmission lines or associated facilities, which issues are under the jurisdiction of a local government's land use regulation. Sections 40-5-101 to 40-5-104 do not require a corporation to secure a certificate for the following:

(I) An extension within any city and county, city, or town within which it has already lawfully commenced operations;

(II) An extension into territory, either within or outside of a city and county, city, or town, contiguous to its facility, line, plant, or system and not already served by a public utility providing the same commodity or service; or

(III) An extension within or to territory already served by the corporation, as is necessary in the ordinary course of its business.

(b) If a public utility, in constructing or extending its line, plant, or system, interferes, or is about to interfere, with the operation of the line, plant, or system of any other public utility already constructed, the commission, upon complaint of the public utility claiming to be injuriously affected, after hearing, may prohibit the construction or extension or prescribe just and reasonable terms and conditions for the location of the lines, plants, or systems affected.

(2) Whenever the commission, after a hearing upon its own motion or upon complaint, finds that there is or will be a duplication of service by public utilities in any area, the commission may issue a certificate of public convenience and necessity assigning specific territories to one or to each of said utilities or, by certificate of public convenience and necessity, otherwise define the conditions of rendering service and constructing extensions within those territories and may order the elimination of the duplication upon such terms as are just and reasonable, having due regard to due process of law and to all the rights of the respective parties and to public convenience and necessity.

(3) Except as otherwise provided in section 29-20-108, C.R.S., a public utility shall not construct or install a new facility, plant, or system within the territorial boundaries of a local government unless the construction or installation complies with the local government's zoning rules, resolutions, or ordinances. Nothing in this subsection (3) prohibits a local government from granting a variance from its zoning rules, resolutions, or ordinances for such uses of the property. Nothing in this subsection (3) grants the commission any additional authority to restrict a siting application. For purposes of this section, "local government" means a county, home rule or statutory city, town, territorial charter city, or city and county. Nothing in this subsection (3) restricts the right of a public utility or power authority to appeal to the public utilities commission a local government action under section 29-20-108, C.R.S.

(4) (a) A public utility is entitled to recover, through a separate rate adjustment clause, the costs that it prudently incurs in planning, developing, and completing the construction or expansion of transmission facilities for which the utility has been granted a certificate of public convenience and necessity, or for which the commission has determined that no certificate of public convenience and necessity is required. The transmission rate adjustment clause is subject to annual changes, which are effective on January 1 of each year.

(b) To provide additional encouragement to utilities to pursue the construction and expansion of transmission facilities, the commission shall approve current recovery by the utility through the annual rate adjustment clause of the utility's weighted average cost of capital, including its most recently authorized rate of return on equity, on the total balance of construction work in progress related to such transmission facilities as of the end of the immediately preceding year. The rate adjustment clause shall be reduced to the extent that the prudently incurred costs being recovered through the adjustment clause have been included in the public utility's base rates as a result of the commission's final order in a rate case.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "Coal Mining a Public Utility", see 12 Dicta 267 (1935). For article, "Generation and Transmission Loan Policy Under the Rural Electrification Act", see 43 Den. L.J. 269 (1966). For comment on Western Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 262, 411 P.2d 785, appeal dismissed, 385 U.S. 22, 87 S. Ct. 230, 17 L. Ed. 2d 21, reh'g denied, 385 U.S. 984, 87 S. Ct. 500, 17 L. Ed. 2d 445 (1966), appearing below, see 38 U. Colo. L. Rev. 626 (1966). For article, "May Regulated Utilities Monopolize the Sun?", see 56 Den. L.J. 31 (1979).

This section is constitutional. People ex rel. Hubbard v. Colo. Title & Trust Co., 65 Colo. 472, 178 P. 6 (1918); Pirie v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 72 Colo. 65, 209 P. 640 (1922).

Extensions and improvements are not to be made without approval of public utilities commission. If such improvements are found unprofitable, the company must be loser. It will not be permitted to charge the loss to the public. Ohio & Colo. Smelting & Ref. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 68 Colo. 137, 187 P. 1082 (1920).

Showing that existing sources are inadequate and unavailable required. Under this section, it is incumbent upon the applicant to "tip the scales" in the direction that duplication will not result from its proposed action. In doing this, it must show that there is a need for the additional construction which necessarily involves showing that the existing sources are not, and will not be, reasonably adequate and available. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 135, 350 P.2d 543, cert. denied, 364 U.S. 820, 81 S. Ct. 53, 5 L. Ed. 2d 50 (1960); W. Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 262, 411 P.2d 785, appeal dismissed, 385

This burden of demonstrating that the proposed system is within the interest of public convenience and necessity embraces a showing not only that the proposed services will not duplicate existing services, but also that existing service is substantially inadequate to meet the public need. Contact-Colorado Springs, Inc. v. Mobile Radio Tel. Serv., Inc., 191 Colo. 180, 551 P.2d 203 (1976). Pub. Serv. Co. of Colo. v. Shaklee, 759 P.2d 774 (Colo. App. 1988), rev'd on other grounds 784 P.2d 314 (Colo. 1989).

Substantial evidence necessary to justify need for proposed extension of service does not depend upon the number of witnesses produced. Kuboske v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 187 Colo. 38, 528 P.2d 248 (1974).

Fact of existing lines of only one utility in area is prima facie proof that utility is adequately meeting the needs of the area, and the public utilities commission gave proper recognition to this by granting such areas to the utility actually rendering service. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Home Light & Power Co., 163 Colo. 72, 428 P.2d 928 (1967).

First in field should be given opportunity to supply any needed service before any other is given the privilege of competing with it. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 135, 350 P.2d 543, cert. denied, 364 U.S. 820, 81 S. Ct. 53, 5 L. Ed. 2d 50 (1960).

Under regulation existing suppliers are entitled to serve all desiring service, whether they be existing or potential customers. W. Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 262, 411 P.2d 785, appeal dismissed, 385 U.S. 22, 87 S. Ct. 230, 17 L. Ed. 2d 21, reh'g denied, 385 U.S. 984, 87 S. Ct. 500, 17 L. Ed. 2d 445 (1966).

Expansion into contiguous territory permitted when necessary. The general assembly sought to permit extensions without further application outside certificated territory which is contiguous to certificated territory, when the extensions are necessary in the ordinary course of business. Western Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 163 Colo. 61, 428 P.2d 922 (1967).

Only limitation placed on expansion of its contiguous territory by certificated public utility is that it not expand into an area theretofore served by a public utility of like character. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 135, 350 P.2d 543, cert. denied, 364 U.S. 820, 81 S. Ct. 53, 5 L.Ed.2d 50 (1960).

Where utility has not expanded actual service into contiguous territory, that territory remains open for certification by usual standards. Western Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 163 Colo. 61, 428 P.2d 922 (1967).

Commission is authorized to issue certificates of public convenience and necessity when material, competent, and sufficient evidence is presented to support the conclusion that the public convenience and necessity requires the proposed service. Contact-Colorado Springs, Inc. v. Mobile Radio Tel. Serv., Inc., 191 Colo. 180, 551 P.2d 203 (1976).

The commission may issue a retroactive certificate of public convenience and necessity if the issuance of such certificate is in the public interest. City of Boulder v. Colo. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 996 P.2d 1270 (Colo. 2000).

Doctrine of regulated monopoly does not permit a customer to pick and choose between utilities. The doctrine is designed to protect the interests of the public as a whole, not to protect the needs of the individual consumer. Pub. Serv. Co. v. P.U.C., 765 P.2d 1015 (Colo. 1988).

The consent of both the municipality and the public utilities commission is necessary to operate a public utility within a home rule city, but neither the general assembly nor the public utilities commission is empowered to grant a franchise to a public utility to use the streets, alleys, and public places of a home rule municipality without the municipality's consent. City of Greeley v. Poudre Valley R. Elec., 744 P.2d 739 (Colo. 1987), appeal dismissed for want of a properly presented federal question, 485 U.S. 949, 108 S. Ct. 1207, 99 L.Ed.2d 409 (1988).

The public utilities commission cannot authorize a power company operating pursuant to a certificate of public convenience and necessity in an area annexed by a home rule municipality to expand its system and use city streets without obtaining a franchise from such municipality. City of Greeley v. Poudre Valley R. Elec., 744 P.2d 739 (Colo. 1987), appeal dismissed for want of a properly presented federal question, 485 U.S. 949, 108 S. Ct. 1207, 99 L.Ed.2d 409 (1988).

Court of appeals erred in reversing district court decree in condemnation and order for immediate possession as Public Service Company was not required to seek certificate of public convenience and necessity in order to institute condemnation proceedings. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Shaklee, 784 P.2d 314 (Colo. 1989).

This section makes mandatory proof of public convenience and necessity prior to the construction of any new plant or system, subject to certain exceptions. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 135, 350 P.2d 543, cert. denied, 364 U.S. 820, 81 S. Ct. 53, 5 L.Ed.2d 50 (1960); W. Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 262, 411 P.2d 785, appeal dismissed, 385 U.S. 22, 87 S. Ct. 230, 17 L. Ed. 2d 21, reh'g denied, 385 U.S. 984, 87 S. Ct. 500, 17 L. Ed. 2d 445 (1966).

Applied in Greeley Transp. Co. v. People, 79 Colo. 307, 245 P. 720 (1926).

II. CERTIFICATION.

Objective of section is to avoid duplication of sources of power in public interest. The law, therefore, subjects proposals for new, or expanded, construction to the judgment of the commission and in such cases the applicant must make an affirmative showing that the purpose of this section will not be defeated. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 135, 350 P.2d 543, cert. denied, 364 U.S. 820, 81 S. Ct. 53, 5 L.Ed.2d 50 (1960); W. Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 Colo. 262, 411 P.2d 785, appeal dismissed, 385 U.S. 22, 87 S. Ct. 230, 17 L. Ed. 2d 21, reh'g denied, 385 U.S. 984, 87 S. Ct. 500, 17 L. Ed. 2d 445 (1966); Town of Fountain v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 167 Colo. 302, 447 P.2d 527 (1968).

Generally, certificate to service region creates right to service customers in that region, unless it can be shown that the company is not ready and able to provide the services requested. Rocky Mt. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 199 Colo. 352, 617 P.2d 1175 (1980); City of Greeley v. Poudre Valley R. Elec., 744 P.2d 739 (Colo. 1987), appeal dismissed for want of a properly presented federal question, 485 U.S. 949, 108 S. Ct. 1207, 99 L.Ed.2d 409 (1988).

If original certificate does not encompass proposed new service. The general rule that a certificate to service a region creates a right to serve customers in that region does not apply where the original certificate does not encompass the proposed new service. Rocky Mt. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 199 Colo. 352, 617 P.2d 1175 (1980).

Interruptible service not a substitute for firm service. Where municipal utility not willing and able to provide firm natural gas service to industrial customers within municipality, commission had authority to issue a certificate to a privately owned gas utility to provide firm service to those customers. City of Fort Morgan

v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 P.3d 87 (Colo. 2007).

Local permit not a condition precedent. This section does not prohibit the commission from issuing a certificate to a utility that has not received a local permit. City of Fort Morgan v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 P.3d 87 (Colo. 2007).

Where no lines exist in territories and there apparently is no present demand, such areas should not be certificated until such time as demand for service makes it economically practical for the utility or utilities near the area to file new applications for certificates. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Home Light & Power Co., 163 Colo. 72, 428 P.2d 928 (1967); Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 174 Colo. 470, 485 P.2d 123 (1971).

Utility does not have exclusive property right to expand in the future into uncertificated territories which would forever bar another public utility from being certificated in such contiguous uncertificated territory if a later certificate was granted, and if the certificated utility had not yet expanded into that uncertificated area. Western Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 163 Colo. 61, 428 P.2d 922 (1967).

Utility having a prior certificate covering neighboring territory has legal authority to expand into unserved and uncertificated territory. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Home Light & Power Co., 163 Colo. 72, 428 P.2d 928 (1967).

Exclusivity of a utility's certificate only precludes competition from other public utilities operating under the jurisdiction of the commission, and does not prevent a municipality from providing public utility services within its boundaries. Union Rural Elec. Ass'n v. Town of Frederick, 629 P.2d 1093 (Colo. App. 1981).

Showing necessary to permit certification of another utility in area. Once an area has been certificated by the commission to one public utility, the commission may not certificate another public utility to serve that area until a showing is made that the certificated utility is either unwilling or unable to serve an existing or newly developing load. Union Rural Elec. Ass'n v. Town of Frederick, 629 P.2d 1093 (Colo. App. 1981), aff'd, 670 P.2d 4 (Colo. 1983).

Intruding utility may not claim area already adequately served. Where a utility not subject to regulation builds lines into an area which is already completely and adequately served by another utility, the intruding utility may not later, upon becoming subject to regulation, claim the territory as its own and should be limited to serving its existing customers in such areas. Western Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 163 Colo. 61, 428 P.2d 922 (1967); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Home Light & Power Co., 163 Colo. 72, 428 P.2d 928 (1967); Town of Fountain v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 167 Colo. 302, 447 P.2d 527 (1968); Pub. Serv. Co.

v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 174 Colo. 470, 485 P.2d 123 (1971).

Where area is divided between two or more utilities and where lines are "hopelessly intermingled", the area is to be awarded to the utility having the most existing service in the area (the so-called "predominant utility"). Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Home Light & Power Co., 163 Colo. 72, 428 P.2d 928 (1967); Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 174 Colo. 470, 485 P.2d 123 (1971).

As to division of areas where existing lines of competing public utilities are in close proximity to each other, where the commission has divided the areas in an attempt to allow each utility to maintain its present customers and to have its fair share of any expansion room that still remains, while this may not be entirely satisfactory to all parties, it is not an abuse of discretion. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 174 Colo. 231, 483 P.2d 1337 (1971).

Areas served almost exclusively by one utility, and yet virtually completely surrounded by lines of another utility (so-called "enclaves") are to be certificated to the utility actually rendering service to the enclaves, with the surrounding territory certificated to the utility actually rendering service there. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 174 Colo. 470, 485 P.2d 123 (1971).

Test to determine which utility will serve contested facilities. Where the electricity is used at a facility located solely within a utility's exclusive area, the facility is not physically interconnected with a facility outside the exclusive territory, and the facility was previously served by the utility in whose area it is located, the doctrine of regulated monopoly requires that the point of use test be applied to protect the rights of the certificated utility against encroachment. Pub. Serv. Co. v. P.U.C., 765 P.2d 1015 (Colo. 1988).

III. POLICE POWER AND DUE PROCESS.

Utility's right to serve within its defined area constitutes property right which cannot be taken except by due process of law. Western Colo. Power Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 163 Colo. 61, 428 P.2d 922 (1967); Western Power & Gas Co. v. Southeast Colo. Power Ass'n, 164 Colo. 344, 435 P.2d 219 (1967); Mountain View Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 167 Colo. 200, 446 P.2d 424 (1968); Town of Fountain v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 167 Colo. 302, 447 P.2d 527 (1968); Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 174 Colo. 470, 485 P.2d 123 (1971). City of Greeley v. Poudre Valley R. Elec., 744 P.2d 739 (Colo. 1987), appeal dismissed for want of a properly presented federal question, 485 U.S. 949, 108 S. Ct. 1207, 99 L.Ed.2d 409 (1988).

Certificate holder must be afforded adequate notice and right to be heard whenever its authority to serve under a certificate is affected, or may be affected, by any grant of authority by the P.U.C. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. DeLue, 175 Colo. 317, 486 P.2d 1050 (1971).

Due process requirements are held to have been satisfied if there is substantial evidence in the record to support a finding that the certificated utility is unwilling or unable to serve its certificated area, and that public convenience and necessity require the change. Town of Fountain v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 167 Colo. 302, 447 P.2d 527 (1968); Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 174 Colo. 470, 485 P.2d 123 (1971).

Public utilities subject to regulation in exercise of police power. The activities of public utilities in rendering service to the public are subject to reasonable regulation in the exercise of the police power. Western Power & Gas Co. v. Southeast Colo. Power Ass'n, 164 Colo. 344, 435 P.2d 219 (1967).

Violation of "due process" will not stay reasonable exercise of police power. Where there is a seeming conflict between an assertion that one is deprived of his property without "due process of law" on the one hand, and a reasonable exercise of the police power on the other, the latter takes precedence and a violation of "due process" cannot be asserted to stay the legitimate exercise of police power. Western Power & Gas Co. v. Southeast Colo. Power Ass'n, 164 Colo. 344, 435 P.2d 219 (1967).

40-5-102. Certificate of public convenience and necessity. No public utility shall exercise any right or privilege under any franchise, permit, ordinance, vote, or other authority granted after April 12, 1913, or under any franchise, permit, ordinance, vote, or other authority granted before April 12, 1913, but not actually exercised before said date or the exercise of which has been suspended for more than one year without first having obtained from the commission a certificate that public convenience and necessity require the exercise of such right or privilege. When the commission finds, after hearing, that a public utility has, before April 12, 1913, begun actual construction work and is prosecuting such work, in good faith, uninterruptedly, and with reasonable diligence in proportion to the magnitude of the undertaking, under any franchise, permit, ordinance, vote, or other authority granted before April 12, 1913, but not actually exercised before said date, such public utility may proceed, under such rules and regulations as the commission may prescribe, to the completion of such work and after such completion, may exercise such right or privilege. Sections 40-5-101 to 40-5-104 shall not be construed to validate any right or privilege invalid on April 12, 1913, or becoming invalid after said date under any law of this state.

ANNOTATION

Local permit not a condition precedent. This section does not prohibit the commission from issuing a certificate to a utility that has not received a local permit. City of Fort Morgan v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 P.3d 87 (Colo. 2007).

Generally, certificate to service region creates right to service customers in that region, unless it can be shown that the company is not ready and able to provide the services requested. Rocky Mt. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 199 Colo. 352, 617 P.2d 1175 (1980).

When original certificate does not encompass proposed new service. The general rule that a certificate to service a region creates a right to serve customers in that region does not apply where the original certificate does not encompass the proposed new service. Rocky Mt. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 199 Colo. 352, 617 P.2d 1175 (1980).

Certificate of public convenience and necessity is not necessary for purpose of condemnation and relates solely to the question of use after the property has been acquired by condemnation. Miller v. Pub. Serv. Co., 129 Colo. 513, 272 P.2d 283 (1954), appeal dismissed, 348 U.S. 923, 75 S. Ct. 338, 99 L. Ed. 724 (1955); Pub. Serv. Co. v. Shaklee, 784 P.2d 314 (Colo. 1989).

Certificate of public convenience and necessity is only a permit or license to use and enjoy land that has been condemned; it is not a condition precedent to the right to condemn; and has no relationship whatever with the matter of condemnation. Miller v. Pub. Serv. Co., 129 Colo. 513, 272 P.2d 283 (1954), appeal dismissed, 348 U.S. 925, 75 S. Ct. 338, 99 L. Ed. 724 (1955).

Instance in which certificate not required. Where a water system has been operating continuously from prior to the enactment of the original public utilities act, a certificate of public convenience and necessity is not required, and the failure to obtain a certificate is not determinative of the system's status as a public utility. Cady v. City of Arvada, 31 Colo. App. 85, 499 P.2d 1203 (1972).

40-5-103. Certificate - application for - issuance. (1) Before any certificate may issue under sections 40-5-101 to 40-5-104, a certified copy of its articles of incorporation or charter, if the applicant is a corporation, shall be filed in the office of the commission. Every applicant for a certificate to exercise franchise rights under section 40-5-102 shall file in the office of the commission such evidence as shall be required by the commission to show that such applicant has received the required consent, franchise, permit, ordinance, vote, or other authority of the proper county, city and county, or municipal or other public authority. The commission has the power to issue a certificate to exercise franchise rights after hearing, to refuse to issue the same, or to issue it for the partial exercise only of said right or privilege and may attach to the exercise of the rights granted by such certificate such terms and conditions as in its judgment the public convenience and necessity may require. Nothing contained in this subsection (1) shall be construed to limit or restrict the power and authority of the commission: To regulate, issue, or refuse to issue certificates of public convenience and necessity for construction of a new facility, plant, or system or of any extension thereof as provided in section 40-5-101; and to attach to the exercise of the rights granted by such certificate such terms and conditions as in the commission's judgment may be required by the public convenience and necessity.

(2) If such public utility desires to exercise a right or privilege under a franchise, permit, ordinance, vote, or other authority which it contemplates securing but which has not yet been granted to it, such public utility may apply to the commission for an order preliminary to the issue of the certificate. The commission may thereupon make an order declaring that it will thereafter, upon application, under such rules and regulations as it may prescribe issue the desired certificate upon such terms and conditions as it may designate after such public utility has obtained the contemplated franchise, permit, ordinance, vote, or other authority. Upon the presentation to the commission of evidence satisfactory to it that such franchise, permit, ordinance, vote, or other authority has been secured by such public utility, the commission shall thereupon issue such certificate.

Commission determines certification of new area absent preexisting right to serve area. 40-5-104. Acquisition by municipality. (1) Any municipality which has acquired or constructed any public utility plant, property, or facility has the power to contract with a public utility for the operation of any part or the whole thereof, subject to the provisions of articles 1 to 7 of this title and to exercise, in respect to such public utility, the powers of regulation and supervision conferred upon it by the commission.

(2) Sections 40-5-101 to 40-5-104 shall not apply to railroads.

40-5-105. Certificate or assets may be sold, assigned, or leased. (1) The assets of any public utility, including any certificate of public convenience and necessity or rights obtained under any such certificate held, owned, or obtained by any public utility, may be sold, assigned, or leased as any other property, but only upon authorization by the commission and upon such terms and conditions as the commission may prescribe; except that this section does not apply to assets that are sold, assigned, or leased:

- (a) In the normal course of business; or
- (b) That are owned by a telecommunications service provider and:
 - (I) Are not used in the provision of regulated telecommunications services; or
 - (II) (A) Are land and support assets and are not directly used in the provision of regulated telecommunications services.

(B) A telecommunications service provider shall provide notice to the commission of transactions subject to this subparagraph (II), along with the associated accounting entries on the provider's books and records, to permit the commission to determine, if necessary, the disposition of any gain or loss from the transaction.

Jurisdiction over transfer of assets. The commission has jurisdiction to review telephone company's transfer of directory publishing assets to related corporation. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. v. P.U.C., 763 P.2d 1020 (Colo. 1988).

Action pursuant to this provision and article XXV of the state constitution requiring commission approval of transfer of utility's assets not made in the ordinary course of business does not constitute an unconstitutional taking. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. v. P.U.C., 763 P.2d 1020 (Colo. 1988).

The public utilities commission's role in deleting affected territories is a ministerial function. It merely accepts the surrender of certificate rights and deletes the territories from the certificates; it has no discretion to determine whether deleted portions are in the public interest. City of Colo. Springs v. Mountain View Elec. Ass'n, 925 P.2d 1378 (Colo. App. 1995).

Commission may not order sale or fix sale price. If negotiated sales of facilities are made at unreasonable prices, the public utilities commission may well choose to refuse its approval of the sale, but it may not order a sale or fix the sale price before the negotiations have even begun. *Pub. Change in record ownership not sufficient basis to order service discontinuance. The change of ownership may also entail a change in the nature of the service rendered, but change in the record ownership, without more, is not a sufficient basis on which to order discontinuance of service. *Pub. 40-5-106. Designation for service of process. (1) It is the duty of every public utility operating in, through, or into the state of Colorado to file with the commission a designation in writing, under oath, of the name and post office address of a person upon whom service of notices or orders in proceedings pending before the commission may be made. Such designation may from time to time be changed by like writing similarly filed. In default of such designation, service of any notice or order may be made by posting such order or notice in the office of the director of the commission and by mailing a copy of such notice or order to such public utility by certified mail, return receipt requested, at its last-known address.

(2) Every public utility operating in, through, or into the state of Colorado shall also file with the director of the commission a designation in writing, under oath, of the name and post office address of a person in the state of Colorado upon whom process issued by or under the authority of any court or board having jurisdiction of the subject matter may be served in any judicial or other proceeding brought against such public utility in this state. Such designation may from time to time be changed by like writing similarly filed. In default of such designation, service may be made upon any agent, representative, or employee of such public utility found within the state. Nothing in this article shall apply to railroad corporations.

40-6-101. Proceedings - delegation of duties - rules. (1) The commission shall conduct its proceedings in such manner as will best conduce the proper dispatch of business and the ends of justice. All of the provisions of article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., shall apply to the work, business, proceedings, and functions of the commission, or any individual commissioner or administrative law judge; but where there is a specific statutory provision in this title applying to the commission, such specific statutory provision shall control as to the commission. For this purpose, any administrative law judge, as provided in this title, shall be deemed to be a hearing commissioner as that term is used in said article 4 of title 24, C.R.S. The commission may from time to time make or amend such general rules or orders as may be requisite for the order and regulation of proceedings before it, or before any individual commissioner or administrative law judge, including forms of notices and the service thereof. Any party to the proceeding may appear before the commission or any individual commissioner or administrative law judge and be heard. Every vote and official act of the commission, any individual commissioner, or an administrative law judge shall be entered of record and such record shall be made public upon the request of any party interested. All hearings before the commission, any individual commissioner, or an administrative law judge shall be public.

(2) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), the commission may by order direct that any of its work, business, or functions under any provision of law, except functions vested solely in the commission under this title, be assigned or referred to an individual commissioner or to an administrative law judge to be designated by order for action thereon, and the commission may by order at any time amend, modify, supplement, or rescind any such assignment or reference. When an individual commissioner or an administrative law judge is unable to act upon any matter so assigned or referred because of absence or other cause, the chairman of the commission may designate another commissioner or administrative law judge, as the case may be, to serve temporarily until the commission otherwise orders.

(b) Every case submitted to the commission for adjudication shall in the first instance be heard by an administrative law judge unless the commission, by minute order, assigns the case to the commission or to an individual commissioner for hearing.

(3) An individual commissioner or an administrative law judge has authority to hear and determine, order, certify, report, or otherwise act as to any work, business, or functions assigned or referred to such officer under the provisions of this title and, with respect thereto, has all the jurisdiction and powers conferred by law upon the commission and is subject to the same duties and obligations. The seal of the commission shall be the seal of an individual commissioner or administrative law judge. Except as otherwise provided in this title, any order, decision, or requirement of an individual commissioner or an administrative law judge with respect to any matter assigned or referred to such officer under subsection (2) of this section has the same force and effect and may be made and evidenced in the same manner as if made or taken by the commission.

(4) All hearings and investigations before the commission, any individual commissioner, or any administrative law judge shall be governed by this title and by rules of practice and procedure adopted by the commission; and, in the conduct thereof, neither the commission, nor any individual commissioner, nor any administrative law judge shall be bound by the technical rules of evidence. No informality in any proceeding or in the manner of taking testimony before the commission, any commissioner, or any administrative law judge shall invalidate any order, decision, rule, or regulation made, approved, or confirmed by the commission.

Broad powers under color of state law. The Colorado general assembly has bestowed broad powers upon the public utilities commission. Public utilities, even though privately financed and owned, operating pursuant to the regulation of the commission, are granted existence by virtue of state law, and thereafter carry on business under color of state law. Denver Welfare Rights Org. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 190 Colo. 329, 547 P.2d 239 (1976).

Presumption of regularity of commissioner's action. There is express authority throughout the statute governing procedures before the public utilities commission for hearings to be conducted before the full commission, or before any one commissioner or any examiner of the commission. The presumption of reading and considering is merely one facet of the general presumption of regularity, which supports the official acts of public officers and, in the absence of clear evidence to the contrary, courts presume that they have properly discharged their official duties. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 163 Colo. 462, 431 P.2d 773 (1967).

The assignment of separate numbers by the public utilities commission to its decisions dealing with different phases of the same proceeding does not create two separate proceedings. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Poudre Valley Rural Elec. Ass'n, 173 Colo. 364, 480 P.2d 106 (1970).

Laymen may represent others in hearings before utilities commission. Denver Bar Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 154 Colo. 273, 391 P.2d 467 (1964).

Where provisions of public utilities law and state administrative procedure act conflict, the former governs. Home Builders Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 720 P.2d 552 (Colo. 1986).

Although the decision of the PUC appeared as a classification of a single utility's services, it in effect established the standards and policies applicable to telecommunications services of all public utilities. The proceeding which resulted in the ruling was therefore a rule-making proceeding, subject to the APA requirements for rule-making proceedings. Colo. Office of Consumer Counsel v. Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph, Co., 816 P.2d 278 (Colo. 1991).

40-6-102. Service - fees - depositions - examination of witnesses. (1) The commission, each commissioner, an administrative law judge with respect to matters referred to such judge, and the director of the commission have power to issue notices, orders to satisfy or answer, summonses, subpoenas, and commissions to take the deposition of any witness whose testimony is required in any proceeding pending before the commission in like manner and to the same extent as courts of record. The process issued by the commission, any commissioner, an administrative law judge, or the director of the commission shall extend to all parts of the state and beyond the boundaries thereof as may be provided by law or the Colorado rules of civil procedure and may be served by any person authorized to serve process of courts of record, by any person designated for that purpose by the commission or a commissioner, or by first-class mail, postage prepaid, as provided in section 40-6-108. The person executing any such process shall receive such compensation as may be allowed by the commission, not to exceed the fees now prescribed by law for similar services, and such fees shall be paid in the same manner as provided for payment of the fees of witnesses.

(2) In any investigation, inquiry, hearing, or other proceeding pending before the commission, any commissioner, or any administrative law judge of the commission, the depositions of witnesses may be taken, both within and without the state of Colorado, under the same circumstances and in the same manner as provided by the Colorado rules of civil procedure for the taking of depositions in courts of record.

(3) A party to the record of any investigation, inquiry, hearing, or other proceeding pending before the commission, any commissioner, any administrative law judge of the commission, or a person for whose immediate benefit such investigation, hearing, or other proceeding is prosecuted or defended, or the directors, officers, superintendent, or managing agent of any corporation which is a party to the record in such investigation, hearing, or other proceeding may be examined upon the hearing thereof, or upon deposition, or both, as if under cross-examination at the instance of the commission or any adverse party, and for that purpose may be compelled, in the same manner and subject to the same rules for examination as any other witness, to testify; but the party calling for such examination shall not be concluded thereby but may rebut it by counter testimony.

ANNOTATION

Commission's discovery procedures based on rules of civil procedure. The public utilities commission has itself adopted procedures for conducting discovery which are based on the Colorado rules of civil procedure. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 626 P.2d 159 (Colo. 1981).

Availability of discovery in post-hearing, preappeal proceeding limited. In a post-hearing, preappeal administrative proceeding, discovery should be available as a matter of right only if the party alleging procedural irregularities first shows, by affidavit or other substantial factual evidence, that there is good cause to believe that ex parte communications, personal bias, or other impermissible considerations played a part in the tribunal's decision. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 626 P.2d 159 (Colo. 1981).

Ex parte exchanges between advocate and adjudicatory tribunal may not arbitrarily be screened from appellate scrutiny. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 626 P.2d 159 (Colo. 1981).

40-6-103. Administration of oaths - compulsion of testimony - fees. (1) The commission, each commissioner, the director, and any administrative law judge as to matters referred to such judge have power to administer oaths, certify to all official acts, and issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of records, documents, and testimony in any inquiry, investigation, hearing, or proceeding in any part of the state. No subpoena shall be issued except upon good cause shown. Good cause shown shall consist of an affidavit stating with specificity the testimony, records, or documents sought and the relevance of such testimony, records, or documents to the proceedings of the commission. Each witness who appears by order of the commission, a commissioner, the director, or any administrative law judge shall receive for the witness' attendance the same fees and mileage allowed by law to a witness in civil cases, which amount shall be paid by the party at whose request such witness is subpoenaed. When any witness who has not been required to attend at the request of any party is subpoenaed, the witness' fees and mileage shall be paid from the funds appropriated for the use of the commission in the same manner as other expenses of the commission are paid. Any witness subpoenaed except one whose fees and mileage may be paid from the funds of the commission, at the time of service, may demand the fees to which the witness is entitled for travel to and from the place at which the witness is required to appear, and one day's attendance. If such witness demands such fees at the time of service, and they are not at that time paid or tendered, the witness shall not be required to attend, as directed in the subpoena. All fees and mileage to which any witness is entitled under the provisions of this section may be collected by action therefor instituted by the person to whom such fees are payable. No witness furnished with free transportation shall receive mileage for the distance the witness may have traveled on such free transportation.

(2) The district court in and for the county or city and county in which any inquiry, investigation, hearing, or proceeding may be held by the commission, or any individual commissioner or administrative law judge, has the power to compel the attendance of witnesses, the giving of testimony, and the production of records or documents as required by any subpoenas issued by the commission, or any individual commissioner, the director, or any administrative law judge. The commission, individual commissioner, or an administrative law judge before whom the testimony is to be given or produced, in case of the failure or refusal of any witness to attend or testify or produce any records or documents required by such subpoena, may report to the district court in and for the county or city and county in which the proceeding is pending, by petition, setting forth that due notice has been given of the time and place of attendance of said witness or the production of said records or documents, that the witness has been subpoenaed in the manner prescribed in this title, and that the witness has failed or refused to attend or produce the records or documents required by the subpoena or has failed or refused to answer questions propounded to the witness in the course of such proceeding; and the commission, individual commissioner, or an administrative law judge may ask for an order of the court compelling the witness to attend and testify or produce or cause to be produced documentary evidence. No person so testifying shall be exempt from prosecution or punishment for any perjury in the first degree committed by such person in this testimony. Nothing in this section shall be construed as in any manner giving to any public utility immunity of any kind.

40-6-107. Production of documents - transparency in planning for future acquisitions - rules. (1) The commission may require, by order served on any public utility in the manner provided in section 40-6-102 for the service of orders, the production within this state at such time and place as it may designate of any records and documents kept by the public utility in any office or place outside of this state, or, at its option, verified copies in lieu thereof, so that an examination of the records or documents may be made by the commission or under its direction.

(2) (a) To ensure transparency in the acquisition of power generation resources for the benefit of Colorado ratepayers and to promote fairness in electric utility competitive bidding processes, the commission shall, within ninety days after March 29, 2011, commence a rule-making proceeding to adopt rules, applicable after March 29, 2011, to require an investor-owned electric utility that is evaluating or has evaluated an existing or proposed electric generating facility as a potential resource, whether in connection with a commission proceeding or otherwise, to provide the owner or developer of the generating facility, upon request, with reasonable and timely access to the modeling inputs and assumptions that were used by the investor-owned public utility to evaluate the facility and that reasonably relate to that facility or to the transmission of electricity from that facility to the investor-owned public utility. Bidders in a competitive electric resource bidding process shall be permitted access to those modeling inputs and assumptions, as the modeling inputs and assumptions apply to the bidders' particular facility, in time to ensure that errors or omissions may be corrected before the competitive bidding process is completed. If it is determined that an error or omission, as defined by commission rule-making, exists in the investor-owned public utility's modeling, the commission shall require the investor-owned public utility to perform additional modeling to confirm that electric generating facilities are fairly and accurately represented in the results of any computer modeling performed by the investor-owned public utility.

(b) In any commission proceeding regarding electric resource planning or otherwise relating to the acquisition of, contracting for, or retirement of electric generation facilities, the commission shall establish procedures regarding the designation and approval of information as highly confidential that protect the public interest and assure that ratepayers receive the benefits of competition and transparency while protecting the trade secrets of computer modeling software producers, independent bidders, and the investor-owned public utility.

40-6-108. Complaints - service - notice of hearing. (1) (a) Complaint may be made by the commission on its own motion or by any corporation, person, chamber of commerce, or board of trade, or by any civic, commercial, mercantile, traffic, agricultural, or manufacturing association or organization, or by any body politic or municipal corporation by petition or complaint in writing, setting forth any act or thing done or omitted to be done by any public utility, including any rule, regulation, or charge heretofore established or fixed by or for any public utility, in violation, or claimed to be in violation, of any provision of law or of any order or rule of the commission.

(b) No complaint shall be entertained by the commission, except upon its own motion, as to the reasonableness of any rates or charges of any gas, electric, water, or telephone public utility, unless the same is signed by the mayor or the president or chairman of the board of trustees or a majority of the council, commission, or other legislative body of the county, city and county, city, or town, if any, within which the alleged violation occurred, or not less than twenty-five customers or prospective customers of such public utility.

(c) All matters upon which complaint may be founded may be joined in one hearing, and no motion shall be entertained against a complaint for misjoinder of causes of action or grievances or misjoinder or nonjoinder of parties. In any review by the courts of orders or decisions of the commission, the same rule shall apply with regard to the joinder of causes and parties.

(d) The commission is not required to dismiss any complaint because of the absence of direct damage to the complainant.

(e) Upon the filing of any complaint, the commission shall cause a copy thereof to be served upon the person complained of, together with an order requiring such defendant to satisfy or answer said complaint within a time to be fixed by the commission.

(2) (a) Notice of all applications, petitions, and orders instituting investigations or inquiries shall be given to all persons, firms, or corporations who, in the opinion of the commission, are interested in, or who would be affected by, the granting or denial of any such application, petition, or other proceeding. Except for good cause shown, any person desiring to file an objection or intervene in or participate as a party in any such proceeding shall file his or her objection or petition for leave to intervene or, under such rules as the commission may prescribe, file other appropriate pleadings to become a party, within thirty days after the date of the notice, or such lesser time as the commission may prescribe. No final action shall be taken by the commission in any proceeding during the time any such filing is permitted.

(b) Any public utility giving notice of a proposed gas or electric tariff shall serve such notice upon the Colorado energy office or its successor agency. The office shall be granted leave to intervene as a matter of right, upon a timely filing of a petition or other pleading in accordance with this section, in adjudicatory matters affecting gas or electric utilities; except that the office shall not be a party to any individual complaint between a utility and an individual.

(3) Service in all applications, petitions, complaints, hearings, investigations, and other proceedings pending before the commission may be made upon any person upon whom a summons may be served in accordance with the provisions of the Colorado rules of civil procedure, or may be made personally or by first-class mail. In all cases wherein service is obtained by mail by the commission, the certificate of the director of the commission of such mailing shall be prima facie evidence that service has been obtained, and the time fixed in any order or notice shall commence to run from the date of mailing as shown in such certificate. The mailing of any notice or other paper by any other party to a proceeding shall be evidenced by the certificate of the person mailing such notice or other paper, and the time fixed in any such notice or other paper shall commence to run from the date of mailing as shown in such certificate.

(4) The commission shall fix the time when and place where any hearing required by this title or by article 4 of title 24, C.R.S., will be had upon any application, complaint, petition, investigation, or other proceeding, and shall serve notice thereof to the parties not less than ten days before the time set for such hearing, unless the commission finds that public interest or necessity requires that any such hearing be held at an earlier date. The commission shall hold a hearing and issue a final order in complaint cases within two hundred ten days after the filing of testimony and exhibits by the complainant. In extraordinary circumstances, the commission may extend the time an additional ninety days following a hearing in which such extraordinary circumstances are established. The complainant may waive the time limits established in this section, in which case the time limits are not binding on the commission.

Administrative proceeding not to be equated with equity action. An administrative proceeding before the public utilities commission, a quasi-judicial, regulatory agency, is not to be equated with an historical equity action. Ephraim Freightways, Inc. v. Red Ball Motor Freight, Inc., 376 F.2d 40 (10th Cir.), cert. denied, 389 U.S. 829, 88 S. Ct. 92, 19 L. Ed.2d 87 (1967).

Opportunity to be heard means opportunity to prove allegations. When one relies on this section and § 40-6-109, which provide opportunity to be heard, one is justified in believing that means opportunity to prove the allegations of the complaint or protest. Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Challenger has burden of proof. An organization, such as the Colorado municipal league, may file a complaint and establish that any new or existing rate does not comply with the statutory mandate. 40-6-109. Hearings - orders - record - review - representation of entities in nonadjudicatory proceedings. (1) At the time fixed for any hearing before the commission, any commissioner, or an administrative law judge, or, at the time to which the same may have been continued, the applicant, petitioner, complainant, the person, firm, or corporation complained of, and such persons, firms, or corporations as the commission may allow to intervene and such persons, firms, or corporations as will be interested in or affected by any order that may be made by the commission in such proceeding and who shall have become parties to the proceeding shall be entitled to be heard, examine and cross-examine witnesses, and introduce evidence. A full and complete record of all proceedings had before the commission, any commissioner, or an administrative law judge in any formal hearing and all testimony shall be taken down by any reporter appointed by the commission or, as deemed appropriate by the commission, a commissioner, or an administrative law judge, as applicable, recorded electronically. All parties in interest shall be entitled to be heard in person or by attorney.

(2) Whenever any hearing, investigation, or other proceeding is assigned to an administrative law judge or individual commissioner for hearing, the administrative law judge or individual commissioner, after the conclusion of said hearing, shall promptly transmit to the commission the record and exhibits of said proceeding together with a written recommended decision which shall contain his findings of fact and conclusions thereon, together with the recommended order or requirement. Copies thereof shall be served upon the parties, who may file exceptions thereto; but if no exceptions are filed within twenty days after service upon the parties, or within such extended period of time as the commission may authorize in writing (copies of any such extension to be served upon the parties), or unless such decision is stayed within such time by the commission upon its own motion, such recommended decision shall become the decision of the commission and subject to the provisions of section 40-6-115. The commission upon its own motion may and where exceptions are filed shall reconsider the matter, either upon the same record or after further hearing, and such recommended decision shall thereupon be stayed or postponed pending final determination thereof by the commission. The commission may adopt, reject, or modify the findings of fact and conclusions of such individual commissioner or administrative law judge or, after examination of the record of any such proceeding, enter its decision and order therein without regard to the findings of fact and conclusions of any individual commissioner or administrative law judge. Any commissioner to whom a proceeding may be so assigned shall not be disabled thereby from participating with the commission in the final decision.

(3) After the conclusion of any hearing, investigation, or proceeding before the commission, the commission shall make and file its decision. The decision shall be a report in writing in which the commission shall state its findings of fact and conclusions thereon together with its order or requirement. The decision, under the seal of the commission, shall be served upon all parties and made available to all participants in the proceeding.

(4) Unless otherwise provided in this title, all decisions of the commission shall become effective upon a day to be fixed by the commission in any such decision and shall continue in force either for a period which may be designated therein or until changed or abrogated by the commission. Decisions containing negative orders shall be effective on the date of entry thereof, unless otherwise provided in any such decision. If an order or requirement cannot, in the judgment of the commission, be complied with within the time prescribed therein, the commission, on application made within such time and for good cause shown, may extend the time for compliance fixed in its decision.

(5) The commission may by general rule or regulation provide for the taking of evidence in uncontested or unopposed proceedings by affidavit or otherwise, without the necessity of a formal oral hearing. Such shortened or informal proceedings shall otherwise be subject to all of the provisions of this title. Upon its own motion the commission may and upon request of a party timely made the commission shall assign any such uncontested or unopposed proceeding for hearing.

(6) The commission may make the initial decision in cases where it has not presided at the taking of evidence, and the recommended decision of the individual commissioner or administrative law judge may be omitted in any case in which the commission finds upon the record that due and timely execution of its functions imperatively and unavoidably so requires.

(7) The commission may by general rule or regulation provide for appearances pro se by, or for representation by authorized officers or regular employees of, the commission's staff, corporations, partnerships, limited liability companies, sole proprietorships, and other legal entities in certain nonadjudicatory matters before the commission.

40-6-109.5. Hearings on applications - time limits for decisions. (1) Whenever an application of any kind is filed with the commission and is accompanied by the applicant's supporting testimony or a detailed summary thereof, together with exhibits, if any, the commission shall issue its decision on such application no later than one hundred twenty days after the application is deemed complete as prescribed by rules promulgated by the commission. If the commission finds that additional time is required, it may, by separate order, extend the time for decision by an additional period not to exceed ninety days.

(2) In the case of any application not accompanied by prefiled testimony and exhibits, the commission shall issue its decision no later than two hundred ten days after the application is deemed complete as prescribed by the commission's rules.

(3) The time limits specified in subsections (1) and (2) of this section may be waived by the applicant and, if so waived, shall not be binding on the commission.

(4) The commission, in particular cases, under extraordinary conditions and after notice and a hearing at which the existence of such conditions is established, may extend the time limits specified in subsections (1) and (2) of this section for a period not to exceed an additional ninety days.

40-6-111. Hearing on schedules - suspension - new rates - rejection of tariffs.

(1) (a) Whenever there is filed with the commission any tariff or schedule stating any new or changed individual or joint rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, contract, practice, rule, or regulation, the commission has power, either upon complaint or upon its own initiative and without complaint, at once, and, if it so orders, without answer or other formal pleadings by the interested public utilities, but upon reasonable notice, to have a hearing concerning the propriety of such rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, contract, practice, rule, or regulation if it believes that such a hearing is required and that such rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, contract, practice, rule, or regulation may be improper.

(b) Pending the hearing and decision thereon, in the case of a public utility other than a rail carrier, such rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, contract, practice, rule, or regulation shall not go into effect; but the period of suspension of such rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, contract, practice, rule, or regulation shall not extend beyond one hundred twenty days beyond the time when such rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, contract, practice, rule, or regulation would otherwise go into effect unless the commission, in its discretion, and by separate order, extends the period of suspension for a further period not exceeding ninety days.

(c) Repealed.

(d) Notwithstanding any order of suspension of a proposed increase in electric, gas, or steam rates under this subsection (1), after January 1, 2012, the commission may order, without hearing, interim rates, at any level up to the proposed new rates, to take effect not later than sixty days after the filing for the proposed rate increase. In making a determination as to whether to allow interim rates, the commission shall consider the amount of the revenue deficiency presented by the utility and the extent to which this deficiency would adversely affect the utility during the time period required to hold hearings on the suspended rates.

(2) (a) (I) If a hearing is held thereon, whether completed before or after the expiration of the period of suspension, the commission shall establish the rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, classifications, contracts, practices, or rules proposed, in whole or in part, or others in lieu thereof, that it finds just and reasonable. In making such finding in the case of a public utility other than a rail carrier, the commission may consider current, future, or past test periods or any reasonable combination thereof and any other factors that may affect the sufficiency or insufficiency of such rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, or classifications during the period the same may be in effect and may consider any factors that influence an adequate supply of energy, encourage energy conservation, or encourage renewable energy development. The commission shall consider the reasonableness of the test period revenue requirements presented by the utility.

(II) If the rates established by the commission after hearing are lower than any interim rates established under paragraph (d) of subsection (1) of this section, then the commission shall order the utility to return to customers on their utility bills through a negative rate rider the difference between the total amount that would have been collected under the final approved rates and the amount collected under the interim rates for the period that the interim rates were in effect, with interest at a rate established by the commission.

(III) All such rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, classifications, contracts, practices, or rules not so suspended, on the effective date thereof, which, in the case of a public utility other than a rail carrier, shall not be less than thirty days after the time of filing the same with the commission, or of such lesser time as the commission may grant, shall go into effect and be the established and effective rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, classifications, contracts, practices, and rules subject to the power of the commission, after a hearing on its own motion or upon complaint, as provided in this article, to alter or modify the same.

(b) Repealed.

(c) If the commission considers factors which encourage renewable energy development, it shall also make findings and give due consideration to the effect of such factors on the utility's ability to recover its capital and operating costs.

(3) The tariffs and schedules required by this title shall contain such information, and shall be published, filed, and posted in such form and manner, as the commission by regulation shall prescribe; and the commission is authorized to reject any tariff or schedule filed with it which is not in the form required by this section and by such regulations. Any tariff or schedule so rejected by the commission shall be void and its use shall be unlawful.

(4) (a) The provisions of this section relating to suspension of rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, classifications, contracts, practices, rules, or regulations pending the hearing and decision thereon shall not apply to cooperative electric associations, but this subsection (4) shall not be construed to exempt such associations from any other provision of this section. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no cooperative electric association shall establish, charge, or collect a discriminatory or preferential rate, charge, rule, or regulation which would be violative of section 40-3-106 (1) or section 40-3-111. Upon complaint filed by any member or customer of a cooperative electric association or by any affected public utility, the commission shall determine whether the rate, charge, rule, or regulation in question is contrary to this section, section 40-3-106 (1), or section 40-3-111.

(b) (I) Paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) shall not be applicable to a cooperative electric association which has voted to exempt itself from regulation pursuant to the provisions of section 40-9.5-103. Regulation of such cooperative electric associations shall be in the manner provided in article 9.5 of this title.

(II) Repealed.

(c) and (c.1) Repealed.

ANNOTATION

The public utilities commission may, in its discretion, conduct a hearing before a proposed tariff is permitted to go into effect but such hearing is not required by statute or rule even though a timely protest was filed. Office of Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 752 P.2d 1049 (Colo. 1988).

Abbreviated hearing procedure permitted. Where the commission believes that an economic emergency may exist, and it may permit new rates to become effective without a hearing, participatory values are better served by allowing the commission to conduct a hearing with abbreviated procedures and a limitation on the issues to be considered. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 653 P.2d 1117 (Colo. 1982).

New rates not held invalid. There was no merit to the contention that new rates were invalid because the public utilities commission, in not suspending them, improperly permitted them to go into effect without any hearing. Such discretion is delegated to the public utilities commission by the general assembly in section 40-3-104, and the discretionary power to suspend is set forth in this section. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 186 Colo. 278, 527 P.2d 233 (1974).

The determination of rate of return must be made by considering, among other things, the degree of risk involved on the part of the investors. The monopoly which the utility enjoys cannot be exerted to the public detriment to impose oppressive rates. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Northwest Water Corp., 168 Colo. 154, 451 P.2d 266 (1969).

This section does not require commission to promulgate revised rates within 210 days following suspension of the rates filed by the utility, but, after the 210 days have elapsed, the utility is entitled to charge the rates originally filed with the commission until such time as the commission enters its rate order. Colo. Ute Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 198 Colo. 534, 602 P.2d 861 (1979).

A federal court may not intervene where the commission suspends rates on an interim basis prior to the exhaustion of state remedies, for the necessity for exhaustion of administrative remedies has long been recognized, and an application for federal court injunction in a state rate case is premature prior to a review proceeding before the courts of the state, unless such are unreasonably delayed or inadequate. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 345 F. Supp. 80 (D. Colo. 1972).

After completion of hearings if no decision is forthcoming, requested increased rates will go into effect as a matter of law and regardless of decision. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 345 F. Supp. 80 (D. Colo. 1972).

Section applicable even where existing rates unjust. This section is to be applied in proceedings in which a tariff for a new rate is filed, even where existing rates are unjust under § 40-3-111. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 197 Colo. 152, 590 P.2d 960 (1979).

The provisions of subsection (2) (a) allow the commission to consider test year data but do not require the consideration of such data. Office of Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 752 P.2d 1049 (Colo. 1988).

In adopting rate structures, PUC is not limited to options formally presented by the parties at a hearing or to options supported by quantitative evidence. Rate-making is not an exact science but a legislative function, and quantitative evidence is not the only type of evidence that may support a PUC decision. Furthermore, the duty of the PUC is to adopt fair and reasonable rate structures and it is not limited to options formally presented. Integrated Network Servs. v. PUC, 875 P.2d 1373 (Colo. 1994).

The commission's statutory suspension power is the only power abolished by subsection (4) (a) for the benefit of cooperative electric associations. This section only eases the burden on cooperatives resulting from suspension of rates during the hearing process and does not exempt such cooperatives from commission review of tariffs and charges. Colo. Ute-Elec. v. P.U.C., 760 P.2d 627 (Colo. 1988), appeal dismissed for want of a properly presented federal question, 489 U.S. 1061, 109 S. Ct. 1333, 103 L. Ed.2d 804 (1989).

Applied in Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 195 Colo. 130, 576 P.2d 544 (1978); City of Loveland v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 195 Colo. 298, 580 P.2d 381 (1978).

40-6-112. Alteration or amendment of decision - decisions final in collateral actions. (1) The commission, at any time upon notice to the public utility affected, and after opportunity to be heard as provided in the case of complaints, may rescind, alter, or amend any decision made by it. Any decision rescinding, altering, or amending a prior decision, when served upon the public utility affected, shall have the same effect as original decisions.

(2) In all collateral actions or proceedings, the decisions of the commission which have become final shall be conclusive.

ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Amendment of Decision.
- III. Collateral Action.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Applied in Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Grand Valley Rural Power Lines, 167 Colo. 257, 447 P.2d 27 (1968).

II. AMENDMENT OF DECISION.

Full hearing required if right of grant in certificate is to be removed. Since rights granted under a certificate of authority are property rights, due process requires a full hearing if anything granted in the certificate is to be taken away. The public utilities commission is the proper authority to interpret its own certificate. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Grand Valley Rural Power Lines, 167 Colo. 257, 447 P.2d 27 (1968).

Commission may remove prior restrictions under its statutory authority to amend certificate when it is in the interest of public convenience and necessity to do so. Rocky Mt. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 199 Colo. 352, 617 P.2d 1175 (1980).

The commission's right to amend does not authorize an amendment which provides for an entirely new service which a certificate to be amended expressly precludes. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Donahue, 138 Colo. 492, 335 P.2d 285 (1959); Colo. Transp. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 141 Colo. 203, 347 P.2d 505 (1959).

Notice requirement. The public utilities commission acts without authority when it attempts to amend or modify an order duly entered as a part of its action in passing upon an application for a rehearing of such order. Rescission, alteration, or amendment of orders must be upon notice to the public utility affected, and after opportunity to be heard, as provided in this section. Snell v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 108 Colo. 162, 114 P.2d 563 (1941); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Motorway, Inc., 165 Colo. 1, 437 P.2d 44 (1968).

No alteration of certificate without showing in evidence. Where a certificate of convenience and necessity permitted sight-seeing service by automobiles of a capacity not exceeding seven passengers, an application to amend such certificate to permit such service by multi-passenger buses, the record showing no evidence to indicate that such additional service is needed or that provided by a protestant inadequate, no alteration of petitioner's certificate may be granted. Colo. Transp. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 141 Colo. 203, 347 P.2d 505 (1959).

This section is sufficient authority for the commission to send out its notice to "for hire" carriers to file application with commission to clarify their respective authorities relative to intermediate points. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Weicker Transp. Co., 102 Colo. 211, 78 P.2d 633 (1938).

Factors that the PUC may consider in determining whether a rate is just and reasonable do not include a reward based on litigation and to "motivate future results". Office of Consumer Counsel v. Pub. Serv. Co., 877 P.2d 867 (Colo. 1994).

III. COLLATERAL ACTION.

Decisions prior to legislation. The fact that by legislative action in 1961 an elective association was brought under the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission does not permit it to now make collateral attack on the commission's action which occurred some 25 years ago. Southeast Colo. Power Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 163 Colo. 92, 428 P.2d 939 (1967).

Requirement of rule promulgated by commission held conclusive in collateral action. Where the commission's decision promulgating a rule which requires the commission to adhere to the past test year in fixing rates has become final for failure of direct attack, the rule's requirement of the use of the past test year is conclusive in a collateral action involving objections to rates set by the commission. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 186 Colo. 260, 527 P.2d 524 (1974).

Merits of rate proceedings held to be beyond collateral attack in an appeal of an award of attorney fees. Lake Durango Water Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 67 P.3d 12 (Colo. 2003).

40-6-113. Transcripts - record on review. (1) In any proceeding the commission, any single commissioner, or any administrative law judge may order a transcript of all or any part of such proceeding. The cost of preparing the transcript shall be paid by the commission. If any party to any proceeding seeks to reverse, modify, or annul a recommended decision of a single commissioner or administrative law judge, or a decision of the commission, in the manner as provided in this section, then such party, and not the commission, shall pay the cost of the transcript of such proceeding or the applicable portion thereof in accordance with the provisions of this section.

(2) Any party who seeks to reverse, modify, or annul the recommended decision of a single commissioner or administrative law judge or the decision of the commission shall promptly notify the official reporter of the parts of the transcript of the proceedings which shall be prepared and certified by the official reporter. A copy of this notification shall be served upon the commission and all parties. Within ten days thereafter any other party or the commission may serve and file a designation of additional parts of the transcript of proceedings which is to be included. The transcript or the parts thereof which may be designated by the parties or the commission shall be prepared by the official reporter and certified by such reporter, and when completed shall be filed with the commission. The transcript, as so prepared, shall be filed with the commission on or before the time the first pleading is required to be filed with the commission by the party, whether such pleading is exceptions or a petition for rehearing, reconsideration, or reargument. The commission, upon request timely made, may extend the time within which to file the transcript, and if the transcript cannot reasonably be prepared within the time prescribed, the commission shall extend the time for filing both the transcript and the first pleading of the party.

(3) The cost of preparing the transcript shall be advanced by the party seeking to reverse, annul, or modify the recommended decision of a commissioner or administrative law judge, or the decision of the commission; except that the commission may upon objections by such party order any other party to advance payment forthwith for the cost of preparing such parts of the transcripts designated by them, as the commission shall determine.

(4) It is not necessary for a party to cause a transcript to be filed as provided in this section in any case where the party does not seek to amend, modify, annul, or reverse basic findings of fact which shall be set forth in the recommended decision of a commissioner or administrative law judge or in the decision of the commission. If such transcript is not filed pursuant to the provisions of this section for consideration with the party's first pleading, it shall be conclusively presumed that the basic findings of fact, as distinguished from the conclusions and reasons therefor and the order or requirements thereon, are complete and accurate.

(5) Instead of designating portions of the transcript as provided in subsection (2) of this section, the parties, by written stipulation filed with the commission and acceptable to the commission, may designate the portions of the transcript to be filed with the commission. The transcript, as agreed upon and subject to the approval of the commission, shall be filed with the commission.

(6) In case of an action to review an order or decision of the commission, a transcript of such testimony or the affidavits or other evidence under the shortened or informal procedure, together with all exhibits or copies thereof introduced and all information secured by the commission on its own initiative and considered by it in rendering its order or decision, and the pleadings, record, and proceedings in the case, shall constitute the record of the commission. On review of an order or decision of the commission, the party seeking such review and the commission may stipulate that a certain question alone or a particular portion only of the evidence shall be certified to the district court for its judgment, whereupon such stipulation and the question and the evidence specified shall constitute the record on review.

Effect of failure by party to file transcript.

If a party who seeks to reverse, modify, or annul a recommended decision of a commission examiner or the decision of the commission fails to file a transcript, the basic findings of fact of the commission are conclusively presumed to be complete and accurate. Howard v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 187 Colo. 138, 528 P.2d 1303 (1974).

The commission may rely on evidence other than that obtained at a formal hearing; thus the commission is allowed to consider a broader range of information in making an adjudicatory decision than that allowed by strict application of § 24-4-105 (14) of the "State Administrative Procedure Act". Colo. Energy Advocacy v. Pub. Serv. Co., 704 P.2d 298 (Colo. 1985).

All such evidence must be placed in the public record, and the commission must provide an opportunity for the parties to comment thereon. Colo. Energy Advocacy v. Pub. Serv. Co., 704 P.2d 298 (Colo. 1985).

While subsection (6) does not generally require the commission to include advisory memoranda as part of the record, when staff injects new factual information into the proceedings through an advisory memorandum read at the open meeting deliberation of the commissioners and this factual information has not otherwise been made part of the record, the commission must include such factual information in the record for purposes of judicial review under § 40-6-115. Bd. of County Comm'rs of San Miguel v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 157 P.3d 1083 (Colo. 2007).

Applied in Colo. Ute Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 198 Colo. 534, 602 P.2d 861 (1979).

40-6-114. Reconsideration, reargument, or rehearing - application - basis of review - order - exception. (1) After a decision has been made by the commission or after a decision recommended by an individual commissioner or administrative law judge has become the decision of the commission, as provided in this article, any party thereto may within twenty days thereafter, or within such additional time as the commission may authorize upon request made within such period, make application for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration of the same or of any matter determined therein. Such application shall be governed by such general rules as the commission may establish and shall specify with particularity the grounds upon which the applicant considers the decision unlawful. Any such application shall, within thirty days after the filing thereof, be considered and acted upon by the commission. Failure to act upon the application within such period shall constitute a denial thereof. Rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration may be granted if sufficient reason therefor is shown.

(2) An application for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration of a decision of the commission made in accordance with the provisions of this section and the rules and regulations of the commission shall not stay or postpone such decision unless the commission, upon motion by the party seeking such stay or postponement or the commission upon its own motion, so orders; except that orders of the commission issued for the installation of automatic or other safety appliance signals or devices at railroad crossings shall be processed and handled to completion when such application deals solely with the matter of allocation of the costs thereof among the railroad company and the state and the political subdivisions pursuant to section 40-4-106.

(3) If after rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration of a decision of the commission it appears that the original decision is in any respect unjust or unwarranted, the commission may reverse, change, or modify the same accordingly. Any decision made after rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration, reversing, changing, or modifying the original decision may be subject to the same provisions with respect to rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration as an original decision or any such decision may be subject to judicial review as provided in section 40-6-115, at the option of the party seeking review. If the commission denies said application, the original order shall become effective according to its terms, unless the commission otherwise orders, except as provided in section 40-6-116.

(4) If no application for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration has been made or, if made, is withdrawn, a suit to enforce, enjoin, suspend, modify, or set aside any final decision of the commission, in whole or in part, may be brought in a district court of the state of Colorado as set forth in this article; except that, if any party to a proceeding applies for reconsideration, reargument, or rehearing, no other party may appeal until the commission has ruled on the application. For purposes of judicial review, a decision on an application for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration shall be deemed final on the date said decision is served on the parties to the proceeding.

(5) Any court may stay or suspend, in whole or in part, the operation of any commission decision under section 40-6-116, even though the commission had not been previously requested to suspend or stay such decision.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Prosecuting an Appeal from a Decision of the Colorado Public Utilities Commission", see 16 Colo. Law. 2163 (1987).

The act makes provision for review on rehearing which is comparable to a motion for new trial in judicial proceedings, and is, of course, a prerequisite to judicial review. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Northwest Water Corp., 168 Colo. 154, 451 P.2d 266 (1969).

This section calls for a motion for rehearing within 20 days after a decision of the commission. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 345 F. Supp. 80 (D. Colo. 1972).

An applicant for expanded authority acquires no final rights until the time for filing a petition for rehearing has expired. Denver Clean-Up Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 174 Colo. 329, 483 P.2d 974 (1971).

Action on application for rehearing is limited to grant or denial. It is clear from the wording of this section that, in passing upon an application for rehearing, the permissible affirmative action of the commission does not go further than to grant or deny the application. Snell v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 108 Colo. 162, 114 P.2d 563 (1941).

If an application for rehearing is granted, the original order or decision is not to be abrogated, changed, or modified until after such rehearing and as a result thereof. Snell v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 108 Colo. 162, 114 P.2d 563 (1941).

The public utilities commission acts without authority when it attempts to amend or modify an order duly entered as a part of its action in passing upon an application for a rehearing of such order. Rescission, alteration, or amendment of orders must be upon notice to the public utility affected, and after opportunity to be heard, as provided in section 40-6-112. Snell v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 108 Colo. 162, 114 P.2d 563 (1941).

However, commission need not state conclusion that original order unjust. Subsection

(3) provides that if, after rehearing, "the commission shall be of the opinion that the original order...is in any respect unjust or unwarranted, or should be changed, the commission may abrogate, change or modify the same". To deny an application for expanded authority on rehearing after an order granting such authority, the public utilities commission would necessarily have to conclude that the original order was unjust or unwarranted, and it would seem to be a useless thing to require that to be stated. Denver Clean-Up Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 174 Colo. 329, 483 P.2d 974 (1971).

Upon denial of application, order becomes final. If an application for rehearing is denied, the order or decision to which the application was addressed becomes final. Snell v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 108 Colo. 162, 114 P.2d 563 (1941).

Court will not review if commission judgment not final. Unless and until a matter before the public utilities commission is reduced to final judgment, settling all the issues between the parties, the court will not review it. Denver-Climax Truck Line v. Jim Chelf, Inc., 156 Colo. 372, 399 P.2d 244 (1965); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Poudre Valley Rural Elec. Ass'n, 173 Colo. 364, 480 P.2d 106 (1970).

Failure to apply for a second hearing regarding the commission's rehearing decision which modified a prior tariff decision precludes judicial review of such rehearing decision. Office of Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 752 P.2d 1049 (Colo. 1988).

Court may not ignore conditions on which objector's intervention was granted by commission, which precluded challenge to the commission's procedures and which objector accepted. Hausam v. P.U.C., 751 P.2d 627 (Colo. 1988).

Service by mail on attorney of record is sufficient. In review by certiorari proceedings in the district court of a commission decision, an indispensable party need not receive personal service of process through its registered agent for service, and service by mail upon the attorney of record in the administrative hearing is sufficient. North Glenn Sub. Co. v. District Court, 187 Colo. 409, 532 P.2d 332 (1975).

Failure to raise question waives it. Where the applicant argued in the supreme court that the public utilities commission in issuing a new order after rehearing had made no finding that the original order was unjust or unwarranted, but it had not at any time raised this question before the commission, nor mentioned it in its petition for certiorari in the district court, it had waived the point. Denver Clean-Up Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 174 Colo. 329, 483 P.2d 974 (1971).

Petition not filed within 20-day period following decision of commission is disallowed. Hausam v. P.U.C., 751 P.2d 627 (Colo. 1988).

Objector has no standing to petition for reconsideration where he has previously been denied intervenor status because proceeding had been terminated prior to objector's petition for intervention. Hausam v. P.U.C., 751 P.2d 627 (Colo. 1988).

Petition for reconsideration of rate increase was premature and properly struck where commission has neither approved nor denied such rate increase. Hausam v. P.U.C., 751 P.2d 627 (Colo. 1988).

Proceedings under this section are special statutory proceedings to which rules of civil procedure do not apply when inconsistent or in conflict with the practice and procedure as provided by statute. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. P.U.C., 698 P.2d 255 (Colo. 1985).

Subsection (3) does not require a subsequent decision of the commission to be a substantial modification of the original decision in order for the provisions of said subsection to be applicable. Office of Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 752 P.2d 1049 (Colo. 1988).

Where administrative remedies are provided by statute, the statutory procedure must be followed when the matter complained of is within the jurisdiction of the administrative authority. Unless the administrative remedies are exhausted, it can never be known but that a correction would ensue if the administrative authority were given full opportunity to pass upon the matter. Denver-Laramie-Walden Truck Line v. Denver-Fort Collins Freight Serv., Inc., 156 Colo. 366, 399 P.2d 242 (1965).

Applied in Pollard Contracting Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 7 (Colo. 1982); Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1982); Union Rural Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 661 P.2d 247 (Colo. 1983).

40-6-115. Review by district court - mandamus. (1) Within thirty days after a final decision by the commission in any proceeding, any party to the proceeding before the commission may apply to the district court for a writ of certiorari or review for the purpose of having the lawfulness of the final decision inquired into and determined. Such writ shall be made returnable not later than thirty days after the date of issuance and shall direct the commission to certify its record in the proceeding to said court. On the return day, the cause shall be heard by the district court unless, for a good reason shown, the same be continued. No new or additional evidence may be introduced in the district court, but the cause shall be heard on the record of the commission as certified by it. The commission and each party to the action or proceeding before the commission shall have the right to appear in the review proceedings.

(2) The findings and conclusions of the commission on disputed questions of fact shall be final and shall not be subject to review, except that, in any proceeding wherein the validity of any order or decision is challenged on the ground that it violates any right of a petitioner under the constitution of the United States or the constitution of the state of Colorado, the district court shall exercise an independent judgment on the law and the facts, and the findings or conclusions of the commission material to the determination of the said constitutional question shall not be final.

(3) Upon review, the district court shall enter judgment either affirming, setting aside, or modifying the decision of the commission. So far as necessary to the decision and where presented, the district court shall decide all relevant questions of law and interpret all relevant constitutional and statutory provisions. The review shall not extend further than to determine whether the commission has regularly pursued its authority, including a determination of whether the decision under review violates any right of the petitioner under the constitution of the United States or of the state of Colorado, and whether the decision of the commission is just and reasonable and whether its conclusions are in accordance with the evidence.

(4) The provisions of the Colorado rules of civil procedure relating to writs of certiorari or review, so far as applicable and not in conflict with the provisions of this title, shall apply to proceedings had in the district court under the provisions of this section. No court of this state, except the district court to the extent specified, shall have jurisdiction to review, reverse, correct, or annul any order or decision of the commission, or to suspend or delay the execution or operation thereof, or to enjoin, restrain, or interfere with the commission in the performance of its official duties; but an action in the nature of mandamus shall lie from the district court to the commission in all proper cases.

(5) All actions for review shall be commenced and tried in the district court in and for the county in which the petitioner resides, or if a corporation or partnership in the county in which it maintains its principal office or place of business, or in the district court of the city and county of Denver, at the option of the petitioner. Appellate review may be obtained in the supreme court concerning any final judgment of the district court on review, affirming, setting aside, or modifying any decision of the commission, in the same manner and with the same effect as appellate review of judgments of the district court in other civil actions.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "Prosecuting an Appeal from a Decision of the Colorado Public Utilities Commission", see 16 Colo. Law. 2163 (1987). For article, "Winning an Appeal from a Decision of the Colorado Public Utilities Commission", see 17 Colo. Law. 1529 (1988). For article, "Can Colorado Administrative Agencies Settle Judicial Review Actions", see 19 Colo. Law. 835 (1990).

Procedure of section intended to be exclusive. By the provisions of this section, the general assembly intended this to be the exclusive procedure for reviewing orders and decisions of the public utilities commission made after a full hearing and presentation of evidence on the issues before the public utilities commission. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973); Archibold v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 933 P.2d 1323 (Colo. 1997).

No basis for review unless administrative remedies exhausted. When the public utilities commission decides to suspend the rates and hold hearings, the burden is on the public utility to establish that the proposed rates comply with law, and, unless a challenger exhausts this administrative remedy, it has no basis for district court review. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 186 Colo. 278, 527 P.2d 233 (1974).

The party objecting to a decision of the commission has the burden of proving that the decision is unlawful. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Northwest Water Corp., 168 Colo. 154, 451 P.2d 266 (1969); CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 949 P.2d 577 (Colo. 1997).

In post-hearing, preappeal administrative proceeding, discovery should be available as matter of right only if the party alleging procedural irregularities first shows, by affidavit or other substantial factual evidence, that there is good cause to believe that ex parte communications, personal bias, or other impermissible considerations played a part in the tribunal's decision. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 626 P.2d 159 (Colo. 1981).

Ex parte exchanges between advocate and adjudicatory tribunal may not arbitrarily be screened from appellate scrutiny. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 626 P.2d 159 (Colo. 1981).

The return to an application for appellate review is merely the certification by the responding tribunal of the proceedings sought to be reviewed, and that, while the application sometimes commands the respondents to make answer, the certification of the record is the only answer and the only return to the application which the inferior tribunal is required to make. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Weicker Transf. & Storage Co., 168 Colo. 339, 451 P.2d 448 (1969).

Factual allegations of application for appellate review are required to be accepted as uncontroverted in considering the propriety of the action of the court in quashing such application where record contained nothing beyond pleadings in district court and motion to quash challenged sufficiency of application. Snell v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 108 Colo. 162, 114 P.2d 563 (1941).

Application should not be quashed where it appears commission deviated from regular pursuit of authority. An application duly issued by judicial authority to review the action of the public utilities commission in connection with the issuance of a certificate of public necessity and convenience to a public utility, should not be quashed on motion where, from the facts alleged in the application, it appears that the commission deviated from the regular pursuit of its authority in connection with the matters involved. Snell v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 108 Colo. 162, 114 P.2d 563 (1941).

Judicial review barred unless applied for within 30 days. Unless an application for review of the acts of the public utilities commission is filed before the expiration of 30 days from the date of its final decision, judicial review is barred. Mayer v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 104 Colo. 619, 94 P.2d 125 (1939); Archibold v.

Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 933 P.2d 1323 (Colo. 1997).

The date of the hearing is by statute provided to be set on the same date as the return, but since it is also provided that the hearing date can be continued, it may be immaterial where the court set the hearing for a later date. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Weicker Transf. & Storage Co., 168 Colo. 339, 451 P.2d 448 (1969).

Service of process on attorney of record is sufficient. In review by certiorari proceedings in the district court of a commission decision, an indispensable party need not receive personal service of process through its registered agent for service, and service by mail upon the attorney of record in the administrative hearing is sufficient. North Glenn Sub. Co. v. District Court, 187 Colo. 409, 532 P.2d 332 (1975).

Judicial notice will not be taken of the records of the utilities commission. Denver & S. L. R. R. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 64 Colo. 229, 171 P. 74 (1918).

The utilities commission is under duty to obey the orders of the court. No excuses for disobedience will be received. Denver & S. L. R. R. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 67 Colo. 155, 185 P. 817 (1919).

This section governs the procedure for review of an order or decision of the public utilities commission by a district court. People v. District Court, 134 Colo. 324, 303 P.2d 692 (1956); Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Factors controlling review. Under this section the review in this court of the orders of the public utilities commission is controlled by the considerations applying in other cases, except as otherwise provided by the act. Denver & S. L. R. R. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 64 Colo. 229, 171 P. 74 (1918); Powell v. Colo. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 956 P.2d 608 (Colo. 1998).

This section provides that no new or additional evidence may be introduced in a district court. People v. District Court, 134 Colo. 324, 303 P.2d 692 (1956).

In reviewing actions of the public utilities commission, the courts are limited to an examination of the record to determine whether there is competent evidence to support the finding and whether the commission acted in excess of its powers. Parrish v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 134 Colo. 192, 301 P.2d 343 (1956); Colo. Transp. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 141 Colo. 203, 347 P.2d 505 (1959).

Since decision of P.U.C. that it had subject matter jurisdiction over private operator of water system was not a final decision subject to judicial review, district court prematurely accepted jurisdiction to review P.U.C.'s decision and erroneously issued writ of prohibition. Keystone, A Div. of Ralston Purina v. Flynn, 769 P.2d 484 (Colo. 1989).

County has standing to seek judicial review of public utilities commission's decision. Douglas County Bd. of Comm'rs v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 829 P.2d 1303 (Colo. 1992).

Acceptance of rate pending review is not voluntary. Where an order of the commission prescribes a division of through rates between certain connecting railway companies, the acceptance of the rate so prescribed, by one of the companies complaining thereof, pending an application for appellate review of the same, is not to be held voluntary. The complaining company succeeding in its appeal is entitled to restitution of whatever it has been unlawfully deprived by complying with the rates. Denver & S. L. R. R. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 67 Colo. 155, 185 P. 817 (1919).

Applied in Colo. Mun. League v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 197 Colo. 106, 591 P.2d 577 (1979); Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1982); Phoenix Power Partners v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 952 P.2d 359 (Colo. 1998); Trans Shuttle, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 89 P.3d 398 (Colo. 2004).

II. FINDINGS OF FACT.

Commission's findings on disputed facts not subject to review. Findings and conclusions of the commission on disputed questions of fact, when based on competent evidence, are final and not subject to review by the courts. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 68 Colo. 92, 188 P. 747 (1920); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Loveland, 87 Colo. 556, 289 P. 1090 (1930); Southeast Colo. Power Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 163 Colo. 92, 428 P.2d 939 (1967); North E. Motor Freight, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 178 Colo. 433, 498 P.2d 923 (1972); Contact-Colorado Springs, Inc. v. Mobile Radio Tel. Serv., Inc., 191 Colo. 180, 551 P.2d 203 (1976); Mellow Yellow Taxi Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 18 (Colo. 1982); Jarco, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 2 P.3d 116 (Colo. 2000); Lake Durango Water Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 67 P.3d 12 (Colo. 2003).

When two equally reasonable courses of action are open to the commission, a reviewing court cannot substitute its judgment for that of the commission in selecting the appropriate alternative. Contact-Colorado Springs, Inc. v. Mobile Radio Tel. Serv., Inc., 191 Colo. 180, 551 P.2d 203 (1976); City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 619 (Colo. 1981).

Full evidentiary hearing is not required. Where a party, represented by counsel, voluntarily waived a hearing and the ALJ made a decision and factual findings based on written submissions from the parties, the procedure comported with all applicable legal and constitutional requirements. Jarco, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 2 P.3d 116 (Colo. 2000).

Findings of fact must be discernible to reviewing court. While findings of fact by the public utilities commission need not be presented in any particular form, and they may even be implied, where the commission purports to make such findings, they must be discernible to the reviewing court. Caldwell v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 200 Colo. 134, 613 P.2d 328 (1980).

Where there is competent evidence to support the findings of the public utilities commission, a reviewing court may not substitute its judgment for that of the commission. Sangre De Cristo Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 321, 524 P.2d 309 (1974); Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981); Colorado-Ute Elec. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 760 P.2d 627 (Colo. 1988); CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 949 P.2d 577 (Colo. 1997); Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 26 P.3d 1198 (Colo. 2001).

Determination by the public utilities commission of whether a substantial opportunity for discrimination or unfair competition exists should not be disturbed unless it is unsupported by competent evidence or is arbitrary and capricious. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

The exercise of discretion and judgment of the commission should not be interfered with by the reviewing court. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 194 Colo. 263, 572 P.2d 138 (1977).

The general assembly contemplated that the reviewing court, since it does not have the aid of a staff and the expertise of the commission, should not undertake to duplicate the evaluation and judgment processes followed by the commission in arriving at its decision. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 194 Colo. 263, 572 P.2d 138 (1977); Pub. Serv. Co. v. P.U.C., 765 P.2d 1015 (Colo. 1988).

Except on a showing of a clear abuse of discretion, a reviewing court will not substitute its judgment for that of the commission as to the propriety of a particular billing practice. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 619 (Colo. 1981).

Evidence must be reviewed in the light most favorable to the commission's findings and decision. Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981).

Order of commission is presumed to be reasonable. Caldwell v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 200 Colo. 134, 613 P.2d 328 (1980).

The findings and conclusions of the commission are presumed to be reasonable and valid and will not be disturbed if supported by substantial evidence in the record. Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981).

A conflict in the evidence would deprive the trial court of its right to exercise its independent judgment on the facts. Pub. Utils.

Comm'n v. Northwest Water Corp., 168 Colo. 154, 451 P.2d 266 (1969).

Findings may be set aside if not supported by substantial evidence. But such findings and conclusions may be set aside or modified if based upon propositions of fact in support of which there is no substantial evidence. Denver & S. L. R. R. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 64 Colo. 229, 171 P. 74 (1918); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Loveland, 87 Colo. 556, 289 P. 1090 (1930).

"Independent judgment on the law" is exercised in the context of this constitutional issue exception when the court determines whether the public utilities commission has regularly pursued its authority. This would involve whether the decision is based upon the evidence introduced before the commission at the hearing; whether its order is supported by findings of fact; whether the commission applied the legislative standards set forth for the guidance of the commission; and whether the commission acted within the authority conferred or went beyond it. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Northwest Water Corp., 168 Colo. 154, 451 P.2d 266 (1969).

Under the judicial review provisions of this section, a court exercises its independent judgment when it makes a determination as to whether the public utilities commission has regularly pursued its authority. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

Commission's decision to use cost of service study prepared by commission's staff was supported by substantial evidence, notwithstanding differing expert opinions, evidence that the study contained errors, and the absence of some specific finding of the commission regarding objections to the study. The commission did not act arbitrarily and capriciously in accepting the staff's study under circumstances where the experts' opinions were varied and presented irreconcilable differences. Perfect mathematical precision is not required of such study and is not the standard by which the commission's decision is reviewed. In the absence of evidence that the staff study was inherently unsound, commission's decision should not be abandoned. Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 786 P.2d 1086 (Colo. 1990).

In a rate case, the commission's inclusion of a merger savings adjustment and an adjustment reflecting the transition from one accounting method to another was within the commission's authority and was just and reasonable and supported by substantial evidence. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 26 P.3d 1198 (Colo. 2001).

Rate-making is not an exact science, but rather, a matter of reasoned judgment and the commission is not required to base its rate-making decisions on quantitative evidence supported by empirical data. CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 949 P.2d 577 (Colo. 1997).

Application of just and reasonable standard of review to P.U.C.'s authority to sanction. A sanction imposed by the P.U.C. is deemed to be just and reasonable if the sanction is within its statutory authority, has a rational foundation in fact, and is fairly proportionate to the seriousness of the violation given all of the circumstances of the case. News & Film Serv. v. P.U.C., 787 P.2d 169 (Colo. 1990).

Applied in Colo. Municipal League v. P.U.C., 687 P.2d 416 (Colo. 1984); Colorado-Ute Elec. v. P.U.C., 760 P. 2d 627 (Colo. 1988), appeal dismissed for want of a properly presented federal question, 489 U.S. 1061, 109 S. Ct. 1333, 103 L. Ed.2d 804 (1989); City of Fort Morgan v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 159 P.3d 87 (Colo. 2007).

III. SCOPE OF REVIEW.

Scope of review. Under this section, review by the courts of the decisions of the public utilities commission shall not extend further than to determine whether the commission has regularly pursued its authority, including a determination of whether an order or decision violates any constitutional right, and whether such order is just and reasonable and in accordance with the evidence. Lepel v. District Court, 33 Colo. 24, 78 P. 682 (1904); Bulger v. People, 61 Colo. 187, 156 P. 800 (1916); Denver & S. L. R. R. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 64 Colo. 229, 171 P. 74 (1918); People v. District Court, 72 Colo. 525, 211 P. 626 (1923); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Loveland, 87 Colo. 556, 289 P. 1090 (1930); State Bd. v. Savelle, 90 Colo. 177, 8 P.2d 693 (1932); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Town of Erie, 92 Colo. 151, 18 P.2d 906 (1933); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Watson, 138 Colo. 108, 330 P.2d 138 (1958); Colo. Transp. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 141 Colo. 203, 347 P.2d 505 (1959); Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Northwest Water Corp., 168 Colo. 154, 451 P.2d 266 (1969); City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 619 (Colo. 1981); RAM Broad. of Colo. v. P.U.C., 702 P.2d 746 (Colo. 1985); Office of Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 752 P.2d 1049 (Colo. 1988); Integrated Network Servs. v. PUC, 875 P.2d 1373 (Colo. 1994); Boulder Airporter v. Shuttlines, 918 P.2d 1118 (Colo. 1996); CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 949 P.2d 577 (Colo. 1997); Avicomm, Inc. v. Colo. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 955 P.2d 1023 (Colo. 1998).

Judicial review of a public utilities commission decision involves the issue of whether or not a public utilities commission decision is supported by adequate evidence and whether its order, particularly when there is disputed evidence, is supported by findings of fact. Moun- tain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 182 Colo. 269, 513 P.2d 721 (1973).

The standard of review is limited to an examination of the record to determine whether the conclusions were supported by findings of fact, whether the findings of fact and conclusions were based upon adequate evidence, and whether the commission reached its decision by applying the appropriate constitutional and legislative standards. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 194 Colo. 263, 572 P.2d 138 (1977).

Judicial review of public utilities commission, in determining who should receive certification in a new area, is limited to the issue of whether the commission has acted within its authority and whether there is sufficient evidence in the record as a whole to support the commission's decision. Rocky Mt. Natural Gas Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 199 Colo. 352, 617 P.2d 1175 (1980).

Because the public utilities commission is an expert commission with fact-finding and policy-making authority, judicial review of a commission rate decision is relatively narrow. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 619 (Colo. 1981); CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 949 P.2d 577 (Colo. 1997).

Same standard applies in supreme court on appeal as in district court on initial review. Jarco, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 2 P.3d 116 (Colo. 2000).

Court's failure to determine whether commission acted pursuant to authority does not invalidate decision. When a trial court carries out its statutory duty by affirming a decision of the commission, the court's decision is not invalid on the theory that it did not properly review the case because it did not determine whether or not the commission acted pursuant to its authority or whether such action was just and reasonable. North E. Motor Freight, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 178 Colo. 433, 498 P.2d 923 (1972).

Court has duty to set aside where decision not supported by substantial evidence. If a trial court concludes that there is not substantial evidence to support a decision of the commission under the record as made, it is the duty of the court to set aside that decision on that very ground. People v. District Court, 134 Colo. 324, 303 P.2d 692 (1956); Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Decisions which are not supported by substantial evidence must be set aside. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 619 (Colo. 1981); Home Builders Ass'n of Metro. Denver v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 720 P.2d 552 (Colo. 1986); CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 949 P.2d 577 (Colo. 1997).

Where P.U.C.'s findings are factually inconsistent, the court cannot perform even its limited review function of determining whether competent evidence in the record supports the findings, and the order of the P.U.C. is set aside as arbitrary and capricious. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. P.U.C., 698 P.2d 255 (Colo. 1985); Colorado-Ute Elec. v. P.U.C., 760 P.2d 627 (Colo. 1988), appeal dismissed, 489 U.S. 1061, 109 S. Ct. 1333, 103 L. Ed.2d 804 (1989).

While findings of the P.U.C. which are supported by the evidence may not be set aside, findings of the commission not supported by evidence cannot be upheld on appeal. J.C. Trucking v. P.U.C., 776 P.2d 366 (Colo. 1989).

When determining whether there is substantial evidence to support a decision of the commission, the reviewing court must view the record in a light most favorable to the commission's decision. Ace West Trucking v. P.U.C., 788 P.2d 755 (Colo. 1990); Boulder Airporter v. Shuttlines, 918 P.2d 1118 (Colo. 1996); CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 949 P.2d 577 (Colo. 1997).

To enable reviewing court to determine whether commission's decision is in accordance with the evidence under this section, § 40-6-113 (6) must be construed to incorporate into the record all factual information considered by the commission, including factual information contained in an advisory memorandum that was read at an open meeting of the commissioners and that was not otherwise made part of the record. Bd. of County Comm'rs of San Miguel v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 157 P.3d 1083 (Colo. 2007).

Mandamus will lie when action has been taken arbitrarily or if it reflects a gross abuse of discretion, regardless of whether a governmental proceeding is quasi-judicial in nature. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 626 P.2d 159 (Colo. 1981); Integrated Network Servs. v. PUC, 875 P.2d 1373 (Colo. 1994).

Mandamus is only justified when a state agency has failed to perform a statutory duty or to adhere to its statutory responsibility. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 626 P.2d 159 (Colo. 1981); Keystone, A Div. of Ralston Purina Co. v. Flynn, 769 P.2d 484 (Colo. 1989).

Mandamus is improper if court must give directions about the manner in which administrative discretion is to be exercised. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 626 P.2d 159 (Colo. 1981).

Mandamus not available to enjoin P.U.C. from exercising subject matter jurisdiction over private operator of water system alleged to be public utility when operator did not demonstrate that appellate review was not adequate remedy and did not seek to compel performance of any duty imposed upon P.U.C. by statute. Keystone, A Div. of Ralston Purina v. Flynn, 769 P.2d 484 (Colo. 1989).

Supreme court's duty in review. This section requires the supreme court to set aside a decision of the public utilities commission which is unjust and discriminatory or arbitrary and capricious. City of Montrose v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 197 Colo. 119, 590 P.2d 502 (1979).

Generally, the supreme court will defer to the commission's interpretation of its own language. Sangre De Cristo Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 321, 524 P.2d 309 (1974); CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 949 P.2d 577 (Colo. 1997).

But the supreme court will set aside actions or interpretations that are clearly erroneous, arbitrary, in excess of the commission's authority, or not in accordance with the law. Sangre de Cristo Elec. Ass'n, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 524 P.2d 309 (Colo. 1974); CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 949 P.2d 577 (Colo. 1997).

Interpretation of contract language is generally a question of law, and the commission's interpretation, though entitled to respectful consideration, is not controlling. Union Rural Elec. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 661 P.2d 247 (Colo. 1983).

In a proceeding to review an order of the public utilities commission, a district court under this section may affirm, set aside, or modify the order, but it has no authority to remand the case to the commission for further hearings. Denver & S. L. R. R. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 64 Colo. 229, 171 P. 74 (1918); Colo. Power Co. v. Halderman, 295 F. 178 (D. Colo. 1924); People v. District Court, 134 Colo. 324, 303 P.2d 692 (1956).

A district court is limited to a review of the record as presented and has no power to remand a case for an expansion of the commission's findings or for a rehearing. Haney v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 194 Colo. 481, 574 P.2d 863 (1978).

District court also has power to affirm portions of commission's decision supported by record and to reverse those not supported by record. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 181 Colo. 24, 506 P.2d 371 (1973).

A court cannot modify order by fixing division or rates. Denver & S. L. R. R. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 64 Colo. 229, 171 P. 74 (1918).

Authority of district court to suspend public utility rates pending appeal necessarily creates the power and the duty to order restitution if the suspended rates are upheld on appeal. Atlantic Richfield v. District Court, 794 P.2d 253 (Colo. 1990).

In remanding a cause back to the commission for a rehearing, a district court exceeds its jurisdiction and abuses its discretion. This leaves a petitioner without a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy and without any remedy at all. People v. District Court, 134 Colo. 324, 303 P.2d 692 (1956); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 181 Colo. 24, 506 P.2d 371 (1973).

Where an order of the commission is set aside, such order is from that time a nullity. Denver & S. L. R. R. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 67 Colo. 155, 185 P. 817 (1919).

Presumption of regularity of commission's acts. There is express authority throughout the statute governing procedures before the public utilities commission for hearings to be conducted before the full commission, or before any one commissioner or any examiner of the commission. The presumption of reading and considering is merely one facet of the general presumption of regularity, which supports the official acts of public officers and, in the absence of clear evidence to the contrary, courts presume that they have properly discharged their official duties. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 163 Colo. 462, 431 P.2d 773 (1967); Pub. Serv. Co. v. P.U.C., 765 P.2d 1015 (Colo. 1988).

Because of the presumption of regularity, the mere allegation that the commissioners did not consider the entire record is insufficient. Since the board has the right to rely upon information of its subordinates as to the evidence submitted, the allegation that the members of the board did not consider the evidence in arriving at the decision is insufficient to justify the court in granting relief. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. District Court, 163 Colo. 462, 431 P.2d 773 (1967).

Courts will not set aside rate methodologies chosen by the commission unless they are inherently unsound and the commission is not bound by a previously utilized methodology when it has a reasonable basis for adopting a different one. Bennett Bear Creek Farm Water Dist. v. City and County of Denver, 928 P.2d 1254 (Colo. 1996); CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 949 P.2d 577 (Colo. 1997).

Decision as to weight to be placed on evidence is uniquely within province of P.U.C., and court will not substitute its judgment for that of the P.U.C. RAM Broad. of Colo. v. P.U.C., 702 P.2d 746 (Colo. 1985).

Commissioner need not recite all evidence. The public utilities commission has not summarized all the evidence in the record. It has merely drawn from the whole evidence and presented as subsidiary findings the evidentiary facts upon which it has based its ultimate findings that specified provisions of the act were violated. It was not incumbent upon the commission to recite all the evidence, or all the undisputed evidence, or the evidence from which inferences opposed to its own might have been drawn. Aspen Airways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 169 Colo. 56, 453 P.2d 789 (1969).

This section does not authorize the P.U.C. to alter its decision which is the subject of the appeal by entering into a settlement agreement after the appellate review is commenced pursuant to this section. O'Bryant v. P.U.C., 778 P.2d 648 (Colo. 1989).

In light of generality of standards for judicial review found in subsection (3) of this section, a district court may look to the more specific guidelines for review found in § 24-4-106 (7) of the state Administrative Procedure Act. Ace West Trucking v. P.U.C., 788 P.2d 755 (Colo. 1990); Colo. Office of Consumer Counsel v. Mountain States Tel. and Tel. Co., 816 P.2d 278 (Colo. 1991).

Where provisions of public utilities law and state administrative procedure act conflict, the former governs. Home Builders Ass'n v. P.U.C., 720 P.2d 552 (Colo. 1986).

IV. JURISDICTION.

The law fully provides that every order or decision made by the commission may be reviewed by the supreme court for the purpose of having the lawfulness of the order or revision determined. The mere fact that the general assembly provided for judicial review is indicative of its intention that the commission adhere strictly to the law. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Motorway, Inc., 165 Colo. 1, 437 P.2d 44 (1968).

Not until reduced to final judgment by commission. Unless and until a matter before the public utilities commission is reduced to final judgment, settling all the issues between the parties, the supreme court will not review it. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Poudre Valley Rural Elec. Ass'n, 173 Colo. 364, 480 P.2d 106 (1970).

The court first acquiring jurisdiction of the parties and the subject matter has exclusive jurisdiction. Since the action in the Denver district court was commenced prior to the Adams county action, exclusive jurisdiction rested with the Denver district court, where the action was properly brought according to statute. Pub. Serv. Co. v. Miller, 135 Colo. 575, 313 P.2d 998 (1957).

Procedures in this section provide exclusive method for initiating and obtaining judicial review of P.U.C. decisions and conflicting pleading requirements of C.R.C.P. 106 must yield to the statutory scheme. Silver Eagle Servs. v. P.U.C., 768 P.2d 208 (Colo. 1989).

District court has jurisdiction to cure writ that substantially complies with this section. If an action to review a public utilities commission decision substantially complies with public utilities law and the defective pleading causes no prejudice, the action does not violate this section. Trans Shuttle, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 58 P.3d 47 (Colo. 2002).

40-6-116. Suspension of decision - notice - bond - accounting pending review.

(1) The pendency of a writ of certiorari or review shall not of itself stay or suspend the operation of the decision of the commission; but, during the pendency of such writ, the district court, in its discretion, may stay or suspend, in whole or in part, the operation of the commission's decision.

(2) No order so staying or suspending any decision of the commission shall be made other than upon three days' notice and after hearing; and if the decision of the commission is suspended, the order suspending the same shall contain a specific finding based upon evidence submitted to the court and identified by reference thereto that great or irreparable damage would otherwise result to the petitioner and specifying the nature of the damage.

(3) In case the decision of the commission is stayed or suspended, the order of the court shall not become effective until a suspending bond has been filed with and approved by the district court, and sufficient in amount and security to insure the prompt payment, by the party petitioning for the review, of all damages caused by the delay in the enforcement of the decision of the commission, and of all moneys which any person may be compelled to pay, pending the review proceedings, for transportation, transmission, product, commodity, or service in excess of the charges fixed by the decision of the commission in case said decision is sustained. The district court, in case it stays or suspends the decision of the commission in any matter affecting rates, fares, tolls, rentals, charges, or classifications, by order, shall direct the public utility affected to pay into court from time to time, there to be impounded until the final decision of the case, or into some bank or trust company under such conditions as the court may prescribe all sums of money which it may collect from any person in excess of the sum such person would have been compelled to pay if the decision of the commission had not been stayed or suspended.

(4) In case the district court stays or suspends any decision lowering any rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, or classification, the commission, upon the filing and approval of said suspending bond, shall forthwith require the public utility affected, under penalty of the immediate enforcement of the decision of the commission, pending review and notwithstanding the suspending order, to keep such accounts, verified by oath, as may, in the judgment of the commission, suffice to show the amounts being charged or received by such public utility, pending review, in excess of the charges allowed by the decision of the commission, together with the names and addresses of the persons to whom overcharges will be refundable in case the charges made by the public utility, pending review, are not sustained by the district court. The court, from time to time, may require the party petitioning for a review to give additional security on, or to increase, the suspending bond, whenever in the opinion of the court the same may be necessary to insure the prompt payment of said damages and said overcharges.

(5) Upon the final decision by the district court, all moneys which the public utility may have collected, pending the appeal, in excess of those authorized by such final decision, together with interest, in case the court ordered the deposits of such moneys in a bank or trust company, shall be promptly paid to the persons entitled thereto, in such manner and through such methods of distribution as may be prescribed by the commission. If any moneys are not claimed by the persons entitled thereto within one year from the final decision of the district court, the commission shall cause notice to such persons to be given by publication once a week for two successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the city and county of Denver and in such other newspapers as may be designated by the commission, said notice to state the names of persons entitled to such moneys and the amounts due each person. All moneys not claimed within ninety days after publication of such notice shall be paid by the public utility, under the direction of the commission, into the state treasury and credited to the general fund.

Law reviews. For article, "Prosecuting an Appeal from a Decision of the Colorado Public Utilities Commission", see 16 Colo. Law. 2163 (1987).

When rate is approved by regulatory commission and is collected without suspension or bond, rate is not subject to refund. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 176 Colo. 457, 491 P.2d 582 (1972).

Court may, on review of commission order, require correction of legal errors in order and provide refunds to customers of utility notwithstanding approval by commission and lack of suspension or bond. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 176 Colo. 457, 491 P.2d 582 (1972).

This section, read as a whole, authorizes the district court to remand a case to the P.U.C. for determination of the manner and method of distribution of excess amounts charged by a public utility in a refund case. Atlantic Richfield v. District Court, 794 P.2d 253 (Colo. 1990).

The provisions of this section for suspension of an order of the commission is permissive only, and in no sense a requirement. The suspension if granted is equivalent to the allowance of a supersedeas in other cases. An aggrieved party is not deprived of the right of review by failure to apply for the suspension. Denver & S. L. R. R. v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 67 Colo. 155, 185 P. 817 (1919).

40-6-117. Priority on court calendar. All actions and proceedings under this title, and all actions or proceedings to which the commission or the people of the state of Colorado may be parties, and in which any question arises under this title or under or concerning any decision of the commission, shall be preferred over all other civil causes except election causes and shall be heard and determined in preference to all other civil business except election causes, irrespective of position on the calendar. The same preference shall be granted upon application of the attorney general in any action or proceeding in which he may be allowed to intervene.

ANNOTATION

This section requires that actions for the review of commission decisions be preferred over all other actions except election causes. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 345 F. Supp. 80 (D. Colo. 1972).

There is no restriction in this section as to the kind of decision that can be reviewed. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 345 F. Supp. 80 (D. Colo. 1972).

40-6-118. Valuations - hearings - findings - review. (1) For the purpose of ascertaining the matters and things specified in section 40-4-110, concerning the value of the property of public utilities, the commission may cause a hearing to be held at such time and place as the commission may designate. Before any hearing is had, the commission shall give the public utility affected thereby at least thirty days' written notice, specifying the time and place of such hearing, and such notice shall be sufficient to authorize the commission to inquire into the matters designated in this section and pursuant to section 40-6-111, but this provision shall not prevent the commission from making any preliminary examination or investigation into the matters herein referred to or from inquiring into such matters in any other investigation or hearing. All public utilities affected shall be entitled to be heard and to introduce evidence at such hearing. The commission is empowered to resort to any other source of information available. The evidence introduced at such hearing shall be reduced to writing and certified under the seal of the commission. The commission shall make and file its findings of fact in writing upon all matters concerning which evidence has been introduced before it which in its judgment have bearing on the value of the property of the public utility affected. Such findings shall be subject to review by the district court in the same manner and within the same time as other orders and decisions of the commission.

(2) The findings of the commission so made and filed, when properly certified under the seal of the commission, shall be admissible in evidence in any action, proceeding, or hearing before the commission or any court, in which the commission, the state, or any officer, department, or institution thereof, or any county, city and county, municipality, or other body politic and the public utility affected may be interested, whether arising under the provisions of this title, or otherwise, and such findings, when so introduced, shall be conclusive evidence of the facts therein stated as of the date therein stated under conditions then existing, and such facts can only be controverted by showing a subsequent change in conditions bearing upon the facts therein determined. The commission, from time to time, may cause further hearings and investigations to be had for the purpose of making revaluations or ascertaining the value of any betterments, improvements, additions, or extensions made by any public utility subsequent to any prior hearing or investigation, and may examine into all matters which may change, modify, or affect any finding of fact previously made, and at such time may make findings of fact supplementary to those theretofore made. Such hearings shall be had upon the same notice and be conducted in the same manner, and the findings so made shall have the same force and effect as is provided for such original notice, hearing, and findings. Such findings made at such supplemental hearings or investigations shall be considered in connection with and as a part of the original findings except insofar as such supplemental findings shall change or modify the findings made at the original hearing or investigation.

40-6-119. Excess charges - reparation - actions - limitation. (1) When complaint has been made to the commission concerning any rate, fare, toll, rental, or charge for any product or commodity furnished or service performed by any public utility and the commission has found, after investigation, that the public utility has charged an excessive or discriminatory amount for such product, commodity, or service, the commission may order that the public utility make due reparation to the complainant therefor, with interest from the date of collection, provided no discrimination will result from such reparation.

(2) If the public utility does not comply with the order for the payment of reparation within the specified time in such order, suit may be instituted in any court of competent jurisdiction to recover the same. All complaints concerning excessive or discriminatory charges shall be filed with the commission within two years from the time the cause of action accrues, and the petition for the enforcement of the order shall be filed in the court within one year from the date of the order of the commission. The remedy provided in this section shall be cumulative and in addition to any other remedy in articles 1 to 7 of this title provided in case of failure of a public utility to obey the order or decision of the commission.

40-6-122. Ex parte communications - disclosure. (1) Commissioners and administrative law judges shall file memoranda, in accordance with this section, of all private communications to or from interested persons concerning matters under the commissioners' or judges' jurisdiction.

(2) For purposes of this section, "interested person" means any person or entity, or any agent or representative of a person or entity:

(a) Whose operations are within the jurisdiction of the commission; or

(b) Who has participated in a proceeding before the commission within one year prior to the communication; or

(c) Who anticipates participating in a proceeding before the commission within one year after the communication.

(3) Each memorandum filed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall set forth the time and place at which the communication was made, the persons who were present at that time and place, a statement of the subject matter of the communication, other than proprietary information, and a statement that the subject matter of the communication did not relate to any pending adjudicatory proceeding before the commission. It shall not be necessary for the memorandum to be prepared by the commissioner or judge, but it shall be signed or otherwise authenticated by the commissioner or judge, whose signature or authentication shall constitute a certificate by such commissioner or judge that the memorandum is complete and accurate. All such memoranda shall be filed with the director of the commission, who shall keep them on file and available for public inspection for a minimum of three years after their submission.

(4) Any public utility may request that the commission conduct a public meeting at which communications otherwise subject to this section may be made without the necessity of filing memoranda. The commission shall adopt reasonable rules and regulations to govern such requests. In addition, the commission may adopt such other rules as are necessary and proper to govern ex parte communications generally.

(5) As used in this section, an "adjudicatory proceeding" does not include a rule-making proceeding or discussions on pending legislative proposals.

40-6-123. Standards of conduct. (1) Members and staff of the commission shall conduct themselves in such a manner as to ensure fairness in the discharge of the duties of the commission, to provide equitable treatment of the public, utilities, and other parties, to maintain public confidence in the integrity of the commission's actions, and to prevent the appearance of impropriety or of conflict of interest. The standards set forth in this section apply at all times to the commissioners, to their staff, including administrative law judges, and to parties under contract with the commission for state business.

(2) The commissioners, staff who act in an advisory capacity to the commissioners, and administrative law judges shall refrain from financial, business, and social dealings that adversely affect their impartiality or interfere with the proper performance of their official duties.

(3) Neither commissioners, staff members, parties under contract for state work, or members of the immediate families of such persons shall request or accept any gift, bequest, or loan from persons who appear before the commission; except that commissioners and staff members may participate in meetings, conferences, or educational programs which are open to other persons.

(4) Commissioners shall not lend the prestige of their office to advance the private interests of others, nor shall they convey the impression that special influence can be brought to bear upon them.

(5) Commissioners and presiding administrative law judges shall not own any stock, securities, or other financial interest in any company regulated by the commission.

(6) Violation of this section by a commissioner shall be grounds for the immediate removal of such commissioner by the governor.

- (b) Have served as an attorney or other representative of any party concerning the matter at issue, or were previously associated with an attorney who served, during such association, as an attorney or other representative of any party concerning the matter at issue;
- (c) Know that they or any member of their family, individually or as a fiduciary, has a financial interest in the subject matter at issue, is a party to the proceeding, or otherwise has any interest that could be substantially affected by the outcome of the proceeding; or
- (d) Have engaged in conduct which conflicts with their duty to avoid the appearance of impropriety or of conflict of interest.

40-6.5-102. Office of consumer counsel - creation - appointment - attorney general to represent. (1) There is hereby created, as a division within the department of regulatory agencies, the office of consumer counsel, the head of which shall be the consumer counsel, who shall be appointed by the executive director of the department of regulatory agencies pursuant to section 13 of article XII of the state constitution.

(2) (a) The office of consumer counsel shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions specified in this article under the department of regulatory agencies as if the same were transferred to the department by a type 1 transfer, as such transfer is defined in the "Administrative Organization Act of 1968", article 1 of title 24, C.R.S.

(b) (I) On July 1, 1993, all employees of the office of consumer counsel, except for those employees who are attorneys at law serving as assistant attorneys general or support staff to such attorneys, whose principal duties are concerned with the duties and functions transferred to the office of consumer counsel in the department of regulatory agencies pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) and whose employment in the office of consumer counsel is deemed necessary by the executive director of the department of regulatory agencies to carry out the purposes of this article shall be transferred to the office of consumer counsel in the department of regulatory agencies and shall become employees thereof. Such employees shall retain all rights to the state personnel system and retirement benefits under the laws of this state, and their services shall be deemed to have been continuous. All transfers and any abolishment of positions in the state personnel system shall be made and processed in accordance with the state personnel system laws and rules and regulations.

(II) On July 1, 1993, all items of property, real and personal, including office furniture and fixtures, books, documents, and records of the office of consumer counsel pertaining to the duties and functions transferred to the office of consumer counsel in the department of regulatory agencies pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) are transferred to the office of consumer counsel in the department of regulatory agencies and shall become the property thereof.

(b) The board shall consist of eleven members appointed by the governor. Such members shall be appointed to represent residential, small business, and agricultural utility consumers. Such members shall, to the extent possible, be persons with expertise or experience in consumer related utility matters, utilities management, economics, accounting, financing, engineering, planning, or utilities law. In making appointments to the board, the governor shall ensure that the membership of the board represents the different geographic areas of the state. Of the members of the board appointed for terms beginning July 1, 1993, five of such members shall be appointed for terms of two years and six shall be appointed for terms of four years. Thereafter, members of the board shall be appointed for terms of four years. The governor shall not appoint any member of the board if such person has any conflict of interest with such person's duties as a member of the board. The governor may remove any board member for misconduct, incompetence, or neglect of duty. The board shall meet at least six times per year.

40-6.5-104. Representation by consumer counsel. (1) The consumer counsel shall represent the public interest and, to the extent consistent therewith, the specific interests of residential consumers, agricultural consumers, and small business consumers by appearing in proceedings before the commission and appeals therefrom in matters which involve proposed changes in a public utility's rates and charges, in matters involving rule-making which have an impact on the charges, the provision of services, or the rates to consumers, and in matters which involve certificates of public convenience and necessity for facilities employed in the provision of utility service, the construction of which would have a material effect on the utility's rates and charges.

(2) In exercising his discretion whether or not to appear in a proceeding, the consumer counsel shall consider the importance and the extent of the public interest involved. In evaluating the public interest, the consumer counsel shall give due consideration to the short- and long-term impact of the proceedings upon various classes of consumers, so as not to jeopardize the interest of one class in an action by another. If the consumer counsel determines that there may be inconsistent interests among the various classes of the consumers he represents in a particular matter, he may choose to represent one of the interests or to represent no interest. Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the right of any person, firm, or corporation to petition or make complaint to the commission or otherwise intervene in proceedings or other matters before the commission.

(3) The consumer counsel shall be served with notices of all proposed gas, electric, and telephone tariffs, and he shall be served with copies of all orders of the commission affecting the charges of agricultural consumers, residential consumers, and small business consumers.

(1) If the office of consumer counsel intervenes and there are other intervenors in proceedings before the commission, the determination of said commission with regard to the payment of expenses of intervenors, other than the office of consumer counsel, and the amounts thereof shall be based on the following considerations:

(a) Any reimbursements may be awarded only for expenses related to issues not substantially addressed by the office of consumer counsel;

(b) The testimony and participation of other intervenors must have addressed issues of concern to the general body of users or consumers concerning, directly or indirectly, rates or charges;

(c) The testimony and participation of other intervenors must have materially assisted the commission in rendering its decision;

(d) The expenses of other intervenors must be reasonable in amount;

- (e) The testimony and participation of other intervenors must be of significant quality;
 - (f) The participation of other intervenors must be active during the proceeding and not merely an appearance for purposes of establishing legal standing; and
 - (g) The payment of expenses of other intervenors who are in direct competition with a public utility involved in proceedings before the commission is prohibited.
- (2) The commission shall promptly report the award of any intervenors' expenses to the executive director of the department of regulatory agencies.

40-6.5-106. Powers of consumer counsel. (1) The consumer counsel:

- (a) May employ such attorneys, engineers, economists, accountants, or other employees as may be necessary to carry out his duties and shall employ a maximum of sixteen full-time employees or the equivalent thereof;
 - (b) Shall be granted, by the commission, leave to intervene in all cases where such request is made in conformance with rules of the commission;
 - (c) May contract for the services of technically qualified persons to perform research and to appear as expert witnesses before the commission, such persons to be paid from funds appropriated for the use of the consumer counsel;
 - (d) May have access to the files of the commission when conducting research.
- (2) The consumer counsel may petition for, request, initiate, and appear and intervene as a party in any proceeding before the commission concerning rate changes, rule-making, charges, tariffs, modifications of service, and matters involving certificates of public convenience and necessity. Notwithstanding any provision of this article to the contrary, the consumer counsel shall not be a party to any individual complaint between a utility and an individual.

(2.5) The consumer counsel may petition for, request, initiate, or seek to intervene in any proceeding before a federal agency which regulates utility rates or service, or federal court when the matter before such agency or court will affect a rate, charge, tariff, or term of service for a utility product or service for a residential, small business, or agricultural utility consumer in the state of Colorado. The phrase "federal agency which regulates utility rates or service" does not include any federal lending agency.

(3) (a) The consumer counsel and any member of his or her staff directly involved in a specific adjudicatory proceeding before the commission shall refrain from ex parte communications with members of the commission. The counsel or his or her staff shall have all rights and be governed by the same ex parte rules as all other intervenors.

(b) As used in this subsection (3), an "adjudicatory proceeding" does not include a rule-making proceeding or discussions on pending legislative proposals.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Trying to Get the P.U.C. to Let You Run a Truck", see 7 Dicta 4 (Oct. 1930).

Commission is empowered to fashion remedy to correct a statutory violation of the requirement that a utility receive commission approval prior to the transfer of utility's assets. Mountain States Telephone & Telegraph v. P.U.C., 763 P.2d 1020 (Colo. 1988).

Order directing utility to reacquire assets transferred without required commission approval was appropriate and will be given great deference in light of the commission's special expertise in regulation of utilities. Mountain States Telephone & Telegraph v. P.U.C., 763 P.2d 1020 (Colo. 1988).

Broad powers under color of state law. Public utilities, even though privately financed and owned, operating pursuant to the regulation of the commission, are granted existence by virtue of state law, and thereafter carry on business under color of state law. Denver Welfare Rights Org. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 190 Colo. 329, 547 P.2d 239 (1976).

The right of a utility customer to receive service is not an absolute right, but is a qualified right. The right is dependent upon payment for the service and product provided. The continuation of service during a dispute is dependent upon either the posting of what is, in effect, an indemnity bond or the assertion of a well-founded claim that would justify the customer's refusal to pay for the service which was rendered. Denver Welfare Rights Org. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 190 Colo. 329, 547 P.2d 239 (1976).

Situation in which commission may not interfere with enforcement. This section does not give the commission the right to interfere with the enforcement of public utility regulations when such powers are specifically vested in some other officer or tribunal. City of Englewood v. City & County of Denver, 123 Colo. 290, 229 P.2d 667 (1951).

40-7-102. Liability for violations - punitive damages. (1) In case any public utility does, causes to be done, or permits to be done any act, matter, or thing prohibited, forbidden, or declared to be unlawful, or omits to do any act, matter, or thing required to be done, either by the state constitution, any law of this state, or any order or decision of the commission, such public utility shall be liable to the persons or corporations affected thereby for all loss, damage, or injury caused thereby or resulting therefrom. If the court finds that the act or omission was willful, the court, in addition to the actual damages, may award exemplary damages. An action to recover such loss, damage, or injury may be brought in any court of competent jurisdiction by any corporation or person.

(2) No recovery as provided in this section shall in any manner affect the recovery by the state of the penalties provided in articles 1 to 7 of this title.

ANNOTATION

Liability of public utility. In case any public utility shall do any act that is prohibited, such public utility shall be liable to the persons affected thereby for all loss, damages, or injury caused thereby or resulting therefrom. Miller v. Bussard, 132 Colo. 478, 289 P.2d 913 (1955).

Subsection (1) creates a private cause of action to compensate with money damages the injury of any person caused by conduct of a regulated utility that violates state law or any public utilities commission order or decision. Fawn Lake Ranch Co. v. K.C. Elec. Ass'n, 700 P.2d 564 (Colo. App. 1985); City of Boulder v. Pub. Serv. Co. of Colo., 996 P.2d 198 (Colo. App. 1999).

Trial court lacked subject matter jurisdiction where action concerned the defendant utility's tariff rates and plaintiffs had not yet exhausted their administrative remedies by seeking review of such rates. City of Boulder v.

Pub. Serv. Co. of Colo., 996 P.2d 198 (Colo. App. 1999).

Phrase "may be brought in any court of competent jurisdiction" in subsection (1) does not create subject matter jurisdiction in the absence of exhaustion of administrative remedies. City of Boulder v. Pub. Serv. Co. of Colo., 996 P.2d 198 (Colo. App. 1999).

A plaintiff's failure to exhaust its administrative remedies mandates dismissal of a deceptive trade practice claim concerning a utility's alleged misrepresentations about the heating content of natural gas because the commission explicitly considers the heating content of natural gas when setting rates, and thus the claim is within the commission's exclusive jurisdiction. City of Aspen v. Kinder Morgan, Inc., 143 P.3d 1076 (Colo. App. 2006).

Although the rule is that damages based upon mere speculation and conjecture are not allowable, where it has been definitely established that damages are traceable to and the direct result of a wrong, the uncertainty as to the amount thereof is a question for determination by the trier of the facts. Any other rule would result in rewarding a wrongdoer. Donahue v. Pikes Peak Auto Co., 150 Colo. 281, 372 P.2d 443 (1962).

Where the cause of the damage is established, the fact that the amount or extent of damages is uncertain is no objection. Donahue v. Pikes Peak Auto Co., 150 Colo. 281, 372 P.2d 443 (1962).

Statute imposes no requirement that an affected person or corporation also have standing to pursue the underlying administrative remedy, and therefore a former landowner had standing to bring suit against utility for failure to provide service to purchaser of land. Fawn Lake Ranch Co. v. K.C. Elec. Ass'n, 700 P.2d 564 (Colo. App. 1985).

By the enactment of this section and § 40-10-115, the state has exercised legislative jurisdiction as to certain conduct in the state. Hansemen v. Hamilton, 176 F. Supp. 371 (D. Colo. 1959).

Applied in Shoemaker v. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co., 38 Colo. App. 321, 559 P.2d 721 (1976).

40-7-103. Not to affect other rights - penalties cumulative. (1) The provisions of articles 1 to 7 of this title shall not have the effect of releasing or waiving any right of action by the state, the commission, or any person or corporation for any right, penalty, or forfeiture which may have arisen or accrued under any law of this state.

(2) All penalties accruing under articles 1 to 7 of this title shall be cumulative of each other, and a suit for the recovery of one penalty shall not be a bar to nor affect the recovery of any other penalty or forfeiture nor be a bar to any criminal prosecution against any public utility, or any officer, director, agent, or employee thereof, or any other corporation or person.

40-7-104. Actions to restrain violations. (1) Whenever the commission is of the opinion that any public utility is failing or omitting to do anything required of it by law or by any order, decision, rule, direction, or requirement of the commission or is doing anything or about to do anything or permitting anything or about to permit anything to be done contrary to or in violation of law or of any order, decision, rule, direction, or requirement of the commission, it shall direct the attorney general to commence an action or proceeding in the district court in and for the county or city and county in which the cause or some part thereof arose, or in which the corporation or person complained of, if any, has its principal place of business, or in which the person, if any, complained of, resides, in the name of the people of the state of Colorado, for the purpose of having such violations or threatened violations stopped and prevented, either by mandamus or injunction.

(2) The attorney general shall begin such action or proceeding by petition to such district court, alleging the violation or threatened violation complained of, and praying for appropriate relief by way of mandamus or injunction. It is the duty of the court to specify a time, not exceeding twenty days after the service of the copy of the petition, within which the public utility complained of must answer the petition, and in the meantime said public utility may be restrained. In case of default in answer or after answer, the court shall immediately inquire into the facts and circumstances of the case.

(3) Such corporations or persons as the court may deem necessary or proper to be joined as parties, in order to make its judgment or order effective, may be joined as parties.

The final judgment in any such action or proceeding shall either dismiss the action or proceeding or direct that an order in the nature of mandamus or injunction issue or be made permanent as prayed for in the petition or in such modified or other form as will afford appropriate relief. An appeal may be taken to the supreme court from such final judgment in the same manner and with the same effect, subject to the provisions of articles 1 to 7 of this title as appeals are taken from judgments of the district court in other actions for mandamus or injunction.

ANNOTATION

This section relates to and concerns the enforcement of orders, decisions, and rules of the commission when the commission seeks enforcement of its pronouncements. Eveready Freight Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 131 Colo. 172, 280 P.2d 442 (1955).

Section applies when enforcement of commission order becomes matter of judicial determination. Certainly the general assembly did not by this section contemplate that every alleged violation of the terms of a certificate of public convenience and necessity had to be heard in a court of record. The commission has inherent power to investigate alleged violations and to make its orders subject to review as provided by law. Enforcement of its orders may become a matter for judicial determination in which event this section applies. Eveready Freight Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 131 Colo. 172, 280 P.2d 442 (1955).

40-7-105. Violations - penalty - separate offenses. (1) Any public utility which violates or fails to comply with any provision of the state constitution or of articles 1 to 7 of this title or which fails, omits, or neglects to obey, observe, or comply with any order, decision, decree, rule, direction, demand, or requirement of the commission or any part or provision thereof, except an order for the payment of money, in a case in which a penalty has not been provided for such public utility, is subject to a penalty of not more than two thousand dollars for each offense.

(2) Every violation of the provisions of articles 1 to 7 of this title or of any order, decision, decree, rule, direction, demand, or requirement of the commission or any part or portion thereof, except an order for the payment of money, by any corporation or person is a separate and distinct offense, and, in case of a continuing violation, each day's continuance thereof shall be deemed a separate and distinct offense.

(3) In construing and enforcing the provisions of articles 1 to 7 of this title relating to penalties, the act, omission, or failure of any officer, agent, or employee of any public utility, acting within the scope of his official duties or employment, in every case shall be deemed the act, omission, or failure of such public utility.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Coal Mining a Public Utility", see 12 Dicta 267 (1935).

Function of commission. The public utilities commission is not a court. It is charged with the performance of certain executive and administrative duties. In the performance thereof, and as incidental thereto, it hears evidence, ascertains facts, and exercises judgment and discretion, but this is the exercise of merely a quasi-judicial function, not the exercise of judicial power within the meaning of the constitution. People ex rel. Hubbard v. Colo. Title & Trust Co., 65 Colo. 472, 178 P. 6 (1918); Clark v. Denver & I. R. R., 78 Colo. 48, 239 P. 20 (1925); People v. Swena, 88 Colo. 337, 296 P. 271 (1931).

40-7-106. Violations by agents - penalty. Every officer, agent, or employee of any public utility who violates or fails to comply with or who procures, aids, or abets any violation by any public utility of any provision of the constitution of this state or of articles

1 to 7 of this title, or who fails to obey, observe, or comply with any order, decision, rule, direction, demand, or requirement of the commission or any part or provision thereof, except an order for the payment of money, or who procures, aids, or abets any public utility in its failure to obey, observe, and comply with any such order, decision, rule, direction, demand, or requirement or any part or provision thereof in a case in which a penalty has not been provided for such officer, agent, or employee commits a class 2 misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-501, C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Jurisdiction over interstate carriers. The public utilities commission is not precluded from issuing a civil penalty against a person conducting unauthorized interstate operations merely because the person holds an interstate certificate from the federal motor carrier safety administration (FMCSA) in a case in which the facts are clear and no technical interpretation of the FMCSA certificate is necessary. Trans Shuttle, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 89 P.3d 398 (Colo. 2004).

40-7-113.5. Civil penalties applicable to public utilities - exclusion from rate base.

(1) (a) In addition to any other penalty otherwise authorized by law and except as otherwise provided in subsections (3), (4), and (5) of this section, a public utility furnishing electric, gas, water, sewer, or telecommunications service that intentionally violates any provision of articles 1 to 7 or 15 of this title or of any rule or order of the commission pursuant to such articles, which provision is applicable to such utility, may be assessed a civil penalty of not more than two thousand dollars; except that nothing in this subsection (1) shall be construed to authorize the imposition of civil penalties upon:

(I) A cooperative electric association that has voted to exempt itself from regulation pursuant to section 40-9.5-103;

(II) A cooperative telephone association;

(III) A municipally owned utility; or

(IV) A nonprofit generation and transmission electric corporation or association.

(b) Civil penalties assessed pursuant to this section shall be paid and credited to the general fund, in addition to any other sanctions that may be imposed pursuant to law. The amount of any such penalties paid shall not be an allowable expense for rate-making purposes.

(2) (a) The commission shall adopt rules specifying the particular violations, and the amount of the civil penalties to be assessed for each violation, pursuant to subsection (1) of this section.

(b) No public utility shall be assessed a civil penalty if the utility is already subject to an existing reparation due to a commission order, commission rule, or statutory provision for the same violation.

(3) If any public utility receives a second civil penalty assessment for a violation of the same statute, rule, or order within one year after the first violation, the civil penalty assessed for the second violation shall be no greater than twice the amount specified by rule for such violation.

(4) If any public utility receives more than two civil penalty assessments for violation of the same statute, rule, or order within one year, the civil penalty assessed for each such subsequent violation shall be no greater than three times the amount specified by rule for such violation.

(5) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, the total amount of civil penalties assessed against one public utility under this section shall not exceed the lesser of the following:

(a) One hundred fifty thousand dollars in any six-month period; or

(b) In any twelve-month period, one percent of the utility's gross annual revenues from services regulated by the commission, based on the most recent fiscal year for which final revenue figures are available.

40-7-116. Enforcement of civil penalties against carriers. (1) (a) Investigative personnel of the commission, Colorado state patrol officers, and port of entry officers as defined in section 42-8-102 (3), C.R.S., have the authority to issue civil penalty assessments for the violations enumerated in sections 40-7-112 and 40-7-113. When a person is cited for the violation, the person operating the motor vehicle involved shall be given notice of the violation in the form of a civil penalty assessment notice.

(b) The notice shall be tendered by the enforcement official, either in person or by certified mail, or by personal service by a person authorized to serve process under rule 4(d) of the Colorado rules of civil procedure, and shall contain:

- (I) The name and address of the person cited for the violation;
- (II) A citation to the specific statute or rule alleged to have been violated;

(c) A cited person shall execute the signed acknowledgment of receipt of the civil penalty assessment notice. The acknowledgment of liability shall be executed at the time the person cited pays the prescribed penalty. The person cited shall pay the civil penalty specified for the violation involved at the office of the commission, either in person or by depositing the payment postpaid in the United States mail within ten days after the issuance of the citation.

(d) (I) If the person cited does not pay the prescribed penalty within ten days after the issuance of the notice, the civil penalty assessment notice constitutes a complaint to appear before the commission. The person cited shall contact the commission on or before the time and date specified in the notice to set the complaint for a hearing on the merits in accordance with section 40-6-109. If the person cited fails to contact the commission on or before the time and date specified, the commission shall set the complaint for hearing.

(II) At the hearing, the commission has the burden of demonstrating a violation by a preponderance of the evidence.

Any defect in the content of a civil penalty assessment notice issued as described in subsection (1) of this section may be cured by a motion to amend the same filed with the commission prior to hearing on the merits. No such amendment shall be permitted if substantial rights of the person cited are prejudiced.

40-7-116.5. Enforcement of civil penalties against public utilities. (1) (a) The director of the commission or his or her designee shall have the authority to issue civil penalty assessments for the violations enumerated in section 40-7-113.5, subject to hearing before the commission as set forth in this section. When a public utility is cited for a violation, the public utility shall be given notice of the violation in the form of a civil penalty assessment notice.

(b) The notice shall be tendered by the director or his or her designee, either in person or by certified mail, or by personal service by any person authorized to serve process under rule 4 (d) of the Colorado rules of civil procedure, and shall contain:

- (I) The name and address of the person cited for the violation;
- (II) A citation to the specific statute or rule alleged to have been violated;

- (VIII) A place for the public utility to execute a signed acknowledgment of liability for the violation; and
- (IX) Any other information as may be required by law to constitute notice of a complaint to appear for hearing if the prescribed penalty is not paid within ten days.

(c) Every cited public utility shall execute the signed acknowledgment of receipt of the civil penalty assessment notice. The acknowledgment of liability shall be executed at the time the public utility cited pays the prescribed penalty. The public utility cited shall pay the civil penalty specified for the violation involved at the office of the commission, either in person or by depositing the payment postpaid in the United States mail within ten days after the issuance of the citation.

(d) If the public utility cited does not pay the prescribed penalty within ten days after the issuance of the notice, the civil penalty assessment notice shall constitute a complaint to appear before the commission. The public utility cited shall contact the commission on or before the time and date specified in the notice to set the complaint for a hearing on the merits in accordance with section 40-6-109. If the public utility cited fails to contact the commission on or before the time and date specified, the commission shall set the complaint for hearing. At the hearing, the commission shall have the burden of demonstrating a violation by a preponderance of the evidence.

(2) A civil penalty assessment notice shall not be considered defective so as to provide cause for dismissal solely because of a defect in the content of the civil penalty assessment notice. Any defect in the content of a civil penalty assessment notice issued as described in subsection (1) of this section may be cured by a motion to amend the same filed with the commission prior to hearing on the merits; except that no such amendment shall be permitted if substantial rights of the public utility cited are prejudiced.

(3) In the case of an alleged continuing violation for which daily penalties would accrue under section 40-7-115, the issuance of a civil penalty assessment notice shall toll the accrual of daily penalties until the later to occur of the expiration of the ten-day period provided for payment pursuant to subsection (1) of this section or, if the matter is set for hearing, upon the conclusion of the proceedings through issuance of an order, dismissal of the complaint, or other final agency action, including judicial review and appeal, if any.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the assessment of a civil penalty against an individual employee of a public utility.

40-7-117. Gas pipeline safety rules - civil penalty for violations - compromise - other remedies. (1) Any person violating any rule adopted or order issued by the commission pursuant to the authority granted in section 40-2-115 (1.5) shall be subject to a civil penalty not to exceed one hundred thousand dollars per violation; except that, in the case of a group or series of related violations, the aggregate amount of such penalties shall not exceed one million dollars. Each day of a continuing violation shall constitute a separate violation.

(2) Any civil penalty authorized by this section may be compromised by the commission. In determining the amount of the penalty or of the amount to be agreed upon in compromise, the commission shall consider the gravity of the violation, the size of the business of the violator, and the amount of effort expended by the violator in any attempts made in good faith to remedy the violation or prevent future similar violations. The penalty or any lesser amount agreed upon in compromise may be recovered by the commission in a civil action in any court of competent jurisdiction.

Therefore, this article shall authorize the commission on low-income energy assistance to establish a fund from which to collect and distribute moneys to accomplish the goals set forth in this section. The moneys for such fund shall be based in part on unclaimed utility deposits.

40-8.7-104. Energy assistance program - creation - energy assistance charge - rules. (1) There is hereby created the low-income energy assistance program to collect and disburse an optional energy assistance contribution in Colorado in accordance with this article.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this article, every utility doing business in Colorado shall participate in the energy assistance program and shall provide the opportunity for utility customers to make an optional energy assistance contribution on the monthly remittance device on their utility billing statement beginning September 1, 2006. Each utility shall provide the opportunity for customers to donate the optional energy assistance contribution as provided in section 40-8.7-105 (2).

(3) Any reasonable costs that a utility incurs in connection with the program, including the initial costs of setting up the collection mechanism and reformatting its billing systems to solicit the optional contribution, shall be reimbursed from the moneys collected by the program, and this amount shall be approved for each utility by the public utilities commission. The reimbursed amounts shall be transmitted to the utilities before the remaining moneys are distributed to the organization.

40-8.7-105. Customer opt-in provision. (1) The public utilities commission shall determine the mechanism for an opt-in provision whereby the energy assistance contributions described in section 40-8.7-104 will be collected from those customers who give notice of their intent to participate in the energy assistance program.

(2) Each utility shall solicit voluntary donations through a check-off mechanism displayed on the monthly remittance device. Recommended check-off categories of five dollars, ten dollars, twenty dollars, and "other amount" shall be displayed.

(3) Once a customer voluntarily opts into the program, the appropriate contribution shall be assessed on a monthly basis until the customer notifies the utility of his or her desire to remove the contribution. Each utility shall establish procedures to notify customers about their ability to cancel any voluntary contribution.

(4) Once the utility customer opts into the program, the energy assistance contribution shall appear as a separate line item and shall be identified in the billing statement as a contribution. The line item shall identify the optional low-income contribution, state the amount of the optional contribution, and be included in the total amount due.

(5) In accordance with article 4 of title 24 C.R.S., on or before November 1, 2005, the public utilities commission shall initiate at least one rule-making proceeding to accomplish the following:

(a) Establish a program whereby customers will be solicited to contribute a flat amount on the monthly remittance device on the utility billing statement;

(b) Encourage each utility to provide notification, where feasible, to customers participating in the program about the customer's ability to continue to contribute when the customer changes his or her address within the service territory;

(c) Require the utility to make additional efforts to inform utility customers about the program to ensure that adequate notice of the opt-in provision is given to all customers;

(d) In addition to notification on the monthly remittance device on the billing statement, require each utility to notify its customers about the opt-in provision prior to September 1, 2006, and require each utility to provide clear, periodic notice of the opt-in provision at least twice per year through bill inserts, in a statement on the bill or envelope, or in other utility communication pieces or through an alternative method approved by the commission. The costs of the insert and any other notification efforts will be considered in the utility's cost of service.

(e) Require each utility to consider the most cost-effective method possible when implementing the program; and

(f) Ensure that there is a mechanism for customers who make electronic payments to the utility to remove the optional charge from their monthly payments.

40-8.7-106. Municipally owned gas, electric, and gas and electric utilities and cooperative electric associations. (1) If a municipally owned gas, electric, or gas and electric utility or a cooperative electric association operates an alternative energy assistance program to support its low-income customers with their home energy needs, then the governing body of the municipally owned gas, electric, or gas and electric utility or cooperative electric association may self-certify its alternative energy assistance program and, upon self-certification, shall have no obligations under this article. The municipally owned utility or cooperative electric association shall submit a statement to the organization that such utility or cooperative electric association has an alternative energy assistance program. In order for such utility or cooperative electric association to self-certify, such alternative energy assistance program shall meet the following criteria:

(a) The amount and method for funding of the program shall be determined by the governing body.

(b) Program moneys shall be collected and distributed in a manner and under eligibility criteria determined by the governing body for the purpose of residential energy assistance to customers who are challenged with paying energy bills for financial reasons, including to seniors on fixed incomes, individuals with disabilities, and low-income individuals.

(2) If the governing body of a municipally owned gas, electric, or gas and electric utility or a cooperative electric association determines that the service area of such utility or cooperative has a limited number of people who qualify for energy assistance, such utility or cooperative electric association may be exempt from the obligations of this article.

(3) If a municipally owned gas, electric, or gas and electric utility or cooperative electric association has not self-certified an alternative energy assistance program pursuant to subsection (1) of this section or has not exempted itself pursuant to subsection (2) of this section, such utility or cooperative electric association shall collect an optional energy assistance charge from its customers as provided in section 40-8.7-104 (1) and (2) or pursuant to a procedure approved by the governing municipal utility or cooperative, which procedure shall be designed to notify all customers at least twice each year of the option to contribute by means of a monthly energy assistance charge and shall provide a convenient means for customers to exercise that option. In such circumstances, the governing body of such utility or cooperative shall determine the disposition and delivery of the optional energy assistance charge that it collects on the following basis:

(a) The governing body may elect to deliver the optional charge that it collects to the organization for distribution in accordance with this article.

(b) If the governing body does not make such election pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), the energy assistance moneys collected shall be distributed under eligibility criteria determined by the governing body for the purpose set forth in paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section.

(4) A municipally owned gas, electric, or gas and electric utility or cooperative electric association may provide funding for energy assistance to the organization by using a source of funding other than the optional customer contribution on each bill. If the amount of such assistance approximates the amount reasonably expected to be collected from an optional charge on customer bills, a municipal utility or cooperative need not certify its own program pursuant to subsection (1) of this section and need not collect an optional energy assistance charge but shall be entitled to participate in the organization's program.

(5) Any reasonable costs that a municipally owned gas, electric, or gas and electric utility or cooperative electric association incurs in connection with the program, including the initial costs of setting up the collection mechanism, may be reimbursed at the discretion of the governing body from the energy assistance moneys collected.

(d) For moneys collected during the period of October 1 to December 31 of each year, the utility shall transfer the collected moneys to the organization before February 1 of the next year.

(2) Each utility shall provide the organization with a summary of how the moneys collected were generated, including the number of customers participating in the program.

(3) The organization shall pay the public utilities commission from the moneys transferred to the organization pursuant to subsection (1) of this section for any administrative costs incurred pursuant to this article.

(1) The organization shall hold and administer all moneys collected pursuant to this article delivered to it by the utilities pursuant to section 40-8.7-107 in a separately identifiable account, which shall be restricted to the purposes set forth in this article. The organization shall maintain its books and records pertaining to the energy assistance contributions in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and, in addition, shall maintain records adequate to identify the moneys collected by each utility. If the organization commingles the moneys collected and delivered with other assets of the organization for investment purposes, the organization shall maintain accurate accounts of the investment moneys and shall credit or charge a pro rata portion of all investment earnings, gains, or losses to the account that holds the energy assistance charges.

ANNOTATION

Section has no application to private carriers. Common carriers are authorized to accept freight originating on, or destined to points on, lines of connecting carriers, and the transportation of such shipments on joint through rates or otherwise, but no provision in the law authorizes such joint operations by private carriers. McKay v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 104 Colo. 402, 91 P.2d 965 (1939).

The objects and purposes of the act are broad and comprehensive in relation to common carriers. That title discloses that it was intended thereby to regulate common carriers in the state and to exercise a general supervision over their conduct and operation, and it must be taken that, by the act as framed and worded, the general assembly intended to accomplish the design thereof which it expressly stated in the title. Consumers' League v. Colo. & S. Ry., 53 Colo. 54, 125 P. 577 (1912).

40-9-102. Definitions. As used in sections 40-9-101 to 40-9-105, unless the context otherwise requires:

(2) "Railroad" includes all bridges used or operated in connection with any railroad; all the roads in use by any corporation operating a railroad, whether owned or operated under a contract, agreement, or lease; all switches, spurs, tracks, and terminal facilities of every kind used or necessary in transportation of persons or property; all freight depots, yards, and grounds used or necessary in the transportation of persons or property; and all freight depots, yards, and grounds, used or necessary in the transportation or delivery of any of said property.

ANNOTATION

Section is valid. Last portion of this section held not unconstitutional as a delegation of legislative power. Colo. & S. Ry. v. State R. R. Comm'n, 54 Colo. 64, 129 P. 506 (1912).

40-9-103. Liability for damages. (1) In case any common carrier subject to the provisions of sections 40-9-101 to 40-9-105 does, causes, or permits any act, matter, or thing prohibited or declared to be unlawful in said sections or omits any act, matter, or thing required to be done in said sections such common carrier shall be liable to the person injured thereby for the full amount of damages sustained in consequence of any violation of the provisions of sections 40-9-101 to 40-9-105.

(2) Every common carrier receiving property for transportation between points within this state shall issue a receipt or a bill of lading therefor and shall be liable to the lawful holder thereof for all loss, damage, or injury to such property caused by it or by any common carrier to which such property may be delivered or over whose lines such property may pass. No contract, receipt, rule, or regulation shall exempt such common carrier from any liability imposed in this section, but the carrier shall not be responsible for any greater sum than the value as fixed in the contract, receipt, or bill of lading where such valuation is stated. Nothing in this section shall deprive any holder of such receipt or bill of lading of any remedy or right of action which he has under existing law. The common carrier issuing such receipt or bill of lading shall be entitled to recover from the common carrier on whose lines the loss, damage, or injury has been sustained the amount of such loss, damage, or injury as it may be required to pay to the owners of such property, as may be evidenced by any receipt, judgment, or transcript thereof.

Agent may place value on goods. An agent having the authority to make shipment of goods has authority to make a statement of their value, even though he has no knowledge of the actual value. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Teufel, 64 Colo. 515, 172 P. 1060 (1918).

The provision of this section reserving to the shipper "any remedy or right of action which he had under existing laws", does not

Maximum liability is amount fixed in bill of lading. A common carrier who fails to deliver goods committed to him for carriage is responsible, under this section, for no more than the value of the goods specified in the bill of lading. *Denver & R. G. 40-9-105. Diligence in transporting - penalty for failure. (1) It is the duty of every common carrier to transport all shipments between points in this state with the utmost diligence and to move perishable products toward their destination continuously without unnecessary delays or longer stops than regular stops at stations or stops for icing or watering and at a minimum speed of not less than ten miles per hour; but excessive storms, unavoidable accidents, or damage to roadbeds which delay such shipments beyond the power of the common carrier to immediately overcome shall exempt such common carrier from compliance with the minimum speed limit, until such storms subside or such damage can be expeditiously repaired.

(2) For failure of any common carrier to receive and transport such shipments with the utmost diligence, such common carrier issuing the receipt or bill of lading therefor shall pay to the owner, consignee, or other interested party whose interests may appear, such actual damages as the owner, consignee, or other interested party may sustain, and the same may be sued for and be recovered in any court of competent jurisdiction in the district in which the plaintiff resides.

ANNOTATION

Section has been held not unconstitutional as a delegation of legislative power. Colo. & S. Ry. v. State R. R. Comm'n, 54 Colo. 64, 129 P. 506 (1912).

The prime purpose of this provision is to impose upon a railroad company, in its capacity as a common carrier, the duty to afford shippers reasonable facilities for the transportation of property without unnecessary delay. Colo. & S. Ry. v. State R. R. Comm'n, 54 Colo. 64, 129 P. 506 (1912).

40-9-106. Transportation of livestock - not less than ten miles per hour. Every common carrier in this state must transport livestock from the initial point of shipment in this state to the point of destination in this state at an average rate of speed of not less than ten miles an hour and within such time, from the hour of loading at the initial point to the hour of arrival at the destination, that the point of destination shall be reached in not more than one-tenth as many hours as there were miles required to be traveled in the transportation of such shipment; except only that necessary stops of reasonable duration for feeding purposes, when required by the length of the journey, or necessary and imperative delays caused only by an act of God or inevitable accident shall not be computed in determining such minimum requirements as to speed.

ANNOTATION

Application of section. This section may be applicable to one or more railroads but may be inapplicable and unconstitutional as to another, which because of the location of its road and difficulties attending its operation, cannot with due regard to the safety of its employees and duty to the public, comply with its provisions. Freeman v. Boyer Bros., 82 Colo. 509, 261 P. 864 (1927).

Imposition of time limit is in exercise of police power. While the imposition of a time limit for the transportation of livestock by carriers is well within the police power of the state, an unreasonable exercise of that power, culminating in a statute, may not be enforced, although the general subject matter of the legislation comes within the scope of the power. Freeman v. Boyer Bros., 82 Colo. 509, 261 P. 864 (1927).

40-9-107. Damages for failure to comply. For failure of any common carrier to transport any such shipment within the time required by section 40-9-106, the common carrier issuing the receipt or bill of lading shall pay to the owner, consignee, or other interested party whose interest may appear such actual damages as the owner, consignee, or other interested party may sustain, together with exemplary damages in a sum of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, to be fixed by the jury or by the court if the cause is tried without a jury, and such actual and exemplary damages may be sued for and recovered in any court of competent jurisdiction in the district in which the plaintiff resides.

ANNOTATION

Plaintiff required only to make prima facie case of damages. In an action against a carrier by a shipper of livestock, for damages alleged to have been occasioned by failure to transport the stock within the time limit prescribed by the section preceding, it is held that the plaintiff was required only to make out a prima facie case of damages, after which defendants had the burden of establishing the only defense interposed, viz., unconstitutionality of the statute. Freeman v. Boyer Bros., 82 Colo. 509, 261 P. 864 (1927).

40-9-108. Accidents - notice - investigation. (1) Every railroad, whenever an accident attended by bodily injury or loss of human life occurs in this state on its line of road or on its ground or in its yards, shall give immediate written notice thereof to the public utilities commission. In the event of any such accident, the commission, if it deems the public interest to require it, shall cause a suitable investigation to be made forthwith and shall give written notice thereof to the person and railroad primarily interested.

(2) The expense of such investigation shall be certified by a majority of the commission and shall be audited and paid by the state in the same manner as other expenses are audited and paid. The commission is empowered to make and enforce such rules as, in its judgment, will tend to prevent accidents in the operation of the railroads of this state.

PART 1GENERALLY

40-9.5-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that cooperative electric associations which are owned by the member-consumers they serve are regulated by the member-consumers themselves acting through an elected governing body. It is further declared that the regulation by the public utilities commission under the "Public Utilities Law", articles 1 to 7 of this title, may be duplicative of the self-regulation by the association and may be neither necessary nor cost-effective. It is therefore the purpose of this part 1 to determine the necessity of regulation by the public utilities commission by allowing cooperative electric associations to exempt themselves from regulation by the public utilities commission.

40-9.5-102. Definitions. For the purposes of this part 1, “cooperative electric association” includes a nonprofit electric corporation or association but does not include nonprofit generation and transmission electric corporations or associations.

40-9.5-103. Exemption from “Public Utilities Law”. Except as otherwise provided in this part 1, the provisions of the “Public Utilities Law”, articles 1 to 7 of this title, shall not apply to cooperative electric associations which have, by an affirmative vote of the members and consumers pursuant to section 40-9.5-104, voted to exempt themselves from such provisions and to be subject to the provisions of this part 1. The period of exemption shall begin on the date the election results are filed with the public utilities commission.

40-9.5-104. Procedure for exemption - election. (1) (a) The board of directors of each cooperative electric association may, at its option, submit the question of its exemption from the “Public Utilities Law”, articles 1 to 7 of this title, to its members and its consumers. Approval by a majority of those voting in the election shall be required for such exemption.

(b) The board of directors of the cooperative electric association shall be responsible for mailing the ballots to all members and consumers of the association, for counting the returned ballots, and for determining the result of the election and shall also be responsible for insuring that the election is not held in a dishonest, corrupt, or fraudulent manner. The ballot shall contain the following language:

“Shall (name of the cooperative electric association) be exempt from regulation by the public utilities commission of the state of Colorado?

() Yes () No”

(c) The ballot must be postmarked or returned in an envelope accompanying the ballot with return postage paid within thirty days after it was mailed to the member or consumer.

(d) The results of the election held pursuant to this subsection (1) shall be certified by the secretary of the board of directors of the cooperative electric association no later than sixty days after the ballots are mailed to the members and consumers, and said secretary shall file the results with the director of the public utilities commission.

(2) Upon an affirmative vote of the members and consumers of the cooperative electric association on the question of exempting said association, the association shall be exempt from the “Public Utilities Law”, articles 1 to 7 of this title, beginning on the date the election results are filed with the public utilities commission.

40-9.5-105. Certificate of public convenience and necessity. (1) A certificate of public convenience and necessity issued by the public utilities commission prior to July 1, 1983, assigning specific service territories to a cooperative electric association shall remain in full force and effect and shall be subject to such rights and limitations as other certificates of public convenience and necessity held by other electric public utilities subject to regulation of the public utilities commission.

(2) After giving simultaneous notice by certified mail to other electric public utilities serving areas adjacent to an unserved, uncertificated territory and to the public utilities commission of its intent to extend service, a cooperative electric association shall have the right to extend service into such unserved, uncertificated territory unless the public utilities commission receives a complaint concerning such extension. Such complaint must be received by the commission no later than thirty days following the commission's receipt of the notice of extension. Upon the filing of a complaint, the commission shall determine whether to issue a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing such extension.

(3) Whenever the public utilities commission, after a hearing upon complaint, finds that an electric public utility, including a cooperative electric association, is unwilling or unable to serve an existing or newly developing load within its certificated territory and that the public convenience and necessity requires a change, said commission may, in its discretion, delete from the certificate of said public utility or association that portion of said territory which the public utility or association is unwilling or unable to serve and incorporate said territory into the certificated territory of another electric public utility, including another cooperative electric association, upon such terms as are just and reasonable, having due regard to due process of law and to all the rights of the respective parties and to public convenience and necessity.

(4) Upon complaint filed by an electric public utility, including a cooperative electric association, the public utilities commission shall determine whether any construction or extension made or proposed to be made by another such public utility or association will interfere with or duplicate the line, plant, system, or service of the complainant, in which event the public utilities commission may make such order prohibiting such construction or extension or prescribing the terms and conditions thereof as to it may seem just and reasonable.

(5) The provisions of articles 6 and 7 of this title shall apply to any proceeding of the public utilities commission required by this section.

(6) Except as otherwise provided in this part 1, the enactment of this part 1 shall neither enlarge nor diminish the rights and obligations of electric public utilities, including cooperative electric associations, under certificates of public convenience and necessity issued by the public utilities commission. Nothing in this part 1 shall enlarge or diminish the respective rights and obligations of electric public utilities, including cooperative electric associations, or municipalities under franchise or other contractual agreements.

40-9.5-106. Prohibited acts. (1) No cooperative electric association shall make a change in any rate charged for electric service or in any rule or regulation in connection therewith unless such association shall provide public notice of such proposed change at least thirty days prior to the day the proposed change is to take effect.

(2) No cooperative electric association, as to rates, charges, service, or facilities or as to any other matter, shall make or grant any preference or advantage to any corporation or person or subject any corporation or person to any prejudice or disadvantage. No cooperative electric association shall establish or maintain any unreasonable difference as to rates, charges, service, or facilities or as to any other matter, either between localities or between any class of service. Notwithstanding section 40-6-108 (1) (b), any complaint arising out of this subsection (2) signed by one or more customers of such association shall be resolved by the public utilities commission in accordance with the hearing and enforcement procedures established in articles 6 and 7 of this title. A cooperative electric association may approve any reasonable rate, charge, service, classification, or facility that establishes a graduated rate for increased energy consumption, for energy conservation and energy efficiency purposes, by residential customers that is revenue-neutral for the class, where revenue includes margins, expenses, riders, or charges as approved by the cooperative electric association. The implementation of such rate, charge, service, classification, or facility by a cooperative electric association shall not be deemed to subject any person or corporation to any prejudice, disadvantage, or undue discrimination. In adopting such rate, a cooperative electric association shall give due consideration to the impact of such rates on low-income customers. A cooperative electric association may utilize a community energy fund as contemplated by section 40-2-127 for energy efficiency, energy conservation, weatherization, and renewable energy purposes. A cooperative electric association shall not apply such rate to consumers that have single meters that record energy consumption for combined residential and agricultural uses.

(3) No rates, charges, rules, or regulations of a cooperative electric association shall be unjust or unreasonable. Any complaint under this subsection (3) shall be resolved by the public utilities commission in accordance with the hearing and enforcement procedures established in articles 6 and 7 of this title if the complaint alleging a violation is signed by the mayor, the president or chairman of the board of trustees, or a majority of the council, commission, or other legislative body of an affected county, city and county, city, or town, an affected public utility, or any one or more affected entities constituting a separate rate class of the association or is signed by not less than twenty-five customers or prospective customers of such association.

40-9.5-107. Duties of cooperative electric associations. (1) Cooperative electric associations shall provide reasonably continuous and adequate electric utility service to all members and consumers within their certificated service areas.

(2) Cooperative electric associations shall provide and maintain reasonably adequate facilities for the provision of electric utility service within their certificated service areas.

(3) All cooperative electric associations shall cooperate with each other and with other electric utilities in avoiding unnecessary construction of facilities and cooperate in the joint use of facilities for generation, transmission, and distribution of electric energy.

(4) Cooperative electric associations shall construct and maintain their facilities in a careful and safe fashion so as to minimize hazards to either persons or property.

(5) Cooperative electric associations shall continue to file with the public utilities commission those items required by sections 40-2-111, 40-3-110, and 40-5-106 (2) and shall comply with section 40-2-124 (3) and (4). The records and accounts of cooperative electric associations shall be kept in accordance with procedures established by the commission pursuant to section 40-4-111.

(6) If a cooperative electric association has an immediate shutoff policy, such association shall have provisions for an immediate appeal of such policy to the board of directors.

(7) The board of directors of a cooperative electric association shall adopt all necessary rules and regulations to comply with the provisions of this part 1.

(8) Any conflict arising out of this section shall be resolved by the public utilities commission in accordance with the hearing procedures established in article 6 of this title.

ANNOTATION

The statutory identification of the duties listed in this section does not limit powers extraneous to such duties. In interpreting this section, consideration shall be given to the entire statutory scheme including § 40-9.5-112 that states that the provisions of article 55 of title 7 apply to cooperative electric associations. Such article allows a cooperative to engage in any lawful activity except banking, therefore, the plaintiff's contention that a nonprofit cooperative electric association is not authorized to form and invest in two for-profit, non-electric subsidiaries is invalid. Bontrager v. La Plata Elec. Ass'n, 68 P.3d 555 (Colo. App. 2003).

The general assembly did not intend to limit cooperative electric associations to providing only electric services. Bontrager v. La Plata Elec. Ass'n, 68 P.3d 555 (Colo. App. 2003).

40-9.5-108. Public meetings. (1) All meetings of a cooperative electric association are declared to be open meetings and open to the members, consumers, and news media at all times; but such association, by a two-thirds affirmative vote of the board members present, may go into executive session for consideration of documents or testimony given in confidence, but such association shall not make final policy decisions or adopt or approve any resolution, rule, regulation, or formal action, any contract, or any action calling for the payment of money at any session which is closed to the members, consumers, and news media.

(2) (a) Before the board of directors convenes in executive session, the board shall announce the general topic of the executive session.

(b) At every regular meeting of the board of directors, members of the association shall be given an opportunity to address the board on any matter concerning the policies and business of the association. The board may place reasonable, viewpoint-neutral restrictions on the amount and duration of public comment.

(c) Written minutes shall be made of all meetings of the board of directors. The minutes shall be posted on the web site of the association as soon as they have been approved and shall remain posted until at least six months after the date of the meeting. Upon request by a member of the board, that member's own vote on any issue shall be noted in the minutes.

(3) Any action taken contrary to the provisions of this section shall be null and void and without force or effect.

40-9.5-109. Regulations governing consumer complaints. The board of directors of each cooperative electric association shall adopt regulations which specify a procedure for members and consumers to register complaints about and be given an opportunity to be heard by the board on the rates charged by such association, the manner in which the electric service is provided, and proposed changes in the rates or regulations. Such regulations may be amended whenever deemed appropriate by the board.

40-9.5-109.5. Election policy - adoption - publication - contents. The election policy shall be posted on the association's web site. The election policy shall contain true and complete information on the following subjects:

(a) The procedure and timing for a member to become a candidate for the board of directors and the process by which elections for the board of directors are held;

(b) The qualifications for candidates and requirements for appearing on the ballot;

(c) The date of the election, which shall be fixed, posted on the association's web site, and otherwise publicized no less than six months before the election.

(2) In addition to the posting required in subsection (1) of this section, information on how to become a candidate and the schedule for elections shall be communicated to each member in a mailing and on the association's web site no less than two months before petitions to become a candidate are due.

(3) The ballot mailing deadline shall be posted on the web site at least three months before the deadline and shall remain so posted until after the election.

40-9.5-110. Board of directors of cooperative electric associations - nomination - elections. (1) (a) A nomination for director on the board of directors of a cooperative electric association may be made by written petition signed by at least fifteen members of such association, and filed with the board of directors of such association no later than forty-five days prior to the date of the election. Any petition so filed shall designate the name of the nominee and the term for which nominated. The name of a nominee shall appear on the ballot if the nominating petition is in apparent conformity with this section as determined by the secretary of the board. Nomination and election of directors by districts, if provided for in the bylaws of the association, shall be permitted.

(b) Candidates for positions on the board of directors shall be entitled to receive membership lists, in a usable format, on the same basis and at the same time as such lists are made available to incumbent directors running for reelection. Candidates shall use such lists only for purposes of the election and shall return or destroy them immediately after the election.

(c) All board members shall make available to association members some means for direct contact, whether by telephone, electronic mail, or regular mail. Information on how to contact each board member by one or more of these methods shall be available on the association web site.

(2) (a) (I) Each member of the association shall be entitled to vote in the election of directors on the board of directors either at a meeting held for such purpose or by mail, but not both. A member who has voted by mail shall not be entitled to vote at the meeting.

(II) Mail voting shall be in writing on ballots provided by the association. The mail ballot shall be voted by the member, placed in a special envelope provided for the purpose so as to conceal the marking on the ballot, deposited in a return envelope which must be signed by the voting member, and mailed back to the association.

(b) The order of names on the ballot shall be determined randomly in a manner that does not automatically assign the top line to the incumbent.

(c) The board of directors shall, when practicable, arrange for an independent third party to oversee the storage and counting of ballots. If this is not practicable, then ballots shall be collected and stored in a manner that protects the privacy of their content. All candidates for the board of directors shall be given the opportunity to be present to observe their tabulation.

(3) Voting for directors on the board of directors by proxy or cumulative voting is prohibited.

(4) Neither the association nor the board of directors shall endorse or oppose the candidacy of an incumbent board member or other candidate for a position on the board. During the two months immediately preceding the election, board members shall not send individual newsletters using the association's resources.

Copies of the agenda shall be available at each service office for members and consumers.

(2) The date, time, location, and agenda of every meeting of the board of directors shall be posted on the association's web site no less than ten days before the meeting in the case of regular meetings and as soon as the meeting is scheduled in the case of special meetings. Said question shall only be submitted to the member-consumers of the association if at least five percent of the member-consumers of the association sign a petition requesting such an election and if such signatures are gathered within a six-month period immediately preceding the submission of the petition to the association’s board of directors. No petition circulated pursuant to this section shall be valid unless the petition sponsor notifies the board in writing prior to circulation for signatures. Such petition shall be submitted to, and signatures certified by, the board at a regular scheduled meeting. Such certification shall include a determination as to whether the signatures on the petition were gathered within a six-month period immediately preceding the submission of the petition to the board. 40-9.5-118. Net metering - rules. (1) Definitions. For purposes of this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (a) "Customer-generator" means an end-use electricity customer that generates electricity on the customer's side of the meter using eligible energy resources.
- (b) "Eligible energy resources" has the meaning established in section 40-2-124.
- (2) Each cooperative electric association shall allow a customer-generator's retail electricity consumption to be offset by the electricity generated from eligible energy resources on the customer-generator's side of the meter that are interconnected with the facilities of the cooperative electric association, subject to the following:

(a) Monthly excess generation. If a customer-generator generates electricity in excess of the customer-generator's monthly consumption, all such excess energy, expressed in kilowatt-hours, shall be carried forward from month to month and credited at a ratio of one to one against the customer-generator's energy consumption, expressed in kilowatt-hours, in subsequent months.

(b) Annual excess generation. Within sixty days after the end of each annual period, or within sixty days after the customer-generator terminates its retail service, the cooperative electric association shall account for any excess energy generation, expressed in kilowatt-hours, accrued by the customer-generator and shall credit such excess generation to the customer-generator in a manner deemed appropriate by the cooperative electric association.

(c) Nondiscriminatory rates. A cooperative electric association shall provide net metering service at nondiscriminatory rates.

(d) Interconnection standards. A cooperative electric association and a customer-generator shall comply with the interconnection standards and insurance requirements established in the rules promulgated by the public utilities commission pursuant to section 40-2-124; except that the cooperative electric association may reduce or waive any of the insurance requirements, and except that the public utilities commission shall initiate a rule-making proceeding no later than October 1, 2008, for the purpose of addressing cooperative electric association system issues in its small generator interconnection procedures. A cooperative electric association shall not prevent or unreasonably burden the installation of a net metering system if such system includes protective equipment that prevents any export of customer-generated electricity from the customer's side of the meter.

(e) (I) Size specifications. Each cooperative electric association shall allow:

(A) Residential customer-generators to generate electricity subject to net metering up to ten kilowatts; and

(B) Commercial or industrial customer-generators to generate electricity subject to net metering up to twenty-five kilowatts.

(II) Each cooperative electric association may allow customer-generators to generate electricity subject to net metering in amounts in excess of the minimum amounts specified in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (e). If the cooperative electric association denies interconnection to a customer-generator that has requested interconnection of a system with a capacity of twenty-five kilowatts or larger, the association shall provide a written technical or economic explanation of such denial to the customer.

(3) The cooperative electric association and the customer-generator shall indemnify, defend, and save the other party harmless from any and all damages, losses, or claims, including claims and actions relating to injury to or death of any person or damage to property, demand, suits, recoveries, costs and expenses, court costs, attorney fees, and all other obligations by or to third parties, arising out of or resulting from the other party's action or failure to act in relation to any obligations under this section, except in cases of gross negligence or intentional wrongdoing by the indemnified party.

SERVICE TERRITORIES WITHIN MUNICIPALITIES OWNING AND OPERATING ELECTRIC UTILITIES

40-9.5-201. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the provisions of article XXV of the Colorado constitution allow the public utilities commission to establish exclusive service territories for utilities as provided in article 5 of this title and that it has been the policy of the state of Colorado to establish exclusive service territories for cooperative electric associations. The general assembly further finds and declares that, if a cooperative electric association has been granted an exclusive service territory that is within a municipality that operates an electric utility or within an area annexed by a municipality that operates an electric utility, the municipality has taken private property and shall pay just compensation for the electric distribution facilities and certificate of public convenience and necessity of the association located within the municipality. Therefore, it is declared to be a matter of statewide concern and to be the purpose of this part 2 to establish a procedure to be followed when the certificated service territory of a cooperative electric association is included within a municipality that operates an electric utility or within an area annexed by a municipality that operates an electric utility.

40-9.5-202. Definitions. As used in this part 2, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Cooperative electric association" shall have the same meaning as in section 40-9.5-102.

(2) "Electric distribution facilities" means all or any portion of the electric lines and facilities of a cooperative electric association used or capable of being used in serving ultimate consumers, but the term does not include transmission lines, feeder lines, and substation facilities, or portions thereof, which are necessary for the integration and operation of portions of the association's electric system which are located outside a municipality or the area annexed by a municipality, nor does the term include transformers, meters, and associated metering equipment.

(3) "Municipality" means a statutory or home rule town, city, or city and county.

40-9.5-203. Service rights and facilities of cooperative electric associations within municipalities or within areas to be annexed by municipalities which own and operate electric utilities. (1) Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary, if a cooperative electric association has certificated service territory within a municipality which after May 27, 1986, commences operation of its own electric utility or has certificated service territory within an area annexed after May 27, 1986, by a municipality which owns and operates an electric utility, the municipality shall pay just compensation for the electric distribution facilities of the cooperative electric association located within the territory, together with the association's certificate of public convenience and necessity constituting its rights to serve such territory.

(2) No later than thirty days prior to final action on each annexation ordinance, the municipality shall notify the affected cooperative electric association in writing of the boundaries of the municipality or the annexed area within which certificated service territory of the association is included and shall indicate such boundaries or area on appropriate maps.

40-9.5-204. Just compensation for service rights and facilities by municipality. (1) The just compensation for electric distribution facilities and service rights shall be:

(a) The present-day reproduction cost, new, of the electric distribution facilities being acquired, less depreciation computed on a straight-line basis over thirty-five years with such depreciation being limited to one-half of such cost; and

(b) An amount equal to the cost of constructing any necessary facilities to reintegrate the system of the cooperative electric association located outside the municipality or the area annexed by the municipality after detaching the electric distribution facilities to be sold; and

(c) An annual amount, payable each year for a period of ten years following the date of purchase, equal to twenty-five percent of the revenues received by the municipality from the sale of electric power to the services within such municipality which were previously served by the cooperative electric association; and

(d) An annual amount equal to five percent of the revenues received by the municipality from the sale of electric power to the additional services that come into existence in the affected area, for each year for a period of ten years following the date of acquisition.

(2) If the cooperative electric association and the municipality cannot agree on the amount to be paid pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, either party may bring an action for condemnation or inverse condemnation in the district court for the county in which the property is located to determine the amount to be paid pursuant to the factors stated in subsection (1) of this section. During the pendency of any such action, the municipality shall deposit with the court the amount the municipality has offered to be paid the cooperative electric association, and, upon said payment, the municipality shall have the right to serve all electric customers within the annexed area.

ANNOTATION

Statutory scheme set forth in §§ 40-9.5-201 to 40-9.5-207 is not unconstitutional since such sections do not mandate that a public utility transfer all its customers and facilities to a municipality upon a notice of annexation by the municipality. Thus, there may not be a taking under the statutory scheme which would otherwise preclude regulation by the P.U.C. in such areas. This section, which provides for situations where the municipality can compete with the public utility, does not conflict with section 35 of article V of the state constitution. Nor does the statutory scheme violate section 25 of article V prohibiting special legislation or section 15 of article II governing just compensation for takings of property for public use. Poudre Valley Rural Elec. v. Loveland, 807 P.2d 547 (Colo. 1991).

“Revenues” under paragraph (c) of subsection (1) means both the base charge and usage charge received by the municipality. Poudre Valley Rural Elec. v. Loveland, 807 P.2d 547 (Colo. 1991).

40-9.5-205. Purchase by cooperative electric association of electric distribution facilities and service rights of municipality. If any municipality changes its boundaries so as to exclude from its corporate limits any territory previously served by a cooperative electric association, such municipality shall give, within thirty days, written notice to the association of such exclusion of territory, and the cooperative electric association, within one hundred twenty days after receipt of such notice, shall purchase the municipality's electric distribution facilities and service rights within the excluded area. Section 40-9.5-204 shall apply to acquisitions by a cooperative electric association pursuant to this section.

Source: L. 86: Entire part added, p. 1161, § 1, effective May 27.

40-9.5-206. Provisions on purchase nonexclusive - no effect on existing contracts. (1) Nothing contained in this part 2 shall prohibit a municipality and a cooperative electric association from buying, selling, or exchanging electric distribution facilities, service rights, and other rights, property, and assets by mutual agreement.

(2) Nothing in this part 2 shall impair the obligations of existing contracts.

ANNOTATION

Statute reflects legislative intent to articulate and affirm state policy that a municipality may purchase the service rights and facilities of cooperative public utilities. City of Colo. Springs v. Mountain View Elec. Ass'n, Inc., 925 P.2d 1378 (Colo. App. 1995).

40-9.5-207. Applicability. (1) This part 2 shall apply to all cooperative electric associations which have electric distribution facilities, franchises, certificates of public convenience and necessity, rights-of-way, or appurtenances to facilities which are included in the boundaries of a municipality which after May 27, 1986, commences operation of its own electric utility or are included in an area annexed by a municipality which owns and operates an electric utility.

(2) Notwithstanding any statutory provision to the contrary, the procedures in this part 2 relating to the allocation and conveyance of property and property rights of any cooperative electric association to any municipality or of any municipality to any cooperative electric association shall be exclusively available to such municipality and to such cooperative electric association.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, “Control Over Motor Carriers by the Public Utilities Commission”, see 33 Dicta 138 (1956).

Annotator’s note. Cases material to this section decided prior to its earliest source, L. 27, p. 499, § 1, have been included in the annotations to this section. Since § 40-10.1-101 is similar to §§ 40-10-101 and 40-11-101 as they existed prior to the 2011 reorganization of the motor carrier statutes, relevant cases construing those sections have been included in the annotations to this section.

This article is constitutional. Bushnell v. People, 92 Colo. 174, 19 P.2d 197 (1933); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. DeLue, 175 Colo. 317, 486 P.2d 1050 (1971).

Legislative intent in establishing several types of motor vehicle transportation. The general assembly established several types of motor vehicle transportation, including common and contract carriage. By doing so, without question it intended to protect the public health, safety, and general welfare by providing a framework for the better transportation of persons and property. Denver Cleanup Serv. Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

This statute was enacted for the purpose of regulating any detrimental effect that contract carriers might have upon common carrier operation. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Stanton Transp. Co., 153 Colo. 372, 386 P.2d 590 (1963); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. DeLue, 175 Colo. 317, 486 P.2d 1050 (1971).

Contract carriers remain outside scope of regulation. This article was enacted for the regulation of motor vehicle carriers, but the act does not encompass private carriers. Private carriers remain outside the scope of regulation. Burbridge v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 91 Colo. 134, 12 P.2d 1115 (1932); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Stanton Transp. Co., 153 Colo. 372, 386 P.2d 590 (1963).

Neither the general assembly nor the commission has precisely defined contract carriage. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

One may look in vain in the statutes or in the rulings of the commission and of the supreme court for a clear definition of contract carriage or for an articulation of specific guidelines to be followed in the issuance of a contract carrier permit. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

The fundamental distinction between a common and contract carrier is that the contract carrier enters into a contract with each of his customers and assumes no obligation to carry for any other, while the common carrier undertakes to carry for all persons indifferently. Ward Transp. Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 76, 376 P.2d 166 (1962).

The principal statutory distinction between the two is that a contract carrier is one which is not a common carrier. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

One of the fundamental distinctions between a contract carrier and a common carrier is that a contract carrier has an obligation only to his contract-customers and has no obligation to others desiring carriage. In contrast, the common carrier must convey for all desiring its transportation. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

A motor vehicle carrier cannot at the same time be both a contract carrier and a common carrier by utilizing one part of a truck for common-carrier service and another part of the same truck for contract-carrier service. Such a holding would make regulatory power ridiculous. McKay v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 104 Colo. 402, 91 P.2d 965 (1939).

Situation in which carrier is neither common nor private or contract. A milk company that transports all the milk it produces to its processing plant, f.o.b. at the producers' stations is neither a common carrier nor a private or contract carrier for hire, because it then hauls only its own property. Colo. Milk Transp., Inc. v. Safeway Stores, Inc., 269 F.2d 755 (10th Cir. 1959).

Indiscriminately accepting freight is undoubtedly one of the important tests in ascertaining whether or not a certain operation has the elements of a common carrier. Greeley Transp. Co. v. People, 79 Colo. 307, 245 P. 720 (1926); Burbridge v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 91 Colo. 134, 12 P.2d 1115 (1932); Bushnell v. People, 92 Colo. 174, 19 P.2d 197 (1933); McDill v. North E. Motor Freight, Inc., 92 Colo. 198, 19 P.2d 204 (1933); McKay v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 104 Colo. 402, 91 P.2d 965 (1939); Ward Transp., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 76, 376 P.2d 166 (1962).

Carrier who does not accept freight for hire indiscriminately is not a common carrier. A motor vehicle operator engaged in the transportation of freight for hire under contracts with various individuals is not a common carrier because he does not hold himself out as willing to, and does not in fact, accept freight for transportation for hire indiscriminately for all who might or did seek such service. Ward Transp., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 76, 376 P.2d 166 (1962).

By legislative mandate, contract carriers are public utilities. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Stanton Transp. Co., 153 Colo. 372, 386 P.2d 590 (1963).

Authority as to contract carriers is solely statutory. The commission's authority over common carriers stems from both the constitution and the statutes, while its authority with respect to contract motor carriers is solely statutory. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

There is agreement as to certain characteristics. While the definition of contract carriage has never been clarified by legislation or the commission, there is general agreement as to certain contract carriage characteristics: (1) A contract carrier cannot serve the general public; (2) a contract carrier cannot participate in the formal rate-making process of the commission; and (3) a contract carrier cannot interline. Also, a contract carrier may not advertise in any newspaper, magazine, or other publication or otherwise hold itself out to serve the public indiscriminately. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

"Contract" means in the interest of the individual, as distinguished from enterprise or business operated by or on behalf of the public, or of any official function performed for public benefit. Colo. Contractors Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 128 Colo. 333, 262 P.2d 266 (1953).

Contract carriage not declared public utility. The general assembly has declared that a "common carrier" is a "public utility". However, contract carriage has not been so declared. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

A contract carrier provides service at its convenience and subject to the negotiation of a satisfactory agreement between the private carrier and its customer. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. DeLue, 175 Colo. 317, 486 P.2d 1050 (1971).

Example of contract carrier. A motor vehicle operator engaged in the transportation of freight for hire under contracts with various individuals is not a common carrier because he does not hold himself out as willing to, and does not in fact, accept freight for transportation for hire indiscriminately for all who might or did seek such service. Ward Transp., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 76, 376 P.2d 166 (1962).

Test used in determining whether applicant is contract carrier held invalid. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

A guideline of the public utilities commission (PUC) requiring that, to be considered a contract carrier, the proposed service must be beyond the capabilities of an authorized common carrier in effect grants a monopoly to common carriers, eliminating the need for contract carriage except under too limited circumstances. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

The guidelines used by the commission in determining whether an applicant is to be considered a contract carrier promote too strongly the demise of contract carriers, and since the legislative purpose negates a result that either class be obliterated by the commission's fiat, it follows that the commission's test violates legislative intent and purpose. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

Guidelines to be considered by commission. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

The constitution and the statutes of this state have given to the business of trash hauling the status of a matter of statewide concern, subject to the jurisdiction of the PUC. Under such circumstances, a city has no power to pass an ordinance that is in conflict with the exercise by the commission of its statutory power. Givigliano v. Veltri, 180 Colo. 10, 501 P.2d 1044 (1972).

"Property" embraces matter removed to dumps. The word "property" as applied to the act is intended to and does embrace the transportation for hire of matter and things that the parties remove from various households and establishments and haul to nearby dumps. Schlagel v. Hoelsken, 162 Colo. 142, 425 P.2d 39, cert. denied, 389 U.S. 827, 88 S. Ct. 81, 19 L. Ed. 2d 83 (1967).

Right of property exists in refuse material until it is destroyed. Although the owner of refuse materials may regard them as of no value, still the right to their possession and the need for their disposal are within the control of the individual owner. All of these materials have certain valuable uses under varied circumstances, and even though the owner desires to dispose of or destroy such materials, the right of property continues until disposed of or destroyed. In performing such disposal service, appellant was clearly engaged in the business of a common carrier. Schlagel v. Hoelsken, 162 Colo. 142, 425 P.2d 39, cert. denied, 389 U.S. 827, 88 S. Ct. 81, 19 L. Ed. 2d 83 (1967).

Vehicles engaged in transporting trash are within meaning of section. The amendment of § 40-10-101 expressly to include in the definition of "motor vehicle carrier", as follows: "any motor vehicle used in serving the public in the business of transportation of ashes, trash, waste, rubbish, and garbage", did not change the law; it merely clarified it. Schlagel v. Hoelsken, 162 Colo. 142, 425 P.2d 39, cert. denied, 389 U.S. 827, 88 S. Ct. 81, 19 L. Ed. 2d 83 (1967).

This section applies to common carriers, that is one whose business occupation or regular calling is to carry chattels for all persons who may choose to employ and remunerate him. Bushnell v. People, 92 Colo. 174, 19 P.2d 197 (1933).

Those who merely secure passengers desiring to make trips as paying guests for private parties planning motor vehicle trips are not functioning as a public utility warranting regulation by the commission. Yellow Cab Coop. Ass'n v. Colo. Ground Transp. Center, Inc., 654 P.2d 1331 (Colo. App. 1982).

Section applies to all persons operating privately for hire. The statute does not attempt to include one class of motor vehicle operators for hire and exclude another class also transporting for hire; it includes all persons operating privately for hire. Bushnell v. People, 92 Colo. 174, 19 P.2d 197 (1933).

This article does not include one who transports his or her own goods in his or her own vehicle from one place to another on the public highways and sells the same for a profit. People v. Montgomery, 92 Colo. 201, 19 P.2d 205 (1933).

As to what "interlining" consists of, see Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

Factors relevant in determining an applicant's fitness and ability to perform under a permit are discussed in Acme Delivery Serv. v. Cargo Freight Sys., 704 P.2d 839 (Colo. 1985).

(2) The Colorado state patrol has the power to monitor and enforce compliance with the certificate and permit requirements of this article and article 10.5 of this title.

(b) The circumstances under which a towing carrier may perform a nonconsensual tow of a motor vehicle, the responsibilities and facilities of the towing carrier for the care or storage of the motor vehicle and its contents, and the minimum and maximum rates and charges to be collected by the towing carrier for the nonconsensual towing and storage of the motor vehicle. ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Prescription of Rules and Regulations.
- III. Prescription of Rates.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Annotator's note. Since § 40-10.1-106 is similar to §§ 40-11-105 and 40-13-107 as they existed prior to the 2011 reorganization of the motor carrier statutes, relevant cases construing those sections have been included in the annotations to this section.

Legislative intent is clear, that the authorization of contract carriers shall not be detrimental, within the limits of the law, to common-carrier operation, and that motor transportation be coordinated in such a way as to preserve common-carrier operation and not to impair the integrity of state regulation of common-carrier service. McKay v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 104 Colo. 402, 91 P.2d 965 (1939).

Applied in Pollard Contracting Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 7 (Colo. 1982).

II. PRESCRIPTION OF RULES AND REGULATIONS.

The public utilities commission (PUC) has broad constitutional and statutory authority. However, the breadth of that authority is to be tested by the statutes themselves and not by the unbridled whim of the commission. The commission is a creature of statute. Both the power and scope of its authority and its procedures are necessarily controlled by the act upon which it relies. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Motorway, Inc., 165 Colo. 1, 437 P.2d 44 (1968).

Commission must comply with "procedural due process". The PUC, in a general investigation held for the purpose of promulgating rules and regulations, cannot, regardless of the type of evidence that may be presented to it, revoke, amend, or alter permits or certificates of participating parties. It must comply with the statutory procedural requirements which would legally justify the end sought to be accomplished, issue a notice, hold a hearing at which the respondent is given an opportunity to defend itself, and finally, enter its decision in accordance with the evidence. Anything less will not satisfy the statute nor that quality of fairness required by "procedural due process". Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Motorway, Inc., 165 Colo. 1, 437 P.2d 44 (1968).

Request for records authorized by rule under this section was not an unconstitutional warrantless search. The PUC therefore could assess a civil penalty for the carrier's refusal to produce the records. Eddie's Leaf Spring v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 218 P.3d 326 (Colo. 2009).

Commission authorized to deny application for transfer of permit. When § 40-11-103 and this section are read together, and in light of the general public policy of the law to protect common carriers, it is apparent that denial of an application for transfer of a permit is within the PUC's regulatory authority. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

The PUC may properly deny a transfer of a contract carrier's permit wherever there is a substantial opportunity for a transferee, because of its advantageous position in the industry, to discriminate or compete unfairly. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

Finding of actual intent unnecessary for denial. It is not necessary that the PUC find actual intent before it may deny a transfer of a contract carrier's permit. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

Carrier should not be denied certificate merely for prior unlawful conduct unless that unlawful conduct reached the level of intentional or reckless violations of the PUC's rules and regulations. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

Once having granted one or even several waivers of its rules, the PUC was not bound to continue to grant waivers, the approval of which is more a matter of grace than of right. B & M Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 163 Colo. 228, 429 P.2d 293 (1967).

The emergency letters permitted by PUC rules governing contract motor vehicle carriers are improperly used when they enable another company to set up a transportation service for which it had no authority. Rumney v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 172 Colo. 314, 472 P.2d 149 (1970).

When determining whether a contract carrier is offering distinctly different or superior service to that offered by an authorized common carrier, the commission may consider a contract carrier's ancillary, nontransportation services. Ace West Trucking v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 788 P.2d 755 (Colo. 1990).

No lien on personal property in a towed vehicle. The rules of the PUC governing towing carriers cannot be interpreted to grant or impose a lien upon personal property in a towed motor vehicle when the vehicle is removed from public property. Jam Action, Inc. v. Colo. State Patrol, 890 P.2d 210 (Colo. App. 1994).

Condition that towing carriers must agree to release personal property items inside a towed vehicle to the owner before payment of any accrued charges in order to be on a rotation towing list of the Colorado state patrol does not conflict with the PUC's authority to license and regulate towing carriers and does not supersede the exercise of the constitutional and statutory authority granted to the PUC nor abrogate its action. Jam Action, Inc. v. Colo. State Patrol, 890 P.2d 210 (Colo. App. 1994).

Standard on review. Determination by the PUC of whether a substantial opportunity for discrimination or unfair competition exists should not be disturbed unless it is unsupported by competent evidence or is arbitrary and capricious. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

III. PRESCRIPTION OF RATES.

Commission's duty to adopt rates. It is of particular significance that the general assembly in this section not only granted power and authority but also made it the commission's duty to adopt rates. Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Section not applicable unless contract carrier competing with common carrier in rendering substantially same service. If a contract carrier is not competing with a common carrier and if the former is not rendering a service substantially the same or similar to that of the common carrier, then the terms and provisions of subsection (2) do not come into play and the tariff filed with the PUC is lawful, even though calling for rates less than those of the common carrier. Denver-Climax Truck Line v. Jim Chelf, Inc., 167 Colo. 69, 445 P.2d 399 (1968).

Rules by commission which establish the manner in which the minimum rate for a contract carrier competing with a common carrier is to be determined, which require a contract carrier competing with any scheduled common carrier to file a tariff of rates and charges not less than the lowest rate prescribed for any competing common carrier providing substantially the same or similar service, and which authorize the commission to change any tariff or rate of any contract carrier competing with a motor vehicle common carrier providing substantially the same or similar service, are consistent with the doctrine of regulated competition and are in accord with the commission's statutory authority to prescribe minimum rates for contract carriers not less than the rates prescribed for common carriers providing substantially the same or similar service. Regular Rt. Com. Carrier Conf. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 761 P.2d 737 (1988).

Rates to protect public and prevent destructive rate-making. The commission has been charged with the duty to carry out its mission in two areas, to wit: To protect the public and to prevent destructive rate-making which could result in nonavailability of the service to the public. Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Duty to prescribe rates for contract carriers tied to same duty for common carriers. Reading this section it would be impossible for the commission to carry out a duty to prescribe minimum rates for contract carriers if it established no rates for common carriers. The one duty is tied in with the other, and the prescribed rates for one class are the basis for the minimum rates for the other. Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Fairness of rate left to commission. The general assembly itself has declared the necessity and the duty and left to the commission the determination of a rate that is fair to the public and sufficiently compensatory to the utility to ensure a fair return on its investment. Regulation—not nonregulation—has been declared to be in the public interest. Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm’n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Mandamus is proper only where there is a legal duty to perform the act requested. Where the PUC has no clear legal duty to reject or annul the rates published, then until the PUC has determined that contract and common carriers are competing and that the services are substantially similar to those rendered by a competing common carrier, it has no duty to reject those rates, and no right to relief in the nature of mandamus in the trial court will lie. Denver-Laramie-Walden Truck Line v. Denver-Fort Collins Freight Serv., Inc., 156 Colo. 366, 399 P.2d 242 (1965).

40-10.1-107. Financial responsibility - filing. (1) Each motor carrier shall maintain and file with the commission evidence of financial responsibility in such sum, for such protection, and in such form as the commission may by rule require as the commission deems necessary to adequately safeguard the public interest.

(2) The financial responsibility required by subsection (1) of this section must be in the form of a liability insurance policy issued by an insurance carrier or insurer authorized to do business in this state, or a surety bond issued by a company authorized to do business in this state, or proof of self-insurance.

(3) An insurance policy, surety bond, or self-insurance pursuant to subsection (2) of this section shall be kept continuously effective during the life of a certificate or permit and the commission shall require such evidence of continued validity as the commission deems necessary.

(4) No termination of an insurance policy or surety bond is valid unless the insurer or surety has notified both the holder of the policy or bond and the commission at least thirty days before the effective date of the termination.

40-10.1-108. Commission to make safety rules. (1) The commission has the authority and duty to establish, for motor carriers subject to parts 2 and 3 of this article, reasonable rules to promote safety of operation.

(2) For the purpose of carrying out this section pertaining to safety, the commission may obtain the assistance of any agency of the United States or of this state having special knowledge of any matter necessary to promote the safety of operation and equipment of motor vehicles. In adopting such rules, the commission shall use as general guidelines the standards contained in the current rules and regulations of the United States department of transportation relating to safety regulations, qualifications of drivers, driving of motor vehicles, parts and accessories, recording and reporting of accidents, hours of service of drivers, and inspection and maintenance of motor vehicles.

40-10.1-109. Motor carrier compliance with safety rules. (1) A motor carrier subject to part 2 or 3 of this article shall comply with the safety rules adopted by the commission pursuant to section 40-10.1-108.

(2) A motor carrier operating a motor vehicle that is defined as a commercial vehicle in section 42-4-235 (1) (a), C.R.S., shall comply with the safety rules adopted by the department of public safety pursuant to section 24-33.5-203 (1) (b), C.R.S., in addition to the rules adopted by the commission under subsection (1) of this section.

(3) Nothing in subsection (1) or (2) of this section diminishes the authority of the commission, the department of public safety, a peace officer, or any other agent of government to enforce the laws of this state.

40-10.1-110. Criminal history record check. (1) An individual who wishes to drive either a taxicab for a motor carrier that is the holder of a certificate to provide taxicab service issued under part 2 of this article or a motor vehicle for a motor carrier that is the holder of a permit to operate as a charter bus, children's activity bus, luxury limousine, or off-road scenic charter under part 3 of this article shall submit a set of his or her fingerprints to the commission. The commission shall forward the fingerprints to the Colorado bureau of investigation for the purpose of obtaining a fingerprint-based criminal history record check. Upon receipt of fingerprints and payment for the costs, the Colorado bureau of investigation shall conduct a state and national fingerprint-based criminal history record check using records of the Colorado bureau of investigation and the federal bureau of investigation. The commission is the authorized agency to receive information regarding the result of a national criminal history record check. The individual whose fingerprints are checked shall pay the actual costs of the state and national fingerprint-based criminal history record check.

(2) An individual whose fingerprints are checked pursuant to subsection (1) of this section may, pending the results of the criminal history record check, drive such motor vehicles for the motor carrier described in subsection (1) of this section for up to ninety days after the commission forwards the fingerprints to the Colorado bureau of investigation or until the commission receives the results of the check, whichever occurs first. Upon the commission's receipt of the results, the individual may resume driving motor vehicles for the motor carrier described in subsection (1) of this section, so long as the driving does not violate applicable law and does not occur while the individual has a criminal conviction on his or her record that disqualifies and prohibits him or her from driving a motor vehicle pursuant to subsection (3) of this section.

(3) An individual whose criminal history record is checked pursuant to this section is disqualified and prohibited from driving motor vehicles for the motor carrier described in subsection (1) of this section if the criminal history record check reflects that:

(a) The individual is not of good moral character, as determined by the commission based on the results of the check;

(b) (I) The individual has been convicted of a felony or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude.

(II) As used in this paragraph (b), "moral turpitude" includes any unlawful sexual offense against a child, as defined in section 18-3-411, C.R.S., or a comparable offense in any other state or in the United States.

(c) Within the two years immediately preceding the date the criminal history record check is completed, the individual was:

(I) Convicted in this state of driving under the influence, as defined in section 42-4-1301 (1) (f), C.R.S.; driving with excessive alcoholic content, as described in section 42-4-1301 (2) (a), C.R.S.; driving while ability impaired, as defined in section 42-4-1301 (1) (g), C.R.S.; or driving while an habitual user of a controlled substance, as described in section 42-4-1301 (1) (c), C.R.S.; or

(II) Convicted of a comparable offense in any other state or in the United States.

(4) The commission shall consider the information resulting from the criminal history record check in its determination as to whether the individual has met the standards set forth in section 24-5-101 (2), C.R.S.

(5) An individual whose fingerprints were checked pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall, as a condition of continued qualification to drive a motor vehicle for a motor carrier, resubmit a set of his or her fingerprints to the commission in accordance with the commission's rules.

(6) Each motor carrier described in subsection (1) of this section shall ensure driver compliance with this section and with commission rules promulgated pursuant to this section. Nothing in this subsection (6) makes a driver an employee of the motor carrier.

(7) The commission shall, consistent with the requirements of this section, promulgate rules concerning the employment of, contracting with, and retention of an individual whose criminal history record is checked pursuant to this section, and the frequency and circumstances requiring resubmission of fingerprints.

40-10.1-111. Filing, issuance, and annual fees - repeal. (1) A motor carrier shall pay the commission the following fees in amounts prescribed in this section or, if not so prescribed, as set administratively by the commission with approval of the executive director of the department of regulatory agencies:

(a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), the filing fee for an application for a temporary authority, certificate, or permit under part 2 of this article or for an extension, amendment, transfer, or lease of a temporary authority, certificate, or permit is thirty-five dollars, and the fee for issuance of a temporary authority, certificate, or permit under part 2 of this article is five dollars.

(b) The commission shall administratively set the filing fee for an application under part 2 of this article to provide taxicab service within and between the counties of Adams, Arapahoe, Boulder, Broomfield, Denver, Douglas, El Paso, and Jefferson.

(c) (I) The filing fee for a permit to operate under part 4 of this article is one hundred fifty dollars.

(II) (A) Notwithstanding subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c), a towing carrier that filed proof of a surety bond as required by section 40-10.1-401 (3) before May 24, 2012, is exempt from the filing fee until the bond expires.

(B) This subparagraph (II) is repealed, effective July 1, 2014.

(d) The commission shall administratively set the annual filing fee for a permit to operate under part 5 of this article; except that the fee may not exceed three hundred twenty-five dollars.

(e) The filing fee for a temporary permit to operate as a mover pursuant to section 40-10.1-502 (5) (a) is one hundred fifty dollars.

(f) The commission shall administratively set the annual fee for each motor vehicle a motor carrier owns, controls, operates, or manages.

(2) Except for a mover holding a permit issued under part 5 of this article and a motor carrier that has paid a fee pursuant to article 10.5 of this title, a motor carrier shall not operate any motor vehicle in intrastate commerce unless the annual fees required by paragraph (f) of subsection (1) of this section have been paid. Such fees apply on a calendar year basis and are creditable only to the specific vehicles for which the fees have been paid.

(3) Administratively set fees must be based on the appropriation made for the purposes specified in section 40-2-110 (2) (a) (I), subject to the approval of the executive director of the department of regulatory agencies, such that the revenue generated from all motor carrier fees approximates the direct and indirect costs of the commission in the supervision and regulation of motor carriers.

(4) The commission shall transmit all fees collected under this section to the state treasurer, who shall credit them to the public utilities commission motor carrier fund created in section 40-2-110.5.

Editor's note: Section 6 of chapter 217, Session Laws of Colorado 2012, provides that the act amending subsection (1)(c) applies to towing carriers that applied for permits on, before, or after May 24, 2012.

40-10.1-112. Commission may take action against certificate or permit. (1) Except as specified in subsection (3) of this section, the commission, at any time, by order duly entered, after hearing upon notice to the motor carrier and upon proof of violation, may issue an order to cease and desist or may suspend, revoke, alter, or amend any certificate or permit issued to the motor carrier under this article for the following reasons:

(a) A violation of this article or of any term or condition of the motor carrier's certificate or permit;

(b) Exceeding the authority granted by a certificate or permit;

(c) A violation or refusal to observe any of the proper orders or rules of the commission;

(d) For a towing carrier, a violation of any of the provisions set forth in part 18 or 21 of article 4 of title 42, C.R.S., or a conviction, guilty plea, or plea of nolo contendere to a felony;

(e) For a mover, failure or refusal to abide by the terms of an arbitrator's award under section 40-10.1-507, or failure to satisfy the requirements for a new or renewed permit under section 40-10.1-502.

(2) Any person may file a complaint against a motor carrier for a violation of this article or a rule adopted under this article. The complainant may request any relief that the commission, in its authority, may grant, including an order to cease and desist, suspension or revocation of the motor carrier's certificate or permit, or assessment of civil penalties. Upon proof of violation, the commission may issue an order to cease and desist, suspend or revoke the motor carrier's certificate or permit, assess civil penalties as provided in article 7 of this title, or take any other action within the commission's authority. In assessing civil penalties under this subsection (2), the commission is not constrained by the procedural requirements of section 40-7-116.

(3) Notwithstanding the notice and hearing provisions of subsection (1) of this section, the commission shall summarily suspend the certificate or permit of any motor carrier for failure to maintain effective insurance or surety bond coverage and file evidence of the same in accordance with section 40-10.1-107 and rules adopted pursuant thereto. The commission shall reinstate such summarily suspended certificate or permit within a time period specified in, and in accordance with, the rules of the commission.

(4) A motor carrier whose certificate or permit has been revoked for cause more than twice is not eligible for another such certificate or permit for at least two years after the date of the third such revocation. In the case of an entity, the two-year period of ineligibility also applies to all principals, officers, and directors of the entity, whether or not any such principal, officer, or director applies individually or as a principal, officer, or director of the same or a different entity. As used in this subsection (4), "revoked for cause" does not include a revocation for failure to carry the required insurance unless it is shown that the person knowingly operated without insurance.

(5) Any commission action under subsection (1) or (2) of this section must conform to the provisions and procedures specified in article 6 of this title. The motor carrier has all the rights to the opportunity for a hearing, review, and appeal as to such order or ruling of the commission as are now provided by articles 1 to 7 of this title. No appeal from or review of any order or ruling of the commission supersedes or suspends such order or rulings unless specifically ordered by the proper court.

Annotator's note. Since § 40-10.1-112 is similar to §§ 40-10-112, 40-11-110, and 40-13-103 as they existed prior to the 2011 reorganization of the motor carrier statutes, relevant cases construing those sections have been included in the annotations to this section.

This section empowers the public utilities commission (PUC) to order a revocation or to alter or to amend a certificate of public convenience and necessity for a violation of its rules and regulations. Colo. Transf. & Storage, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 180 Colo. 327, 505 P.2d 370 (1973).

Procedural due process requires that in addition to a fair and open hearing, there must be due notice and an opportunity to be heard, and the procedure must be consistent with the essentials of a fair trial, and the agency must act upon evidence and not arbitrarily. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Motorway, Inc., 165 Colo. 1, 437 P.2d 44 (1968).

Facts determine what is proper notice. The question of what is proper notice, or, as here, of what constitutes a specific designation of the issue raised or charges made, depends necessarily upon the facts of each case, the type of investigation being conducted, the violation alleged, and the penalty or order sought to be imposed. Where the purpose of the investigation by the PUC is only to determine the reasonableness of rates charged by a utility, a different standard would seem to apply than where the franchise of the utility is sought to be revoked for violation of the utility laws and a penalty or fine imposed. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Motorway, Inc., 165 Colo. 1, 437 P.2d 44 (1968).

Authority to revoke permit. If the evidence supports a finding that the statutes governing the regulation of the particular carrier and the rules and regulations of the commission have in fact been violated, it is clear that the commission has the statutory authority to revoke the violator's PUC permit. Rumney v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 172 Colo. 314, 472 P.2d 149 (1970).

This section requires before revocation, alteration, or amendment of a private permit, a hearing after notice of alleged violations of law, rules, and regulations or the terms of the permit. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Motorway, Inc., 165 Colo. 1, 437 P.2d 44 (1968).

Commission cannot revoke a contract carrier permit without compliance with the notice and hearing provisions of this section. Red Ball Motor Freight, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 438, 525 P.2d 439 (1974).

Where the commission did not give notice or hold a hearing, it had no authority to revoke a contract carrier's certificate. Miller Bros. v. Pub.

Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

A hearing must be held before the commission can take administrative action regarding alteration of previously granted permits to provide contract carrier service. J.C. Trucking v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 776 P.2d 366 (Colo. 1989).

Cancellation of "occasional service" portion of carrier's certificate held no abuse of commission's discretion. Colo. Transf. & Storage, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 180 Colo. 327, 505 P.2d 370 (1973).

The commission has no authority to impose a monetary fine as an alternative to revoking a permit or certificate. Haney v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 194 Colo. 481, 574 P.2d 863 (1978) (decided prior to amendment authorizing imposition of a civil penalty).

Right of review upon cancellation of certificate. The penalty ordered by the commission was that the carrier's certificate and permit be cancelled unless he elected to accept certain restrictions. The carrier had the right to have the propriety of the commission's decision, which includes findings and conclusions, as well as an order, reviewed by the courts and was not required to make an election until he has obtained such judicial review. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Tucker, 167 Colo. 130, 445 P.2d 901 (1968).

No property right to be on tow list. Towing carriers do not have an unqualified property right to be included on the rotation tow list of the Colorado state patrol by virtue of their permits issued as required by this section. Jam Action, Inc. v. Colo. State Patrol, 890 P.2d 210 (Colo. App. 1994).

Enforcement action against airport limousine service was subject to federal preemption and violated the commerce clause, art. 1, § 8, of the U.S. constitution. E. W. Resort Transp., LLC v. Binz, 494 F. Supp. 2d 1197 (D. Colo. 2007).

40-10.1-113. Penalty for violations. Any person who provides transportation in intrastate commerce without first obtaining a certificate or permit, violates any of the terms thereof, fails or refuses to make any return or report required by the commission, denies to the commission access to the books and records of such person, or makes any false return or report commits a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished as provided in section 40-10.1-114.

ANNOTATION

The failure of the commission to take action against one who exceeds the authority granted does not ripen into a grant of authority to carry on an illegal operation. McKenna v.

Nigro, 150 Colo. 335, 372 P.2d 744 (1962) (decided prior to 2011 reorganization of motor carrier statutes).

40-10.1-114. Penalty for violation of article. (1) Every motor carrier and every officer, agent, or employee of a motor carrier and every other person who violates or fails to comply with or who procures, aids, or abets in the violation of this article, who fails to obey, observe, or comply with any order, decision, or rule of the commission adopted under this article, or who procures, aids, or abets any person in such failure to obey or observe such order, decision, or rule commits a class 2 misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-501, C.R.S.

(2) An individual who is employed by or who contracts with a motor carrier and who operates a motor vehicle for the motor carrier's business in violation of section 40-10.1-110 commits a class 2 misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-501, C.R.S.

(3) Each day of a continuing violation of this article constitutes a separate offense.

40-10.1-115. Jurisdiction of courts. The district court or, within its jurisdiction, the county court of any county in or through which a motor carrier operates has jurisdiction in all matters arising under this article on account of the operations of such motor carrier except as otherwise provided in this article and excepting those matters expressly delegated to the commission; and it is the duty of the district attorney for the county having jurisdiction to prosecute all violations of this article.

ANNOTATION

No authority vests in the reviewing courts the power to overturn a decision of the commission which it has the authority to make. Rumney v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 172 Colo. 314, 472 P.2d 149 (1970) (decided prior to 2011 reorganization of motor carrier statutes).

40-10.1-116. Commission to notify local authorities - procedure. (1) Whenever the commission is of the opinion that a motor carrier is failing or omitting to do anything required of it by law or by any order, decision, rule, direction, or requirement of the commission or is acting or is about to act or permitting an act or about to permit an act in violation of the law or of any order, decision, rule, direction, or requirement of the commission, the commission shall request the attorney general of the state or the district attorney of any district to commence an action or proceeding in the district court in and for the county or city and county in which the cause or some part thereof arose or in which the motor carrier complained of maintains a principal place of business or resides. Such action or proceeding must be conducted in accordance with section 40-7-104; except that references in section 40-7-104 to the attorney general include any district attorney bringing the action or proceeding.

(2) Appellate review may be obtained in the supreme court concerning a final judgment in an action or proceeding under this section in the same manner and with the same effect, subject to this article, as appellate review of judgments of the district court in other actions for mandamus or injunction.

(3) A person injured by the noncompliance of a motor carrier with this article or any other provision of law or an order, decision, rule, direction, or requirement of the commission may apply to a court of competent jurisdiction for the enforcement thereof, and the court has jurisdiction to enforce obedience thereto by injunction or other proper process, mandatory or otherwise, and to restrain the motor carrier and its officers, agents, employees, or representatives from further disobedience thereof, or to enjoin upon them obedience to the same, and any person so injured has cause of action in damages and is privileged to pursue the usual and proper remedies as in any other case.

Annotator's note. Since § 40-10.1-116 is similar to §§ 40-10-115 and 40-11-113 as they existed prior to the 2011 reorganization of the motor carrier statutes, relevant cases construing those sections have been included in the annotations to this section.

The public utilities commission (PUC) has been granted legislative authority to invoke the aid of the attorney general and to resort to the courts to see to it that laws, rules, regulations, orders, and decisions dealing with public utilities are obeyed, enforced, and made effective. The PUC can do this on its own volition and no doubt could and would do so at the request of an aggrieved party. Don Ward, Inc. v. Miller, 154 Colo. 370, 390 P.2d 812 (1964).

Investigation and enforcement. The general assembly did not by these sections contemplate that every alleged violation of the terms of a certificate of public convenience and necessity had to be heard in a court of record. The commission has inherent power to investigate alleged violations and to make its orders, subject to review as provided by law. Enforcement of its orders may become a matter for judicial determination in which event this section applies. Eveready Freight Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 131 Colo. 172, 280 P.2d 442 (1955); Don Ward, Inc. v. Miller, 154 Colo. 370, 390 P.2d 812 (1964).

The PUC is clothed with general powers to regulate and control carriers for hire within the state. Hanseman v. Hamilton, 176 F. Supp. 371 (D. Colo. 1959).

Section has no extraterritorial effect. It is generally presumed that a statute was not intended to have extraterritorial effect unless there is definite expression of such intent; there is no such definitive expression in this section. Hanseman v. Hamilton, 176 F. Supp. 371 (D. Colo. 1959).

Section prescribes procedure. When the commission seeks enforcement of its final orders, decisions, and rules relating to motor vehicle carriers, this section prescribes the procedure to be adopted and followed in the enforcement of said orders, decisions, and rules.

Eveready Freight Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 131 Colo. 172, 280 P.2d 442 (1955).

Commission does not have exclusive jurisdiction over enforcement of orders. Although the supreme court recognized and gave full force and effect to the statute vesting PUC with authority to see to it that the law is complied with and to that end to invoke the aid of the attorney general and the courts, such holding cannot be construed to mean that the commission has exclusive jurisdiction over enforcement of its orders. Don Ward, Inc. v. Miller, 154 Colo. 370, 390 P.2d 812 (1964).

This section grants to an aggrieved party in plain and unequivocal language the right to institute and maintain an action to restrain a private carrier from violating its certificate to the damage of plaintiff—common carrier; and vest the court, if such be necessary, with jurisdiction to hear and dispose of the matter. Don Ward, Inc. v. Miller, 154 Colo. 370, 390 P.2d 812 (1964).

Administrative remedies need not be exhausted. The language of this section imposes no conditions to be met prior to invoking the aid of the district court, and the trial court in holding that the court was without jurisdiction until and unless the plaintiff had exhausted its administrative remedies, was in error. Don Ward, Inc. v. Miller, 154 Colo. 370, 390 P.2d 812 (1964).

The trial court has power to enjoin the defendant from operating in violation of the terms of his permit and to punish him for contempt for violation of its order. Resler v. North E. Motor Freight, Inc., 154 Colo. 52, 388 P.2d 255 (1964); Don Ward, Inc. v. Miller, 154 Colo. 370, 390 P.2d 812 (1964).

Where a certificated carrier filed an action in the district court seeking to enjoin another certificated carrier from transporting freight beyond the scope of the authority granted and to the injury of the plaintiff, the supreme court held that the trial court has power to enjoin the defendant from operating in violation of the terms of his permit and to punish him for contempt for violation of its order. Don Ward, Inc. v. Miller, 154 Colo. 370, 390 P.2d 812 (1964).

Applied in McDill v. North E. Motor Freight, Inc., 92 Colo. 198, 19 P.2d 204 (1933).

PART 2

MOTOR CARRIERS OF PASSENGERS - COMMON CARRIERS AND CONTRACT CARRIERS

40-10.1-201. Certificate required. (1) A person shall not operate or offer to operate as a common carrier in intrastate commerce without first having obtained from the commission a certificate declaring that the present or future public convenience and necessity requires or will require such operation.

(2) The fact that a person carries on operations, in whole or in part, between substantially fixed points or over established routes, or under contracts with more than one person, or by making repeated or periodic trips is prima facie evidence that the person is a common carrier and subject to this part 2 and part 1 of this article.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Cases material to this section decided prior to its earliest source, L. 27, p. 499, § 1, have been included in the annotations to this section. Since § 40-10.1-201 is similar to §§ 40-10-101 and 40-10-104 as they existed prior to the 2011 reorganization of the motor carrier statutes, relevant cases construing those sections have been included in the annotations to this section.

Legislative intent in establishing several types of motor vehicle transportation. The general assembly established several types of motor vehicle transportation, including common and contract carriage. By doing so, without question it intended to protect the public health, safety, and general welfare by providing a framework for the better transportation of persons and property. Denver Cleanup Serv. Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

This section applies to common carriers, that is one whose business occupation or regular calling is to carry chattels for all persons who may choose to employ and remunerate him. Bushnell v. People, 92 Colo. 174, 19 P.2d 197 (1933).

Contract carriers remain outside scope of regulation. This article was enacted for the regulation of motor vehicle carriers, but the act does not encompass private carriers. Private carriers remain outside the scope of regulation. Burbridge v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 91 Colo. 134, 12 P.2d 1115 (1932); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Stanton Transp. Co., 153 Colo. 372, 386 P.2d 590 (1963).

No clear definition of contract carriage. One may look in vain in the statutes or in the rulings of the commission and of the supreme court for a clear definition of contract carriage or for an articulation of specific guidelines to be followed in the issuance of a contract carrier permit. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

The fundamental distinction between a common and contract carrier is that the contract carrier enters into a contract with each of his customers and assumes no obligation to carry for any other, while the common carrier undertakes to carry for all persons indifferently. Ward Transp. Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 76, 376 P.2d 166 (1962).

The principal statutory distinction between the two is that a contract carrier is one which is not a common carrier. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

One of the fundamental distinctions between a contract carrier and a common carrier is that a contract carrier has an obligation only to his contract-customers and has no obligation to others desiring carriage. In contrast, the common carrier must convey for all desiring its transportation. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

A motor vehicle carrier cannot at the same time be both a contract carrier and a common carrier by utilizing one part of a truck for common-carrier service and another part of the same truck for contract-carrier service. Such a holding would make regulatory power ridiculous. McKay v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 104 Colo. 402, 91 P.2d 965 (1939).

Situation in which carrier is neither common nor private or contract. A milk company which transports all the milk it produces to its processing plant, f.o.b. at the producers' stations is neither a common carrier nor a private or contract carrier for hire, because it then hauls only its own property. Colo. Milk Transp., Inc. v. Safeway Stores, Inc., 269 F.2d 755 (10th Cir. 1959).

Indiscriminately accepting freight is undoubtedly one of the important tests in ascertaining whether or not a certain operation has the elements of a common carrier. Greeley Transp. Co. v. People, 79 Colo. 307, 245 P. 720 (1926); Burbridge v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 91 Colo. 134, 12 P.2d 1115 (1932); Bushnell v. People, 92 Colo. 174, 19 P.2d 197 (1933); McDill v. North E. Motor Freight, Inc., 92 Colo. 198, 19 P.2d 204 (1933); McKay v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 104 Colo. 402, 91 P.2d 965 (1939); Ward Transp., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 76, 376 P.2d 166 (1962).

Carrier who does not accept freight for hire indiscriminately is not a common carrier. A motor vehicle operator engaged in the transportation of freight for hire under contracts with various individuals is not a common carrier because he does not hold himself out as willing to, and does not in fact, accept freight for transportation for hire indiscriminately for all who might or did seek such service. Ward Transp., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 76, 376 P.2d 166 (1962).

Test used in determining whether applicant is contract carrier held invalid. Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

The constitution and the statutes of this state have given to the business of trash hauling the status of a matter of statewide concern, subject to the jurisdiction of the public utilities commission (PUC). Under such circumstances, a city has no power to pass an ordinance which is in conflict with the exercise by the commission of its statutory power. Givigliano v. Veltri, 180 Colo. 10, 501 P.2d 1044 (1972).

"Property" embraces matter removed to dumps. The word "property" as applied to the act is intended to and does embrace the transportation for hire of matter and things which the parties remove from various households and establishments and haul to nearby dumps. Schlagel v. Hoelsken, 162 Colo. 142, 425 P.2d 39, cert. denied, 389 U.S. 827, 88 S. Ct. 81, 19 L. Ed.2d 83 (1967).

Right of property exists in refuse material until it is destroyed. Although the owner of refuse materials may regard them as of no value, still the right to their possession and the need for their disposal are within the control of the individual owner. All of these materials have certain valuable uses under varied circumstances, and even though the owner desires to dispose of or destroy such materials, the right of property continues until disposed of or destroyed. In performing such disposal service, appellant was clearly engaged in the business of a common carrier. Schlagel v. Hoelsken, 162 Colo. 142, 425 P.2d 39, cert. denied, 389 U.S. 827, 88 S. Ct. 81, 19 L. Ed. 2d 83 (1967).

Vehicles engaged in transporting trash are within meaning of section. The amendment of § 40-10-101 expressly to include in the definition of "motor vehicle carrier", as follows: "any motor vehicle used in serving the public in the business of transportation of ashes, trash, waste, rubbish, and garbage", did not change the law; it merely clarified it. Schlagel v. Hoelsken, 162 Colo. 142, 425 P.2d 39, cert. denied, 389 U.S. 827, 88 S. Ct. 81, 19 L. Ed. 2d 83 (1967).

Those who merely secure passengers desiring to make trips as paying guests for private parties planning motor vehicle trips are not functioning as a public utility warranting regulation by the commission. Yellow Cab Coop. Ass'n v. Colo. Ground Transp. Center, Inc., 654 P.2d 1331 (Colo. App. 1982).

Every application by a carrier for a certificate of public convenience and necessity must be determined by the commission on its own individual merits, and consideration must be given to all competent evidence bearing upon the question of whether public convenience and necessity will be served by the granting of such application. Any applicant for a certificate, whether private carrier or otherwise, has the right to establish public convenience and necessity by any relevant evidence. Ephraim Freightways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 141 Colo. 330, 347 P.2d 960 (1959); McKenna v. Nigro, 150 Colo. 335, 372 P.2d 744 (1962).

Before two or more separate authorities may be integrated into one authority, there must be a showing that public convenience and necessity demand the new integrated service. McKenna v. Nigro, 150 Colo. 335, 372 P.2d 744 (1962); Red Ball Motor Freight, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 154 Colo. 329, 390 P.2d 480 (1964).

The failure of the commission to take action against one who exceeds the authority granted does not ripen into a grant of authority to carry on an illegal operation. McKenna v. Nigro, 150 Colo. 335, 372 P.2d 744 (1962); G & G Trucking v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n of Colo., 745 P.2d 211 (Colo. 1987).

The unlawful usurpation of authority and demonstration of the success of such unlawful operation can form no basis for the grant of authority to continue such operation. McKenna v. Nigro, 150 Colo. 335, 372 P.2d 744 (1962); G & G Trucking v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n of Colo., 745 P.2d 211 (Colo. 1987).

Jurisdiction is expressly conferred on the commission by this section. Eveready Freight Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 131 Colo. 172, 280 P.2d 442 (1955).

Under this section a common carrier must have a certificate of convenience and necessity and a private or contract carrier must have an authorizing certificate before engaging in such business, and one failing to comply with the law is responsible for damages caused to others. Colo. Milk Transp., Inc. v. Safeway Stores, Inc., 269 F.2d 755 (10th Cir. 1959); McKenna v. Nigro, 150 Colo. 335, 372 P.2d 744 (1962).

The PUC is the regulatory body, and as such is the one to determine whether it will or will not grant temporary certificates. B.D.C. Corp. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 167 Colo. 472, 448 P.2d 615 (1968).

Applied in Northwest Transp. Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 197 Colo. 437, 593 P.2d 1366 (1979); Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981).

40-10.1-202. Permit required - legislative declaration. (1) (a) A person shall not operate or offer to operate as a contract carrier in intrastate commerce without first obtaining a permit for such operation from the commission. As used in this part 2, "permit" does not include a permit under part 3, 4, or 5 of this article.

(b) The general assembly hereby declares that the business of contract carriers is affected with a public interest and that the safety and welfare of the public traveling upon the highways, the preservation and maintenance of the highways, and the proper regulation of common carriers using the highways require the regulation of contract carriers to the extent provided in this article, for which purposes the commission is vested with the authority to issue a permit to a contract carrier and may attach to such permit and to the exercise of the rights and privileges granted by the permit such terms and conditions as are reasonable.

(2) No permit, nor any extension or enlargement of an existing permit, shall be granted by the commission if, in the commission's judgment, the proposed operation of any such contract carrier will impair the efficient public service of any authorized common carrier then adequately serving the same territory over the same general highway route. The commission shall give written notice of any application for a permit to all persons interested in or affected by the issuance of the permit or any extension or enlargement thereof, pursuant to section 40-6-108 (2).

(3) Nothing contained in this article compels a contract carrier to be or become a common carrier or subjects a contract carrier to the laws or liability applicable to a common carrier.

ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Public Interest and Powers of Commission.
- III. Impairment of Common Carrier Service and Notice.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Annotator's note. Since § 40-10.1-202 is similar to § 40-11-103 as it existed prior to the 2011 reorganization of the motor carrier statutes, relevant cases construing that section have been included in the annotations to this section.

The legislative intent to coordinate motor vehicle transportation is clearly manifest from the language used in this section. McKay v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 104 Colo. 402, 91 P.2d 965 (1939); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Stanton Transp. Co., 153 Colo. 372, 386 P.2d 590 (1963).

This article was passed so that there would be no serious conflict between contract carriers and common carriers. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Stanton Transp. Co., 153 Colo. 372, 386 P.2d 590 (1963).

This article does not deny a contract carrier the right to operate as such and does not force him to operate, if at all, as a common carrier, thus denying him due process of law. Bushnell v. People, 92 Colo. 174, 19 P.2d 197 (1933).

Article 10 of this title does not apply to contract carriers. Pollard Contracting Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 7 (Colo. 1982).

The same carrier may hold both a common and contract carrier permit so long as there is no overlapping of territory between the two. Red Ball Motor Freight, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 438, 525 P.2d 439 (1974).

Contract carriers are public utilities by legislative mandate. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Stanton Transp. Co., 153 Colo. 372, 386 P.2d 590 (1963).

II. PUBLIC INTEREST AND POWERS OF COMMISSION.

The general assembly has expressly declared that the business of contract carriers by motor vehicle is affected with a public interest. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Stanton Transp. Co., 153 Colo. 372, 386 P.2d 590 (1963).

The commission is clothed with general powers to regulate and control carriers for hire within the state, and courts will not interfere with its administrative rulings when they are just and reasonable; also that procedure before it should not be tested by the technical rules of pleading. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Weicker Transp. Co., 102 Colo. 211, 78 P.2d 633 (1938).

A private or contract carrier must have an authorizing certificate before engaging in such business, and that one failing to comply with the law is subject to damages caused to others. Colo. Milk Transp., Inc. v. Safeway Stores, Inc., 269 F.2d 755 (10th Cir. 1959).

Commission authorized to deny application for transfer of permit. When this section and § 40-11-105 are read together, and in light of the general public policy of the law to protect common carriers, it is apparent that denial of an application for transfer of a permit is within the public utilities commission's regulatory authority. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

The public utilities commission may properly deny a transfer of a contract carrier's permit wherever there is a substantial opportunity for a transferee, because of its advantageous position in the industry, to discriminate or compete unfairly. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

Finding of actual intent unnecessary for denial. It is not necessary that the public utilities commission find actual intent before it may deny a transfer of a contract carrier's permit. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

Carrier should not be denied certificate merely for prior unlawful conduct unless that unlawful conduct reached the level of intentional or reckless violations of the public utilities commission's rules and regulations. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

Rules by commission on liability under a permit were promulgated within the commission's authority where the rule merely provided that any person, firm, or corporation which operated vehicles under a contract carrier's contract permit were responsible for any violations of the public utilities law or any other rules and regulations of the commission. Regular Rt. Com. Carrier Conf. v. P.U.C., 761 P.2d 737 (Colo. 1988).

Commission may impose restrictions on transferred permit. The public utilities commission, upon an application to transfer a contract carrier permit, may impose in the public interest reasonable restrictions not inconsistent with past operations upon how the permit shall be operated by the transferee. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Stanton Transp. Co., 153 Colo. 372, 386 P.2d 590 (1963).

It is the public interest, not the relative interests of the transferor and transferee, that is of paramount importance in matters concerning the transfer of a private carrier's permit and the public interest is not served if the effect of a transfer is to work economic devastation on common carriers. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Stanton Transp. Co., 153 Colo. 372, 386 P.2d 590 (1963).

Permit does not free contract carrier from competition. The granting of a private motor carrier permit gives the permit holder the right to serve in an authorized area, but not free from other competition. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. DeLue, 175 Colo. 317, 486 P.2d 1050 (1971).

Since a contract carrier has no obligation to serve the public, it is not entitled to protection from competition. Thus if the public convenience and necessity shows a need for the common carrier service, it is the public policy of the state that the common carrier is entitled to authority to serve that need. DeLue v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 169 Colo. 159, 454 P.2d 939, cert. denied, 396 U.S. 956, 90 S. Ct. 428, 24 L. Ed.2d 421 (1969).

Standard on review. Determination by the public utilities commission of whether a substantial opportunity for discrimination or unfair competition exists should not be disturbed unless it is unsupported by competent evidence or is arbitrary and capricious. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

III. IMPAIRMENT OF COMMON CARRIER SERVICE AND NOTICE.

Impairment of service of authorized common carrier. No permit as a private carrier can be granted by the commission if in its opinion, based upon proper evidence, such private-carrier operation impairs the efficient public service of an authorized common carrier serving the same territory or over the same highways or routes. McKay v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 104 Colo. 402, 91 P.2d 965 (1939); Archibald v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 115 Colo. 190, 171 P.2d 421 (1946); Donahue v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 145 Colo. 499, 359 P.2d 1024 (1961); Ward Transp., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 76, 376 P.2d 166 (1962); Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Stanton Transp. Co., 153 Colo. 372, 386 P.2d 590 (1963); DeLue v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 169 Colo. 159, 454 P.2d 939, cert. denied, 396 U.S. 956, 90 S. Ct. 428, 24 L. Ed.2d 421 (1969).

The determination to be made in considering an application for a contract carrier permit is whether the existing common carrier service will be impaired if the application is granted. Pollard Contracting Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 7 (Colo. 1982).

"Person interested" does not include contract carriers. The clear intent of the section is that "persons interested in or affected by the issuance of such permit . . ." does not include other contract carriers. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. DeLue, 175 Colo. 317, 486 P.2d 1050 (1971).

However, contract carriers might intervene in proceedings, at the discretion of the P.U.C. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. DeLue, 175 Colo. 317, 486 P.2d 1050 (1971).

Intervenors are not thereby required to receive notice of the proceedings. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. DeLue, 175 Colo. 317, 486 P.2d 1050 (1971).

Intervention is a matter of standing which is an entirely separate question from the matter of required notice. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. DeLue, 175 Colo. 317, 486 P.2d 1050 (1971).

40-10.1-203. Rules for issuance of certificate - standing to protest - judicial review.

(1) The commission has the power to issue a certificate to a common carrier or to issue it for the partial exercise only of the privilege sought, and may attach to the exercise of the rights granted by the certificate such terms and conditions as, in the commission's judgment, the public convenience and necessity may require.

(2) (a) The granting of a certificate to operate a taxicab service within and between counties with a population of less than seventy thousand, based on the most recent available federal census figures, is governed by the doctrine of regulated monopoly.

(b) (I) Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b), the granting of a certificate to operate a taxicab service within and between counties with a population of seventy thousand or greater, based on the most recent available federal census figures, is not an exclusive grant or monopoly, and the doctrine of regulated competition applies.

(II) In an application for a certificate to provide taxicab service within and between the counties of Adams, Arapahoe, Boulder, Broomfield, Denver, Douglas, El Paso, and Jefferson:

(A) The applicant has the initial burden of proving that it is operationally and financially fit to provide the proposed service. The applicant need not prove the inadequacy of existing taxicab service, if any, within the applicant's proposed geographic area of operation.

(B) If the applicant sustains the initial burden of proof as set forth in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II), there shall be a rebuttable presumption of public need for the service, and any party opposing the application shall prevail upon proving that the public convenience and necessity does not require granting the application or that the issuance of the certificate would be detrimental to the public interest.

(c) (I) (A) The holder of a certificate that contains authority to operate a taxicab service between points in the city and county of Denver also holds taxicab service authority from points in the city and county of Denver to all points in this state.

(B) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, the holder of a certificate of public convenience and necessity that contains authority to operate as a taxicab between points within the state of Colorado shall also be deemed to hold taxicab authority to pick up passengers from any point in the state of Colorado and transport the passengers back to the certificate holder's authorized area when the certificate holder has dropped off passengers in close proximity to that point. The provisions of this sub-subparagraph (B) do not apply when a taxicab drops off a passenger at any airport in this state.

(II) The holder of a certificate that contains authority to operate a taxicab service to points in the city and county of Denver also holds taxicab service authority from points in the city and county of Denver to all points within the common carrier's base area, defined as that geographic area in which such common carrier may provide point-to-point taxicab service.

(III) The commission shall amend, by order and without notice or hearing, any existing taxicab service certificate as described in subparagraph (I) or (II) of this paragraph (c) to allow service from points in the city and county of Denver to either all points in this state or all points within the common carrier's base area to conform with the directives contained in said subparagraph (I) or (II).

(3) When an appeal of a commission decision under this section has been made by filing exceptions pursuant to section 40-6-109 and the commission has rendered a final decision on such exceptions as provided in article 6 of this title, any party thereto may, within thirty days after the final decision, apply directly to a district court in this state for judicial review pursuant to section 40-6-115. For purposes of judicial review, a decision of the commission on exceptions is final on the date the decision is served on the parties to the proceeding.

Editor's note: Subsection (2)(c)(I) was numbered as § 40-10-105 (2)(d)(I) in Senate Bill 11-180 (see L. 2011, p. 1085). That provision was harmonized with subsection (2)(c)(I) as it appears in House Bill 11-1198.

Law reviews. For note, "Division of Property in Separate Maintenance", see 30 Dicta 310 (1953). For article, "May Regulated Utilities Monopolize the Sun?", see 56 Den. L.J. 31 (1979).

Annotator's note. Since § 40-10.1-203 is similar to § 40-10-105 as it existed prior to the 2011 reorganization of the motor carrier statutes, relevant cases construing that section have been included in the annotations to this section.

Article XXV, Colo. Const., has granted to the commission authority to issue certificates of public convenience and necessity. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

The public utilities commission's primary function and activity is certification, registration, and permitting of public utilities. The PUC does not offer, directly or indirectly, telephone services, electric services, motor vehicle services, or any other public utility services or programs to the public. Its function is limited to regulation of private entities and public utilities that offer such services. Reeves v. Queen City Transp., 10 F. Supp.2d 1181 (D. Colo. 1998).

A public utility's activity does not become a "program or activity" of the PUC for purposes of the Americans with Disabilities Act merely because of the PUC's issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity. Reeves v. Queen City Transp., 10 F. Supp.2d 1181 (D. Colo. 1998).

Regulated competition to protect public from destructive or excessive competition. The obligation to safeguard the general public against the impaired services or higher rates accompanying destructive or excessive competition is at the heart of the policy of regulated competition. Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981); Trans-Western Express, Ltd. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 877 P.2d 350 (Colo. 1994).

The policy of regulated competition endorsed by subsection (2) reflects a legislative determination that some restraints on inter-carrier competition are necessary to protect the public interest. Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981).

Jurisdiction is expressly conferred on the commission by this section. Eveready Freight Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 131 Colo. 172, 280 P.2d 442 (1955).

The commission under this section is acting in a legislative capacity. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

Effect of finding of unlawfulness under old doctrine. Under the regulated monopoly doctrine in effect prior to this section, it has intimated fairly strongly that when a contract carrier was violating the law and operating as a common carrier he could not use this as the basis for obtaining a common carrier certificate. Again, with some shadings, if there was a finding of unlawfulness of the contract carrier permit, the certificate of public convenience and necessity would be denied, irrespective of the character of the unlawfulness. Thacker Bros. Transp. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 189 Colo. 301, 543 P.2d 719 (1975).

Present effect. For a certificate to be denied under the present section there must be a finding by the commission, not only of unlawfulness, but of violations of the law including the rules and regulations of the commission reaching the height of intentional violation, reckless disregard for the law, or persistent, protracted, intentional, and knowing violation. Thacker Bros. Transp. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 189 Colo. 301, 543 P.2d 719 (1975).

The function of the public utilities commission is to resolve questions of fact. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Verl Harvey, Inc., 150 Colo. 158, 371 P.2d 452 (1962).

The public utilities commission has wide discretionary powers in determining the demands of public convenience and necessity. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Donahue, 138 Colo. 492, 335 P.2d 285 (1959).

This statute changed the doctrine of "regulated monopoly" into the doctrine of "regulated competition". Wells Fargo Armored Serv. Corp. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 190 Colo. 204, 545 P.2d 707 (1976).

In this section the general assembly announced a policy of regulated competition in the granting or denying of certificates of public convenience and necessity to operate a motor vehicle for hire. Rocky Mt. Airways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 181 Colo. 170, 509 P.2d 804 (1973).

This section established the legislative doctrine of regulated competition. Thacker Bros. Transp. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 189 Colo. 301, 543 P.2d 719 (1975).

Senate Bill 208, adopted by Colo. Sess. Laws 1967, ch. 433, at 974, and now in this section, changed the policy of this state from one of regulated monopoly to "regulated competition". Denver Cleanup Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 192 Colo. 537, 561 P.2d 1252 (1977).

The general assembly, in effect, stated in subsection (2) that henceforth the state's policy should be one of regulated competition and no longer that of regulated monopoly. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

Regulated competition is not synonymous with deregulation. Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981).

Authorization of new service granted only pursuant to this section. Authorization to engage in an entirely new service, a service which the applicant is forbidden to enter, can be granted only pursuant to this section. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Donahue, 138 Colo. 492, 335 P.2d 285 (1959).

The controlling factor under subsection (2) is the public interest. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

Subsection (2) is not void because the general assembly did not define the term "regulated competition". The term is perfectly plain and understandable. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

The commission has the power to prescribe reasonable rules and regulations in connection with a certificate of public convenience and necessity. Airport Limousine Serv., Inc. v. Cabs, Inc., 167 Colo. 378, 447 P.2d 978 (1968).

The commission has been given authority to issue more than one certificate for the same route, or portion thereof, if it finds that the present or future public convenience and necessity requires or will require such operation. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

Certificate holder has no vested right to keep out competition. The fact that a common carrier is presently operating on a route does not give it a vested right to keep out all new competition merely because its service is adequate. Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 196 Colo. 153, 582 P.2d 685 (1978).

A common carrier serving a particular area is entitled to protection against competition so long as the offered service is adequate to satisfy the needs of the area. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Donahue, 138 Colo. 492, 335 P.2d 285 (1959); Denver & R. G. W. R. R. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 400, 351 P.2d 278 (1960); Ephraim Freightways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 596, 380 P.2d 228 (1963).

Finding of public convenience and necessity prerequisite to issuance of certificate. As a condition precedent to the issuance of a certificate, the commission shall find that the service to be authorized is or will be required by present or future public convenience and necessity. Denver & R. G. W. R. R. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 400, 351 P.2d 278 (1960).

"Public convenience and necessity" involves more than simply showing that another's business can be taken away from him by one means or another. And it is more than rendering "better" service. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Verl

Harvey, Inc., 150 Colo. 158, 371 P.2d 452 (1962).

Question involves whether convenience and necessity demand additional service. The question involved in the granting or denial of a certificate of public convenience and necessity for a common carrier in a particular area is not whether the extent of business in such area is sufficient to warrant an additional certified carrier, but whether the public convenience and necessity demand an additional service. Denver & R. G. W. R. R. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 400, 351 P.2d 278 (1960); Ephraim Freightways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 596, 380 P.2d 228 (1963).

The existence of an adequate and satisfactory service by motor carriers already in the area is a negation of a public need and demand for added service by another carrier. Denver & R. G. W. R. R. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 400, 351 P.2d 278 (1960); Ephraim Freightways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 596, 380 P.2d 228 (1963).

The adequacy, availability, and competitive character of existing service are proper factors to consider in concluding that the applicant's service is not required to serve public convenience and necessity. Trans-Western Express, Ltd. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 877 P.2d 350 (Colo. 1994).

The test of inadequacy is not perfection. Ephraim Freightways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 596, 380 P.2d 228 (1963).

Inadequacy of present service must be substantial. For a new service to be authorized in an area already served by a common carrier, inadequacy of the present service must be shown to be substantial. Ephraim Freightways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 596, 380 P.2d 228 (1963).

There must be some showing by "proper evidence" of inadequacy of existing common carrier service before a new authority can be granted. Denver & R. G. W. R. R. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 142 Colo. 400, 351 P.2d 278 (1960).

Adequacy of service is no longer controlling determinant. By the enactment of subsection (2), the general assembly intended to change and, in effect, did change the standard concerning inadequate service. Adequacy or inadequacy of service need no longer be the controlling determinant, although it is one of the elements that it has considered. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974); Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 196 Colo. 153, 582 P.2d 685 (1978).

Under subsection (2), a finding of inadequate service is no longer a prerequisite to the granting of a certificate. D & G San., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 386, 525 P.2d 455 (1974); Contact-Colorado Springs, Inc. v. Mobile Radio Tel. Serv., Inc., 191 Colo. 180, 551 P.2d 203 (1976).

Controlling consideration is public need, not adequacy of existing service. Under the policy of regulated competition, the controlling consideration is the public need. While adequacy of existing service is a factor to be considered, it is no longer the controlling determinant. Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981); Trans-Western Express, Ltd. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 877 P.2d 350 (Colo. 1994).

Public need means the needs of the public as a whole, not simply the needs of witnesses who testify in favor of an applicant's proposed services, and it may be so disserved by destructive competition as to justify denial of an application for common carrier authority. Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981); Trans-Western Express, Ltd. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 877 P.2d 350 (Colo. 1994).

Needs of applicant's customers not conclusive of public need. While the needs and preferences of an applicant's customers are probative of a public need for competitive services, they are not conclusive. Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981); Trans-Western Express, Ltd. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 877 P.2d 350 (Colo. 1994).

The same carrier may hold both a common and contract carrier permit so long as there is no overlapping of territory between the two. Red Ball Motor Freight, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 438, 525 P.2d 439 (1974).

Contract carrier not automatically entitled to be certified as common carrier. A contract carrier, whose operations more closely resemble that of a common carrier than that of a contract carrier, is not going to be automatically entitled to become certificated as a common carrier. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

Duplicative operation cannot be authorized where existing service is adequate. Where a carrier is already serving an area, a duplicative operation cannot be authorized where the existing service is adequate, because the granting of an additional certificate of public convenience and necessity requires a showing that the existing facilities and services are substantially inadequate. Rocky Mt. Airways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 181 Colo. 170, 509 P.2d 804 (1973).

Two or more carriers authorized to provide what appear to be substantially similar services in the same area must be viewed as providing different services to the extent their respective certificates of convenience contain different terms or conditions. Any change in the terms and conditions initially imposed on one carrier's authority that results in improvement of that carrier's competitive position in the same market necessarily effects a change in the competitive structure previously determined by the public utilities commission to be required by the public convenience and necessity. Any such change, therefore, may be authorized only if the applicable statutory criteria are satisfied. Yellow Cab Coop. Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 869 P.2d 545 (Colo. 1994).

Carrier cannot establish a public need for additional service by its unauthorized operations. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974); G & G Trucking v. P.U.C. of Colo., 745 P.2d 211 (Colo. 1987).

Public utilities commission did not announce new evidentiary standard that forecloses the testimony of a single shipper to establish public need. The commission merely found a lack of support for the applicant's assertion that there was a public need to grant its application. Trans-Western Express, Ltd. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 877 P.2d 350 (Colo. 1994).

As to lack of legislatively prescribed standards or criteria under which an additional competitive certificate may be granted or reviewed, see Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

When an established route is described by fixed points, the established route is more than a described passageway between the fixed points. The established route is a grant by the commission of statutory authority to serve the public on that route. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

The granting of "intermediate service" to a fixed point on the established route is in no way a limitation or exclusion of authority to serve the public over the entire route. In fact, if anything, it is a grant of additional authority for that fixed point. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

The administrative law judge properly considered the impact the additional competition might have on competing carriers and on the existing carrier's ability to provide safe and efficient transportation services to its customers and the public. The impact or harm to common carriers is relevant, however, only if it affects the general public, of which the carrier is a part. Trans-Western Express, Ltd. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 877 P.2d 350 (Colo. 1994).

Commission's abuse of discretion. A finding by the public utilities commission that public convenience and necessity justified granting authority to an applicant to expand illegal operations, being wholly unsupported by the record, amounted to an abuse of discretion. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Verl Harvey, Inc., 150 Colo. 158, 371 P.2d 452 (1962).

On review the district court is limited to the determination of whether or not the public utilities commission regularly pursued its authority and whether the record supported the findings of fact and conclusions of law. Rocky Mt. Airways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 181 Colo. 170, 509 P.2d 804 (1973).

Court's authority on appeal. Under this section the commission needs to apply guidelines, and it is within the court's jurisdiction on appeal to see that it does. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974).

It is within the court's authority to declare standards and criteria as unconstitutional and arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, or vague. Miller Bros. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 185 Colo. 414, 525 P.2d 443 (1974); Morey v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 629 P.2d 1061 (Colo. 1981).

A court may not set aside orders based upon findings of fact upon which the evidence is conflicting and competent. Ephraim Freightways, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 151 Colo. 596, 380 P.2d 228 (1963).

Likewise, great weight must be given to the interpretation which the commission gives to its own language, and unless such interpretation is clearly erroneous, arbitrary, or in excess of its jurisdiction, the courts may not interfere. McKenna v. Nigro, 150 Colo. 335, 372 P.2d 744 (1962).

County which provides mass transit within county boundaries is exempt from regulation by PUC. City of Durango v. Durango Transp., 807 P.2d 1152 (Colo. 1991).

40-10.1-204. Temporary authority. (1) To enable the provision of common carrier or contract carrier service for which there appears to be an immediate and urgent need to any point or within a territory having no such service capable of meeting the need, the commission may, in its discretion and without hearings or other proceedings, grant temporary authority for such service by a common carrier or a contract carrier, as the case may be. Such temporary authority, unless suspended or revoked for good cause, is valid for such time as the commission specifies, but for not more than an aggregate of one hundred eighty days, unless for good cause shown the commission extends the temporary authority for a period which may extend until a final administrative decision is rendered. A grant of temporary authority or an extension thereof creates no presumption that corresponding permanent authority will be granted thereafter.

(2) Pending the determination of an application filed with the commission for approval of an acquisition of stock of a common carrier or contract carrier, a consolidation or merger of two or more such carriers, or a purchase, lease, or contract to operate the properties of one or more such carriers, the commission may, in its discretion and without hearings or other proceedings, grant temporary approval for a period not exceeding one hundred eighty days for the operation of the carrier or its properties sought to be acquired by the person proposing in such pending application to acquire the properties or stock, if it appears that failure to grant such temporary approval may result in destruction of or injury to the carrier or its properties sought to be acquired, or may interfere substantially with their future usefulness in the performance of adequate and continuous service to the public. For good cause shown, the commission may extend such temporary approval for a period which may extend until a final administrative decision is rendered. Temporary approval or an extension thereof does not create a presumption that the application will be granted.

(3) Common carrier or contract carrier service rendered under temporary authority or approval is subject to all applicable provisions of this title and to the rules and requirements of the commission. The maximum time period of any temporary authority or approval is not subject to extension or renewal.

(4) The commission shall not issue a temporary authority or approval unless, under such general rules as the commission may prescribe governing the application and notice thereof to interested or affected common carriers, all interested or affected carriers have been given at least five days' notice of the filing of the application and an opportunity to protest the granting thereof. If the commission determines that an emergency exists, it may issue temporary authority or approval at once by making specific reference in its order to the circumstances constituting the emergency, in which case no notice need be given, but any such emergency authority or approval expires no later than thirty days after it was issued.

Annotator's note. Since § 40-10.1-204 is similar to § 40-6-120 as it existed prior to the 2011 reorganization of the motor carrier statutes, relevant cases construing that section have been included in the annotations to this section.

Codification of existing practice. Rather than creating a new power in the public utilities commission to issue temporary authority, this section merely codified and set guidelines with respect to an existing practice which has been in effect for many years. Aspen Airways, Inc. v. Rocky Mt. Airways, Inc., 196 Colo. 285, 584 P.2d 629 (1978).

The timely filing of a request for extension of temporary authority gives the public utilities commission jurisdiction to act on the request after the original time period for temporary authority has expired so long as the public utilities commission acts within a reasonable time frame. Gambler's Express v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 868 P.2d 405 (Colo. 1994).

In ruling upon a motion for extension of a temporary authority, it was not necessary to make new findings demonstrating "an immediate and urgent need for service" and demonstrating that "no other carrier service is capable of meeting that need" since section merely requires a showing of good cause for extending temporary authority. Gambler's Express v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 868 P.2d 405 (Colo. 1994).

Statute does not mandate that a motion to extend temporary authority be filed within twenty days prior to the expiration of temporary authority. Gambler's Express v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 868 P.2d 405 (Colo. 1994).

Applied in Wilson v. United States Fid. & Guar. Co., 633 P.2d 493 (Colo. App. 1981).

40-10.1-205. Transfer of certificate or permit. (1) A certificate or permit, or rights obtained under a certificate or permit, that are held, owned, or obtained by any common carrier or contract carrier may be sold, assigned, leased, encumbered, or transferred as other property, subject to prior authorization by the commission.

(2) Absent other facts, the fact that a common carrier or contract carrier conducts operations with independent contractors does not in and of itself constitute a lease or transfer of the certificate.

(3) An existing certificate or permit shall not be transferred unless the fitness of the transferee is established to the satisfaction of the commission.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Since § 40-10.1-205 is similar to §§ 40-10-106 and 40-11-104 as they existed prior to the 2011 reorganization of the motor carrier statutes, relevant cases construing those sections have been included in the annotations to this section.

A certificate is by law deemed subject to transfer as any other property, although the approval of the commission is additionally required, and the fitness of the purchaser to succeed to the common-carrier operation of the transferor. DeLue v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 169 Colo. 159, 454 P.2d 939, cert. denied, 396 U.S. 956, 90 S. Ct. 428, 24 L. Ed. 2d 421 (1969).

In order for the public utilities commission (PUC) to revoke, amend, or alter permits or certificates of participating parties in a transfer, it must comply with the statutory procedural requirements which would legally justify the end sought to be accomplished, issue a notice, hold a hearing at which the respondent is given an opportunity to defend itself, and finally, enter its decision in accordance with the evidence. Anything less will not satisfy the statute nor that quality of fairness required by "procedural due process". Buckingham v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 180 Colo. 267, 504 P.2d 677 (1972).

Transferee's authority limited to that of transferor. The PUC correctly refused to fragmentize the general commodity certificate transferred and limit the transferee's authority to the service which had been primarily provided by the transferor where the evidence demonstrated the transferor had carried on the business of hauling a broad range of commodities and that it has accepted all freight tendered to it within the scope of its operating authority. DeLue v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 169 Colo. 159, 454 P.2d 939, cert. denied, 396 U.S. 956, 90 S. Ct. 428, 24 L. Ed. 2d 421 (1969).

Contract carrier has no legal interest to assert in a proceeding involving certificate transfer. Since the contract carrier has no right to protection from competition by a common carrier or its successors in interest in has no legal interest or right which it can assert in a proceeding involving the transfer of a common-carrier certificate. DeLue v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 169 Colo. 159, 454 P.2d 939, cert. denied, 396 U.S. 956, 90 S. Ct. 428, 24 L. Ed. 2d 421 (1969).

No transfer. Where the owner does not surrender his duties as president and director of the corporation, he and his wife continue to be majority stockholders, and the duties of the manager were similar to other carriers; it is quite apparent that there was not a transfer of control. Overland Motor Express, Inc. v. Kingery Transp. Co., 167 Colo. 105, 445 P.2d 713 (1968).

40-10.1-206. Rates - limitations. (1) It is unlawful for any common carrier to carry or advertise that it will carry any individuals at rates different from those it has on file with the commission for such carriage.

(2) A contract carrier shall not destroy or impair, through discrimination or unfair competition, the service or business of any common carrier or the integrity of the state's regulation of any such service or business; and to that end, the commission is authorized and directed to prescribe minimum rates, fares, and charges to be collected by contract carriers when competing with duly authorized common carriers, which rates, fares, and charges must not be less than the rates prescribed for common carriers for substantially the same or similar service.

(3) In accordance with this article and such rules as the commission may prescribe, every contract carrier subject to this article shall file with the commission, within such time and in such form as the commission may designate, and shall keep on file with the commission, at all times, schedules showing rates, charges, and collections, collected or enforced or to be collected or enforced, that in any manner affect or relate to the operations of any such contract carrier; and the commission has full power to change, amend, or alter any such tariff or, after hearing, fix the rates of any contract carrier subject to this article that competes with a common carrier.

ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Prescription of Rules and Regulations.
- III. Prescription of Rates.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Annotator's note. Since § 40-10.1-206 is similar to § 40-11-105 as it existed prior to the 2011 reorganization of the motor carrier statutes, relevant cases construing that section have been included in the annotations to this section.

Legislative intent is clear, that the authorization of contract carriers shall not be detrimental, within the limits of the law, to common-carrier operation, and that motor transportation be coordinated in such a way as to preserve common-carrier operation and not to impair the integrity of state regulation of common-carrier service. McKay v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 104 Colo. 402, 91 P.2d 965 (1939).

Applied in Pollard Contracting Co. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 644 P.2d 7 (Colo. 1982).

II. PRESCRIPTION OF RULES AND REGULATIONS.

The public utilities commission has broad constitutional and statutory authority. However, the breadth of that authority is to be tested by the statutes themselves and not by the unbridled whim of the commission. The commission is a creature of statute. Both the power and scope of its authority and its procedures are necessarily controlled by the act upon which it relies. Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Motorway, Inc., 165 Colo. 1, 437 P.2d 44 (1968).

Commission must comply with "procedural due process". The public utilities commission, in a general investigation held for the purpose of promulgating rules and regulations, cannot, regardless of the type of evidence that may be presented to it, revoke, amend, or alter permits or certificates of participating parties. It must comply with the statutory procedural requirements which would legally justify the end sought to be accomplished, issue a notice, hold a hearing at which the respondent is given an opportunity to defend itself, and finally, enter its decision in accordance with the evidence. Anything less will not satisfy the statute nor that quality of fairness required by "procedural due process". Pub. Utils. Comm'n v. Colo. Motorway, Inc., 165 Colo. 1, 437 P.2d 44 (1968).

Commission authorized to deny application for transfer of permit. When § 40-11-103 and this section are read together, and in light of the general public policy of the law to protect common carriers, it is apparent that denial of an application for transfer of a permit is within the public utilities commission's regulatory authority. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

The public utilities commission may properly deny a transfer of a contract carrier's permit wherever there is a substantial opportunity for a transferee, because of its advantageous position in the industry, to discriminate or compete unfairly. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

Finding of actual intent unnecessary for denial. It is not necessary that the public utilities commission find actual intent before it may deny a transfer of a contract carrier's permit. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

Carrier should not be denied certificate merely for prior unlawful conduct unless that unlawful conduct reached the level of intentional or reckless violations of the public utilities commission's rules and regulations. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

Once having granted one or even several waivers of its rules, the public utilities commission was not bound to continue to grant waivers, the approval of which is more a matter of grace than of right. B & M Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 163 Colo. 228, 429 P.2d 293 (1967).

The emergency letters permitted by public utilities commission rules governing contract motor vehicle carriers are improperly used when they enable another company to set up a transportation service for which it had no authority. Rumney v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 172 Colo. 314, 472 P.2d 149 (1970).

When determining whether a contract carrier is offering distinctly different or superior service to that offered by an authorized common carrier, the commission may consider a contract carrier's ancillary, nontransportation services. Ace West Trucking v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 788 P.2d 755 (Colo. 1990).

Standard on review. Determination by the public utilities commission of whether a substantial opportunity for discrimination or unfair competition exists should not be disturbed unless it is unsupported by competent evidence or is arbitrary and capricious. Mobile Pre-Mix Transit, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 618 P.2d 663 (Colo. 1980).

III. PRESCRIPTION OF RATES.

Commission's duty to adopt rates. It is of particular significance that the general assembly in this section not only granted power and authority but also made it the commission's duty to adopt rates. Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Section not applicable unless contract carrier competing with common carrier in rendering substantially same service. If a contract carrier is not competing with a common carrier and if the former is not rendering a service substantially the same or similar to that of the common carrier, then the terms and provisions of subsection (2) do not come into play and the tariff filed with the public utilities commission is lawful, even though calling for rates less than those of the common carrier. Denver-Climax Truck Line v. Jim Chelf, Inc., 167 Colo. 69, 445 P.2d 399 (1968).

Rules by commission which establish the manner in which the minimum rate for a contract carrier competing with a common carrier is to be determined, which require a contract carrier competing with any scheduled common carrier to file a tariff of rates and charges not less than the lowest rate prescribed for any competing common carrier providing substantially the same or similar service, and which authorize the commission to change any tariff or rate of any contract carrier competing with a motor vehicle common carrier providing substantially the same or similar service, are consistent with the doctrine of regulated competition and are in accord with the commission's statutory authority to prescribe minimum rates for contract carriers not less than the rates prescribed for common carriers providing substantially the same or similar service. Regular Rt. Com. Carrier Conf. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 761 P.2d 737 (1988).

Rates to protect public and prevent destructive rate-making. The commission has been charged with the duty to carry out its mission in two areas, to wit: To protect the public and to prevent destructive rate-making which could result in nonavailability of the service to the public. Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Duty to prescribe rates for contract carriers tied to same duty for common carriers. Reading this section it would be impossible for the commission to carry out a duty to prescribe minimum rates for contract carriers if it established no rates for common carriers. The one duty is tied in with the other, and the prescribed rates for one class are the basis for the minimum rates for the other. Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Fairness of rate left to commission. The general assembly itself has declared the necessity and the duty and left to the commission the determination of a rate that is fair to the public and sufficiently compensatory to the utility to ensure a fair return on its investment. Regulation—not nonregulation—has been declared to be in the public interest. Consolidated Freightways Corps. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 158 Colo. 239, 406 P.2d 83 (1965).

Mandamus is proper only where there is a legal duty to perform the act requested. Where the P.U.C. has no clear legal duty to reject or annul the rates published, then until the P.U.C. has determined that contract and common carriers are competing and that the services are substantially similar to those rendered by a competing common carrier, it has no duty to reject those rates, and no right to relief in the nature of mandamus in the trial court will lie. Denver-Laramie-Walden Truck Line v. Denver-Fort Collins Freight Serv., Inc., 156 Colo. 366, 399 P.2d 242 (1965).

(b) Upon request, the commission shall provide the document to the person with such authority or the electronic verification to the department of revenue or the department's authorized agent.

PART 3

MOTOR CARRIERS OF PASSENGERS - LIMITED REGULATION

40-10.1-301. Definitions. As used in this part 3, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Charter basis" means on the basis of a contract for transportation whereby a person agrees to provide exclusive use of a motor vehicle to a single chartering party for a specific period of time during which the chartering party has the exclusive right to direct the operation of the vehicle, including selection of the origin, destination, route, and intermediate stops.

(2) "Charter bus" means a motor vehicle with a minimum seating capacity of thirty-three, including the driver, that is hired to transport a person or group of persons traveling from one location to another for a common purpose. A charter bus does not provide regular route service from one location to another.

(3) "Chartering party" means a person or group of persons who share a personal or professional relationship whereby all such persons are members of the same affiliated group, including a family, business, religious group, social organization, or professional organization. "Chartering party" does not include groups of unrelated persons brought together by a carrier, transportation broker, or other third party.

(4) "Children's activity bus" means a motor vehicle that transports groups of eight or more children, eighteen years of age or younger, and any adults over eighteen years of age accompanying or participating with the group, to or from activities that are sponsored by nonprofit organizations entitled to a tax exemption under the federal "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended, or the transportation of children to and from school, school-related activities, or school-sanctioned activities to the extent that such transportation is not provided by the school or school district or the school or school district's transportation contractors.

(5) "Commercial location" means a place where goods or services are bought, sold, or exchanged.

(6) "Fire crew transport" means a motor vehicle that transports people engaged in fighting wildfires.

(7) "Luxury limousine" means a chauffeur-driven, luxury motor vehicle as defined by the commission by rule.

(8) "Luxury limousine service" means a specialized, luxurious transportation service provided on a prearranged, charter basis. "Luxury limousine service" does not include taxicab service or any service provided between fixed points over regular routes at regular intervals.

(9) "Off-road scenic charter" means a motor vehicle that transports passengers, on a charter basis, to scenic points within Colorado, originating and terminating at the same location and using a route that is wholly or partly off of paved roads. "Off-road scenic charter" does not include the transport of passengers to commercial locations.

40-10.1-302. Permit requirements. (b) A person may apply for a permit under this part 3 to the commission in such form and with such information as the commission may require.

PART 4

MOTOR CARRIERS OF TOWED MOTOR VEHICLES

40-10.1-401. Permit requirements. (1) (a) A person shall not operate or offer to operate as a towing carrier in intrastate commerce without first having obtained a permit therefor from the commission in accordance with this article.

(b) A person may apply for a permit under this part 4 to the commission in such form and with such information as the commission may require. Permits are valid for one year after the date of issuance.

(2) The commission may deny an application under this part 4 of a person who has, within the immediately preceding five years, been convicted of, or pled guilty or nolo contendere to, a felony. The commission may also deny an application under this part 4 or refuse to renew the permit of a towing carrier based upon a determination that the towing carrier or any of its owners, principals, officers, members, partners, or directors has not satisfied a civil penalty arising out of any administrative or enforcement action brought by the commission.

(3) (a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2) of this section and section 40-10.1-112 (4), the commission shall issue a permit to a towing carrier upon completion of the application and the filing of proof of workers' compensation insurance coverage in accordance with the "Workers' Compensation Act of Colorado", articles 40 to 47 of title 8, C.R.S., and with the financial responsibility requirements of this article and may attach to the permit and to the exercise of the rights granted by the permit such restrictions, terms, and conditions, including altering the rates and charges of the applicant, as are reasonably deemed necessary for the protection of the property of the public.

(b) If a towing carrier violates this article, any other applicable provision of law, or any rule or order of the commission issued under this article and as a result is ordered by a court or by the commission to pay a fine or civil penalty that the towing carrier subsequently fails to pay in full within the time prescribed for payment, then:

(I) The commission may immediately revoke the towing carrier's operating authority; and

(II) The towing carrier, its owners, principals, officers, members, partners, and directors, and any other entity owned or operated by one or more of those owners, principals, officers, members, partners, or directors, may be disqualified from obtaining or renewing any operating authority under this article for a period of five years after the date on which the fine or civil penalty was due. The period of disqualification pursuant to this subparagraph (II) is in addition to, and not in lieu of, and does not affect, any other penalty or period of disqualification, including the period of disqualification specified in section 40-10.1-112 (4).

(c) A towing carrier's facilities and vehicles are subject to inspection by the commission and by authorized personnel of the Colorado state patrol, which shall promptly report to the commission concerning any violations revealed by an inspection.

Editor's note: Section 6 of chapter 217, Session Laws of Colorado 2012, provides that the act amending this section applies to towing carriers that applied for permits on, before, or after May 24, 2012.

ANNOTATION

No property right to be on tow list. Towing carriers do not have an unqualified property right to be included on the rotation tow list of the Colorado state patrol by virtue of their permits issued as required by this section. Jam Action, Inc. v. Colo. State Patrol, 890 P.2d 210 (Colo. App. 1994) (decided prior to 2011 reorganization of motor carrier statutes).

40-10.1-402. Verification of authority - notice of requirement for designated license plates - rules - repeal. (1) (a) The commission shall either:

(I) Create a document that a person authorized to operate as a towing carrier under this article may use to verify to the department of revenue or the department's authorized agent that the person is so authorized; or

(II) Create a system to electronically verify to the department of revenue or the department's authorized agent that the person is authorized to provide towing services under this part 4.

(b) Upon request, the commission shall provide the document to the person with such authority or the electronic verification to the department of revenue or the department's authorized agent.

(2) The commission may promulgate rules to implement this section and to enforce section 42-3-235.5, C.R.S.

(3) (a) By January 1, 2013, the commission shall notify each person authorized to provide towing services under this article of the requirements of section 42-3-235.5, C.R.S.

40-10.1-501. Definitions. As used in this part 5, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Accessorial service" means any service performed by a mover that results in a charge to the shipper and is incidental to the transportation service, including valuation coverage; preparation of written inventory; equipment, including dollies, hand trucks, pads, blankets, and straps; storage, packing, unpacking, or crating of articles; hoisting or lowering; waiting time; long carry, which is defined as carrying articles excessive distances between the mover's vehicle and the residence; overtime loading and unloading; reweighing; disassembly or reassembly; elevator or stair carrying; boxing or servicing of appliances; and furnishing of packing or crating materials. "Accessorial service" also includes services not performed by the mover but by a third party at the request of the shipper or mover if the charges for such services are to be paid to the mover by the shipper at or prior to the time of delivery.

(2) "Contract" means a written document, approved by the shipper in writing before the performance of any service, that authorizes services from the named mover and lists the services and all costs associated with the transportation of household goods and accessorial services to be performed.

(3) "Estimate" means a written document that sets forth the total cost and the basis of such costs related to a shipper's move, including transportation or accessorial services.

(4) "Storage" means warehousing of the shipper's goods while under the care, custody, and control of the mover.

40-10.1-502. Permit requirements - issuance by ports of entry. (1) (a) A person shall not operate or offer to operate as a mover in intrastate commerce pursuant to this article, or advertise services as a mover, without first having obtained a permit from the commission in accordance with this part 5.

(b) A mover shall annually apply for a permit under this part 5 to the commission in such form and with such information as the commission may require.

(2) The commission may deny an application under this part 5 or refuse to renew the permit of any mover based upon a determination that the mover, or any of its directors, officers, owners, or general partners has not satisfied a civil penalty arising out of any administrative or enforcement action brought by the commission.

(3) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2) of this section and section 40-10.1-112 (4), the commission shall issue a permit to a mover upon completion of the application and compliance with the financial responsibility requirements of this article.

(4) A permit is not valid for a mover transacting business at any location other than those designated in its application unless the mover first notifies the commission in writing of any change of location. A permit issued under this section is not assignable, and the mover is not permitted to conduct business under more than one name except as shown on its permit. A mover desiring to change its name or location at a time other than upon renewal of a permit shall notify the commission of such change.

(5) (a) The Colorado state patrol may issue, through a port of entry weigh station created pursuant to article 8 of title 42, C.R.S., a temporary household goods mover permit. The temporary permit is valid for fifteen consecutive days and is not renewable. A mover or its successor who has been issued a temporary permit is not eligible for a subsequent temporary permit.

(b) A temporary permit shall not be approved until the applicant:

(I) Provides evidence of financial responsibility as required by section 40-10.1-107;

(II) Signs a verification, under penalty of perjury as specified in section 24-4-104 (13) (a), C.R.S., that the applicant meets the financial responsibility required by section 40-10.1-107; and

(III) Pays the fees required by section 40-10.1-111 (1) (e) and (1) (f). The Colorado state patrol shall transmit the fees to the state treasurer, who shall credit them to the public utilities commission motor carrier fund pursuant to section 40-10.1-111 (4).

(c) If a mover applied for and received a temporary permit pursuant to this subsection (5), the mover is not subject, during the period covered by the temporary permit, to a penalty for failure to have a permanent permit.

40-10.1-505. Contracts for service. (1) At or before the time of commencing work, a mover that provides any moving or accessorial services shall leave with the shipper a contract as specified by the commission containing the information listed in this subsection (1). The contract must be signed and dated by the shipper and the mover and must include:

(a) The name, telephone number, and physical address where the mover's employees are available during normal business hours;

(b) The date the document is prepared and the proposed date of the move;

(c) The name and address of the shipper, the addresses where the goods are to be picked up and delivered, and a telephone number where the shipper may be reached;

(d) The name, telephone number, and physical address of a location where the goods will be held pending further transportation, including situations where the mover retains possession of goods pending resolution of a fee dispute with the shipper;

(e) An itemized breakdown and description of costs or rates and services for transportation and accessorial services to be provided during a move or storage of household goods;

(f) Acceptable forms of payment. A mover shall accept a minimum of two of the following four forms of payment:

(I) Cash;

(II) Cashier's check, money order, or traveler's check;

(III) A valid personal check, showing upon its face the name and address of the shipper or authorized representative; or

(IV) A valid credit card.

(2) A mover shall clearly and conspicuously disclose to the shipper in the contract the forms of payments the mover will accept from those categories described in paragraph (f) of subsection (1) of this section.

(3) Each contract must include the phrase "(name of mover) is permitted with the public utilities commission of the state of Colorado as a mover. Permit no. ____."

(4) At or before the time of commencing work, the mover shall leave with the shipper a consumer advisement. The mover shall retain a copy of the consumer advisement, signed and dated by the shipper, for at least three years and shall make the copy available to the commission upon request. The consumer advisement shall be in substantially the following form:

Consumer Advisement

Intrastate movers in Colorado are regulated by the Colorado public utilities commission (PUC). Each mover should have a PUC permit number. You are encouraged to contact the PUC to confirm that the mover you are using is indeed permitted in Colorado.

A mover that is not permitted may not withhold any of your property to enforce payment of money due under the contract ("carrier's lien").

A mover must include its PUC permit number, true name, and physical (street) address in all advertisements.

You should be aware that the total price of any household move can change, based on a number of factors that may include at least the following:

- Additional services you request at the time of the move;
- Additional items to be moved that were not included in the mover's original estimate;
- Changes to the location or accessibility of building entrances, at either end of the move, that were not included in the mover's original estimate; and
- Changes to the previously agreed date of pickup or delivery.

You should also be aware that, in case of a dispute between you and the mover, Colorado has an arbitration process available to resolve the dispute without going to court.

If you have any questions, you are encouraged to call the PUC for guidance on your rights and obligations.

I acknowledge that I have been given a copy of this consumer advisement to keep for my records.

Signed _____ (shipper).

40-10.1-506. Delivery and storage of household goods. (1) A mover shall relinquish household goods to a shipper and shall place the goods inside a shipper's dwelling unless the shipper has not tendered payment in the amount specified in a contract signed and dated by the shipper. A mover shall not refuse to relinquish prescription medicines, medical equipment, medical devices, or goods for use by children, including children's furniture, clothing, or toys, under any circumstances.

(2) A mover shall not refuse to relinquish household goods to a shipper or fail to place the goods inside a shipper's dwelling based on the mover's refusal to accept an acceptable form of payment.

(3) A mover that lawfully refuses to relinquish a shipper's household goods may place the goods in storage until payment is tendered; however, the mover shall notify the shipper of the location where the goods are stored and the amount due within five days after receipt of a written request for that information from the shipper, which request shall include the address where the shipper may receive the notice. A mover shall not require a prospective shipper to waive any rights or requirements under this section.

40-10.1-507. Binding arbitration. In the event of a dispute between a mover and a shipper concerning the amount charged for services or concerning lost or damaged goods, the mover shall offer the shipper the opportunity to participate in binding arbitration under the uniform rules for better business bureau binding arbitration or a substantially similar binding arbitration process promulgated by the council of better business bureaus, incorporated, or its successor organization. If the shipper accepts the offer to arbitrate, the mover shall participate in good faith in the arbitration process and shall agree to be bound by the arbitrator's award.

ARTICLE 11.5

Independent Contractors - Motor Carriers

40-11.5-101. Independent contractors - motor carriers. 40-11.5-102. Lease provisions.

40-11.5-101. Independent contractors - motor carriers. Notwithstanding article 10.1 of this title, common carriers and contract carriers may use independent contractors.

Source: L. 90: Entire article added, p. 1762, § 1, effective June 8. L. 2011: Entire section amended, (HB 11-1198), ch. 127, p. 424, § 21, effective August 10.

ANNOTATION

The definition of an “independent contractor” under this article was intended to apply to the Workers’ Compensation Act. Frank C.

Klein & Co. v. Colo. Comp. Ins. Auth., 859 P.2d 323 (Colo. App. 1993).

40-11.5-102. Lease provisions. (1) Leases between motor carriers or contract carriers and independent contractors may contain, but need not be limited to, the following provisions:

- (a) (I) The independent contractor, working with a certificated taxi or limousine carrier, may either lease a motor vehicle owned by the certificated carrier or may own the motor vehicle and lease it to the certificated carrier, who may release the vehicle to the independent contractor.

(II) The independent contractor, working with a certificated common carrier or contract carrier, other than a certificated taxi or limousine carrier, may own the motor vehicle and lease it to the certificated carrier.

(b) The lease may require the independent contractor to be instructed in the method of the carrier's operation, and to be familiar with federal, state, and municipal statutes, ordinances, and regulations. The lease may further require the certificated carrier or contract carrier to enforce compliance with such federal, state, and municipal statutes, ordinances, and regulations by the independent contractor. Compliance with the provisions of this paragraph (b) shall not affect the status of the independent contractor as an independent contractor for purposes of this article.

(c) The lease may provide for the transportation services to be accomplished personally by the independent contractor.

(d) The lease may provide for uniformity, on the body of the motor vehicle being used, of color and any written displays.

(e) The lease may provide for periodic driver safety training.

(f) The lease may provide for some control over any assistant working with the independent contractor relating to the enforcement of, and compliance with, federal, state, and municipal statutes, ordinances, and regulations.

(g) The lease may establish a specific number of hours to complete a particular shipment of goods and may provide for the creation of shifts which are primarily created to make available transportation equipment on a basis established to meet public need and necessity, and to provide adequate service to the public at all times.

(h) The lease may provide for certain regulations in the event radio telecommunication procedures are used between the certificated carrier or contract carrier and the driver of the vehicle.

(i) The lease may provide that the independent contractor only work for the certificated carrier or contract carrier as a driver during the time the independent contractor is operating the motor vehicle pursuant to the lease.

(j) The lease may prohibit the independent contractor from individually advertising the services being offered while driving for the certificated carrier or contract carrier pursuant to the terms of the lease.

(k) The lease may provide for the carrier to pay the independent contractor's fees when the carrier accepts charge vouchers for services rendered to customers.

(2) The lease may be terminated by any party, but nothing in this section shall be construed as relieving an independent contractor from the obligation of completing an accepted trip.

(3) The lease need not be for a term certain.

(4) Leases containing provisions pursuant to paragraphs (a), (b), (e), (f), (g), (h), and (i) of subsection (1) of this section shall be presumed prima facie evidence of an independent contractor relationship between the parties to the lease. This presumption may be overcome by clear and convincing evidence of an employment relationship between the parties to the lease considering only factors not in the lease. Leases containing the other optional provisions shall not change the characterization of the relationship evidenced by the lease.

(5) (a) Any lease or contract executed pursuant to this section shall provide for coverage under workers' compensation or a private insurance policy that provides similar coverage.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (5), "similar coverage" means disability insurance for on and off the job injury, health insurance, and life insurance. The specifications of such insurance, including the amount of any deductible, shall meet or exceed standards set by the division of insurance in the department of regulatory agencies, and such standards shall specify that the benefits offered by such insurance coverage shall be at least comparable to the benefits offered under the workers' compensation system.

(c) The lease shall provide for the payment of such coverage by either the lessor or lessee. If the lease provides for the lessee to pay for such coverage, proof of coverage shall be maintained by the lessor for the duration of the lease and the lessor shall not have liability for failure of compliance by the lessee.

ANNOTATION

The definition of an “independent contractor” under this article was intended to apply to the Workers’ Compensation Act. Frank C. Klein & Co. v. Colo. Comp. Ins. Auth., 859 P.2d 323 (Colo. App. 1993); USF Distribution Servs., Inc. v. Indus. Claim Appeals Office, 111 P.3d 529 (Colo. App. 2004).

Presumption of independent contractor status overcome pursuant to subsection (4). Frank C. Klein & Co. v. Colo. Comp. Ins. Auth., 859 P.2d 323 (Colo. App. 1993); USF Distribution Servs., Inc. v. Indus. Claim Appeals Office, 111 P.3d 529 (Colo. App. 2004).

Claimant could establish his or her status as an “employee” for workers’ compensation purposes either by overcoming the presumption established by subsection (4) with clear and convincing evidence or by showing that he or she was not offered coverage that satisfied the requirements of subsection (5). USF Distribution Servs., Inc. v. Indus. Claim Appeals Office, 111 P.3d 529 (Colo. App. 2004).

Presumption of an independent contractor relationship could apply to the determination of the status of a worker as employee or independent contractor for unemployment tax liability purposes. If all necessary conditions concerning lease provisions are satisfied, a presumption of an independent contractor relationship can arise under subsection (4) of this section, which would conflict with, and take precedence over, the otherwise applicable two-part statutory test under § 8-70-115 (1)(b) for unemployment tax liability purposes. SZL, Inc. v. Indus. Claim Appeals Office, 254 P.3d 1180 (Colo. App. 2011).

“Similar coverage” construed. The coverage required by subsection (5)(b) must not contain benefit caps or time limits more restrictive than those in a policy of workers’ compensation insurance complying with the Workers’ Compensation Act. Moreover, the lease agreement must do more than simply inform the driver of his or her responsibility to obtain such coverage; it must actually include the coverage. USF Distribution Servs., Inc. v. Indus. Claim Appeals Office, 111 P.3d 529 (Colo. App. 2004).

GENERAL PROVISIONS

40-15-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that it is the policy of the state of Colorado to promote a competitive telecommunications marketplace while protecting and maintaining the wide availability of high-quality telecommunications services. Such goals are best achieved by legislation that brings telecommunications regulation into the modern era by guaranteeing the affordability of basic telephone service while fostering free market competition within the telecommunications industry. The general assembly further finds that the technological advancements and increased customer choices for telecommunications services generated by such market competition will enhance Colorado's economic development and play a critical role in Colorado's economic future. However, the general assembly recognizes that the strength of competitive force varies widely between markets and products and services. Therefore, to foster, encourage, and accelerate the continuing emergence of a competitive telecommunications environment, the general assembly declares that flexible regulatory treatments are appropriate for different telecommunications services.

ANNOTATION

Basic local exchange service. Although the public utilities commission may add services or features to the general definition of basic service, the bundling of non-telecommunications services or features with the required basic telecommunications services and the charging of a commensurately higher price that exceeds the rate cap stated in § 40-15-502 does not comport with the public policy goals stated in that section. Colo. Office of Consumer Counsel v. Colo. Pub. Utils. Comm’n, 42 P.3d 23 (Colo. 2002).

Interexchange provider. A company that provides a call transfer service that allows a subscriber to place intrastate telephone calls outside of the subscriber’s local calling area without incurring long-distance toll charges is an “interexchange provider” pursuant to subsection (11). Avicomm, Inc. v. Colo. Pub. Utils. Comm’n, 955 P.2d 1023 (Colo. 1998).

Interexchange telecommunications services. A company that provides a call transfer service that allows a subscriber to place intrastate telephone calls outside of the subscriber’s local calling area without incurring long-distance toll charges provides “interexchange telecommunications services” pursuant to subsection (12). Avicomm, Inc. v. Colo. Pub. Utils. Comm’n, 955 P.2d 1023 (Colo. 1998).

Telecommunications service. 40-15-105. Nondiscriminatory access charges. (1) No local exchange provider shall, as to its pricing and provision of access, make or grant any preference or advantage to any person providing telecommunications service between exchanges nor subject any such person to, nor itself take advantage of, any prejudice or competitive disadvantage for providing access to the local exchange network. Access charges by a local exchange provider shall be cost-based, as determined by the commission, but shall not exceed its average price by rate element and by type of access in effect in the state of Colorado on July 1, 1987.

(2) At its option, any rural telecommunications provider may, in lieu of the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, remain under the jurisdiction of the commission pursuant to part 2 of this article. A rural telecommunications provider operating under this subsection (2) may at any time apply to the commission for regulatory relief under section 40-15-203 or 40-15-207. Such rural telecommunications provider, upon the granting of regulatory relief, shall provide access services under the conditions established in subsection (1) of this section; except that the commission shall set the maximum price for access services for such provider.

(3) Contracts for access pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall be filed with the commission and open to review by other purchasers of such access to assure compliance with the provisions of this section. Prior to such review, the purchaser desiring such review shall execute a nondisclosure agreement as determined by the commission for the protection of business and trade secrets.

ANNOTATION

Rates set by commission for interLATA access charge and intraLATA toll rates do not unreasonably discriminate against resellers and result in "price squeeze". When establishing an intraLATA toll rate, the commission is under no obligation to a require bell operating company to impute to itself an access charge similar to one imposed on resellers. Wholesale rates approved by commission and charged to resellers for intraLATA toll services are not discriminatory, even though in some mileage bonds and at some times of the day such rates exceed the retail rates charged by bell operating company to its own customers. Consumer Counsel v. P.U.C., 786 P.2d 1086 (Colo. 1990) (decided under section as it existed prior to the 1987 repeal and reenactment of this article.)

Subsection (1) is not meant to apply to companies that provide basic local residential and business exchange services. "Access", as used in subsection (1), is a defined term that refers to services provided to interexchange providers. Integrated Network Servs. v. PUC, 875 P.2d 1373 (Colo. 1994).

Specter of discrimination would be raised contrary to subsection (1) if providers of call transfer services that allow a subscriber to place intrastate telephone calls outside of the subscriber's local calling area without incurring long-distance toll charges were allowed to purchase from an exchange tariff rather than an access tariff. Avicomm, Inc. v. Colo. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 955 P.2d 1023 (Colo. 1998).

40-15-106. Cross-subsidization prohibited - illegal restraint of trade. The price of telecommunications services or products which are not subject to the jurisdiction of the commission shall not be priced below cost by use of subsidization from customers of services and products subject to the jurisdiction of the commission, and any such cross-subsidization is deemed to be an illegal restraint of trade subject to the provisions of article 4 of title 6, C.R.S.

40-15-107. Powers of commission - inspection of books and documents - confidentiality of information obtained through audit. (1) The commission shall administer and enforce all provisions of this article, and, in addition to any other powers under articles 1 to 7 of this title, the commission has the right to inspect the books and documents of the local exchange provider. The local exchange provider shall supply additional relevant and material information to the commission as needed. In addition, the commission has the right to inspect the books and records of any affiliate of a local exchange provider which provides telecommunications service under part 2, 3, or 4 of this article, if, in the provision of such service, the affiliate uses a plant or incurs costs that are joint and common to the provision of any basic local exchange service of the local exchange provider regulated under part 2 of this article.

(2) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), all information, documents, and copies thereof provided to the commission, a commissioner, or any person employed by the commission in connection with an audit, whether such audit is conducted pursuant to this section or pursuant to any other authority granted to the commission by law, shall be given confidential treatment and shall not be made public by the commission or any other person without either:

(I) The prior written consent of the person providing such information, documents, or copies; or

(II) A court order issued pursuant to section 24-72-204 (5), C.R.S.

(b) This subsection (2) shall not be construed to shield from disclosure information, documents, and copies thereof that are in the commission's possession through the exercise of the commission's audit authority and that are otherwise subject to disclosure under the Colorado open records law, part 2 of article 72 of title 24, C.R.S. The commission may consider whether to change the status of reports provided to it on a nonconfidential basis.

(3) The commission shall have no authority to regulate telephone or telecommunications service from inmates at penal institutions.

40-15-108. Cost methodologies. (1) Any local exchange provider which provides facilities or equipment for use by interstate users or providers of telecommunications services shall separate all investments and expenses associated therewith according to applicable federal separations procedures and agreements.

(2) Any provider of telecommunications service which offers both regulated and deregulated telecommunications service shall segregate its intrastate investments and expenses in accordance with allocation methodologies as prescribed by the commission to ensure that deregulated telecommunications services are not subsidized by regulated telecommunications services.

40-15-109. Assurance of interconnections - averaging of rates. (1) If a local exchange provider does not have interconnection with an interexchange provider, the commission may order any provider of interexchange service in the state to interconnect with the local exchange provider. Nothing in this subsection (1) shall require a rural telecommunications provider to provide interexchange telecommunications service.

(2) All providers of interexchange voice grade telecommunications service shall average their interexchange voice grade rates on a statewide basis. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit volume discounts or other discounts in promotional offerings.

(3) The commission may provide for just and equitable compensation upon application of an interexchange provider subject to subsection (1) or (2) of this section.

40-15-111. Regulation of the discontinuation or rearrangement of basic local exchange service - measured or message rate service not required. (1) Every local exchange provider shall continue to offer and provide basic local exchange service in any exchange area it serves immediately prior to July 2, 1996, unless the commission determines that an alternative provider offers or provides functionally equivalent service to the customers in such exchange area.

(2) Rearrangements of exchange areas shall require a determination by the commission that such rearrangement will promote the public interest and welfare and will not adversely impact the public switched network of the affected local exchange provider or such provider's financial integrity.

(3) Measured or message rate service for end user customers shall not be required in order for such customers to obtain basic local exchange service unless the commission so orders.

(4) A telecommunications provider shall not base its charges for basic local exchange service on the volume or amount of data or voice traffic of an individual subscriber except with the prior approval of the commission following notice and the opportunity for a hearing.

(1) No provider of telecommunications service shall request the transfer of a customer's account, wholly or in part, to another provider of the same or a similar telecommunications service unless one or more of the following conditions has been met:

(a) The provider to whom the customer's account is to be transferred has obtained from the customer a document, signed by the customer, that contains a clear, conspicuous, and unequivocal request by the customer for a change of provider; or

(b) The provider to whom the customer's account is to be transferred has obtained the customer's oral authorization for the transfer and can furnish proof of such authorization through verification by an independent third party, electronic records, or any other manner prescribed by the commission by rule.

(2) (a) If the customer is not an individual, a document, authorization, or request referenced in subsection (1) of this section shall be valid only if given by an authorized representative of the customer, who shall provide proof of such authority.

(b) A document shall not be valid under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section if it is presented to the customer for signature in connection with a sweepstakes or other game of chance.

(3) A telecommunications provider who initiates an unauthorized change in a customer's telecommunications provider in violation of this section is liable:

(a) To the customer, the customer's previously selected provider, or both, as determined by the commission, for all intrastate long distance charges, interstate long distance charges, local exchange service charges, provider switching fees, the value of any premiums to which the customer would have been entitled, and other relevant charges incurred by the customer during the period of the unauthorized change; and

(b) To the customer's local exchange provider for the change fees for the unauthorized change and reinstating the customer to the original provider.

40-15-201. Regulation by commission. (1) For purposes of this part 2, except as otherwise provided in this title, each provider of basic local exchange service is declared to be affected with a public interest and a public utility subject to the provisions of articles 1 to 7 of this title, so far as applicable, including the regulation of all rates and charges pertaining to local exchange companies; except that, if a provider applies for and receives commission approval of an alternative form of regulation, or if a provider is a rural telecommunications provider subject to simplified regulatory treatment under section 40-15-203.5 or 40-15-503 (2) (d), the commission shall not consider the provider's overall rate of return or overall revenue requirements when determining the just and reasonable rate for a particular product or service. For a rural telecommunications provider subject to simplified regulatory treatment under section 40-15-203.5 or 40-15-503 (2) (d), basic local exchange service shall be regulated as provided in subsection (2) of this section. 40-15-202. Certificate required. (1) No provider of services regulated in this part 2 shall operate in this state except in accordance with the provisions of this part 2.

(2) No provider of services regulated in this part 2 shall operate within this state without first having obtained from the commission a certificate declaring that the present or future public convenience and necessity requires or will require such operation, unless such operation is authorized by section 40-5-102.

(3) The commission is authorized to issue a certificate of public convenience and necessity to a provider of services regulated in this part 2, and the commission may attach to the exercise of the rights granted by said certificate such terms and conditions as, in its judgment, the public convenience and necessity may require.

(4) A provider of services regulated in this part 2 holding a certificate of public convenience and necessity to offer or provide basic local exchange service or a provider of services regulated in this part 2 that had authority lawfully to offer or provide basic local exchange service immediately prior to July 2, 1987, without a certificate of public convenience and necessity shall continue to have such authority without having to make application to the commission for additional or continued authority.

40-15-203. Manner of regulation - refraining from regulation.

(1) Repealed.

(2) In accordance with the provisions of this part 2, upon its own motion or application of a local exchange provider, the commission may refrain from regulation for competitive purposes, and authorize a local exchange provider to provide all or a portion of a private telecommunications network service under stated or negotiated terms to any person or entity that has acquired, is contemplating the acquisition of, or is operating a private telecommunications network.

(3) (a) At any time, the local exchange provider may file or the commission on its own motion may request that the provider file a verified application with the commission for refraining from regulation for competitive purposes. The application shall contain at least the following information:

(I) The name and address of the local exchange provider;

(II) The name and address of the person or entity that has acquired, is contemplating the acquisition of, or is operating a private telecommunications network;

(III) A statement of what products or services of the local exchange provider are offered or are being provided by such private telecommunications network;

(IV) A statement that the local exchange provider intends to provide a competitive alternative proposal to its existing regulated tariffs for such person or entity;

(V) A statement of what products and services of the local exchange provider will or may be subject to the competitive alternative.

(b) For the purpose of evaluating said application, the commission may require such additional information as it deems proper for the processing of the application.

(c) The local exchange provider's application for refraining from regulation for competitive purposes and all information contained therein shall remain confidential.

(d) The commission shall approve or deny any such application for refraining from regulation for competitive purposes within ten days after the filing of the application; except that the commission may, by order, defer the period within which it must act for one additional period of five days. If the commission has not acted on any such application within the appropriate time period permitted, the application shall be deemed granted.

(4) (a) Upon approval of an application for refraining from regulation for competitive purposes, the local exchange provider may thereafter negotiate with the person or entity that intends to acquire, is contemplating the acquisition of, or is operating a private telecommunications network without regard to its obligations as a public utility under articles 1 to 7 of this title, including any tariffs of such company on file and approved by the commission.

(b) Within ten days after the conclusion of such negotiations between the local exchange provider and the entity which intends to acquire, is contemplating the acquisition of, or is operating a private telecommunications network, such provider shall file with the commission the final contract or other evidence of what basic local exchange service will be provided to such person or entity and what will be the charges and costs for such service. The final contracts or other evidence and all information contained therein shall remain confidential. Thereafter, for any basic local exchange service actually furnished through a private telecommunications network to a person or entity that is a party to a contract or other arrangement that has been filed with the commission pursuant to this section, such provider may also furnish or offer to furnish similar basic local exchange service to such person or entity operating such private telecommunications network without regard to its obligations as a public utility under articles 1 to 7 of this title, including any tariffs of such provider on file and approved by the commission. The commission shall not have the power to approve or disapprove services provided or the charges therefor, but this limitation shall not prevent the commission from considering and evaluating the same, and the costs associated therewith, for general regulatory purposes.

(5) The provisions of articles 3 and 6 of this title shall not apply to proceedings related to an application for refraining from regulation for competitive purposes submitted pursuant to subsection (2) of this section.

(6) (a) Upon its own motion or application of a provider of telecommunications service regulated under this part 2, the commission may, in lieu of reclassification of a service under section 40-15-207, examine whether it should refrain from regulation and may refrain from regulation for competitive need for specific telecommunications service otherwise subject to its jurisdiction.

(b) The commission shall approve or deny any such application for refraining from regulation for competitive need within one hundred eighty days after the filing of the application; except that the commission may, by order, defer the period within which it must act for one additional period of sixty days. If the commission has not acted on any such application within the appropriate time period permitted, the application shall be deemed granted.

(7) The authority granted the commission pursuant to this section is in addition to, and not a limitation upon, other powers of the commission, and such authority shall not be construed to be the sole or exclusive means by which the commission may refrain from regulation under this title.

(8) Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, no expenses incurred in the solicitation and the provision of services under this section shall be paid, directly or indirectly, by the subscribers of the applicant's regulated services.

40-15-203.5. Simplified regulatory treatment for rural telecommunications providers. The commission, with due consideration of the public interest, quality of service, financial condition, and just and reasonable rates, shall grant regulatory treatment that is less comprehensive than otherwise provided for under this article to rural telecommunications providers as defined in section 40-15-102 (24.5). The commission shall issue policy statements and rules and regulations that maintain reasonable regulatory oversight and that consider the cost of regulation in relation to the benefit derived from such regulation. These rules and regulations shall encourage the cost effective deployment and use of modern telecommunications technology. All proposed rules applicable to rural telecommunications providers that come before the commission shall consider the economic impact on rural telecommunications providers and their subscribers. The commission and rural telecommunications providers are encouraged to work together in a cooperative and proactive fashion to implement this section.

40-15-206. Regulation of the discontinuation or rearrangement of basic local exchange service - measured or message rate service not required. (1) Every local exchange provider shall continue to offer and provide basic local exchange service in any exchange area it serves immediately prior to July 2, 1987, unless the commission determines that an alternative provider offers or provides functionally equivalent service to the customers in such exchange area.

(2) Rearrangements of exchange areas shall require a determination by the commission that such rearrangement will promote the public interest and welfare and will not adversely impact the public switched network of the affected local exchange provider or such provider's financial integrity.

(3) Measured or message rate service for end user customers shall not be required in order for such customers to obtain basic local exchange service unless the commission so orders.

40-15-207. Reclassification of services and products. (1) (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, upon its own motion or upon application by any person, the commission shall regulate, pursuant to part 3 of this article, specific telecommunications services regulated under this part 2 upon a finding that there is effective competition in the relevant market for such service and that such regulation under part 3 of this article will promote the public interest and the provision of adequate and reliable service at just and reasonable rates.

(b) In determining whether effective competition for a specific telecommunications service exists, the commission shall make findings, after notice and opportunity for hearing, and shall issue an order based upon consideration of the following factors:

- (I) The extent of economic, technological, or other barriers to market entry and exit;
 - (II) The number of other providers offering similar services in the relevant geographic area;
 - (III) The ability of consumers in the relevant geographic area to obtain the service from other providers at reasonable and comparable rates, on comparable terms, and under comparable conditions;
 - (IV) The ability of any provider of such telecommunications service to affect prices or deter competition; and
 - (V) Such other factors as the commission deems appropriate.
- (c) In determining geographic areas under paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), the commission shall not be unduly restrictive.

40-15-208. High cost support mechanism - Colorado high cost administration fund - creation - purpose - operation - rules.

- (1) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2008, p. 1703, § 3, effective June 2, 2008.)
- (2) (a) (I) The commission is hereby authorized to establish a mechanism for the support of universal service, also referred to in this section as the “high cost support mechanism”, which shall operate in accordance with rules adopted by the commission. The primary purpose of the high cost support mechanism is to provide financial assistance as a support mechanism to local exchange providers to help make basic local exchange service affordable and allow such providers to be fully reimbursed for the difference between the reasonable costs incurred in making basic service available to their customers within a rural, high cost geographic support area and the price charged for such service, after taking into account any amounts received by such providers under price support mechanisms established by the federal government and by this state. The high cost support mechanism may also be used, to the extent necessary, to supplement any gifts, grants, and donations received pursuant to section 24-37.5-106 (3) (f), C.R.S., in assisting the office of information technology in preparing the statewide inventory of available broadband services as provided in section 24-37.5-106 (3), C.R.S.
- (II) The commission shall ensure that no local exchange provider is receiving funds from this or any other source that, together with local exchange service revenues, exceeds the cost of providing local exchange service to customers of such provider. The high cost support mechanism shall be supported and distributed equitably and on a nondiscriminatory, competitively neutral basis through a neutral assessment on all telecommunications service providers in Colorado.
- (b) On or before December 1 of each year, the commission shall submit a written report to the committees of reference in the senate and house of representatives that are assigned to hear telecommunications issues, in accordance with section 24-1-136, C.R.S., accounting for the operation of the high cost support mechanism during the preceding calendar year and containing the following information, at a minimum:
- (I) The total amount of money that the commission determined should constitute the high cost support mechanism from which distributions would be made;
 - (II) The total amount of money ordered to be contributed through a neutral assessment collected by each telecommunications service provider;
 - (III) The basis on which the contribution of each telecommunications service provider was calculated;
 - (IV) The benchmarks used and the basis on which the benchmarks were determined;
 - (V) The total amount of money that the commission determined should be distributed from the high cost support mechanism;
 - (VI) The total amount of money distributed to each telecommunications service provider from the high cost support mechanism;
 - (VII) The basis on which the distribution to telecommunications service providers was calculated;

(VIII) As to each telecommunications service provider receiving a distribution, the amount received by geographic support area and type of customer, the way in which the benefit of the distribution was applied or accounted for;

(IX) The proposed benchmarks, the proposed contributions to be collected through a neutral assessment on each telecommunications provider, and the proposed total amount of the high cost support mechanism from which distributions are to be made for the following calendar year; and

(X) The total amount of distributions made from the high cost support mechanism, directly or indirectly, and how they are balanced by rate reductions by all providers for the same period and a full accounting of and justification for any difference.

(c) If the report submitted pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (2) contains a proposal for an increase in any of the amounts listed in subparagraph (IX) of said paragraph (b), such increase shall be suspended until March 31 of the following year.

(d) Repealed.

(3) (a) There is hereby created, in the state treasury, the Colorado high cost administration fund, referred to in this section as the "fund", which shall be used to reimburse the commission and its contractors for reasonable expenses incurred in the administration of the high cost support mechanism as determined by rules of the commission. The moneys in the fund that are to be used for the direct and indirect administrative costs incurred by the commission and its contractors shall be appropriated annually by the general assembly. At the end of any fiscal year, all unexpended and unencumbered moneys in the fund shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund. Based upon the high cost support mechanism, the balance remaining in the fund, and the amount appropriated annually by the general assembly for use by the commission, each year the commission shall determine the nondiscriminatory, competitively neutral assessment on all telecommunications service providers in Colorado that will be necessary to cover the cost of implementing and administering the high cost support mechanism. Only the moneys from such assessment for administering the high cost support mechanism shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the fund. All interest derived from the deposit and investment of the fund shall remain in the fund and shall not revert to the general fund.

(b) Repealed.

(c) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, on July 31, 2009, the state treasurer shall deduct from the fund an amount equal to the amount transferred to the fund pursuant to Senate Bill 09-272, enacted in 2009, and transfer such amount to the general fund.

PART 3

EMERGING COMPETITIVE TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICE

40-15-301. Regulation by the commission. (1) The commission shall regulate the terms and conditions, including rates and charges, under which telecommunications service pursuant to this part 3 is offered and provided to customers exclusively in accordance with the provisions of sections 40-4-101 (1), 40-4-111, 40-4-112, and 40-5-105 and articles 2, 3, 6, and 7 of this title, unless otherwise specified in this article.

(2) The following telecommunications products, services, and providers are declared to be initially subject to regulation pursuant to this part 3 and subject to potential deregulation under section 40-15-305:

(a) Advanced features offered and provided to residential customers and nonresidential customers with no more than five lines;

(b) Premium services except as provided in section 40-15-401 (1) (f), (1) (g), (1) (h), and (1) (i);

(c) InterLATA toll;

(d) IntraLATA toll, subject to the provisions of section 40-15-306;

(e) Switched access, subject to the provisions of section 40-15-307;

(f) Private line service with a capacity of less than twenty-four voice grade circuits;

(g) Nonoptional operator services.

Editor's note: This section is similar to former § 40-15-102 as it existed prior to 1987.

40-15-302. Manner of regulation - rules. (1) (a) The commission shall promulgate rules as may be appropriate to regulate services and products provided pursuant to this part 3. In promulgating such rules, the commission shall consider such alternatives to traditional rate of return regulations as flexible pricing, detariffing, and other such manner and methods of regulation as are deemed consistent with the general assembly's expression of intent pursuant to section 40-15-101. If a provider applies for and receives commission approval of an alternative form of regulation, or if a provider is a rural telecommunications provider subject to simplified regulatory treatment under section 40-15-203.5 or 40-15-503 (2) (d), the commission shall not consider the provider's overall rate of return or overall revenue requirements when determining the just and reasonable rate for a particular product or service. A local exchange provider that does not elect an alternative form of regulation and that is subject to rate of return regulation shall furnish such rate of return information as requested by the commission.

(b) (I) For a rural telecommunications provider subject to simplified regulatory treatment under section 40-15-203.5 or 40-15-503 (2) (d), price ceilings shall be established for all products and services regulated under this part 3 as follows:

(A) For switched access service, prices shall not rise above the level in effect on March 31, 1999; except that price ceilings may be adjusted by the commission to conform to its rules concerning the high cost support mechanism established under section 40-15-208 or to conform to any company filing that is subject to the commission's rate-of-return jurisdiction.

(B) For all other products and services, price ceilings shall be established by reference to the prices for such products and services in effect under an alternative form of regulation approved by the commission.

(II) This paragraph (b) shall not be construed to preclude a rural telecommunications provider from electing traditional rate-of-return regulation or requesting price regulation or another alternative form of regulation under part 5 of this article; and the fact of such election or request shall not be considered in connection with a proceeding to adjust prices for products or services offered under any alternative form of regulation.

(2) The commission shall promulgate rules and regulations for the certification of providers of emerging competitive telecommunications services, but nothing in this part 3 shall require the commission to certificate providers of telecommunications service regulated in this part 3.

(3) The provisions of section 40-15-206 pertaining to regulation of the discontinuation or rearrangement of basic local exchange service shall apply to all services and products regulated pursuant to this section.

(4) A provider of telecommunications service holding a certificate of public convenience and necessity to offer or provide services and products regulated pursuant to this part 3 immediately prior to July 2, 1987, shall continue to have such authority without having to make application to the commission for additional or continued authority.

(5) Consistent with the provisions of section 40-15-301 (1), rates for nonoptional operator services shall allow the provider of such services the opportunity to earn a just and reasonable return on the associated used and useful investment, including but not limited to equipment costs incurred to originate such services. Such rates shall be set at or below a single statewide benchmark rate as determined by the commission that is applicable to all providers, unless the commission approves a higher rate. The statewide benchmark rate shall apply to all nonoptional operator services regardless of whether such services are provided in connection with intraLATA or interLATA telecommunications service. If the commission approves a rate higher than the benchmark rate, and the commission determines that disclosure of the rate to customers is in the public interest, the commission may require the nonoptional operator services provider to orally disclose, to the person responsible for payment of the telephone call, the total charges for the call and that such charges are higher than the benchmark rate. The nonoptional operator services provider shall make such disclosure at no charge to the caller and before the call is connected, allowing the caller to disconnect before incurring any charges. If the commission finds, after notice and opportunity for a hearing, that a nonoptional operator services provider has violated this subsection (5), the commission may, in addition to such other enforcement powers as may be authorized in this title, order any regulated telecommunications service provider to block access to the nonoptional operator services provider for all intrastate operator-handled calls. A regulated telecommunications provider that blocks the access of a nonoptional operator services provider in compliance with an order of the commission and incurs attorney fees or costs to defend such action shall be entitled to recover its costs and attorney fees in each such proceeding. The commission shall promulgate rules necessary to implement this subsection (5).

40-15-302.5. Resellers of toll services - registration required. (1) Toll resellers shall register with the commission in a form satisfactory to the commission. Such registration shall include, at a minimum, the following information updated within fifteen days after any change:

- (a) The toll reseller's name and complete address;
- (b) All names under which the toll reseller does business;
- (c) All names and identification numbers under which the toll reseller has registered with the Colorado secretary of state or the Colorado department of revenue;
- (d) The name, title, address, and telephone number of an authorized representative to whom the commission may make inquiries; and
- (e) A toll-free telephone number to which consumer inquiries or complaints may be made.

(2) Toll resellers who register in accordance with subsection (1) of this section shall be exempt from regulation by the commission except as otherwise provided in this section.

(3) For the purpose of enforcing section 40-15-112, the commission may exercise any of the powers conferred under articles 1 to 7 of this title against a toll reseller and, in cases of complaints filed under section 40-6-108, may order a toll reseller to make due reparations to the complaining party.

(4) Pursuant to section 24-50-504 (2) (a), C.R.S., the commission shall enter into personal services contracts that create an independent contractor relationship for the administration of this section and section 40-15-112.

40-15-305. Time period for consideration of deregulation of emerging competitive telecommunications service. (1) (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, upon its own motion or upon application by any person, the commission shall deregulate, pursuant to part 4 of this article, specific telecommunications services subject to this part 3 upon a finding that there is effective competition in the relevant market for such service and that such deregulation will promote the public interest and the provision of adequate and reliable service at just and reasonable rates.

(b) In determining whether effective competition for a specific telecommunications service exists, the commission shall make findings, after notice and opportunity for hearing, and shall issue an order based upon consideration of the following factors as the commission deems applicable in particular cases:

- (I) The extent of economic, technological, or other barriers to market entry and exit;
- (II) The number of other providers offering similar services;
- (III) The ability of consumers to obtain the service from other providers at reasonable and comparable rates, on comparable terms, and under comparable conditions;
- (IV) The ability of any provider of such telecommunications service to affect prices or deter competition;
- (V) Such other relevant and necessary factors, including but not limited to relevant geographic areas, as the commission deems appropriate.

(c) The commission shall approve or deny any such application for deregulation within one hundred eighty days after the filing of the application; except that the commission may, by order, defer the period within which it must act for one additional period of ninety days upon a finding that the proceeding cannot be completed within one hundred eighty days and that the additional time period is necessary for the commission to adequately and completely fulfill its duty under this subsection (1). If the commission has not acted on any such application within the appropriate time period permitted, the application shall be deemed granted.

(d) In determining geographic areas under paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), the commission shall not be unduly restrictive.

(2) Any telecommunications service or product not defined in part 1 of this article or not already classified pursuant to parts 2 to 4 of this article shall be classified as an emerging competitive telecommunications service under this part 3.

No interexchange provider shall market intraLATA interexchange telecommunications services without obtaining prior approval of the commission. An interexchange provider shall not be required to compensate a local exchange provider for incidental telecommunications services that occur after July 2, 1987.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS POLICY AND PLANNING

Law reviews: For article, "Telecommunications Changes: State Opens Local Exchange Service to Competition", see 24 Colo. Law. 2147 (1995).

40-15-501. Legislative declaration - purpose and scope of part. (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that competition in the market for basic local exchange service will increase the choices available to customers and reduce the costs of such service. Accordingly, it is the policy of the state of Colorado to encourage competition in this market and strive to ensure that all consumers benefit from such increased competition. The commission is encouraged, where competition is not immediately possible, to utilize other interim marketplace mechanisms wherever possible, with the ultimate goal of replacing the regulatory framework established in part 2 of this article with a fully competitive telecommunications marketplace statewide as contemplated in this part 5.

(2) The general assembly further finds, determines, and declares that:

(a) Wise public policy relating to the telecommunications industry and the other crucial services it provides is in the interest of Colorado and its citizens;

(b) Sound and well-informed decisions need to be made on a continuing basis to ensure that the benefits of existing and new telecommunications services continue to be available to the greatest number of Colorado citizens;

(c) The involvement of telecommunications providers and others with experience and expertise in the area of telecommunications is essential to keep legislators informed of developing technology and evolving markets, thus to avoid costly errors and enhance the efficiency of the state's growing telecommunications network; and

(d) The rural nature of Colorado requires that special rules and support mechanisms be adopted to achieve the goal of ensuring that universal basic local exchange service be available to all residents of the state at reasonable rates. Rules adopted by the commission under this part 5 shall be designed to achieve this goal.

(3) This part 5 is enacted for the following purposes:

(a) To set forth, in concise fashion, the policy of this state in specific subject matter areas within the general topic of telecommunications, both for the guidance of the commission in carrying out its duties under this article and for the information of the citizens of Colorado;

(b) To create a framework for the identification of other subject matter areas should the need arise, the formulation of suggested policies in areas in which a policy direction has not yet been stated, and the reaching of consensus, wherever possible, among parties affected by such policies so as to minimize conflicts, ease the commission's considerable workload, and enhance the efficient delivery of telecommunications services to the public; and

(c) To adapt the regulatory structure of parts 2, 3, and 4 of this article to accommodate multiple providers of local exchange service and to permit alternate forms of regulation for providers of local exchange service.

40-15-502. Expressions of state policy. (1) Competitive local exchange market. Local exchange telecommunications markets shall be open to competition, under conditions determined by the commission by rule pursuant to this part 5, on or before July 1, 1996.

(2) Basic service. Basic service is the availability of high quality, minimum elements of telecommunications services, as defined by the commission, at just, reasonable, and affordable rates to all people of the state of Colorado. The commission shall conduct a proceeding when appropriate, but no later than July 1, 1999, and no less frequently than every three years to consider the revision of the definition of basic service, with the goal that every citizen of this state shall have access to a wider range of services at rates that are reasonably comparable as between urban and rural areas.

(3) Universal basic service - affordability of basic service. (a) The commission shall require the furtherance of universal basic service, toward the ultimate goal that basic service be available and affordable to all citizens of the state of Colorado. The general assembly acknowledges the use of low-income telephone assistance programs, including but not limited to "life-line" and "link-up", and telecommunications relay services for disabled telephone users to further the goal of universal service. The commission shall have the authority to regulate providers of telecommunications services to the extent necessary to assure that universal basic service is provided to all consumers in the state at fair, just, and reasonable rates.

(b) (I) Consistent with the public interest goal of maintaining affordable and just and reasonably priced basic local telecommunications service for all citizens of the state, the commission shall structure telecommunications regulation to achieve a transition to a fully competitive telecommunications market with the policy that prices for residential basic local exchange service, including zone charges, if any, do not rise above the levels determined by the commission.

(I.5) In determining the appropriate maximum price for residential basic service for each regulated provider, the commission:

(A) Shall consider the changes since May 24, 1995, in the costs of providing such service;

(B) Shall consider the changes since May 24, 1995, in the nationwide average price for comparable service;

(C) Shall consider flexible-pricing tariff options; and

(D) May, for any affected provider, consider the net revenues derived from other services regulated under part 2 or 3 of this article, with the exception of switched access service, notwithstanding any provision of section 40-15-201 to the contrary. Nothing in this sub-subparagraph (D) shall permit the commission to limit the affected provider's overall rate of return or overall revenues when determining the appropriate maximum price for residential basic service for that provider.

(II) The commission may delay or deny a price increase for residential basic service if a provider is in substantial violation of the commission's rules governing quality of service or held service orders.

(III) This section shall not be construed to prohibit the commission from granting an increase in residential basic local exchange service rates for local exchange carriers under rate-of-return regulation if such increase was approved before May 24, 1995, or if, and to the extent that, such increase is necessary to recover a provider's costs associated with investments for network upgrades made for the purpose of provisioning residential basic local exchange service if such investments are approved or required by the commission and not previously included in the calculation of residential basic local exchange service rates.

(IV) (A) For service provided to residential customers outside the base rate area of a local exchange provider, the commission shall limit rate increases to maintain rates at affordable levels and shall employ universal service funding mechanisms as contemplated in subsection (5) of this section to compensate for the high cost of serving such customers in preference to allowing rate increases.

(B) If there are areas within a provider's base rate area, as determined by the commission, that are receiving subsidies, such areas may continue to receive subsidies or be eligible for funding under the universal service support funding mechanisms after July 1, 1996, at the commission's discretion.

(V) If and when additional elements are included in the definition of basic service as a result of review by the commission under subsection (2) of this section, prices may increase as is reasonably necessary to cover the cost and account for the inclusion of such additional elements.

(4) Universal access to advanced service. The general assembly acknowledges the goal of universal access to advanced service to all telecommunications consumers in this state. The commission shall consider the impact of opening entry to the local exchange market and shall determine whether additional support mechanisms may be necessary to promote this goal if competition for local exchange services fails to deliver advanced services in all areas of the state.

(5) Universal service support mechanisms. (a) In order to accomplish the goals of universal basic service, universal access to advanced service, and any revision of the definition of basic service under subsection (2) of this section, the commission shall create a system of support mechanisms to assist in the provision of such services in high-cost areas. These support mechanisms shall be funded equitably and on a nondiscriminatory, competitively neutral basis through assessments, which may include a rate element, on all telecommunications service providers in Colorado and shall be distributed equitably and on a nondiscriminatory, competitively neutral basis. For purposes of administering such support mechanisms, the commission shall divide the state into reasonably compact, competitively neutral geographic support areas. A provider's eligibility to receive support under the support mechanisms shall be conditioned upon the provider's offering basic service throughout an entire support area. The commission shall review the costs of basic service and shall administer such support mechanisms.

(b) A provider that offers basic local exchange service throughout an entire support area through use of its own facilities or on a resale basis may be qualified as a provider of last resort or may be eligible to receive universal service support, as determined by the commission. Resale shall be made available on a nondiscriminatory basis, as determined by the commission.

(c) A provider that fails to pay an assessment due and payable under paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) shall have its certificate revoked after notice and the opportunity for a hearing as provided in article 6 of this title.

(6) Provider of last resort - duty to follow evolving definition of basic service. (a) In all relevant geographic areas of the state, as defined by the commission, the commission shall designate at least one provider as the provider of last resort and adopt procedures for changing or terminating such designations. A provider of last resort designation carries the responsibility to offer basic local exchange service to all consumers who request it.

(b) A person holding a certificate of public convenience and necessity to provide basic service shall be subject to the evolving definition of basic service developed by the commission under subsection (2) of this section and the system of financial support for universal service established by the commission under subsection (5) of this section.

(7) Barriers to entry. It is the policy of this state that all barriers to entry into the provision of telecommunications services in Colorado be removed as soon as is practicable, subject to the commission's authority to ensure quality of service and other matters as provided in this article.

ANNOTATION

Requirement to make available "white pages" listings for competing providers is authorized by this section. US West Commc'ns, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 978 P.2d 671 (Colo. 1999).

Bundling does not provide implied exception to rate cap. Although the public utilities commission may add services or features to the general definition of basic service, the bundling of non-telecommunications services or features with the required basic telecommunications services and the charging of a commensurately higher price that exceeds the rate cap stated in subsection (3)(b)(I) does not comport with the public policy goals stated in this section. Colo. Office of Consumer Counsel v. Colo. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 42 P.3d 23 (Colo. 2002).

40-15-503. Opening of competitive local exchange market - process of negotiation and rule-making - issues to be considered by commission. (1) Commencing on or before May 24, 1995, and concluding on or before January 1, 1996, members of the working group identified in section 40-15-504 shall meet and attempt to reach consensus on proposed rules to be submitted to the commission for consideration and adoption as appropriate to implement section 40-15-502 (1).

(2) (a) On or before January 1, 1996, the commission shall initiate rule-making proceedings to implement section 40-15-502 (1). Rules adopted in such proceedings shall become effective on or before July 1, 1996. The commission shall grant substantial deference to the proposals submitted by the working group under subsection (1) of this section in regard to issues on which the working group reports it has reached consensus. Said rules shall be designed to foster and encourage the emergence of a competitive telecommunications marketplace and may include more active regulation of one provider than another or the imposition of geographic limits or other conditions on the authority granted to a provider. In addition, in adopting such rules, the commission shall consider the differences between the economic conditions of rural and urban areas.

(b) In adopting rules under paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), the commission shall adopt rules governing, and shall establish methods of paying for, without limitation, the following:

(I) Cost-based, nondiscriminatory carrier interconnection to essential facilities or functions, which shall be unbundled;

(II) Cost-based number portability and the competitively neutral administration of telephone numbering plans;

(III) Cost-based, open network architecture;

(IV) Terms and conditions for resale of services that enhance competition;

(V) Appropriate means of assessing, collecting, and distributing contributions to the Colorado high cost fund created in section 40-15-208 and any other financial support mechanisms adopted by the commission under section 40-15-502 (4); and

(VI) Access to emergency 911 service.

(c) (I) The commission shall consider changing to forms of price regulation other than rate-of-return regulation for any telecommunications provider that provides services regulated under part 2 or 3 of this article and shall consider the conditions under which such a change may take place to ensure that telecommunications services continue to be available to all consumers in the state at fair, just, and reasonable rates. This paragraph (c) shall not be construed to limit the manner and methods of regulation available under section 40-15-302.

(II) As used in this paragraph (c), "price regulation" means a form of regulation that may contain, without limitation, any of the following elements:

- (A) Regulation of the price and quality of services;
- (B) Price floors and price ceilings;
- (C) Flexibility in pricing between price floors and price ceilings;
- (D) Modified tariff requirements;
- (E) Incentives for increased efficiency, productivity, and quality of service.

(d) The commission shall adopt rules providing for simplified regulatory treatment for rural telecommunications providers as defined in section 40-15-102 (24.5). Such simplified treatment may include, but shall not be limited to, optional methods of regulatory treatment that reduce regulatory requirements, reduce the financial burden of regulation, and allow pricing flexibility. Such simplified treatment may also allow extensions of time for the implementation of requirements under this part 5 in rural exchanges for which there are no competing basic local exchange providers certified.

(e) Applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity to provide basic local exchange service pursuant to this subsection (2) may be filed with the commission at any time after the effective date of the rules required. A person that, on or before January 1, 1995, held a certificate of public convenience and necessity to provide basic local exchange service under part 2 of this article and who still holds such certificate shall continue to have such authority without having to apply to the commission for additional or continued authority. No provider of local exchange services shall operate in this state without a certificate of public convenience and necessity.

(f) A telecommunications provider that is granted a certificate of public convenience and necessity to provide local exchange telecommunications service in competition with an incumbent provider of local exchange service shall be regulated under part 3 of this article unless the commission determines that the services of such provider are not subject to effective competition from the incumbent local exchange provider.

(g) (I) In adopting rules under paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), and in order to implement the provisions of this part 5 on or before July 1, 1996, as contemplated in said paragraph (a), the commission shall require that any telecommunications service provider that will provide unbundled facilities or functions, interconnection, services for resale, or local number portability pursuant to the rules adopted under said paragraph (a) shall file an advice letter with the commission to place into effect tariffs containing temporary interim rates, terms, and conditions of sale for those services. In connection with the filing of such tariffs, the commission shall initiate a temporary or emergency proceeding, pursuant to the authority granted in section 40-2-108 (2) or in article 6 of this title, having as its objective the issuance of orders approving such tariffs as filed or as modified by the commission and allowing such filed or modified tariffs to go into effect on or before July 1, 1996, subject to true-up and pending the effectiveness of commission tariffs as contemplated in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (g) or of interconnection agreements adopted by negotiation or arbitration and approved by the commission pursuant to 47 U.S.C. sec. 252 (e), whichever first occurs.

(II) Immediately upon the issuance of orders approving temporary interim tariffs pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (g), the commission shall initiate a proceeding under section 40-6-111, having as its objective the adoption of commission tariffs and the issuance of orders to effectuate any necessary true-up. For purposes of this subparagraph (II), the commission may, but need not, suspend any rate, fare, toll, rental, charge, classification, contract, practice, rule, or regulation as provided in section 40-6-111.

(III) Commission tariffs adopted pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (g) shall supersede the temporary interim tariffs adopted pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (g). Interconnection agreements adopted by negotiation or arbitration and approved by the commission pursuant to 47 U.S.C. sec. 252 (e) shall supersede both the temporary interim tariffs and the commission tariffs, but only with regard to the specific services covered by such agreements and only to the extent that the terms of such agreements are held applicable to persons other than the parties to the agreements.

(IV) (A) In developing temporary interim tariffs, telecommunications service providers and the commission shall make every effort to ensure that the rates, terms, and conditions of sale to be set forth in such tariffs are based on cost and are nondiscriminatory. Such rates, terms, and conditions may include a reasonable profit.

(B) In adopting commission tariffs, the commission shall determine whether the rates, terms, and conditions of sale to be set forth in such tariffs are based on cost and are nondiscriminatory. Such rates, terms, and conditions of sale may include a reasonable profit.

(V) As used in this paragraph (g), "true-up" means recovery of the difference between:

(A) The rates paid under temporary interim tariffs before the adoption of commission tariffs or, if interconnection agreements as contemplated in subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (g) are in effect, the rates paid under temporary interim tariffs before the effective dates of such agreements; and

(B) The rates that would have been paid during the same time period had the commission tariffs or interconnection agreements been in effect instead of such temporary interim tariffs.

(VI) True-up shall be accomplished by means of lump-sum cash payments unless the commission orders another method of payment. If the commission orders a refund or an additional payment to be made at the time of true-up, such refund or additional payment shall be paid with interest at a rate to be determined by the commission.

(VII) In conducting a temporary or emergency proceeding under subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (g), the commission shall use its best efforts to afford all parties due process and to base its orders on the most reliable evidence available, taking into account the time constraints involved. When proceeding under article 6 of this title, the commission may shorten any time period set forth in said article 6 as reasonably necessary to have tariffs in effect by July 1, 1996.

(VIII) In all proceedings initiated pursuant to this paragraph (g), the burden of proof shall be on the telecommunications service provider.

(IX) The following entities shall be exempt from the requirements of this paragraph (g):

(A) A basic local exchange provider that serves only rural exchanges of ten thousand or fewer access lines;

(B) As to the interim rates, a college or vocational school as defined in section 23-3-103, C.R.S.

(h) The commission shall require by rule that any telecommunications service provider required to file temporary interim tariffs pursuant to paragraph (g) of this subsection (2) and, to the extent such a requirement is permissible under federal law, any basic local exchange provider that serves only rural exchanges of ten thousand or fewer access lines and that has received a bona fide request for interconnection shall file advice letters with the commission to place into effect temporary interim tariffs and commission tariffs for unbundled facilities or functions, interconnection, services for resale, or local number portability by such dates certain as the commission may determine by rule.

(3) During the period of negotiation and rule-making as contemplated in this section, the director of the commission may request, on a case-by-case basis, and the commission may grant, extensions to the statutorily directed times for completion of proceedings before the commission; except that no such extension shall be requested for proceedings under this section. During rule-making under this section, the commission may, on its own motion and on a case-by-case basis, grant such extensions; except that no such extension shall be granted for proceedings under this section.

40-15-503.5. Financial assurance. (1) The commission may require regulated telecommunications service providers to post a bond or provide other security as a condition of obtaining a certificate, registration, or operating authority, whichever instrument or instruments apply. In setting the amount of the bond or security, the commission may consider the following criteria:

(a) The financial viability of the service provider, as evidenced by its audited financial statements and its general credit history;

(b) The total amount of deposits made by customers to the provider to obtain service and the aggregate amount of prepayments made by customers for monthly regulated service; and

(c) The history of the provider’s statutory payment obligations, including those to the Colorado high cost support mechanism, the Colorado telephone low-income assistance program, the Colorado telephone relay system, and the Colorado fixed utility fund.

(2) The commission may promulgate rules to implement this section and may impose additional criteria consistent with this section.

40-17-101. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that many of Colorado's residents are unable to utilize telecommunications facilities without assistance and are therefore disabled telephone users. Disabled telephone users include, but are not limited to, the deaf, the hard of hearing, the speech-impaired, the deaf-blind, and those with central nervous system disabilities. Disabled telephone users constitute a substantial and valuable resource within the United States and the state of Colorado, and this segment of our population needs access to telecommunications facilities in order to be contributing and productive members of our society. The role of telecommunications in our world today is inestimable. Telecommunications is the primary vehicle of commerce and industry, the means to convey and receive information and knowledge, and is one of the ways we communicate with others on a personal as well as business level. Telecommunications results in greater independence and self-sufficiency by expanding the channels for employment opportunities, the market for goods and services, human contact, and fellowship. Disabled telephone users should have equal access to this critical tool, not only for their own sake, but for the benefit of society at large. The ability to use telecommunications will enhance the business and personal lives of disabled telephone users, while stimulating and promoting economic development in Colorado. The general assembly recognizes the vitality and potential of Colorado's disabled, including disabled telephone users. Telecommunications is vital to our society, and its availability to disabled telephone users is an investment of benefit to all of Colorado.

(2) The general assembly therefore concludes that it is appropriate to provide access to telecommunications for disabled telephone users by establishing telecommunications relay services that replace and expand the dual party relay system required pursuant to this article as said article existed prior to July 1, 1992.

40-17-102. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (1) "Commission" means the public utilities commission of the state of Colorado.
- (2) "Local exchange company" means a telecommunications company that provides telephone access lines to members of the general public who are its customers.
- (3) "Telecommunications relay services" means any telecommunications transmission services that allow a person who has a hearing or speech disability to communicate by wire or radio in a manner that is functionally equivalent to the ability of a person who does not have a hearing or speech disability. Such term includes any service that enables two-way communication between a person who uses a telecommunications device or other nonvoice terminal device and a person who does not use such a device.
- (4) "Telephone access line" means the access to the local exchange network, as defined in tariffs approved by the commission, from the premises of an end user customer of a local exchange company to the telecommunications network to effect the transfer of information.

Editor's note: This section is similar to former § 40-17-102 as it existed prior to 1992.

40-17-103. Commission - powers and duties. (1) The commission shall administer and contract for telecommunications relay services.

(2) The commission shall adopt rules for the implementation of this article. The rules shall:

(a) Conform with section 401 of the federal "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 47 U.S.C. sec. 225, including provision for state application to the federal communications commission for certification;

(b) Be consistent with the commission's quality of service rules;

(c) Require that providers relay communicated messages promptly and accurately, maintain the privacy of persons who receive telecommunications relay services, and preserve confidentiality of all parties in connection with relayed messages;

(d) Specify the types of calls that are included as telecommunications relay services, specifically requiring that the costs of any long-distance service or any other service that is not a basic local exchange service be borne by the disabled telephone user.

(3) The commission shall, through the promulgation of rules, develop and implement a mechanism to recover its costs and the cost to local exchange companies in implementing and administering telecommunications relay services required by this article. The mechanism shall, at a minimum, provide for the following:

(a) The assessment of a monthly surcharge on each telephone access line, which surcharge may be adjusted by the commission in accordance with paragraph (d) of this subsection (3). The monthly surcharge shall be an amount sufficient to reimburse the commission for its costs in developing, implementing, and administering telecommunications relay services, which administrative costs shall not exceed three percent of the total costs, to reimburse local exchange companies for their administrative costs in imposing and collecting the surcharge, and to cover the costs of providers in rendering the service.

(b) A requirement that the monthly surcharge be imposed upon and collected from each individual telephone access line provided by a local exchange company;

(c) A requirement that the surcharge be listed as a separate item that appears on each customer's monthly billing statement;

(d) An annual adjustment to the surcharge by the commission when necessary to accurately reflect a change in the cost of providing telecommunications relay services;

(e) The authority of a local exchange company to deduct and retain as reimbursement for its administrative costs an amount not to exceed three-quarters of one percent of the amount of total monthly surcharges collected by such local exchange company. In addition, the mechanism shall include a requirement that any remaining amount of moneys be transmitted to the state treasurer who shall credit the same to the "Colorado Disabled Telephone Users Fund" created by section 40-17-104.

(f) A requirement that each local exchange company maintain a record of the monthly surcharge imposed on each customer and collected by the local exchange company. The record of any monthly surcharge imposed and collected shall be maintained for three years from the date of billing. The commission may require an audit of a local exchange company's records, which audit shall be at the commission's expense.

(4) Repealed.

(1) Except as otherwise authorized to be retained by section 40-17-103 (3) (e), all moneys collected by the local exchange companies in accordance with said section shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the Colorado disabled telephone users fund, which fund is hereby created and is referred to in this article as the “fund”. On July 1, 1992, any moneys in the Colorado disabled telephone users fund created by section 40-17-103, as said section existed prior to July 1, 1992, shall be credited to the fund as created by this section. The general assembly shall make annual appropriations out of such fund for the administration of the fund and shall make annual appropriations to the reading services for the blind cash fund, created in section 24-90-105.5 (5), C.R.S., for use by the state librarian in support of privately operated reading services for the blind. The moneys in such fund not used for administration of such fund, not used for the reading services for the blind cash fund, and not used for the Colorado commission for the deaf and hard of hearing cash fund created in section 26-21-107, C.R.S., are hereby continuously appropriated to the public utilities commission for the reimbursement of providers who render telecommunications services authorized by this article.

- (2) and (3) Repealed.
- (4) (a) Notwithstanding any provision of subsection (1) of this section to the contrary, the general assembly shall make annual appropriations from the Colorado disabled telephone users fund to the Colorado commission for the deaf and hard of hearing cash fund, created in section 26-21-107, C.R.S.
- (b) and (c) Repealed.
- (d) Notwithstanding any provision of subsection (1) of this section to the contrary, the general assembly shall make annual appropriations from the Colorado disabled telephone users fund to cover authorized expenses associated with the Colorado commission for individuals who are blind or visually impaired, created in article 8.7 of title 26, C.R.S. Any annual appropriation made from the Colorado disabled telephone users fund by the general assembly shall not exceed an amount of one hundred twelve thousand sixty-seven dollars.

- (a) To lay out its road, not exceeding two hundred feet in width, and to construct the same; and for the purpose of cuttings and embankments to take as much more land as may be necessary for the proper construction and security of the railway; and to cut down any standing trees that may be in danger of falling or obstructing the railway, making proper compensation therefor;

ANNOTATION

The power is granted under this section to mortgage the corporate property as an entirety. Booth v. Central Sav. Bank, 58 Colo. 519, 146 P. 240 (1915).

Specific properties which may be mortgaged are not enumerated. Under this section the specific properties of a railroad company which may be mortgaged are not enumerated but the power is given "to mortgage its corporate property and franchise to secure the payment of any debt contracted by such corporation for the purposes" enumerated, and "in such manner as the shareholders representing a majority of the stock of any such corporation may direct." Booth v. Central Sav. Bank, 58 Colo. 519, 146 P. 240 (1915).

Section does not give right to operate trains without regard to the public interest. This section grants the right to regulate the time and manner in which passengers and property shall be transported over the lines of a railroad system, but this does not confer upon the company the unlimited right to operate its trains as it sees fit, without regard to the interest of the public. Colo. & S. Ry. v. State R. R. Comm'n, 54 Colo. 64, 129 P. 506 (1912).

When 200-foot limitation not applicable to condemnation by railroad. The general assembly did not intend the 200-foot width limitation of subsection (1)(a) to apply to the condemnation of private property under § 38-2-101 for the construction of a railroad's physical facilities (other than those required for the laying out of its road) which have a sufficiently direct functional relationship to the operations of the railroad to satisfy the public use requirement of § 15 of art. II, Colo. Const. Buck v. District Court, 199 Colo. 344, 608 P.2d 350 (1980).

A mortgage duly recorded creates a valid lien. A mortgage of railroad property in conformity with the statute governing mortgages of real estate, and duly recorded, creates a valid lien, though the statutes regulating chattel mortgages and the creation of liens upon chattel property are disregarded. Booth v. Central Sav. Bank, 58 Colo. 519, 146 P. 240 (1915).

Power to mortgage is a special grant and not general corporate power. The power given a railroad company to mortgage its property has always been, by virtue of a special grant as distinguished from the power invested in corporations generally. Booth v. Central Sav. Bank, 58 Colo. 519, 146 P. 240 (1915).

Railroad has right to locate its own stations. No statute requires that connected roads shall adopt joint stations, or that one railroad company shall stop at or make use of the station of another. Each company in the state has the legal right to locate its own stations, and, so far as statutory regulations are concerned, is not required to use any other. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. R. v. Denver & N. O. R. R., 110 U.S. 667, 4 S. Ct. 185, 28 L. Ed. 291 (1884).

Rolling stock may be included in the mortgage. Booth v. Central Sav. Bank, 58 Colo. 519, 146 P. 240 (1915).

40-20-103. Right-of-way for changed line - sale of right-of-way for public passenger rail service - definitions. (1) Any railroad company having located its line of road, whether the same is completed or not, may make a new location of its line and may acquire the right-of-way for such new line in the same manner as is now provided for acquiring the right-of-way by the statutes of Colorado; but in acquiring said new right-of-way, the previous right-of-way shall revert to the owner of the land through which said previous right-of-way was granted upon the payment or tendering payment to the railroad company of the amount assessed by the board of appraisers and paid by said railroad company for said previous right-of-way.

(2) (a) Any railroad company may sell its right-of-way for the operation of a public passenger rail service. In such case, the right-of-way shall continue to be used as a public highway only for operation of public passenger rail service for purposes of section 4 of article XV of the state constitution if ownership of the right-of-way is transferred to a public passenger rail service provider, regardless of:

(I) Whether or not an order of abandonment has been issued for the right-of-way by the federal surface transportation board, any successor federal agency, or any court of competent jurisdiction;

(II) The technology used to operate the public passenger rail service; or

(III) Whether ownership of the railroad is public or private.

(b) No rail service provider operating public passenger rail service as authorized by paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) shall be required to offer its right-of-way for use by any other rail service provider by operation of Colorado law after an order of abandonment has been issued.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect any vested right of any party.

(4) For purposes of this section, "public passenger rail service" means any passenger service that runs on rails or electromagnetic guideways, including but not limited to:

(a) Commuter or other short-haul railroad passenger service in a metropolitan or suburban area;

(b) High-speed ground transportation systems that connect metropolitan areas; or

(c) Rapid transit operations in an urban area that are not connected to the general railroad system of transportation.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "The Real Property Interest Created In a Railroad Upon Acquisition of Its 'Right-of-Way'", see 27 Rocky Mt. L. Rev. 73 (1954).

Where nothing is paid for right-of-way part of § 38-1-101 requiring payment does not apply. Where a railroad company, having a right-of-way over public lands, changed its line and abandoned its former right-of-way for a period of 13 years, upon the extinction of title by abandonment it was merged in the title held by those holding under certain patentees, and the land came within the provision of this section. Nothing having been paid for the right-of-way, that portion of § 38-1-101 requiring payment does not apply. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Mills, 222 F. 481 (8th Cir. 1915).

Question of abandonment of right-of-way is one of intent. The question as to whether or not a railroad company has abandoned a right-of-way acquired by it is to a great extent one of intent; but such intention can be established by the acts of the company clearly indicating its purpose not to use such right-of-way and by long nonuser thereof. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Mills, 222 F. 481 (8th Cir. 1915).

Where owner does not object to changes he is estopped from maintaining trespass or ejectment. Where a company acquires a right-of-way over land for a railroad and its successor changes the use to toll road purposes, of which the landowner had knowledge, and the latter stands by without objection while expenditures are made in the construction of the toll road, he is estopped from maintaining either trespass or ejectment for the entry for such changed use. MacKenzie v. Corley, 94 Colo. 263, 29 P.2d 1044 (1934).

Estoppel operates against a grantee acquiring title with notice of the change. MacKenzie v. Corley, 94 Colo. 263, 29 P.2d 1044 (1934).

In such circumstances the remedy of the original owner is an action for damages, but such remedy does not pass with the land to his grantee. MacKenzie v. Corley, 94 Colo. 263, 29 P.2d 1044 (1934).

40-20-104. May guarantee bonds and interest. It is lawful for any railroad company organized, existing, or doing business in the state of Colorado under the laws of the state of Colorado, upon good consideration, to guarantee the payment of any mortgage, mortgage bonds, or interest coupons of any other railroad connecting with said first named railroad. It is also lawful for any such railroad, upon good consideration, to guarantee to said road the payment of interest upon its capital stock.

40-20-105. Construction started within two years. If any railway corporation, within two years after its articles of association have been filed and recorded, does not begin the construction of its road and expend thereon twenty percent of the amount of its capital within five years after the date of its organization, its corporate existence and power shall cease; but any such railway corporation at any time may reduce its capital stock in the manner and form provided by the laws of this state, and if twenty percent of the amount of its capital, as so reduced, has at any time been expended in good faith in the construction of its road, then its corporate existence and power shall not cease or be deemed to have ceased.

ANNOTATION

Section may be used as defense in condemnation proceeding. Where a railroad company, seeking to acquire by condemnation the property of another, has by reasons of nonfulfillment of the requirements of this section lost its corporate rights or powers, that fact may be set up by way of defense in the condemnation proceedings. People ex rel. Union Pac. Ry. v. Colo. E. Ry., 8 Colo. App. 301, 46 P. 219 (1896).

40-20-106. Directors - election. At any meeting of the stockholders of any railroad corporation formed under the laws of this state for the election of directors, managers, or trustees, the stockholders may classify the directors in three equal classes, as near as may be, one of which classes shall hold office for one year, one for two years, and one for three years until its successors are respectively elected; and at all subsequent elections, in the event such classification is made, directors shall be elected for three years to fill the places made vacant by the class whose term of office expires at that time.

40-20-107. Stockholders to fix interest and loans. 40-20-108. Purchase or lease of other lines - sale. Any railroad company owning or operating, or formed to own or operate, a line of railroad in this state may lease or purchase other lines of railroad within or without this state which shall connect with the road operated or to be operated by such company, directly or by means of any other line which such company has the right by contract or otherwise, when constructed, to use or operate, and may acquire and may hold the obligations and stock of other companies owning or operating any such line of railroad which such company is so authorized to lease or purchase or with which, under the laws of the state of Colorado, it may be authorized to consolidate, and any railroad corporation may lease or sell its line of railroad to any other company authorized to lease or purchase the same. No line of railroad shall be so leased, purchased, or sold until a meeting of the stockholders of the companies party to such agreement of lease or sale has been called for that purpose in such manner as provided for the annual stockholders' meeting, and the holders of at least two-thirds of the stock of such companies consent thereto or, in the case of a foreign corporation, unless the consent thereto of the stockholders has been obtained to the extent required and in the manner provided by the laws of the place of incorporation. Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize the lease, purchase, or sale of competing or parallel lines or to exclude the jurisdiction of this state over the control or regulation of all railroads or parts of the same as are situated within the boundaries of this state.

40-20-109. Dining cars need no license. No person or corporation shall be required to obtain or pay any town, city, county, or state license or tax within the state of Colorado by reason of furnishing or serving to passengers upon any railroad train meals, luncheons, or refreshments in any hotel car, dining car, or buffet car operated by such person or corporation.

ANNOTATION

This section exempts a railroad from the state sales tax with respect to sales of food and beverages sold by the railroad to passengers on its line. Dept. of Rev. v. Durango & Silverton Narrow Gauge R.R. Co., 989 P.2d 208 (Colo. App. 1999).

40-20-110. Title to equipment. In any written contract for the sale of railroad equipment or rolling stock, deliverable immediately or subsequently, at stipulated periods, by the terms of which the purchase money, in whole or in part, is to be paid in the future, it may be agreed that the title to the property so sold or contracted to be sold shall not pass to or vest in the vendee until the purchase money has been fully paid or that the vendor shall retain a lien thereon for the unpaid purchase money, notwithstanding delivery thereof to and possession by the vendee for a period not to exceed twenty-five years in any one contract, which terms shall be expressed in said contract; but the situs or location of all such property shall, for the purposes of taxation and revenue, be deemed to be within the state of Colorado.

ANNOTATION

Purpose of section. This section provides for contracts whereby the vendor of railroad equipment may preserve title in himself until payment for such equipment is made and thus prevent the same from being covered by superior mortgage liens. Booth v. Central Sav. Bank, 58 Colo. 519, 146 P. 240 (1915).

Section a part of agreement or contract. By a well-known rule of construction this and the 40-20-111. Lease may stipulate sale. In any written contract for the leasing or renting of railroad equipment or rolling stock, it is lawful to stipulate for a conditional sale thereof at the termination of such lease and to stipulate that the rentals received, as paid or when paid in full, may be applied and treated as purchase money and that the title to such property shall not vest in such lessee or vendee until the purchase money has been paid in full, notwithstanding delivery to and possession by such lessee or vendee.

ANNOTATION

This section regulates the leasing of railroad equipment, and also provides for conditional sale thereof and prevents title thereto from passing to lessee or vendee until the purchase money shall have been paid in full. Booth v.

Applied in Central Locomotive & Car Works v. Smith, 27 Colo. App. 449, 150 P. 241 (1915).

40-20-112. Execution of contract. (1) Every such contract, specified in sections 40-20-110 and 40-20-111, shall be good, valid, and effectual, both in law and equity, against all purchasers and creditors, provided:

(a) The contract is acknowledged by the vendee or lessee before some officer authorized by law to take acknowledgments of deeds;

(b) Such instrument is recorded or a copy thereof filed in the office of the secretary of state and in the office of the county clerk and recorder of each of the counties in which the railroad may be operated in this state;

It is lawful for any railroad company or corporation, organized or existing under the laws of this state, and whose line or road is made or is in the process of construction to the boundary line of the state or to any point either in or out of the state, under authority of its laws, to merge and consolidate its capital stock, franchises, and property into and with the capital stock, franchises, and property of any other railroad company or corporation organized and existing under the laws of any adjoining state whenever the two or more railroads of the companies or corporations so to be consolidated form a continuous line of railroad with each other or by means of any intervening railroad; and roads running to the bank of a river which is not bridged shall be held to be continuous. Nothing in this article shall be taken to authorize the consolidation of any company or corporation of this state with that of any other state, unless the laws of such other state authorize such consolidation; but parallel or competing lines of railroad shall not be consolidated.

40-22-102. Conditions necessary for consolidation. (1) Said consolidation shall be made under the conditions, provisions, and restrictions and with the powers as follows:

(a) The directors of the several corporations proposing to consolidate may enter into a joint agreement, under the corporate seal of each company, for the consolidation of said companies and railroads, and prescribing the terms and conditions thereof, the mode of carrying the same into effect, the name of the new corporation, the number and names of the directors and other officers thereof, who shall be the first directors and officers and their places of residence, the number of shares of the capital stock, the principal place of business of the new company in each state or territory traversed by its line of railway, and such other provisions as may be required by law to be inserted in an original certificate of incorporation, the manner of converting the capital stock of each of said companies into that of the new corporation, and how and when directors and officers shall be chosen, with such other details as they shall deem necessary to perfect such new organization and the consolidation of said companies and railroads.

(b) Said agreement shall be submitted to the stockholders of each of the companies or corporations, at a meeting thereof, called separately, for the purpose of taking the same into consideration; due notice of the time and place of holding such meeting, and the object thereof, shall be given by written or printed notices, addressed to each of the persons in whose names the capital stock of said companies stands on the books thereof, and delivered to such persons respectively or sent to them by mail when their post-office addresses are known to the company and also by a general notice published in some newspaper in the city, town, or county where such company has its principal office or place of business. At the said meeting of stockholders, the agreement of the said directors shall be considered and a vote by ballot taken for the adoption or rejection of the same, each share entitling the holder thereof to one vote; and said ballots shall be cast in person or by proxy, and, if a majority of all the votes of all the stockholders are for the adoption of said agreement, that fact shall be certified thereon by the secretaries of the respective companies under the seals thereof. The agreement so adopted, or a certified copy thereof, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state and shall be deemed the agreement and act of consolidation of the said companies. A copy of said agreement and act of consolidation, duly certified by the secretary of state under the seal thereof, shall be evidence of the existence of said new corporation; but, if the mode of ratifying said agreement of consolidation in such other state or territory varies from the mode prescribed in this section, such agreement may be ratified by the railroad company or corporation of such other state or territory in the mode prescribed by the laws thereof.

All property, all rights-of-way, and every other interest shall be as effectually the property of the new corporation as they were of the former corporations.

(2) The title to real estate, either by deed or otherwise, under the laws of this state or of the United States, vested in any of such corporations, shall not be deemed to revert or be in any way impaired by reason of this article, nor shall the lien, operation, or effect of any trust deed or mortgage executed by any of the corporations so consolidating be in any way divested, impaired, or affected. The new corporation shall have the right to execute any future trust deed or mortgage upon its property, as shall be provided in the agreement of consolidation, not inconsistent with the laws of this state, and all debts, liabilities, and duties of either of said companies shall attach to said new corporation, and be enforced against it, to the same extent as if said debts, liabilities, and duties had been incurred or contracted by it.

Reorganization

40-23-101.	Right to reorganize.	40-23-102.	Power of company so organized.

40-23-101. Right to reorganize. Whenever the railroads, property, and franchises of any railroad company, organized and existing under the laws of this state, are sold and conveyed under or by virtue of any power contained in any trust deed or mortgage or pursuant to the judgment or decree of any court of competent jurisdiction, it is lawful to organize a railroad company under the laws of this state for the purpose of purchasing, maintaining, operating, extending, or completing the railroads, property, and franchises so sold and conveyed.

ANNOTATION

This section reenacts, in effect, § 11 of art. XV, Colo. Const., and further declares, substantially, that the consent upon the part of a city to the construction of a street railroad therein shall not operate to relieve or protect those constructing the road, etc., "against any claim for damages to private property, which otherwise, without such consent, might be lawfully maintained against" the persons constructing the road. Harrison v. Denver City Tramway Co., 54 Colo. 593, 131 P. 409 (1913).

Insufficient complaint under this section. A complaint under this section states no cause of action where it contains no allegation that the railway track is above or below the surface of the street, or was in anywise improperly or negligently constructed, or that the road, as a structure, in any way hampers ingress or egress. Where the inconvenience alleged arises from "the frequency with which cars are operated upon said tracks", and in no sense from the structure itself, the defendant is not liable for inconvenience of either character, because they are merely incident to the use of the highway for public travel. Denver & S. F. Ry. v. Hannegan, 43 Colo. 122, 95 P. 343, 127 Am. St. R. 100, 16 L.R.A. (n.s.) 874 (1908); Harrison v. Denver City Tramway Co., 54 Colo. 593, 131 P. 409 (1913).

Railroad's liability for damage or taking of private property is the same as that of city. This section makes it certain, as between municipalities and those constructing street railroads therein, that the latter shall make compensation for private property taken or damaged in the construction of such public works. In other words, as to the liability for compensation for private property taken or damaged, those constructing the road stand in the place of the city. Harrison v. Denver City Tramway Co., 54 Colo. 593, 131 P. 409 (1913).

Under this section plaintiff's rights depend solely upon whether the property has been taken or damaged. Harrison v. Denver City Tramway Co., 54 Colo. 593, 131 P. 409 (1913).

It must appear that plaintiff had some right in, use of, or interest pertaining to the property which has been wholly or partially destroyed before she can maintain a cause of action for damages to her property. Harrison v. Denver City Tramway Co., 54 Colo. 593, 131 P. 409 (1913).

The right disturbed may be either public or private, but it must be a right which is enjoyed in connection with one's property, and which gave to it an additional value, and without which, or as affected by the disturbance, the property itself is damaged. The disturbance of the right of easement may be at a distance from the property injured, but the interference must be with some right held with regard to that property. Gilbert v. Greeley, S. L. & Pac. Ry., 13 Colo. 501, 22 P. 814 (1889); Harrison v. Denver City Tramway Co., 54 Colo. 593, 131 P. 409 (1913).

The injury sustained must be damages to one's property, not incidental injuries arising from a careful exercise of legal rights by defendant in a manner that does not invade the legal rights of plaintiff. City of Denver v. Bayer, 7 Colo. 113, 2 P. 6 (1883); Denver Circle R. R. v. Nestor, 10 Colo. 403, 15 P. 714 (1887); Harrison v. Denver City Tramway Co., 54 Colo. 593, 131 P. 409 (1913).

The use of the streets in municipalities for street railway is one of the ordinary and usual purposes for which such streets and highways may be used. Harrison v. Denver City Tramway Co., 54 Colo. 593, 131 P. 409 (1913).

The use of the streets in municipalities for street railway does not entitle the adjoining owner to compensation. Such a street railway, so laid and operated as not to materially impair access to, or the enjoyment of, the adjacent property may lawfully be placed in the public highways of the city, if expressly sanctioned by proper authority. Such a use does not impose any additional burden entitling the owner of adjoining land to compensation; nor can it be justly regarded, at the present day, as any substantial impairment of the public easement or of the private rights of proprietors of land abutting on the street. Harrison v. Denver City Tramway Co., 54 Colo. 593, 131 P. 409 (1913).

Noises and vibrations of cars give no cause of action. The annoyances, discomfort, and injury, suffered by the abutter from the ringing of bells, and loud and discordant noises produced by the cars in passing over the tracks and around curves, are, excepting as to degree, suffered by the public generally so far as such noises and vibrations are heard and felt, and give no action. Harrison v. Denver City Tramway Co., 54 Colo. 593, 131 P. 409 (1913).

The abutter is entitled to receive at, or remove from his premises, persons or goods, and to have vehicles stand in front thereof upon the street, for the time reasonably necessary for this purpose, even though this may temporarily interfere with the passage of others; and if this right is interfered with he may have redress therefor in a proper action. Harrison v. Denver City Tramway Co., 54 Colo. 593, 131 P. 409 (1913).

40-24-102. Grant right-of-way - condemnation. The boards of county commissioners in their respective counties in the state of Colorado, with the written consent of a majority of the holders of property (measured by the front foot) abutting on each side of such county roads, have the power to grant to any person, company, corporation, or association outside of cities and towns the right-of-way and franchise for the construction, operation, or maintenance of any electric railroad over, along, and across any county road in their respective counties, upon the terms and conditions provided in section 40-24-103; and, when necessary to enter upon and use private property in the construction and operation of such roads, such person, company, corporation, or association has the same power of operation and condemnation that the railroad companies have.

40-24-103. Petition for right-of-way. Any person, company, corporation, or association desiring in good faith to construct, maintain, and operate an electric railroad over, along, or across any county road within any county in this state may petition the board of county commissioners of such county for a franchise and right-of-way for the construction, maintenance, and operation of an electric railroad. The board of county commissioners, in accordance with the conditions provided in this section, may grant said right-of-way and franchise for a period not exceeding twenty years. Before any such person, company, association, or corporation commences the construction of any such electric railroad, there shall be filed with and approved by the board of county commissioners of any such county specifications and surveys with maps, showing all grades and curves of such proposed line of road, together with the exact location and description of all tracks, culverts, bridges, and poles, and the difference, if any, in all grades between such county road and the said proposed line of railroad. Before such specifications, surveys, or maps shall be so approved, at least ten days' public notice of the filing thereof shall be given by such board of county commissioners by publication in some newspaper of general circulation in such county and by the posting of a copy thereof in the office of the county clerk and recorder of such county.

40-24-104. Railroad to maintain and keep joint road and bridges in good repair. Any person, company, corporation, or association to whom any such right-of-way and franchise is granted shall construct and maintain its railroad on either side of the county road, and, at its own expense and in good substantial manner, shall strengthen and repair all bridges and culverts on said county road which are used or occupied jointly by said electric railroad and the traveling public, and, thereafter during the existence of said franchise, shall contribute and pay not less than one-half of the necessary expense of keeping said bridges and culverts in good repair, and shall pay all expense of keeping public and private crossings planked and in good repair, and, at its own expense, shall widen to not less than twenty-four feet all bridges, culverts, cuts, and embankments on said public highway which are used or occupied jointly by said electric railroad and the traveling public.

40-24-105. New bridges - construction and maintenance. Whenever it becomes necessary to build or construct any new bridges or culverts on any county road over or along which any person, company, corporation, or association is operating and maintaining an electric railroad, said person, company, corporation, or association shall pay to the party constructing or erecting the same one-half of the expense for the erection and construction of the bridges or culverts which are used jointly by the public and said railroad and shall thereafter pay one-half of the necessary expense of keeping said bridges or culverts used jointly by the public and said railroad in good repair; and the county in which said county road is situated shall contribute and pay out of the county road fund the other one-half of the expense for the construction and maintenance thereafter of any such culverts or bridges. Said bridges or culverts shall be constructed under the joint supervision of the owner or operator of said electric railroad and the board of county commissioners of such county.

40-24-107. Forfeiture of right-of-way - cause. Whenever any person, company, corporation, or association obtains a franchise and right-of-way to operate an electric railroad over or along any county road in any county in this state and fails, refuses, or neglects, for a period of six months after the granting of any such franchise, to commence the work of constructing such electric railroad and in good faith to continuously prosecute the construction thereof to a final completion or fails, refuses, or neglects to operate or maintain said railroad in good condition and in good faith, for a period of one year at any one time after the granting of said franchise or right-of-way, such person, company, corporation, or association or its assigns shall forfeit all its right, title, and interest in and to such franchise and right-of-way, and the same shall become null and void; and it shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners of the county granting such franchise and the district attorney of the judicial district in which the county is situated to immediately institute the proper legal proceedings to cancel said franchise and all right, title, and interest of said person, company, corporation, or association or its assigns to use or occupy any portion of said county road.

40-24-108. Railroad subject to assignment. 40-27-102. Fence right-of-way - cattle guards. (1) Every railway company or corporation whose lines or roads, or any part thereof, are open for use, within six months after the lines of such railways or any part thereof are open, except at the crossings of public roads and highways and within the limits of incorporated towns and cities or the yard limits of established stations, shall erect and thereafter maintain fences on the sides of their roads, or the part thereof open to use, where the same pass through, along, or adjoining enclosed or cultivated fields or unenclosed lands, with openings and gates therein to be hung and have latches and hinges, so that they may be opened and shut at all necessary farm crossings of the road, for the use of the proprietors or owners of the land adjoining such railroad, and shall construct and maintain at all public road crossings good and sufficient cattle guards.

(2) Such fences, gates, and cattle guards for the protection of livestock shall be constructed as defined in section 35-46-101 (1), C.R.S., and shall be amply sufficient to prevent horses, mules, asses, and cattle from getting on said railroads; and, so long as such fences and guards, or any part thereof, are not sufficient or not in sufficiently good repair to accomplish the objective for which they are intended, such railroad corporation shall be liable for any and all damages which are done by the agent, employees, engines, trains, or cars of any other corporation permitted and running over and upon their said railroad to any such cattle, horses, asses, or mules thereon. When such fences, gates, and guards have been built and duly made and are kept in good and sufficient repair, such railroad corporation shall not be liable for any such damages unless the same were occasioned by the negligence or carelessness of such railway company or corporation or the assignee or lessee thereof.

(3) Where gates are constructed and maintained at farm crossings, opening into enclosed pastures or cultivated fields, it is the duty of the owner or occupant of such fields or pastures so provided with gates to see that such gates are kept closed at all times when not actually in use, and where it is shown that any such gate has been left open, the owner or occupant of such lands shall be held responsible for any stock killed or damaged because of such open gate.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Annotator's note. Cases material to § 40-27-102 decided prior to its earliest source, L. 11, p. 400, § 1, have been included in the annotations to § 40-27-102.

This section is penal, in derogation of the common law, and should be strictly construed. Colo. & S. Ry. v. Neville, 41 Colo. 393, 92 P. 956 (1907); Denver & R. G. R. v. Kelso, 40 Colo. 84, 90 P. 65 (1907).

Situation in which railway not liable. Where an animal is near to the tracks of a railway, and, frightened by an approaching train, attempts to cross the track, but not until the train is so near that the engineer is unable to come to a stop with safety, the railway company is not liable for the death of the animal which ensues. Denver & R. G. R. v. Bird, 60 Colo. 259, 152 P. 911 (1915).

A railroad is not liable for an injury to an animal within the yard limits of an established station. It is not required by this section in order to exonerate the railway company, that the yard limits should be marked by sign or otherwise. Denver & R. G. R. v. Bird, 60 Colo. 259, 152 P. 911 (1915).

The yard limits of a railway station must be regarded as at least coextensive with the sidetracks and switches existing and customarily used for the transaction of business at such station. Denver & R. G. R. v. Siminoe, 65 Colo. 73, 173 P. 541 (1918).

A railroad company is not required to fence public roads or highways. Colo. & S. Ry. v. Neville, 41 Colo. 393, 92 P. 956 (1907); Denver & R. G. R. v. Dunn, 46 Colo. 150, 103 P. 387 (1909).

The owner of stock killed is bound by the procedure established only when the railroad company complies with its provisions, and if the company fails in this respect, the owner may bring an action under this section and §§ 40-27-103, 40-27-104, and 40-27-105 to recover the actual value of the animals killed. Chicago, R. I. & Pac. Ry. v. Eyster, 69 Colo. 168, 169 P. 1181 (1918).

Merely because an animal may be near the track of a railroad does not require an engineer to check the speed of his train unless there is something to indicate that the animal may go upon the track. Rio Grande W. Ry. v. Boyd, 44 Colo. 119, 96 P. 781 (1908); Chicago, B. & Q. R. v. Church, 49 Colo. 582, 114 P. 299 (1911); Davis v. Holly Sugar Corp., 74 Colo. 331, 221 P. 1091 (1923).

A railway company is not to be assessed the full value of an animal not seriously injured by one of its trains, though the animal is afterwards shot, no evidence being given as to the person by whom it was shot nor of any necessity to put it to death. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Brennaman, 45 Colo. 264, 100 P. 414 (1909).

Railroad which receives a right-of-way by congressional grant cannot legally abandon a portion of that right-of-way. Allard Cattle Co. v. Colo. & S. Ry., 187 Colo. 1, 530 P.2d 503 (1974).

Absent an act of congress providing for the disposition of specific portions of rights-of-way granted by congress, a third party may not acquire title to portions of such rights-of-way by adverse possession or abandonment of land. Allard Cattle Co. v. Colo. & S. Ry., 33 Colo. App. 39, 516 P.2d 123 (1973), aff'd, 187 Colo. 1, 530 P.2d 503 (1974).

Where congress by the general railroad right-of-way act provided for grants to railroads of rights-of-way 100 feet in width on each side of a railroad bed across public lands, and where a railroad constructed fences, in compliance with this section, 50 feet in width on each side of the railroad bed, the outer 50 feet on each side of the tracks which lay outside of the fences could not be diminished by either adverse possession or abandonment. Allard Cattle Co. v. Colo. & S. Ry., 33 Colo. App. 39, 516 P.2d 123 (1973), aff'd, 187 Colo. 1, 530 P.2d 503 (1974).

Applied in Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. v. North Colo. Springs Land & Imp. Co., 659 P.2d 702 (Colo. App. 1982).

II. EVIDENCE.

Plaintiff must show that railroad was subject to provisions of this section. When plaintiff seeks to recover the penalty from the defendant railroad, it is necessary to bring it within the purview of this section and to show that it was such a railroad as was subject to its provisions. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Kelso, 40 Colo. 84, 90 P. 65 (1907).

Plaintiff cannot recover in the absence of proof that any of defendant's lines or any part thereof, were "open for use" within six months from the passage of the act or within six months from the time it took effect, or that defendant's lines of railroad were not open for use at the date of the passage of the act. Colo. & S. Ry. v. Neville, 41 Colo. 393, 92 P. 956 (1907); Denver & S. Ry. v. Kelso, 40 Colo. 84, 90 P. 65 (1907).

Where no violation of section involved plaintiff must show injury was result of defendant's negligence. Where, in an action for negligence, no violation of this section is involved, plaintiff must show that the injury complained of was the result of defendant's negligence; and such negligence must be clearly established either by direct or circumstantial evidence. Denver & R.G.R.R. v. Dunn, 46 Colo. 150, 103 P. 387 (1909); Chicago, B. & Q. R. R. v. Church, 49 Colo. 582, 114 P. 299 (1911); Davis v. Holly Sugar Corp., 74 Colo. 331, 221 P. 1091 (1923).

Demurrer to complaint alleging railroad had done none of the things required by this section not sustained. In an action to recover the value of livestock killed by the trains of a railway company, where the complaint alleged that the company had done none of the things required by this section, a judgment sustaining the demurrer thereto was reversed. Adams v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 67 Colo. 2, 185 P. 271 (1919).

Where the plaintiff produces evidence sufficient to sustain a verdict in his favor, a nonsuit is error. Adams v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 67 Colo. 2, 185 P. 271 (1919).

"Open to use" requirement not fulfilled. The fact that a railroad might have been built some years earlier does not fulfill the requirement that it be shown that this particular railroad company, which is the defendant, either had a road "open to use" at the time the act became a law or that it succeeded to some company having such road so open to use. Denver & S. Ry. v. Kelso, 40 Colo. 84, 90 P. 65 (1907).

The essential facts should be pleaded and proven, and, in the absence of pleadings in the justice courts, the testimony must show such facts affirmatively and be sufficiently comprehensive to show defendant's liability under the statute. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Kelso, 40 Colo. 84, 90 P. 65 (1907).

Failure of a railroad company to maintain a fence is negligence per se, and if such negligence is the cause of the accidental killing of stock, the owner may recover. Chicago, R. I. & Pac. Ry. v. Eyster, 69 Colo. 168, 169 P. 1181 (1918).

Presumed that animals come upon the track at the point where they are killed. In an action for the value of livestock killed upon the unenclosed tracks of a railway, at a point where enclosure is required, it will be presumed, nothing appearing to the contrary, that the animals came upon the track at the point where they were killed. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Wright, 64 Colo. 310, 171 P. 499 (1918).

Absolute liability until evidence rebutted. The evidence disclosed that the road was unfenced and there was no enclosure where the animals were killed. This established proof of absolute liability, until the company showed that the road was enclosed as required by law or that the killing was at a point where no enclosure was required. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Wright, 64 Colo. 310, 171 P. 499 (1918).

Person not skilled in handling trains may be a competent witness as to the velocity. Colo. & S. Ry. v. Webb, 36 Colo. 224, 85 P. 683 (1906).

Not prejudicial error to allow person not expert to testify as to quality of the horse. See Colo. & S. Ry. v. Webb, 36 Colo. 224, 85 P. 683 (1906).

Farmer's neighbors competent witnesses. In an action against a railroad company for negligently killing an animal, plaintiff's neighbors, who were farmers and owners of similar animals and used them and sometimes bought and sold them, were competent witnesses as to the value of the animal, although they testified that they did not know the "market value" of the animal in that vicinity, and did not know that there was any "market value" for such animals. Burlington & M. R. R. R. v. Campbell, 14 Colo. App. 141, 59 P. 424 (1899).

Mere finding of dead or injured animal near a railroad track is not proof that it was killed or injured by the railroad. Burlington & M. R. R. R. v. Campbell, 14 Colo. App. 141, 59 P. 424 (1899).

Such killing or injury may be shown by circumstantial evidence and it is not necessary to prove such facts by eyewitnesses. Burlington & M. R. R. R. v. Campbell, 14 Colo. App. 141, 59 P. 424 (1899).

Evidence showing negligence on part of engineer. Colo. & S. Ry. v. Charles, 36 Colo. 221, 84 P. 67 (1906).

40-27-103. Liability for injury to stock. Any railroad company running or operating its roads in this state and failing to fence on both sides thereof against livestock running at large at all points shall be absolutely liable to the owners of any such livestock killed, injured, or damaged by their agents, employees, engines, or cars or by the agents, employees, engines, or cars belonging to any other railroad company or corporation running over and upon such road.

40-27-104. Compliance prima facie defense. Any railway company or corporation or the assignee or lessee thereof whose road is enclosed with good and sufficient fences, gates, and cattle guards, as provided in section 40-27-102, capable of keeping such animals from being upon such road may plead and prove the same as a defense to any action under sections 40-27-102 to 40-27-113 for any killing, damaging, or injury to such animals occurring within such enclosure; but such plea or fact shall not be held to preclude the owner or his agent from showing that such killing, damage, or injury was caused by the negligence or carelessness of such railway company or corporation or the assignee or lessee thereof, for the purpose of showing liability notwithstanding such fencing.

40-27-105. Burden of proof. The killing or injury of any animal by a railway company or corporation shall be prima facie evidence of the negligence of said railway company or corporation, and every railway company or corporation in this state and every assignee or lessee thereof shall be liable to pay to the owner the full value of each animal killed and all damages to each animal injured by the engines or cars of such railway company or corporation in this state or the assignee or lessee thereof unless the railway company or corporation, by competent evidence, shall affirmatively show that such killing or wounding was not caused by the negligence of such railway company or corporation or the assignee or lessee thereof. On the trial of all actions for damages arising under this article, in order to admit evidence of absence of negligence, the defendants shall first be held to show a compliance with sections 40-27-102 to 40-27-113 in relation to the erection and maintenance of fences, gates, and cattle guards.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. Cases material to this section decided prior to its earliest source, L. 11, p. 402, § 4, have been included in the annotations to this section.

Section only applicable when animals are killed or injured at points on the railroad where the law makes it the duty of a railroad company to fence its right-of-way. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Dunn, 46 Colo. 150, 103 P. 387 (1909); Davis v. Holly Sugar Corp., 74 Colo. 331, 221 P. 1091 (1923).

Fact that plaintiff does not alone rely on section does not change burden of proof. The fact that plaintiff, suing for the value of an animal killed at a railroad crossing, in making his case does not alone rely on this section creating a presumption of negligence from the killing, but also introduced evidence of the negligence of the engineer and fireman, does not change the rule of burden of proof. Rio Grande W. Ry. v. Boyd, 44 Colo. 119, 96 P. 781 (1908).

Under this section the killing or injury of an animal by a railway company is prima facie evidence of negligence on the part of the company. When the killing is admitted, the burden is upon the company to disprove negligence. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Hopkins, 69 Colo. 203, 193 P. 556 (1920).

Objection by company that no negligence is shown is without merit where prima facie case is not overcome. The company does not overcome the prima facie case or presumption of negligence by presenting and establishing by competent proof, any of the defenses which this section says it may interpose to such an action. It is the duty of the defendant to introduce any evidence it has, showing why plaintiff should not recover on the prima facie case made. If it fails to offer any testimony to the effect, the objection that no negligence was shown, is without merit. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Wheatley, 64 Colo. 598, 173 P. 396 (1918).

Plaintiff can recover amount of damages proven. This section makes the mere happening of an accident, prima facie evidence of negligence on the part of the railroad company, and when the evidence establishes that the plaintiff's animal was injured on the railroad track by an engine of the defendant, a prima facie case of negligence is made, and plaintiff can recover the amount of damages proven. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Wheatley, 64 Colo. 598, 173 P. 396 (1918).

Unless railroad shows affirmatively by proof that the killing was not caused by negligence. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R. v. Roberts, 10 Colo. App. 87, 49 P. 428 (1897), rev'd on other grounds, 26 Colo. 329, 57 P. 1076 (1899).

Unless it shows that its road was enclosed with a good and lawful fence. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R. v. Roberts, 10 Colo. App. 87, 49 P. 428 (1897), rev'd on other grounds, 26 Colo. 329, 57 P. 1076 (1899).

If the company fails in this regard it is liable regardless of any questions as to fences or yard limits. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Hopkins, 69 Colo. 203, 193 P. 556 (1920).

If company shows that there was a lawful fence then the burden is on plaintiff to show negligence. In an action against a railroad company for killing stock, where the evidence shows that the road at the point where the animals were killed was enclosed by a good and lawful fence, the burden is then on the plaintiff to show that the killing was through the negligence of the railroad company. Atchison, T. S. F. Ry. v. Cahill, 11 Colo. App. 245, 52 P. 1111 (1898).

Necessary to allege negligence of company under the common law. In an action, under the common law, against a railroad company for killing stock it is necessary to allege that the animal was killed by the negligence of the company, notwithstanding the provision of the statute placing the burden of proof upon the company to show that the killing was not caused by its negligence. Burlington & M. R. R. R. v. Shelter, 6 Colo. App. 246, 40 P. 157 (1895); Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Thompson, 12 Colo. App. 1, 54 P. 402 (1898).

Exercise of necessary care by engineer and fireman question for jury. In an action for the value of an animal killed at a railroad crossing, where the evidence is conflicting, the question of whether the engineer and fireman exercised the necessary care to ascertain if an animal were approaching the crossing, is for the jury. Rio Grande W. Ry. v. Boyd, 44 Colo. 119, 96 P. 781 (1908).

Where an engineer and fireman, by the exercise of proper care, could have discovered an animal at a crossing and slackened the speed of the train in ample time to have prevented killing it, their negligence was the proximate cause of the killing, and whether the owner was guilty of contributory negligence in turning the animal out on the highway in such close proximity to the crossing, was not involved. Rio Grande W. Ry. v. Boyd, 44 Colo. 119, 96 P. 781 (1908).

Letter of claim agent inadmissible in evidence. In a suit against a railroad company for killing an animal, a letter from the claim agent of the company to the owner was inadmissible in evidence as tending to prove acknowledgment of liability. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R. v. Roberts, 26 Colo. 329, 57 P. 1076 (1899).

40-27-106. Engineer to notify agent - inspection. (1) Whenever any cattle, sheep, horses, mules, or asses are killed or injured by any train, engine, or car upon any railway in this state, it is the duty of the engineer operating the engine, train, or car to notify the station agent at the first station at which the train stops after the killing or wounding or the superintendent or other proper official at the end of the division where the engineer's run ends. Should none of the employees of the train be aware of such killing or wounding, then it is the duty of any employee of the railway who becomes aware of such accident to notify the station agent at the nearest station to the point where the accident occurred.

(2) It is the duty of the railroad company, through its station agent or such other official as may be designated, upon receipt of the information of the killing or wounding of any such livestock by any engine, train, or car, as soon as may be, to notify the section foreman upon whose section the accident occurred and also the nearest inspector of the state board of stock inspection commissioners.

(3) It is the duty of the section foreman upon receiving the information to go to the point where the animal was killed or injured as soon as may be and there inspect the same, securing a full description of the animal together with any brands or marks that are upon the same and such other details as may serve to determine the ownership of such animal.

(4) It is the duty of said stock inspector, as soon as may be after receiving said notice, to go to the point where the animal was killed or injured and there inspect the same, securing a full description of the animal together with any brands or marks that may be on the same and such other details as may serve to determine ownership of such animal. It is also the duty of the inspector to estimate as nearly as possible the probable value of said animal if killed or the amount of damages if injured.

(5) Should the animal be so badly injured that it is in great suffering and cannot live or recover, it is the duty of either the stock inspector or the section foreman upon inspection to immediately kill the animal. If through any cause such an authorized inspector does not appear to inspect such animal so killed within thirty-six hours after such killing, it is the duty of the section foreman to remove the hide of said animal and preserve the same until it has been inspected by such inspector, and thereafter the carcass of such animal shall be disposed of by the railroad company, without prejudice to its rights, in such manner as it may determine.

ANNOTATION

Meeting section's requirements of notice to station agent. Where in an action for the value of an animal killed at a railroad crossing, the plaintiff testified that he could not give the name of the person on whom he served notice that the animal had been killed, but that he answered as the ticket agent of the railroad company at its depot, the evidence was sufficient to establish that the person served was the ticket or station agent of the railroad company, so as to meet the requirements of this section, providing for notice to the ticket or station agent of the railroad company. Rio Grande W. Ry. v. Boyd, 44 Colo. 119, 96 P. 781 (1908) (decided prior to L. 11, p. 402, § 5).

40-27-107. Reports of inspector and foreman. After making such examination it is the duty of the stock inspector to immediately forward a report to the secretary of the state board of stock inspection commissioners showing all the facts in regard to the killing or wounding of said animal, together with a full description and the estimated value of same, and it is the duty of the foreman of the section to likewise make a similar report to the claim agent of said railroad company or corporation or the assignee or lessee thereof.

40-27-108. Notification of owner and claim agent. (1) Upon receipt of the information from any authorized stock inspector of the killing or wounding of any animal by any railroad company or by its engine, cars, or trains, it is the duty of the secretary of the state board of stock inspection commissioners to notify the owner of said animal so killed or injured, informing him of the facts and the estimated value placed upon said animal by the stock inspector, and he shall also send a copy of this report to the claim agent or other authorized official of the railway company responsible for said killing or injuring.

(2) Should the secretary be unable to determine from the description furnished by the stock inspector the owner or probable owner of such animal so killed or injured, he shall cause an advertisement to be placed in a newspaper published in the county where said killing or wounding occurred, describing the animal so killed or injured, giving the marks or brands appearing on said animal, if any, and notifying the owner to appear within six months of the date of such killing or injuring and make claim for said animal. Said advertisement shall appear for two consecutive weeks. The cost of such advertisement shall be paid out of the brand inspection fund of the state board of stock inspection commissioners and shall be deducted from the amount of damages that may be awarded against the railway company or corporation. Should no claim be made for any animal so advertised, the cost of such advertising shall be paid by the railroad company responsible for such killing or injuring and shall be deposited in the brand inspection fund of said board.

40-27-109. Proof of ownership and value. (1) The owner or duly authorized agent of the owner of any animal so killed or injured by any railway company within this state, within thirty days after notice of such killing or injuring, shall make proof that he was the owner or authorized agent of the owner of the animal so killed or injured or that he is the owner of the recorded brand found upon the animal so killed or damaged at the time of such killing or damaging, and said proof may be delivered to the secretary of the state board of stock inspection commissioners who shall notify said railway company or corporation or the assignee or lessee thereof and make demand that said railway company pay to the said state board of stock inspection commissioners for the benefit of the owner the estimated value of said animal if killed or the estimated amount of damages if injured, which shall be settlement in full of all claim for such damage. The secretary of the state board of stock inspection commissioners shall give a receipt in full of said money when received and shall deposit the same in the brand inspection fund of said board, and after paying any advertising charges that may be due against said amount, the balance shall be paid out on voucher to the owner or authorized agent of the owner entitled to receive same.

(2) Should the owner or authorized agent of the owner of any such animal so killed or injured be dissatisfied with the estimated value placed upon such animal by the stock inspector, he may file with the said state board of stock inspection commissioners a claim for such amount of damage he thinks is justly due, and he has the right to produce such evidence in support of his claim as he may think necessary at any regular meeting of said board. Should the railroad company or corporation against whom such claim is made be dissatisfied with the estimated value placed upon any animal so killed or injured, it also has the right, through its claim agent or other authorized officer, to appear before the said state board of stock inspection commissioners at any regular meeting of said board and present such evidence as it may desire in support of its contention.

ANNOTATION

The railroad company's compliance with the act is a condition precedent to the requirement that the owner file proof of ownership as required by this section or a demand with the station agent as required by § 40-27-111. Chicago, R. I. & Pac. Ry. v. Eyster, 69 Colo. 168, 169 P. 1181 (1918).

40-27-110. Value of animal - finding of board. Whenever any owner of any animal so killed or wounded or any railroad company or corporation or the assignee or lessee thereof submits any such claim for killing or damaging of livestock to the state board of stock inspection commissioners for determination as to what damage if any shall be paid by said railroad company, the finding of said state board of stock inspection commissioners in regard thereto shall be considered as an arbitration thereof. The finding of said board shall be final and shall also be so accepted by the said owner or his authorized agent or by said railroad company or corporation, and the state board of stock inspection commissioners shall have the right to make such investigation, through its inspectors or otherwise, as it may think necessary in order to determine the just and equitable amount that should be paid as damages or it may determine that no damages shall be paid, as the facts may warrant.

40-27-111. Owner declining estimate. Should any owner of any animal so killed or wounded by any railroad company decline to accept the estimated value of such animal or the estimated amount of such damage as fixed by the stock inspector or to submit the same to the arbitration of the said board, within six months he shall file sworn proof and affidavit of his claim with the station agent of such railroad company or corporation, and the railway company or corporation or the assignee or lessee thereof shall pay to such person delivering such demand the actual value of said animal if killed or the actual amount of damage if injured. If such claim for damages and such proof of ownership is not presented to the station agent of said railway company or corporation within six months of the date of such killing or injuring, it shall thereafter be forever barred.

ANNOTATION

Owner required to file demand with station agent. The owner is required to file his demand with the station agent as required by this section, only in the event he declines, after being notified, to accept the estimated value or to arbitrate. Chicago, R. I. & Pac. Ry. v. Eyster, 69 Colo. 168, 169 P. 1181 (1918); Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Wright, 64 Colo. 310, 171 P. 499 (1918); Adams v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 67 Colo. 2, 185 P. 271 (1919).

Owner not required to file until company complies with certain provisions. Under this section the owner of an animal killed upon the tracks of a railway is not required to file a claim with the station agent, until nor unless the railway company has complied with the provisions of §§ 40-27-106 to 40-27-110, which are conditions precedent, imposed upon the railway company. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Wright, 64 Colo. 310, 171 P. 499 (1918).

Where plaintiff was given no opportunity to decline, he is not required to file sworn proof and affidavit with the station agent. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Wright, 64 Colo. 310, 171 P. 499 (1918).

40-27-112. Time for payment and suit. In case such railway company or corporation or the assignee or lessee thereof fails for thirty days after demand made therefor by the owner of any animal or his agent or attorney to pay such owner or his agent or attorney the value of said animal as claimed, then such owner, within six months from date of filing claim, may sue and recover the same from such railroad company or corporation or the assignee or lessee thereof in any court of competent jurisdiction in the county in which said animal was killed or injured, together with the legal interest thereon from the date such animal was killed or injured. Any person having a claim arising under the provisions of sections 40-27-102 to 40-27-113 may assign same in writing to any other claimant or person for value or for the purpose of suit, who shall thereupon have all the rights and remedies of the assignor; but, in case it becomes necessary on the part of any owner to establish claim for any animal so killed or injured in a court of competent jurisdiction, he shall have the right to establish the actual and market value of such animal or the actual damage so sustained.

ANNOTATION

This section is not effective until the steps prescribed in § 40-27-109 for adjusting the loss have been taken. Adams v. Chicago, B. & Q. R. R., 67 Colo. 2, 185 P. 271 (1919).

The six months' statute of limitations is unavailing to defendant railroad where it does not comply with the law relating to the killing of stock, §§ 40-27-111 and 40-27-112 in operation and making them effective as to plaintiff. And where there is no pleading, proof, or claim that the company complied with such conditions, a plaintiff's voluntary act in filing a claim with the station agent before bringing suit is unnecessary, merely gratuitous and fixes no limitation upon his right to sue and recover the full value under §§ 40-27-102 to 40-27-105. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Wright, 64 Colo. 310, 171 P. 499 (1918).

This section fixes the time within which and the county in which suit shall be brought in case the railroad company fails to pay for cattle killed by it on demand by the owner as provided. Adams v. Chicago, B. & R. G. R. R., 67 Colo. 2, 185 P. 271 (1919).

40-27-113. Evidence destroyed - penalty. Any person who in any way conceals the evidence of the killing or wounding of any animal by any railroad train, engine, or cars on any railroad in this state or who in any way destroys or covers up the evidence that may lead to the identification of any animal so killed or injured is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than two hundred dollars for each offense, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

40-27-114. Care of animals injured. Whenever any horse, cow, or other animal is injured by a train or otherwise on the right-of-way of any railroad company, it is the duty of trackwalkers, section men, brakemen, conductors, firefighters, engineers, and other employees of said company to care for such animal at once and report the facts to the nearest station agent and then notify the state board of stock inspection commissioners. It is the duty of the agent to give immediate notice, when possible, of the condition of such animal to the owner or the owner's agent whose duty it is forthwith upon receipt of notice to have such animal properly cared for. When immediate notice to the owner is not possible, it is the duty of the station agent to have such injured animal properly cared for without delay.

40-27-115. Admission of liability - waiver of claim. No act of the said railroad company, its employees or agent, or the owner of such injured animal shall be held to be an admission of liability or responsibility on the part of the said company for the injury of the said animal nor a waiver or relinquishment by said owner of any right or claim to damages from said company.

40-29-116. Highway-rail crossing signalization fund created - annual appropriation. (1) The highway-rail crossing signalization fund is hereby created in the state treasury, in order to promote the public safety and to provide for the payment of the costs of installing, reconstructing, and improving automatic and other safety appliance signals or devices at crossings at grade of public highways or roads over the tracks of any railroad or street railway corporation in this state. None of the moneys in the highway-rail crossing signalization fund shall be used to pay any part of the cost of the installation, reconstruction, or improvement of any such signals or devices at any crossing when any part of such cost will be paid from moneys available under any federal or federal-aid highway act.

(2) Subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly, the sum of two hundred forty thousand dollars shall be paid from the general fund and credited to the highway-rail crossing signalization fund. Notwithstanding section 24-36-114 (1), C.R.S., any interest earned on the deposit and investment of moneys in the highway-rail crossing signalization fund shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund. Such earned interest moneys are hereby continuously appropriated to the public utilities commission for use for the purposes of the highway-rail crossing signalization fund.

ARTICLE 30Fire Guards

40-30-101.	Fire guard by plowing.	40-30-103.	Liability of railroad company.
40-30-102.	Penalty for noncompliance.

40-30-101. Fire guard by plowing. Every railroad corporation operating its lines of road or any part thereof within this state, between the fifteenth day of July and the first day of November of each and every year, upon each side of its line of road, shall plow as a fire guard a continuous strip of not less than six feet in width, which said strip of land shall run parallel with said line of railroad and be plowed in such a good and workmanlike manner as to effectually destroy and cover up the vegetation thereon and be sufficient to prevent the spread of fire. In addition thereto all such railroad corporations shall cause to be burned, between said dates, all the grass and vegetation lying between the said plowed strips and the track of said road, and the outer line of said strip of plowed land shall be upon the outer line of such corporation's right-of-way or, if upon land owned by said corporation, one hundred feet on either side from the center of the road. Such fire guard to be so plowed need not be constructed within the limits of any town or city, nor along the line of a railroad running through the mountains, nor in other lands where plowing would be impracticable, but the provisions respecting the burning of a strip on each side shall be duly conformed with whenever any vegetation is found along such line of road. The boards of county commissioners of the various counties of the state shall prescribe for their respective counties where the plowing of such fire guard and burning shall be done.

40-30-102. Penalty for noncompliance. Any railroad company failing to comply with the provisions of section 40-30-101 shall be liable to pay a penalty of two hundred dollars for each and every mile or fractional part thereof of such strip of land it neglects to plow on either side of the line of its road in this state, in each and every year, the same to be collected in an action of debt in any court of competent jurisdiction in the name of the people of the state of Colorado, and when collected it shall be paid into the school fund of the county wherein the cause of action accrued. The action shall be brought within the time period prescribed in section 13-80-101, C.R.S.

40-30-103. Liability of railroad company. Every railroad company operating its line of road, or any part thereof, within this state shall be liable for all damages by fires that are set out or caused by operating any such line of road, or any part thereof, in this state, whether negligently or otherwise. Such damages may be recovered by the party damaged by a proper action in any court of competent jurisdiction; but said action shall be brought by the party injured within two years next ensuing after it accrues. The liability imposed in this section shall inure solely in favor of the owner or mortgagee of the property so damaged or destroyed by fire, and the same shall not pass by assignment or subrogation to any insurance company that has written a policy thereon.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Annotator's note. Cases material to this section decided prior to its earliest source, L. 03, p. 404, § 1, have been included in the annotations to this section.

This section applies to all cases where the fire results from the operation of a railroad. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. United States, 241 F. 614 (8th Cir. 1917).

This section is intended to provide an indemnity to owners against loss from fire caused by the operation of railroads. It was enacted to settle upon whom the loss should fall, and because of the peculiar manner in which railway companies use this dangerous element, it casts the responsibility of employing it on them. British Am. Assurance Co. v. Colo. & S. Ry., 52 Colo. 589, 125 P. 508 (1912).

The phrase, "whether negligent or otherwise", does not change the status of the railway company in relation to the owner in the least. The statutes eliminate all adjectives and differences as to the origin of the fire and exact but one condition, that is, that the fire was set out or caused by the operation of the road. If the fire originated in the operation of the road, it makes no difference how it otherwise occurred, the company is liable. British Am. Assurance Co. v. Colo. & S. Ry., 52 Colo. 589, 125 P. 508 (1912).

This section embodies entire law on railway liability for causing fires. See Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916); Denver & R. G. R. v. United States, 241 F. 614 (8th Cir. 1917).

This section takes away common-law action against railroads for negligence. See Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916).

The United States, as a corporation or body politic, has no special privileges as a litigant. Its rights are no greater, no higher, no better, and no less than those of an individual. It is perfectly clear that, if an action had been brought by a private landowner after the prescribed two-year period, it could not be maintained under this statute, and the United States as the plaintiff is in no better position. Denver &

R. G. R. R. v. United States, 241 F. 614 (8th Cir. 1917).

Appointment of appraisers. A party damaged need not avail himself of the provision as to the appointment of appraisers as a condition precedent to the right of recovery. Denver, T. & G. R. R. v. De Graff, 2 Colo. App. 42, 29 P. 664 (1892).

The value of articles lost by fire which have no market value may be established by evidence of their cost, use, and condition at the time they were destroyed. Union Pac. D. & G. Ry. v. Williams, 3 Colo. App. 526, 34 P. 731 (1893).

The value of an article for which there is no home market may be ascertained by deducting the cost of transportation from the price to be obtained in the nearest market. State Ins. Co. v. Taylor, 14 Colo. 499, 24 P. 333 (1890); Mouat Lumber Co. v. Wilmore, 15 Colo. 136, 25 P. 556 (1890); Union Pac. D & G. Ry. v. Williams, 3 Colo. App. 526, 34 P. 731 (1893).

II. CONSTRUCTION OF STATUTE.

This section is not subject to constitutional objection. The power to enact the law imposing fire liability includes the power to prescribe the conditions upon which the right of its enforcement may be acquired, and with reference to which the rights of all persons interested as owners, insurers or otherwise, should be determined. And this act is not subject to constitutional objection. Consumers' League v. Colo. & S. Ry., 53 Colo. 54, 125 P. 577 (1912); Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916).

This section is not to be condemned as class legislation. This section, being general in its terms and applying to all cases within its scope, is not to be condemned as class legislation. The circumstance that no provision is made for the protection of others interested in the property, e.g. lessees, is not important. Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916).

Such statutes are not penal but purely remedial in their nature; they apply to corporations which obtained their charters before as well as since their passage; and they should receive a liberal construction such as will justly promote their object. Union Pac. Ry. v. De Busk, 12 Colo. 294, 20 P. 752 (1888).

Such statutes are upheld as statutes of indemnity. Home Ins. Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. R., 19 Colo. 46, 34 P. 281 (1893).

Even if this section was a special law, it would not for that reason be invalid, since it is settled in this jurisdiction that the necessity for a special law is a legislative question. Brown v. City of Denver, 7 Colo. 305, 3 P. 455 (1884);

Carpenter v. People ex rel. Tilford, 8 Colo. 116, 5 P. 828 (1884); Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916).

The words "railroad companies" should be construed to mean any body, company, or association of persons, whether technically incorporated or not, engaged in the operation of railroads. Such was obviously the meaning intended by the general assembly and this meaning avoids the necessity of declaring the act unconstitutional. Whenever a word or phrase of an act is used in more senses than one, that sense is always to be preferred which will sustain and give effect to the act, rather than the sense which would render the act unconstitutional and void. Union Pac. Ry. v. De Busk, 12 Colo. 294, 20 P. 752 (1888).

This section is but a reenactment of ancient common law. The adoption of this section, making railroad companies liable for damages by fire caused by the operation of their locomotive engines, is but the reenactment pro tanto of the ancient common law for the better protection of property exposed to such unusual dangers. Such matters are peculiarly within the control of the local legislatures, and such laws may be enacted, changed, or repealed to suit the varied conditions and circumstances of the people. Union Pac. Ry. v. De Busk, 12 Colo. 294, 20 P. 752 (1888).

This section is a general statute and need not be pleaded. Denver, T. & G. R. R. v. De Graff, 2 Colo. App. 42, 29 P. 664 (1892).

The title of this section is sufficiently broad to sustain the provision limiting the liability of the railway company to the owner or mortgagee. Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916).

III. LIABILITY OF RAILROADS.

A. In General.

Under this section a railroad company is made absolutely liable for all fires occasioned by their operation of the road. Whenever a fire breaks out along the line it is assumed that it was set out by the company, and the injured party has little difficulty in convincing a jury of his right to recover. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Morton, 3 Colo. App. 155, 32 P. 345 (1893); Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916); Denver & R. G. R. R. v. United States, 241 F. 614 (8th Cir. 1917).

Whether negligence entered into the cause or not. This section imposes upon railroad companies absolute liability for all damages from fire set out in the operation of their roads, whether negligence entered into the cause or not, and the only question to be determined in cases of this character is, did the railway company set out or cause the fire in the operation of its road, if so, the answer is that the railroad is liable. British Am. Assurance Co. v. Colo. & S. Ry., 52 Colo. 589, 125 P. 508 (1912).

The liability clause only reenacts the pre-existing liability. British Am. Assurance Co. v. Colo. & S. F. Ry., 52 Colo. 589, 125 P. 508 (1912); Denver & R. G. R. R. v. United States, 241 F. 614 (8th Cir. 1917).

The liability imposed, while not limited in amount, is limited to parties to which it shall inure, and in order that there might be no question concerning his limitation as to parties, there was added the further proviso "and the same shall not pass by assignment or subrogation to any insurance company", etc. The use of this language does not embrace another subject different than the one covered by the act, but is rather to emphasize the limitation upon or attached to the liability created by the act. Golden Canal Co. v. Bright, 8 Colo. 144, 6 P. 142 (1884); Clare v. People, 9 Colo. 122, 10 P. 799 (1886); Dallas v. Redman, 10 Colo. 297, 15 P. 397 (1887); Edwards v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 13 Colo. 59, 21 P. 1011 (1889); In re Breene, 14 Colo. 401, 24 P. 3 (1890); Stockman v. Brooks, 17 Colo. 248, 29 P. 746 (1892); Catron v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 18 Colo. 553, 33 P. 513 (1893); People ex rel. Funk v. Wright, 30 Colo. 439, 71 P. 365 (1902); Bd. of Comm'rs v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 32 Colo. 310, 76 P. 368 (1904); Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916).

B. Negligence.

This section makes the railroad company liable unconditionally irrespective of any negligence on its part. Home Ins. Co. v. Atchison, T. & S. F. R. R., 19 Colo. 46, 34 P. 281 (1893).

This section eliminates question of negligence. This section is simply declaratory of the common law, except that it eliminates the question of negligence—which was at common law an important factor—and makes the liability absolute, "if the fire was set out or caused by operating any such line of road", regardless of the question of negligence. Union Pac. Ry. v. De Busk, 12 Colo. 294, 20 P. 752 (1888); Denver, T. & G. R. R. v. De Graff, 2 Colo. App. 42, 29 P. 664 (1892).

It is not necessary in an action under this section to show negligence on part of the railroad company in causing the fire. Union Pac. Ry. v. Arthur, 2 Colo. App. 159, 29 P. 1031 (1892).

The doctrine of contributory negligence cannot be invoked by the defendant in an action under this section. Union Pac. Ry. v. Arthur, 2 Colo. App. 159, 29 P. 1031 (1892); Union Pac. D. & G. Ry. v. Williams, 3 Colo. App. 526, 34 P. 731 (1893).

Allegations as to negligence state a cause of action under this section. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. United States, 241 F. 614 (8th Cir. 1917).

IV. EVIDENCE ESTABLISHING LIABILITY.

A. In General.

Under this section an unaccepted offer to compromise is not admissible in evidence. Denver, T. & G. R. R. v. De Graff, 2 Colo. App. 42, 29 P. 664 (1892).

It is the duty of the court to nonsuit where the evidence does not warrant a verdict for the plaintiff. Tripp v. Fiske, 4 Colo. 24 (1877); Sullivan v. Chrysolite Silver Mining Co., 21 F. 892 (8th Cir. 1884); Union Pac. Ry. v. Sternberg, 13 Colo. 141, 21 P. 1021 (1889); Stratton v. Union Pac. Ry., 7 Colo. App. 126, 42 P. 602 (1895).

Verdict based on incompetent evidence should be set aside. Where there is no competent evidence upon which a verdict could have been predicated, and where it must have been the result of prejudice, it should be set aside. Denver, T. & G. R. R. v. De Graff, 2 Colo. App. 42, 29 P. 664 (1892).

Evidence as to condition of engine is admissible. In an action against a railroad company to recover damages for property destroyed by fire, testimony as to the condition of an engine belonging to defendant and which was shown to have passed on the track close to the place where the fire originated a few minutes before its discovery, by a witness who examined the engine a week or two weeks after the fire, is admissible and its exclusion is error. Crissey & Fowler Lumber Co. v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 17 Colo. App. 275, 68 P. 670 (1902).

Where engine is identified, evidence as to other engines causing fires is inadmissible. In an action against a railroad company to recover damages for property destroyed by fire, where the only engine that could have set the fire was identified, evidence of the setting out of fires at other times and places by other engines belonging to defendant should be excluded. Crissey & Fowler Lumber Co. v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 17 Colo. App. 275, 68 P. 670 (1902).

B. Origin of Fire.

The fact of the origin of the fire, like any other material fact, should be established. Denver, T. & G. R. R. v. De Graff, 2 Colo. App. 42, 29 P. 664 (1892); Crissey & Fowler Lumber Co. v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 17 Colo. App. 275, 68 P. 670 (1902).

The evidence required to establish the origin of a fire must be direct and connect the fire with the operation of the railroad, or the circumstances must be such as to preclude all probability of the fire having originated in any other way. Stratton v. Union Pac. Ry., 7 Colo. App. 126, 42 P. 602 (1895). See Denver, T. & G. R.

R. v. De Graff, 2 Colo. App. 42, 29 P. 664 (1892); Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Morton, 3 Colo. App. 155, 32 P. 345 (1893).

Considerable latitude is allowed in introducing testimony. From the nature and circumstances of cases under this section considerable latitude must be allowed in the introduction of testimony, and in the drawing of inferences as to the origin of the fire. Union P. R. R. v. Jones, 9 Colo. 379, 12 P. 516 (1886); Union Pac. Ry. v. De Busk, 12 Colo. 294, 20 P. 752 (1888).

Juries should not be allowed to infer or presume origin of fire. In cases of this kind, juries should not be allowed to infer or presume, for want of positive proof to the contrary, that the fire was communicated by the operating of the railroad. Denver, T. & G. R. R. v. De Graff, 2 Colo. App. 42, 29 P. 664 (1892).

Juries may infer or presume origin of fire where the evidence was sufficient to warrant the inference that the fire was caused by the defendant's passing train because several witnesses testified in substance to the springing up of the fire immediately upon the passing of the train, and that there was no fire on the premises before, and no other apparent cause for the fire. Union Pac. Ry. v. De Busk, 12 Colo. 294, 20 P. 752 (1888); Cyle v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 37 Colo. 298, 86 P. 1010 (1906).

Sufficient evidence rebuts probability of fire originating in any other manner. While the jury, within certain limits, may be left to infer the fact from the circumstances proved, such proof should be sufficient to rebut the probability of the fire having originated in any other manner. Denver, T. & G. R. R. v. De Graff, 2 Colo. App. 42, 29 P. 664 (1892); Crissey & Fowler Lumber Co. v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 17 Colo. App. 275, 68 P. 670 (1902).

The fact that a fire burned along the line of a railway is not evidence that it was caused by the railroad company. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Morton, 3 Colo. App. 155, 32 P. 345 (1893).

The fact that railroad aided in putting out fire is not evidence that it was caused by the railroad company. Acts which follow an injury cannot be proven in civil actions for the purpose of establishing an antecedent negligence. That a railroad company aided in putting out a fire burning along its track does not tend to establish the fact that it caused the fire. Denver & R. G. R. R. v. Morton, 3 Colo. App. 155, 32 P. 345 (1893).

V. RIGHTS OF INSURER.

The insurer is not to be subrogated to rights of the insured. Any contract to the contrary, or an assignment by the insured to the insurer, in the policy, of the former's right of action, is without effect. Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916).

Railroad cannot escape liability because insurer is also liable. The railroad company cannot escape its statutory liability because the owner has seen fit to contract and pay for indemnity against loss by fire from another source, and upon account of his close proximity to the railroad, probably having paid a higher rate than otherwise. In such cases all the authorities are to the effect that unless otherwise provided by statute the insurance feature is no defense to the railroad company. Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916).

The owner of the property damaged or destroyed recovers his loss in full, though he has received the insurance money. Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916).

The question of double payment to the owner is a matter purely between the insured and the insurer. The contracts of the appellants for the insurance of their property, with the insurance companies, and their subsequent conduct in relation thereto, are matters in which the wrong-doer had no concern, and which do not affect the measure of its liability. Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916).

VI. LIMITATION OF ACTIONS.

The time fixed by this section is a condition of the right to sue at all, and a complaint which fails to state that the action was brought within that time fails to state a cause of action and is subject to demurrer. Rhinehart v. Denver & R. G. R. R., 61 Colo. 369, 158 P. 149 (1916); Denver & R. G. R. v. United States, 241 F. 614 (8th Cir. 1917).

Failure to bring action within two years acts as limitation of the liability itself. The statute provides that suit must be brought within two years, and we think a failure to bring the suit within the time prescribed by the statute acts as a limitation of the liability itself, and in this respect differs from the ordinary statutes of limitation which affect the remedy only. Denver & R. G. R. v. United States, 241 F. 614 (8th Cir. 1917).

Meaning of "accrues". The word "accrues" is employed in different ways. It was evidently the intent of the general assembly to use it in this section in its ordinary sense, which would mean any right that had arisen, that is, was in existence before the passage of the law. British Am. Assurance Co. v. Colo. & S. Ry., 52 Colo. 589, 125 P. 508 (1912).

Overcharges

40-31-101. Railroad company claim agent.

40-31-102. Overcharges - recovery - damages.

40-31-101. Railroad company claim agent. Every railroad corporation or the lessee or receiver thereof or other person operating the same doing business in this state shall have and keep an agent or other person residing and having his office in the principal city or town along its line within the state whose duty it is and who is fully authorized by such railroad company to adjust and settle all claims for overcharge collected within this state and for all loss or damage. Any railroad corporation or the lessee or receiver thereof or other person so doing business in this state who fails to have and keep such agent or representative within such city or town shall be subject to a penalty of three thousand dollars for each and every month during which said railroad company or the lessee or receiver thereof or other person fails to have and keep said agent, which said penalty shall be recovered by the attorney general for the use of the state in an action commenced for that purpose in any court of competent jurisdiction of this state.

ANNOTATION

This section and § 40-31-102 do not permit the recovery of the penalty prescribed by § 40-31-102 where the amount recovered in an action on the claim was considerably less than the amount claimed. Stupeck v. Union P. R. R., 200 F. 192 (8th Cir. 1912).

40-31-102. Overcharges - recovery - damages. (1) All overcharges made by any such railroad corporation or the lessee or receiver thereof or other person operating the same and all claims for loss or damage shall be paid by the representative of such railroad corporation or the lessee or receiver thereof or other person operating the same, appointed as provided in section 40-31-101, within sixty days after the same has been duly presented to such representative or agent for settlement accompanied by the expense bill of the freight on which such overcharge has been made or loss or damage suffered, together with a statement, properly verified, of the amount of such overcharge, loss, or damage. If any such railroad corporation or the lessee or receiver thereof or other person operating the same fails to refund the amount of such overcharge, loss, or damage within the time aforesaid, the person or corporation so suffering the same may recover from the railroad company or the lessee or receiver thereof or other person operating the same so in default the sum of one hundred dollars for each month and fraction of a month during which said company or the lessee or receiver thereof or other person operating the same is in default, which said sum may be recovered by the parties so aggrieved or their assignees in any court of competent jurisdiction.

41-2-102. Operating an aircraft under the influence - operating an aircraft with excessive alcohol content - tests - penalties - useful public service program. (1) (a) It is a misdemeanor for any person who is under the influence of alcohol or one or more drugs, or a combination of both alcohol and one or more drugs, to operate any aircraft in this state.

(b) It is a misdemeanor for any person who is an habitual user of any controlled substance, as defined in section 18-18-102 (5), C.R.S., to operate any aircraft in this state.

(c) For the purposes of this subsection (1), "one or more drugs" shall mean all substances defined as a drug in section 27-80-203 (13), C.R.S., and all controlled substances, as defined in section 18-18-102 (5), C.R.S.

(d) The fact that any person charged with a violation of this subsection (1) is or has been entitled to use one or more drugs under the laws of this state shall not constitute a defense against any charge of violating this subsection (1).

(e) "Operating an aircraft under the influence" means operating an aircraft when a person has consumed alcohol or one or more drugs, or a combination of alcohol and one or more drugs, which alcohol alone, or one or more drugs alone, or alcohol combined with one or more drugs affects him to a degree that he is substantially incapable, either mentally or physically, or both mentally and physically, to exercise clear judgment, sufficient physical control, or due care in the safe operation of an aircraft.

(f) Pursuant to section 16-2-106, C.R.S., in charging a violation of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), it shall be sufficient to describe the offense charged as "operated an aircraft under the influence of alcohol or drugs or both".

(2) (a) It is a misdemeanor for any person to operate any aircraft in this state when the amount of alcohol in such person's blood, as shown by analysis of the person's blood or breath, is 0.04 or more grams of alcohol per hundred milliliters of blood or 0.04 or more grams of alcohol per two hundred ten liters of breath at the time of operating an aircraft or within two hours after such operation. During a trial, if the state's evidence raises the issue, or if a defendant presents some credible evidence, that he consumed alcohol between the time that he stopped operating an aircraft and the time that testing occurred, such issue shall be an affirmative defense, and the prosecution must establish beyond a reasonable doubt that the minimum 0.04 blood or breath alcohol content required in this paragraph (a) was reached as a result of alcohol consumed by the defendant before he stopped operating an aircraft.

(b) In any prosecution for a violation of this subsection (2), the defendant shall be entitled to offer direct and circumstantial evidence to show that there is a disparity between what the tests show and other facts so that the trier of fact could infer that the tests were in some way defective or inaccurate. Such evidence may include testimony of nonexpert witnesses relating to the absence of any or all of the common symptoms or signs of intoxication for the purpose of impeachment of the accuracy of the analysis of the person's blood or breath.

(c) Pursuant to section 16-2-106, C.R.S., in charging a violation of this subsection (2), it shall be sufficient to describe the offense charged as "operated an aircraft with excessive alcohol content".

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 18-1-408, C.R.S., during a trial of any person accused of violating subsection (1) and subsection (2) of this section, the court shall not require the prosecution to elect between the two violations. The court or a jury may consider and convict the person of a violation of either subsection (1) or subsection (2), or both subsection (1) and subsection (2) of this section. If the person is convicted of more than one violation, the sentences imposed shall run concurrently.

(4) (a) In any prosecution for a violation of subsection (1) of this section, the amount of alcohol in the defendant's blood or breath at the time of the commission of the alleged offense or within a reasonable time thereafter, as shown by analysis of the defendant's blood or breath, shall give rise to the presumption that the defendant was under the influence of alcohol if:

(I) There was at such time 0.04 or more grams of alcohol per one hundred milliliters of blood as shown by analysis of such person's blood; or

(II) There was at such time 0.04 or more grams of alcohol per two hundred ten liters of breath as shown by analysis of such person's breath.

(b) The limitations of this subsection (4) shall not be construed as limiting the introduction, reception, or consideration of any other competent evidence bearing upon the question of whether or not the defendant was under the influence of alcohol or whether or not his ability to operate an aircraft was impaired by the consumption of alcohol.

(5) Following the lawful contact with a person who has been operating an aircraft, and when a law enforcement officer reasonably suspects that a person was operating an aircraft while under the influence of alcohol, such law enforcement officer may conduct a preliminary screening test using a device approved by the executive director of the department of public health and environment after first advising the operator that the operator may either refuse or agree to provide a sample of the operator's breath for such preliminary test. The results of this preliminary screening test may be used by a law enforcement officer in determining whether probable cause exists to believe such person was operating an aircraft in violation of subsection (1) or (2) of this section and whether to administer a test pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (6) of this section. Neither the results of such preliminary screening test nor the fact that the person refused such test shall be used in any court action except in a hearing outside of the presence of a jury, when such hearing is held to determine if a law enforcement officer had probable cause to believe that the operator committed a violation of subsection (1) or (2) of this section. The results of such preliminary screening test shall be made available to the operator or his attorney on request. The preliminary screening test shall not substitute for or qualify as the test or tests required by paragraph (a) of subsection (6) of this section.

(6) (a) (I) On and after July 1, 1990, any person who operates an aircraft anywhere in this state shall be deemed to have expressed his consent to the provisions of this paragraph (a).

(II) Any person who operates an aircraft anywhere in this state shall be required to take and complete, and to cooperate in the taking and completing of, any test or tests of his breath or blood for the purpose of determining the alcoholic content of his blood or breath when so requested and directed by a law enforcement officer having probable cause to believe that the person was operating an aircraft in violation of subsection (1) or (2) of this section. Except as otherwise provided in this section, if such person requests that said test be a blood test, then the test shall be of his blood; but, if such person requests that a specimen of his blood not be drawn, then a specimen of his breath shall be obtained and tested. If such person elects either a blood test or a breath test, such person shall not be permitted to change such election, and, if such person fails to take and complete, and to cooperate in the completing of, the test elected, such failure shall be deemed to be a refusal to submit to testing. If such person is unable to take, or to complete, or to cooperate in the completing of a breath test because of injuries, illness, disease, physical infirmity, or physical incapacity, or if such person is receiving medical treatment at a location at which a breath testing instrument certified by the department of public health and environment is not available, the test shall be of such person's blood.

(III) Any person who operates an aircraft anywhere in this state shall be required to submit to and to complete, and to cooperate in the completing of, a test or tests of his blood, saliva, and urine for the purpose of determining the drug content within his system when so requested and directed by a law enforcement officer having probable cause to believe that the person was operating an aircraft in violation of subsection (1) of this section and when it is reasonable to require such testing of blood, saliva, and urine to determine whether such person was under the influence of, or impaired by, one or more drugs, or one or more controlled substances, or a combination of both alcohol and one or more drugs, or a combination of both alcohol and one or more controlled substances.

(IV) Any person who is required to take and to complete, and to cooperate in the completing of, any test or tests shall cooperate with the person authorized to obtain specimens of his blood, breath, saliva, or urine, including the signing of any release or consent forms required by any person, hospital, clinic, or association authorized to obtain such specimens. If such person does not cooperate with the person, hospital, clinic, or association authorized to obtain such specimens, including the signing of any release or consent forms, such noncooperation shall be considered a refusal to submit to testing. No law enforcement officer shall physically restrain any person for the purpose of obtaining a specimen of his blood, breath, saliva, or urine for testing except when the officer has probable cause to believe that the person has committed a violation of section 18-3-105, 18-3-106, 18-3-204, 18-3-205, or 18-3-208, C.R.S., and the person is refusing to take or to complete, or to cooperate in the completing of, any test or tests, then, in such event, the law enforcement officer may require a blood test. Evidence acquired through such involuntary blood test shall be admissible in any prosecution for a violation of subsection (1) or (2) of this section and for a violation of section 18-3-105 or 18-3-204, C.R.S.

(b) (I) The tests shall be administered at the direction of a law enforcement officer having probable cause to believe that the person had been operating an aircraft in violation of subsection (1) or (2) of this section and in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the state board of health concerning the health of the person being tested and the accuracy of such testing. Strict compliance with such rules and regulations shall not be a prerequisite to the admissibility of test results at trial unless the court finds that the extent of noncompliance with a board of health rule has so impaired the validity and reliability of the testing method and the test results as to render the evidence inadmissible. In all other circumstances, failure to strictly comply with such rules and regulations shall only be considered in the weight to be given to the test results and not to the admissibility of such test results. It shall not be a prerequisite to the admissibility of test results at trial that the prosecution present testimony concerning the composition of any kit used to obtain blood, urine, saliva, or breath specimens. A sufficient evidentiary foundation concerning the compliance of such kits with the rules and regulations of the department of public health and environment shall be established by the introduction of a copy of the manufacturer's or supplier's certificate of compliance with such rules and regulations if such certificate specifies the contents, sterility, chemical makeup, and amounts of chemicals contained in such kit.

(II) No person except a physician, a registered nurse, an emergency medical service provider, as defined in part 1 of article 3.5 of title 25, C.R.S., and as certified in part 2 of article 3.5 of title 25, C.R.S., or a person whose normal duties include withdrawing blood samples under the supervision of a physician or registered nurse shall withdraw blood to determine the alcoholic or drug content of the blood for purposes of this section. In a trial for a violation of subsection (1) or (2) of this section, the testimony of a law enforcement officer that he or she witnessed the taking of a blood specimen by a person who he or she reasonably believed was authorized to withdraw a blood specimen is sufficient evidence that the person was authorized, and testimony from the person who obtained the blood specimens concerning the person's authorization to obtain blood specimens is not a prerequisite to the admissibility of test results concerning the blood specimen obtained. No civil liability attaches to a person authorized to obtain blood, breath, saliva, or urine specimens or to a hospital, clinic, or association in or for which the specimens are obtained as provided in this subsection (6) as a result of the act of obtaining the specimens from any person submitting thereto if the specimens were obtained according to the rules and regulations of the state board of health; except that this provision shall not relieve the person from liability for negligence in the obtaining of any specimen sample.

(c) Any person who is dead or unconscious shall be tested to determine the alcohol or drug content of his blood or any drug content within his system as provided in this subsection (6). If a test cannot be administered to a person who is unconscious, hospitalized, or undergoing medical treatment because the test would endanger such person's life or health, the law enforcement agency shall be allowed to test any blood, urine, or saliva which was obtained and not utilized by a health care provider and shall have access to that portion of the analysis and results of any tests administered by such provider which shows the alcohol or drug content of the person's blood, urine, or saliva or any drug content within his system. Such test results shall not be considered privileged communications, and the provisions of section 13-90-107, C.R.S., relating to the physician-patient privilege shall not apply. Any person who is dead, in addition to the tests prescribed, shall also have his blood checked for carbon monoxide content and for the presence of drugs, as prescribed by the department of public health and environment. Such information obtained shall be made a part of the accident report.

(d) If a person refuses to take or to complete, or to cooperate with the completing of, any test or tests as provided in this subsection (6) and such person subsequently stands trial for a violation of subsection (1) of this section, the refusal to take or to complete, or to cooperate with the completing of, any test or tests shall be admissible into evidence at the trial, and a person may not claim the privilege against self-incrimination with regard to admission of refusal to take or to complete, or to cooperate with the completing of, any test or tests.

(7) (a) (I) Every person who is convicted of a violation of subsection (1) or subsection (2) of this section shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than five days nor more than one year, and, in addition, the court may impose a fine of not less than three hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars. Except as provided in subparagraph (II) of paragraph (d) of this subsection (7), the minimum period of imprisonment provided for such violation shall be mandatory. In addition to any other penalty which is imposed, every person who is convicted of a violation to which this subparagraph (I) applies shall perform not less than forty-eight hours nor more than ninety-six hours of useful public service. The performance of the minimum period of service shall be mandatory, and the court shall have no discretion to suspend the mandatory minimum period of performance of such service.

(II) Upon a conviction of a violation of subsection (1) or subsection (2) of this section, which violation occurred within five years of the date of a previous violation, for which there has been a conviction, of subsection (1) or (2) of this section, the offender shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than ninety days nor more than one year, and, in addition, the court may impose a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand five hundred dollars. The minimum period of imprisonment as provided for such violation shall be mandatory, but the court may suspend up to eighty-three days of the period of imprisonment if the offender complies with the provisions of subparagraph (I) of paragraph (d) of this subsection (7). In addition to any other penalty which is imposed, every person who is convicted of a violation to which this subparagraph (II) applies shall perform not less than sixty hours nor more than one hundred twenty hours of useful public service. The performance of the minimum period of service shall be mandatory, and the court shall have no discretion to suspend the mandatory minimum period of performance of such service.

(b) The provisions of this subsection (7) relating to the performance of useful public service are also applicable to any defendant who receives a deferred prosecution in accordance with section 18-1.3-101, C.R.S., or who receives a deferred sentence in accordance with section 18-1.3-102, C.R.S., and the completion of any stipulated amount of useful public service hours to be completed by the defendant shall be ordered by the court in accordance with the conditions of such deferred prosecution or deferred sentence as stipulated to by the prosecution and the defendant.

(c) For the purposes of paragraph (a) of this subsection (7), a person shall be deemed to have a previous conviction of subsection (1) or (2) of this section if such person has been convicted of an act under the laws of any other state, the United States, or any territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States which, if committed within this state, would be a violation of subsection (1) or (2) of this section.

(d) (I) Upon conviction of a violation of subsection (1) or (2) of this section, the court shall sentence the defendant in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (7). The court shall consider the alcohol and drug evaluation required pursuant to subsection (8) of this section prior to sentencing; except that the court may proceed to immediate sentencing without considering such alcohol and drug evaluation if the defendant has no prior or pending charges under this section and neither the defendant nor the prosecuting attorney objects. If the court proceeds to immediate sentencing, without considering such alcohol and drug evaluation, such alcohol and drug evaluation shall be conducted after sentencing, and the court shall order the defendant to complete the education and treatment program recommended in such alcohol and drug evaluation. If the defendant disagrees with the education and treatment program recommended in such alcohol and drug evaluation, he may request the court to hold a hearing to determine which education and treatment program should be completed by the defendant.

(II) For sentencing purposes concerning convictions for second and subsequent offenses, prima facie proof of a defendant's previous convictions shall be established when the prosecuting attorney and the defendant stipulate to the existence of the prior conviction or convictions or the prosecuting attorney presents to the court a copy of the court record of such conviction in this state or some other state. The court shall not proceed to immediate sentencing when there is not a stipulation to prior convictions or if the prosecution requests an opportunity to obtain a conviction record. The prosecuting attorney shall not be required to plead or prove any previous convictions at trial, and sentencing concerning convictions for second and subsequent offenses shall be a matter to be determined by the court at sentencing.

(e) The sentence of any person subject to the provisions of subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (7) may be suspended to the extent provided for in said subparagraph (II) if the offender receives a presentence alcohol and drug evaluation; based on that evaluation, satisfactorily completes an appropriate level I or level II alcohol and drug education or treatment program; and abstains from the use of alcohol for a period of one year from the date of sentencing. Such abstinence shall be monitored by the treatment facility by the administration of disulfiram or by any other means that the director of the treatment facility deems appropriate. If, at any time during the one-year period, the offender does not satisfactorily comply with the conditions of the suspension, that sentence shall be reimposed, and the offender shall spend that portion of his sentence which was suspended in the county jail.

(f) In addition to the penalties prescribed in this subsection (7), persons convicted of violations of subsection (1) or (2) of this section are subject to the costs imposed by section 24-4.1-119 (1) (c), C.R.S., relating to the crime victim compensation fund.

(g) In addition to any other penalty provided by law, the court may sentence a defendant who is convicted pursuant to this section to a period of probation for purposes of treatment not to exceed two years. As a condition of probation, the defendant shall be required to make restitution in accordance with the provisions of section 18-1.3-205, C.R.S.

(h) The provisions of section 42-4-1301.4, C.R.S., shall apply to this article.

(8) The unit in the department of human services that administers behavioral health programs and services, including those related to mental health and substance abuse, shall provide presentence alcohol and drug evaluations on all persons convicted of a violation of subsection (1) or (2) of this section, in the same manner as described in section 42-4-1301.3, C.R.S.

(9) Upon a plea of guilty, or a verdict of guilty by the court or a jury, to any offense specified in subsection (1) or (2) of this section, the court shall order the defendant to immediately report to the sheriff's department in the county where the defendant was convicted, at which time the defendant's fingerprints and photographs shall be taken and returned to the court, which fingerprints and photographs shall become a part of the court's official documents and records pertaining to the defendant's conviction and the defendant's identification in association with such conviction. On any trial for a violation of any of the offenses specified in subsection (1) or (2) of this section, a duly authenticated copy of the record of former convictions and judgments of any court of record for any of said crimes against the party indicted or informed against shall be prima facie evidence of such convictions and may be used in evidence against such party. Identification photographs and fingerprints that are part of the record of such former convictions and judgments of any court of record or that are part of the record at the place of such party's incarceration after sentencing for any of such former convictions and judgments shall be prima facie evidence of the identity of such party and may be used in evidence against him. Any person who fails to immediately comply with the court's order to report to the sheriff's department, to furnish fingerprints, or to have his photographs taken may be held in contempt of court.

(10) As used in this section, "convicted" includes a plea of no contest accepted by the court.

tation has the power to negate the state policy to finance and operate airport facilities on a self-paying basis by forcing a city and county to cosponsor an airport authority program. Walker Field, Pub. Airport Auth. v. Adams, 606 F.2d 290 (10th Cir. 1979).

41-3-104. Creation of authorities. (1) Any combination, or any county acting independently, may create an authority which shall be authorized to exercise the functions conferred by the provisions of this article, upon the issuance by the director of the division of local government in the department of local affairs of a certificate reciting that the authority has been duly organized according to the laws of the state of Colorado. Such certificate shall be issued by the director of said division upon the filing with him of a certified copy of the resolution of the county acting independently and, in the case of a combination, of each county or municipality joining therein, duly certified as correct by the clerk of the municipality or county. In the case of a combination, there shall also be filed with the director of said division a joint certificate of the clerks of any county or municipality joining therein, certifying that such counties or municipalities, and listing them, constitute all of the counties or municipalities joining in the formation of the authority. At the time of filing such resolutions, there shall also be filed a designation of the official name of the authority.

(2) Any combination creating an authority may be increased from time to time to include one or more additional counties or municipalities, if each additional municipality or county and the members then included in the authority and the board of commissioners of the authority, respectively, adopt a resolution consenting thereto. Any authority which was created by a county acting independently may be increased from time to time to include one or more additional counties or municipalities, if each additional municipality or county and the county creating the authority and the board of commissioners of the authority, respectively, adopt a resolution consenting thereto. Upon the inclusion of any county or municipality in an authority initially created by a county acting independently, such authority shall be deemed to have been created by a combination for purposes of this article. Upon the inclusion of any county or municipality in the authority so created, either initially or as an additional member later, all rights, contracts, obligations, and property, both real and personal, of such municipality or county used for or in relation to transportation by air shall vest in the authority created pursuant to this section, unless otherwise specifically provided by the resolution including such municipality or county in the authority.

(3) Any combination formed to create an authority may be decreased if each of the members then included therein and the board of the authority consent to the decrease and make provision for the retention or disposition of the assets and liabilities of the county or municipality, as the case may be; but, if the authority has any bonds outstanding, no such decrease shall be effective until at least seventy-five percent of the holders of the outstanding bonds of the authority consent thereto in writing, or unless the board determines that such decrease will not affect adversely the rights of the holders of such outstanding bonds.

(4) A municipality or a county shall not adopt a resolution authorized by this section without a public hearing thereon. Notice shall be given at least ten days prior to the date of the hearing in a newspaper having a general circulation in the municipality or county, as the case may be.

(5) All commissioners of an authority shall be appointed for a term of four years each; except that a vacancy occurring other than by the expiration of term shall be filled for the unexpired term in the same manner as the original appointments.

(6) Any authority created pursuant to the provisions of this article shall cease to exist upon the filing with the director of the division of local government of a certified resolution of each county or municipality composing the authority requesting the termination of such authority; but adequate provisions shall be made for the payment of the outstanding bonds of the authority.

(7) Notwithstanding any other provision of this article to the contrary, the general assembly may, by law, authorize the governor, on behalf of the state, to join in the creation of any airport authority authorized by this article or to join any existing airport authority created pursuant to this article.

ANNOTATION

Subsection (2) provision is constitutional. Provision in subsection (2) vesting in an airport authority "all rights, contracts, obligations, and property, both real and personal" belonging to a county or municipality included in the authority does not attempt to grant special privileges in contravention of § 11 of art. II, Colo. Const. Enger v. Walker Field, Colo. Pub. Airport Auth., 181 Colo. 253, 508 P.2d 1245 (1973).

The provision in subsection (2) for the vesting in an airport authority "all rights, contracts, obligations, and property, both real and personal", belonging to a city and a county without the approval of the taxpaying electors in the respective political entities did not constitute the taking of property without due process of law, contrary to § 25 of art. II, Colo. Const. Enger v.

Walker Field, Colo. Pub. Airport Auth., 181 Colo. 253, 508 P.2d 1245 (1973).

Provision in subsection (2) vesting in an airport authority "all rights, contracts, obligations, and property, both real and personal" belonging to a county or municipality included in the authority is not vague, indefinite, and uncertain. Enger v. Walker Field, Colo. Pub. Airport Auth., 181 Colo. 253, 508 P.2d 1245 (1973).

Constitutionality of subsection (7) was not relevant to class action challenge of validity of revenue bonds issued by an airport authority. Enger v. Walker Field, Colo. Pub. Airport Auth., 181 Colo. 253, 508 P.2d 1245 (1973).

Applied in Walker Field, Pub. Airport Auth. v. Adams, 606 F.2d 290 (10th Cir. 1979).

41-3-105. Board of commissioners. (1) All powers, privileges, and duties vested in or imposed upon any authority organized pursuant to the provisions of this article shall be exercised and performed by and through the board except as otherwise provided by law; but the exercise of any and all executive, administrative, and ministerial powers may be by said board delegated and redelegated to any of the officers created or by the board acting under this article.

(2) The board of commissioners of an authority created by the formation of a combination shall consist of at least five members, but no more than nine members, representing the counties or municipalities participating in the combination. The authorizing resolution, filed with the director of the division of local government in the department of local affairs, as provided in section 41-3-104 (1), shall contain a provision as to the representation of the counties and municipalities participating in the combination. The members of the board of an authority created by a combination shall be appointed by resolution of the governing boards of the counties or municipalities that are members of the combination, the initial appointments, at the election of such municipality or county, to be made by the authorizing resolution filed with the director of said division. If the county in which the airport is to be located is not a member of the combination, then the member or members, if any, to which such county is entitled shall be appointed by the board of county commissioners of such county. The board created by the independent action of a county shall consist of five members who shall be appointed by the board of county commissioners of the county, and initial appointments to such board, at the election of the board of county commissioners, may be made in the authorizing resolution filed with the director of said division. Board members shall be taxpaying electors, as defined in section 1-1-104 (49), C.R.S., at the time of their appointment, residing in the municipality or county from which appointed. After an authority is organized by the formation of a combination, the inclusion of additional counties or municipalities shall entitle the included municipalities or counties to representation on the same basis as other counties or municipalities. Each member of the board may receive as compensation for his services a sum not in excess of sixty dollars per year. No member of the board shall receive any compensation as an employee of the authority or otherwise, other than that provided in this section, and no member of the board shall be interested in any contract or transaction with the authority except in his official respective capacity.

(3) The term of each member shall be for four years; except that the terms of the members of the first board shall be adjusted so that the terms of one-half of the members shall expire two years thereafter. At the first meeting of the board of a newly formed authority the commissioners shall determine by lot which members shall serve for two-year terms and which shall serve for four-year terms. At the expiration of the term of any commissioner, a new appointment shall be made by the appropriate governing board, and any member may be appointed to succeed himself.

(4) A change of residence of a member of the board to a place outside the municipality which he represents, or the county from which he is appointed, automatically creates a vacancy on the board as to such municipality or county. Vacancies which may occur on the board through death or resignation of one of the members, or for any other reason, shall be filled in the same manner as provided for the appointment of original members of the board.

(5) The board, in addition to any other powers conferred by this article, has the following powers:

(a) To fix the time and place at which its regular meetings shall be held, which place may be located within any municipality or county forming a part of an authority created by a combination, or within the county independently creating such authority, and shall provide for the calling and holding of special meetings; to organize, adopt bylaws and rules of procedure, and select a chairman and pro tem chairman. Notice of time and place designated for all regular meetings shall be posted in at least three places within each municipality and county forming a part of the authority if created by the formation of a combination, and, in addition, one such notice shall be posted, irrespective of the procedure under which the authority is created, in the county courthouse in the county wherein the airport is located and in the county creating the authority. Such notices shall remain posted and shall be changed in the event that the time or place of such regular meeting is changed. Special meetings may be called by any officer or member of the board by informing the other members of the date, time, and place of such meeting and the purpose for which it is called, and by posting as provided in this paragraph (a) at least three days previous to said meeting. All business of the board shall be conducted only during such regular or special meetings, and all of such meetings shall be open to the public.

(b) To make and pass resolutions and orders not repugnant to the constitution of the United States or the state or other provisions of this article, necessary for the government and management of the affairs of the authority, and the execution of the powers vested in the authority and for carrying into effect the provisions of this article. On all resolutions the rolls shall be called and the ayes and nays recorded. Resolutions and orders may be adopted by viva voce vote, but on demand of any member the roll shall be called.

(c) To record all resolutions, as soon as may be after their passage, in a book kept for that purpose and authenticate them by the signature of the presiding officer of the board and the clerk thereof. Any resolution may at the election of the board be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the county wherein the airport is located within ten days of the date of passage and adoption, and shall become effective, if so provided, upon the date of such publication.

(d) To transact business only if a quorum of sixty percent of the board is present at a regular or special meeting; but all questions involving the inclusion or exclusion of a municipality or county in or from the authority or authorizing any expenditures in excess of ten thousand dollars shall require the affirmative majority vote of the board, and all other questions shall require the affirmative vote of not less than fifty percent of the board;

(e) To fix the location of the principal place of business of the authority and the location of all offices and departments maintained thereunder, the location thereof to be at such place as the board deems best;

(f) To prescribe by resolution a system of business administration; to create any and all necessary offices; to establish and reestablish the powers and duties and compensation of all officers and employees; and to require and fix the amount of all official bonds necessary for the protection of the funds and property of the authority;

(g) To employ clerical, legal, consulting, and engineering assistance and labor, and to delegate and redelegate to such employees the powers conferred by this article, under such conditions and restrictions as shall be fixed by the board to authorize such employees to bind the authority by contract;

(h) To prescribe a method of auditing and allowing or rejecting claims and demands and a method for the letting of contracts on a fair and competitive basis for the construction of works, structures, or equipment or the performance or furnishing of labor, materials, or supplies as required for the carrying out of any of the purposes of this article; but, in cases where the amount involved is fifty thousand dollars or more, the board shall provide for the letting of contracts to the lowest responsible bidder after publication in the official newspaper of notices inviting bids, subject to the right of said board to reject any and all proposals and to readvertise for bids as provided in this section. The procedures above described shall be subject to the approval of the board of county commissioners of any county independently creating an authority under the provisions of this article, and any action on the part of the board to raise or increase revenue from any source whatsoever for the purposes of the authority shall also be subject to such approval. The board shall be bound to carry out any action requested by the board of county commissioners.

(i) To constitute and appoint an official newspaper to be used for the official publications of the authority; but nothing in this section shall prevent the board from directing publication in additional newspapers or other periodicals which public necessity may so require or indicate.

(6) Where the state, pursuant to section 41-3-104 (7), joins in the creation of an airport authority authorized by this article or joins an existing airport authority created pursuant to this article, the state shall be entitled to such number of members of the board of commissioners as may be agreed upon by the creating parties or present parties of the authority and the state, as the case may be, but in no case shall the state be entitled to less than one member of the board of commissioners. The state member or members of the board of commissioners shall be appointed by the governor, with the consent of the senate.

ANNOTATION

Constitutionality of subsection (6) was not relevant to class action challenge of validity of revenue bonds issued by an airport authority.

Enger v. Walker Field, Colo. Pub. Airport Auth., 181 Colo. 253, 508 P.2d 1245 (1973).

41-3-106. Powers of an authority. (1) An authority has the following powers:

- (a) To have perpetual existence;
- (b) To have and use a corporate seal;
- (c) To sue and be sued, and be a party to suits, actions, and proceedings;
- (d) To enter into contracts and agreements affecting the affairs of the authority, including, but not limited to, contracts with the United States and the state of Colorado;
- (e) To borrow money and to issue bonds payable in whole or in part from the income of the authority and otherwise secured to the extent permitted by law; but, before any money shall be borrowed or any bonds issued, such borrowing or sale shall first be approved by the board of county commissioners of any county independently creating an authority under the provisions of this article. Said bonds shall be authorized by resolution of said board without the necessity of submitting the question of their issuance to the qualified electors of the municipalities or counties constituting members of the authority. Said resolution shall prescribe the form of said bonds, the manner of their execution, which may be effected by the use of the facsimile signatures of the officers of the authority in accordance with the laws of the state in effect at the time of their execution, shall provide for the terms thereof, including the maximum net effective interest rate for the issue of bonds, and the security for their payment, may authorize the issuance of additional bonds having a lien on a parity with or junior thereto on the income of the authority, provide for the redemption of said bonds prior to their respective maturities with or without premium, and direct that said bonds shall be sold at public or private sale at or below par, but such bonds shall not be sold at a price such that the net effective interest rate of the issue of bonds exceeds the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. The board shall prescribe other details in connection with the issue of bonds. The bonds so authorized shall mature serially over a period not exceeding thirty years and shall bear interest at a net effective interest rate not exceeding the maximum net effective interest rate authorized. Said resolution and bonds may also include such other terms or recitals which in the judgment of the board are necessary or proper to render the same marketable. Nothing in this article shall be construed as authorizing the authority or any county to assess and levy taxes for the payment of said bonds, nor shall said bonds be construed to be an indebtedness of the municipalities or counties constituting members of the authority or of the county independently creating such authority within the meaning of any constitutional, charter, or statutory limitation.

(f) To purchase, trade, exchange, acquire, buy, sell, and otherwise dispose of and encumber real and personal property of the authority and any interest therein, including leases and easements;

(g) To refund any bonds of the authority as the same become due at stated maturities, or as a result of the exercise of the privilege of calling bonds for prior redemption, and to refund any such bonds in advance of such maturities or redemption dates in accordance with the laws of the state then in effect and applicable to municipalities. The terms and conditions of refunding bonds shall be substantially the same as those of an original issue of bonds.

(h) To regulate, when acting singly, or by agreement, when acting jointly with any other municipality or county, the receiving, deposit, and removal and the embarkation of passengers or property to or from the airport; to regulate or prohibit any airport hazard; to exact and require charges, fees, and rentals, together with a lien to enforce the payment; to lease or assign for operation such space or area, appurtenances, appliances, or other conveniences necessary or useful in connection therewith; to own and operate aircraft; to employ pilots; to provide rules and regulations governing the use of such airport and facilities and the use of other property and means of transportation within or over said airport, landing field, and navigation facilities; to perform any duties, necessary or consistent with the regulation of air traffic; to enter into contracts or otherwise cooperate with the United States, the state, or other public or private agencies; and to exercise such powers as may be required or consistent with the promotion of aeronautics and the furtherance of commerce and navigation by air;

(i) To pledge all or a part of the income of the authority to the payment of the bonds authorized to be issued pursuant to the terms of this article and to otherwise secure the payment of said bonds to the extent permitted by law including, but not limited to, a conveyance in trust of any or all of the properties or facilities of the authority as a part of such security;

(j) To have and exercise the power of eminent domain in the manner provided by law for the condemnation of private property for public use and to take any property necessary to exercise the powers in this article granted, either within or without the boundaries of the municipalities or counties constituting members of the authority. In exercising the power of eminent domain, the procedure established and prescribed by articles 1 to 7 of title 38, C.R.S., shall be followed. Nothing in this article shall be construed to limit the power of a county otherwise to acquire property through the exercise of the power of eminent domain under and in accordance with the laws of the state.

(k) To construct and maintain works and establish and maintain facilities, within or without the boundaries of the municipalities or counties constituting members of the authority or within or without the boundaries of the county independently creating an authority pursuant to the provisions of this article, across or along any public street or highway or in, upon, under, or over any vacant public lands, which public lands are now, or may become, the property of the state; but the authority shall promptly restore any such street or highway to its former state of usefulness as nearly as may be and shall not use the same in such manner as to completely or unnecessarily impair the usefulness thereof;

(l) To invest any surplus money in the treasury of the authority, including such money in any sinking or trust fund established for the purpose of retiring bonds at or prior to maturity not required for the immediate necessities of the authority, in securities meeting the investment requirements established in part 6 of article 75 of title 24, C.R.S. Such investment may be made by direct purchase of any issue of such securities, or part thereof, at the original sale of the same or by the subsequent purchase of such securities. Any securities thus purchased and held may be sold, unless such sale is prohibited by any agreement under which the same have been or shall be deposited and the proceeds thereof reinvested in securities as provided in this paragraph (l). Sales of any securities thus purchased and held shall be made at such time so that the proceeds may be applied to the purposes for which the money with which the securities were originally purchased was placed in the treasury of the authority.

ANNOTATION

Imposition of user fee by airport authority upon rental car company which is based upon portion of gross revenues of company attributable to customers picked up at airport does not constitute an illegal income tax. Westrac, Inc. v. Walker Field, 812 P.2d 714 (Colo. App. 1991).

Distinction between fee and tax based upon nature and function of the charge rather than by its label. Fees charged for use of public facility owned by municipal corporation are not taxes if purpose is to defray expenses for operating and improving facility and if fees are only imposed on users of facility. Taxes are not based on amount of use and the proceeds thereof are used to defray general municipal expenses. Westrac, Inc. v. Walker Field, 812 P.2d 714 (Colo. App. 1991).

Since this section does not impose requirement of reasonableness for imposition of fees by airport authorities, such authorities have broad discretion regarding imposition of such fees which is subject only to constitutional and federal statutory limitations. Absent any express statutory limitations, judicial deference will be given to the sound discretion of airport authority imposing such fees. Westrac, Inc. v. Walker Field, 812 P.2d 714 (Colo. App. 1991).

User fee imposed by airport authority upon rental car company which is based upon portion of gross revenues of company attributable to customers picked up at airport is not arbitrary or confiscatory since the fee is rationally related to a legitimate governmental interest in providing airport facilities and since the fee is not prohibitive of an entire industry. Westrac, Inc. v. Walker Field, 812 P.2d 714 (Colo. App. 1991).

Authority's ban on scheduled passenger service is a valid exercise of proprietary powers that is not preempted by federal law pursuant to the powers granted to the authority under this section. Arapahoe County Airport Auth. v. Centennial Express Airlines, 956 P.2d 587 (Colo. 1998).

41-3-107. Legal status of authorities - tax exemption. (1) An authority created pursuant to this article is hereby declared to be a political subdivision of the state, exercising essential governmental powers for a public purpose. The general assembly, therefore, finds:

(a) That no authority, or county independently creating an authority, shall be required to pay any general ad valorem taxes upon an airport or any facilities connected therewith located within the state nor upon the interest of the authority therein;

(b) That bonds issued under this article and the income therefrom shall be free and exempt from taxation by the state, or any political subdivision of the state, with the exception of transfer, inheritance, and estate taxes.

ANNOTATION

Section constitutional. There is no reason why the property of a political subdivision of the state should not be exempt from taxation under art. X, § 4, Colo. Const., as “property . . . of the state”. Denver Beechcraft v. Bd. of Assess. Appeals, 681 P.2d 945 (Colo. 1984).

41-3-108. Legal investments and securities. It shall be legal for any bank, trust company, banker, savings bank, or banking institution, any building and loan association, savings and loan association, investment company, and other person carrying on a banking or investment business, any insurance company, insurance association, or other person carrying on an insurance business, and any executor, administrator, trustee, or fiduciary to invest funds or moneys in their custody in any of the bonds authorized to be issued pursuant to the provisions of this article. Public entities, as defined in section 24-75-601 (1), C.R.S., may invest public funds in such bonds only if said bonds satisfy the investment requirements established in part 6 of article 75 of title 24, C.R.S. Such bonds shall be authorized security for public deposit. Nothing in this section shall be construed as relieving any public body or other person of any duty of exercising reasonable care in selecting securities.

COUNTY AIRPORTS

41-4-101. Operation a governmental function. The acquisition of any lands for the purpose of establishing airports or other air navigation facilities; the acquisition of airport protection privileges; the acquisition, establishment, construction, enlargement, improvement, maintenance, equipment, and operation of airports and other air navigation facilities; and the exercise of any other powers granted in this part 1 to any county, city and county, city, or town are hereby declared to be public governmental functions, exercised for a public purpose, and matters of public necessity; and such lands and other property, easements, and privileges acquired and used in the manner and for the purposes enumerated in this part 1 are hereby declared to be acquired and used for public purposes and as a matter of public necessity.

ANNOTATION

Operation of airport is governmental function. A city, in voluntarily assuming a power and exercising a function for the benefit of the municipality and extending aid toward the promotion and accommodation of air commerce and travel, did so in its municipal or proprietary capacity as distinguished from a governmental function assigned to it to enforce the general policy of the state in the administration of general laws. However, if the operation of the municipal airport by the city is in keeping with the declared policy of the general assembly to be a governmental function, then the power of the city to act for the purpose of the promotion and convenience of travel by air is further amplified, instead of restricted, by this section. Rocky Mt. Motor Co. v. Airport Transit Co., 124 Colo. 147, 235 P.2d 580 (1951).

City elected to provide certain necessary services and supplies by leasing portions of the airport to a fixed base operator, which would in turn provide those supplies and services to the airport users. The operation of the airport with respect to such essential functions is not for the particular benefit of the citizens of the municipality, but, rather, for the public good in general. Under these circumstances, the city was operating in its governmental capacity. Cherry Creek Aviation v. City of Steamboat Springs, 958 P.2d 511 (Colo. App. 1998).

Immunity from federal antitrust laws. The operation of a municipal airport pursuant to this section is immune from federal antitrust laws. Pueblo Aircraft Serv., Inc. v. City of Pueblo, 679 F.2d 805 (10th Cir. 1982), cert. denied, 459 U.S. 1126, 103 S. Ct. 762, 74 L. Ed. 2d 977 (1983).

The ownership and operation of an airport by a county pursuant to this section is immune from the federal antitrust laws. Rocky Mountain Airways, Inc. v. Pitkin County, 674 F. Supp. 312 (D. Colo. 1987).

Board of county commissioners was acting pursuant to express grants of constitutional and statutory authority in creating the Eagle county air terminal corporation as an enterprise, as defined by § 20 of article X of the state constitution, and empowering it to act on county's behalf in constructing and operating a new commercial passenger terminal. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Fixed Base Operators, 939 P.2d 464 (Colo. App. 1997).

Applied in Duff v. City & County of Denver, 147 Colo. 123, 362 P.2d 1049 (1961); Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Intermountain Rural Elec. Ass'n, 655 P.2d 831 (Colo. 1982).

41-4-102. Authority to establish. The board of county commissioners in any county in this state either singly or jointly with any other county, city and county, city, or town has the power to acquire, establish, construct, own, control, lease, equip, improve, maintain, operate, and regulate airports and landing fields for the use of airplanes and other aircraft and to contract or otherwise provide, by condemnation if necessary, for the removal of any airport hazard, or the removal or the relocation of all private structures, railways, mains, pipes, conduits, wires, cables, poles, and all other facilities and equipment which may interfere with the location, expansion, development, or improvement of such airports, restricted landing areas, and other air navigation facilities or with the safe approach thereto or takeoff therefrom by aircraft, and to pay the cost of removal or relocation.

Cross references: For other authority to establish airports, see § 30-11-107 (1) (j).

41-4-103. Joint action by corporate authority. (1) All of the powers, rights, and authority granted to counties by this part 1 and to cities and towns by any other law may be exercised and enjoyed by such counties, cities and counties, cities, and towns, acting jointly, either within or without the territorial limits thereof, without regard to the distance said airport may be located from the boundary of any such city or town.

(2) Any two or more of such counties, cities and counties, cities, or towns may enter into agreements with each other duly authorized by resolution or ordinance for joint action pursuant to the provisions of this part 1. Each such agreement shall specify the proportionate interest which each county, city and county, city, or town has in the property, facilities, and privileges involved and the proportion of costs of acquisition, establishment, construction, enlargement, improvement, equipment, and expenses of maintenance, operation, and regulation to be borne by each, and it shall make such other provisions as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this part 1 for the amendment thereof and the conditions and terms upon which such agreement may be terminated.

41-4-106. Operation of airports. ANNOTATION

This section gave the city and county of Denver the authority to require rental car companies operating at Stapleton international airport and at Denver international airport to impose a daily usage fee on their car rental customers. It is reasonably foreseeable that implementation of that authority could displace competition in the area of car rental services. The rental car companies are entitled to state action immunity from antitrust claims. Zimomra v. Alamo Rent-A-Car, Inc., 111 F.3d 1495 (10th Cir. 1997).

Board of county commissioners was acting pursuant to express grants of constitutional and statutory authority in creating the Eagle county air terminal corporation as an enterprise, as defined by § 20 of article X of the state constitution, and empowering it to act on county's behalf in constructing and operating a new commercial passenger terminal. Bd. of Comm'rs v. Fixed Base Operators, 939 P.2d 464 (Colo. App. 1997).

41-4-107. Appropriation for airports. The board of county commissioners of any county is hereby authorized to annually appropriate from the county general fund the sum sufficient to carry out the provisions of this part 1 relating to airports.

41-4-108. Removal of airport hazards. Where necessary, in order to provide unobstructed airspace for the landing and taking off of aircraft utilizing airports or landing fields acquired or operated under the provisions of this part 1, any such county, city and county, city, or town, either singly or jointly, is authorized to contract or otherwise provide, by condemnation if necessary, for the removal of any airport hazard or the removal or the relocation of all private structures, railways, mains, pipes, conduits, wires, cables, poles, and other facilities and equipment which may interfere with the location, expansion, development, or improvement of such airports, restricted landing areas, and other air navigation facilities or with the safe approach thereto or takeoff therefrom by aircraft and to pay the cost of removal or relocation. A county, city and county, city, or town may acquire, in the same manner as is provided for the acquisition of property for airport purposes, easements through or other interests in airspaces over land or water, interests in airport hazards outside the boundaries of the airports or landing fields, and such other airport protection privileges as are necessary to ensure safe approaches to the landing areas of said airports or landing fields and the safe and efficient operation thereof. It is also hereby authorized to acquire, in the same manner, the right or easement, for a term of years or perpetually, to place or maintain suitable marks for the daytime markings and suitable lights for the nighttime markings of airport hazards, and including the right of ingress and egress to or from such airport hazards, for the purpose of maintaining and repairing such lights and marks. This authority shall not be so construed as to limit any right, power, or authority to zone property adjacent to airports and landing fields, under the provisions of any law of this state.

41-4-109. Encroachment a nuisance. It is unlawful for anyone to build, rebuild, create, or cause to be built, rebuilt, or created any object or plant or cause to be planted or permit to grow higher any tree or other vegetation which shall encroach upon any airport protection privileges acquired pursuant to the provisions of section 41-4-108, but it is lawful to make maintenance repairs to or to replace parts of existing structures which do not enlarge or increase the height of an existing structure. Any such encroachment is declared to be a public nuisance and may be abated in the manner prescribed by law for the abatement of public nuisances; or the county, city and county, city, or town or the board in charge of the airport or landing field for which airport protection privileges have been acquired may go upon the land of others and remove any such encroachment without being liable for damages.

41-4-111. Federal aid. Any county, city and county, city, or town is authorized to accept, receive, and receipt for federal moneys for the acquisition, construction, enlargement, improvement, maintenance, equipment, or operation of airports, landing fields, air navigation facilities, or airport protection privileges under such terms and conditions as may be agreed to by such county, city and county, city, or town.

41-4-112. Additional powers. The board of county commissioners of any county is authorized to rent or lease or lease and convey any lands or interest in lands acquired by the county for the purposes set forth in this part 1 to any person, partnership, association, or corporation, either public or private, for commercial, industrial, or other purposes, for such periods of years and upon such terms and conditions as are deemed in the best interests of the county by the board of county commissioners, and the terms thereof shall be binding upon succeeding boards of county commissioners. PART 2

AIRPORTS - CITIES AND TOWNS

41-4-201. Power to establish airports. The city councils and boards of trustees in towns have the power to acquire, establish, construct, own, control, lease, equip, improve, maintain, operate, and regulate airports and landing fields for the use of airplanes and other aircraft either within or without such municipalities or may set apart and use for such purpose real property owned by such cities and towns. Any lands previously acquired by any town or city in the state of Colorado for park purposes may be used for any of the purposes specified in this section. On any airports so established, city councils and boards of trustees in towns shall grant no exclusive concession, license, or lease agreement relating to the business of servicing, repairing, or furnishing supplies for aircraft.

ANNOTATION

Construction and operation is a municipal purpose. The fact that the general assembly has authorized cities and towns generally to construct, operate, and maintain airports within or without their boundaries makes their construction, operation, and maintenance within such limits a municipal purpose. City & County of Denver v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 113 Colo. 150, 156 P.2d 101 (1945).

City of Pueblo, in dealings with fixed base operators at Pueblo airport, acts in governmental capacity and not in a proprietary capacity. Pueblo Aircraft Serv., Inc. v. City of Pueblo, 498 F. Supp. 1205 (D. Colo. 1980), aff'd, 679 F.2d 805 (10th Cir. 1982), cert. denied, 459 U.S. 1126, 103 S. Ct. 762, 74 L. Ed. 2d 977 (1983).

41-4-204. Jurisdiction to regulate use. In connection with the erection or maintenance of any such airport or air navigation facilities, any city or town, or any municipal corporation, has the power and jurisdiction to regulate the receipt, deposit, and removal and the embarkation of passengers or property to and from such landing places or moorage as may be provided; to exact and require charges, fees, and tolls, together with a lien to enforce their payment; to lease or assign for operation such space or area, appurtenances, applinot more than forty years from the date thereof, and may be made payable at such place as the board of county commissioners determines. The term also includes any manufacturer or supplier of components, services, or vehicles, which manufacturer or supplier has been reviewed by the United States federal aviation administration as part of issuing such a license, permit, or authorization.

(c) "Spaceflight participant" means any spaceflight participant as that term is defined in 51 U.S.C. sec. 50902.

(2) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), a spaceflight entity is not liable for injury to or death of a spaceflight participant resulting from the inherent risks of spaceflight activities so long as the agreement and warning contained in paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of this section is distributed and signed as required. Except as provided for in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), a spaceflight participant or his or her representative may not maintain an action against or recover from a spaceflight entity for any loss, damage, injury, or death of the spaceflight participant resulting exclusively from any of the inherent risks of spaceflight activities.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) to the contrary, this subsection (2) does not limit liability if the spaceflight entity does one or more of the following:

(I) Commits an act or omission that constitutes gross negligence or willful or wanton disregard for the safety of the spaceflight participant and that act or omission proximately causes loss, damage, injury, or death to the spaceflight participant;

(II) Has actual knowledge or reasonably should have known of a dangerous condition on the land or in the facilities or equipment used in the spaceflight activities and the danger proximately causes injury, damage, or death to the spaceflight participant; or

(III) Intentionally injures the spaceflight participant.

(3) (a) Every spaceflight entity providing spaceflight activities to a spaceflight participant, whether such activities occur on or off the site of a facility capable of launching a suborbital flight, shall have each spaceflight participant sign the agreement and warning statement specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (3).

(b) The agreement shall include the following language and any other language required by federal law:

AGREEMENT AND WARNING

Under Colorado law, there is no liability for any loss, damage, injury to, or death of a spaceflight participant in a spaceflight activity provided by a spaceflight entity if such loss, damage, injury, or death results from the inherent risks of the spaceflight activity to the spaceflight participant. Injuries caused by the inherent risks of spaceflight activities may include, among others, death or injury to person or property. I, the undersigned spaceflight participant, assume the inherent risk of participating in this spaceflight activity.

(signed)

(witnessed)

(c) Failure to comply with the warning statement requirements in this section prevents a spaceflight entity from invoking the privileges of immunity provided by this section.
